THE PREFACE.

THat Juſtice and Duty oblige us to ſome endeavour for perpetuating the Memory of our dead Anceſtors, from whoſe great coſt, and long experience we have ſo many advantages for regulating the courſe of our Actions in this life, is a Truth which cannot be deny'd. Hence is it, that the Exploits of Men famous in their times, are with ſuch care and induſtry recorded by our beſt Hiſtorians, and their names gratefully preſerved by ſo many glorious Tombes and Monumentall Pillars; that After-ages diſcerning what honour is done to their Sacred duſt, may be the more excited to an earneſt imitation of their exemplary virtues. Which conſideration, having prompted me to an ardent deſire of acquainting my ſelf with ſome Memorials of thoſe eminent perſons, who have, in times paſt, had to do in the chiefeſt places of Civill Employment in this Realm, I thought it firſt neceſſary, thence to extract their Names, and the Times, at leaſt, when they reſpectively flouriſht; ſo that afterwards, whatſoever elſe might occurr to my view, in reference to their Lives and Actions, might with the leſs confuſion be taken notice of, and added.

And though in that my purpoſed diſquiſition, I did not deſign my Collections of this nature, to any other end, than my own private uſe: nevertheleſs, communicating them to the view of ſome judicious perſons, and learned in the Laws, I have been prevailed with, to make them now publick: partly, that thereby it might, with one view, be ſeen how the moſt famous men for knowledge in our Laws, ſtood contemporary through all ages, ſince the Norman Conqueſt: partly alſo, what great and noble Families (as well of thoſe which are gone out in Heirs female, or otherwiſe, as ſuch who ſtill continue) have ſprung from thoſe Roots; or at leaſt, been much advanced by ſuch their Anceſtors, whoſe riſe was from this excellent ſtudy and profeſſion: and laſtly to rectify thoſe common and ordinary miſtakes, which paſs for good and current amongſt divers young Students; who, finding in the antient Year-books frequent authorities for opinions; either do take all of them to be Judges of old, or, at leaſt, are not able to diſtinguiſh betwixt the Judge and the Pleader. And not only ſo; but, which is much worſe; viz. in not being well acquainted with the true names of the Judges, and principal Lawyers of thoſe times, do take thoſe abbreviations of their names, there found, to be their very genuine and proper appellations; Id eſt Mutt. for Mutford; Shard. for Shardelowe; Scorb. for Scorburghe; Aldeb. for Aldeburghe; Malb. for Malberthorpe; Hepp. for Heppeſcotes; Cant. for Cantebrigge; Loved. for Loveday; Trev. for Trevaignion; Parn. for Parning; Stouff. for Stouford Bauk. for Baukewell; Kelſ. for Kelleſhull; Scott. for Scotere; Sad. for Sadington; Hill. for Hillarie; Toud. for Toudeby; Frisk. for Friskenye; with the like: by which means, not only their right and true names; but conſequently their ſo well deſerving memorie (whereunto much honour is due) is utterly buried in the depth of Oblivion.

It was my chief deſire, in this work, to have fixt the certain days and times, when each of theſe perſons, whoſe names are taken notice of, in my Chronologique Tables, were firſt advanced to any of their particular imployments, or degrees: but finding thoſe Records, wherein the appointment of them thereto, ought properly to have been entred, to be, through the unhappy neglect of the Clerks in all ages, oft times deficient; I have been conſtrained to pick out divers of the moſt antient, from the Liberatæ Rolls (wherein their Penſions and Salaries are Recorded:) ſome from the Regiſters of the Inns of Court; ſome from the Year-Books; and ſome from our late Chroniclers; and from what other Authorities, for want of better light, I could find most fit to be made use of in such a Work.

And, having in my long searches, for the better informing my self in the Historical Knowledge of our Laws; Courts of Justice; Conveyance of Estates; Manner and Forms of Tryal; Punishment in Cases Criminal, &c. made some short Observations, which I never deemed fit for, or worthy of being made publique to the World, much less intended them for that purpose: yet such hath been the importunity of some, to whose judgments I rather submit, than my own; as that, I have also adventured them to the Press, as an Introduction to these Tables; for which I crave pardon from the skilful in this Profession: hoping, that as I meddle not therein farther than an Historian, my forwardness in so doing, may the more tolerably be dispens'd with. And that, as I have endeavoured to make these Catalogues as exact as I can, by the help of our publique Records, and other Authorities; the wants therein, if any (as 'tis not unlike but divers may be found) shall not be imputed to my heedlessness, but to the neglect of those, whom it chiefly concern'd in their times, and respective trusts, to have had more care in preserving their Memorials, in such places, where most properly they ought to have been recorded.

In what I have said touching those Noble Societies of our Students in the Laws (called the Inns of Court and Chancery) it hath not been with purpose to magnifie any one of them above the other, in what respect soever; nor to be positive in any thing; but briefly to express what I have met with, as to point of fact; and that only where I had any light to guide me therein; leaving matters of Argument to the learned in that excellent and useful Study.

Moreover, forasmuch as in these my Chronologique Tables, it will not be so clear to the Reader, as I could wish, when many of the Justices of the several Courts at Westminster departed this life, or ceased to sit: therefore for the better satisfaction therein of such as are most curious, I have calculated those of the Common Pleas, out of the Fines, from K. Richard the First's time till this present, and of them have inſerted a particular Scheme, at the end of my Diſcourſe concerning that Court.

And though in the Regiſters of the ſeveral Innes of Court, the memorial of the Chriſtian names, to moſt of the learned Readers, Treaſurers, and Governours in thoſe Houſes, is often omitted: yet have I, with ſome ſatisfaction to my ſelf (and ſo I doubt not, but to many others) ſupplyed the ſame, ſo farr, as I could diſcover them in any other parts of thoſe Volumes.

So alſo of ſuch of the Serjeants, for whoſe Surnames I have no other authority than from the Year-books, or the like, wherein their Chriſtian Names are not at all mentioned.

And laſtly, I am to advertiſe my Reader, that though I have adventur'd upon a Catalogue of Law-Writers, and Law-Books, I dare not ſay, that thoſe whereof I have taken notice, are all of that kind; for in private Studies ſome other Manuſcripts, and perhaps alſo ſome Printed Diſcourſes, may be yet found. Nor can I affirm that thoſe that are publiſh'd are all Authentique and warrantable, though they may be in ſome things uſefull, conſidering the Liberty in Printing which hath been taken of late years.

CAP. I.

Of Government the Original.

—jura dant ſinguli natis & uxoribus.

THat this, at firſt, was in the Father of the Houſhold; and when Generations of Men increaſed, in the Chief of the Family, both the light of reaſon, and all Hiſtory do ſufficiently manifeſt. How it therefore fell into other hands I cannot better expreſs than in the words of Sir Walter Raleigh, In tract of time (ſaith he) as [a] People grew numerous, and Kinreds more remote, Obedience, the fruit of Natural Reverence, waxing cold, and brotherly affection by little and little withering away; Wiſdom being likewiſe ſevered from Power, and Strength from Charity, Covetouſneſs begot Oppreſſion, and the more powerful man incroach'd upon the weak; Neceſſity[b] therefore, (which maketh wiſe even the brute Creatures as well as Men) occaſion'd both the Prudent and Ignorant, at once to underſtand, that the Condition of Reaſonable Men would become farr more miſerable than that of the Beaſts; and that a general flood of confuſion would a ſecond time overflow them, did they not by a general obedience to Order and Dominion prevent it: For the Mighty, who truſted in their own ſtrength, found others again (by enterchange of times) more mighty than themſelves; the feeble fell under the forcible, and the equal from equal received equal harmes; inſomuch, that licentious diſorder, which ſeemed to promiſe Liberty upon the firſt acquaintance, proved, upon a better tryal, no leſs perillous than an unindurable bondage.

Hence therfore was it (as Cicero well conjectureth) that Men fled to ſome one amongſt themſelves, excelling others in Virtue and Proweſs, and ſubmitted to his Dictates and Decrees, as to Laws Inviolable: præſtat enim Regem Tyrannum habere, quam nullum; It being better to have a Tyrant than no Government at all.

Thus, [c] to ſpeak humanely, may the beginning of Empire be aſcribed to Reaſon and Neceſſity: but out of doubt it was from Almighty God himſelf, that this Beam of light did ſhine into the hearts of Men; whereby they might diſcern, that they could not ſubſiſt without a Guide and Ruler: for from the words of Holy Writ we find, That [d] the Moſt High beareth Rule over the Kingdomes of Men, and appointeth over them whom he pleaſeth.

CAP. II.

The beginning of Laws.

BUt by this Government, though they found great advantages, conſidering the miſeries they underwent before; yet time (making all Men wiſe that obſerve it) ſhew'd them ſome imperfections therein: and therefore both the ſame Neceſſity which invented, and the ſame Reaſon which approved of Sovereign Power, deviſed certain Rules, whereby Dominion (in the beginning boundleſs) might likewiſe be kept within her own limits; ſo that the Governour might the more safely exercise his sovereign power, and the Governed more securely enjoy that which was their own right: for then as Justine saith, [e] Populus nullis legibus tenebantur, arbitria principum pro legibus erant; The people were not governed by any other Laws than the wills of their Princes: And what the effect of those their wills were, hear what St. Augustine [f] expresseth, ——Quid enim (saith he) sunt Regna, nisi magna latrocinia, remota Justitia, quæ est Legum effectus?

Principio rerum gentiumque imperium penes Reges erat, quos ad faſtigium hujus Majeſtatis, non ambitio popularis, ſed ſpectata inter bonos moderatio provehebat. Juſtine. lib. 1.

The beginning of Laws.

Their definition.

Since therefore the benefit of Law is so great, let us consider what it is, from some excellent and most proper definitions which have been made thereof.

The famous Roman Orator [g] tells us, that Lex est summa ratio, insita a natura, quæ jubeat ea quæ facienda sunt, prohibeatque contraria; It is the great Dictate of Natural Reason, which commands what is to be done, and prohibits the contrary.

g Cicero de Legibus, lib. 3. cap. 1.

It is the Reformer (saith he) of Vice, and the encourager to Virtue.

Chrysippus defines it thus, [h] ὁ νόμος πάντων βασιλεύς, &c. Lex est omnium divinarum & humanarum rerum Regina. Oportet autem eam bonis & malis Præsidem, Principem & Ducem esse: Et (secundum hoc) justorum & injustorum regulam, & eorum quæ natura civilia sunt animantium; præceptricem quidem faciendorum, prohibitricem non faciendorum.

h Justinian, lib. 2. ff. de Legibus.

[i] Marsilius Ficinus out of Plato's Minos, his Books de Legibus, and de Republica, summs up Plato's whole Description of a Law thus, ——Lex est vera gubernaculi ratio, quæ ad finem optimum, per commoda media, gubernata dirigit, transgredienti pœnam, obedienti præmium statuens.

i Marsil. Ficinus in argument. ad Platonis Minos, seu de Lege.

k Bracton, lib. 1. ca. 3.

Under this (I mean the Law of Nature) did the old Patriarchs live; and in this do most Nations of the World still concurr.

And of so great power hath it been esteemed, that ea, non homini sed Deo Delphico tribueretur; that it ought not to be attributed to Men, but to God, saith [l] Cicero. I have read, that the antient Kings, for the better reputation of their Laws, told their Subjects, that they received them from the Gods,—Deum ne an hominem aliquem condendarum Legum causam existimatis? quoth Plato [m] in that Dialogue of his with Clivius the Cretian, and Megillus the Lacedemonian; Clivius answering—Deum (O hospes) Deum inquam, ut decet asserere; apud nos quidem (Cretenses vult) Jovem, apud Lacedæmonios Apollinem: and then tell us (out of Homer) of Minos (the great Lawgiver of Crete) how he had nine years conversation and conference with Jupiter before he gave them their Laws: and a little after calls him παρὰ Διὸς νομοθέτης, one that gave Laws from God. Marsilius Ficinus [n] observes truly,—quod Plato dicit, priscos Legum latores fuisse Dei filios, Legesque heroibus (qui etiam a Diis erant geniti) tradidisse: And the same Ficinus elsewhere, [o] omnes illustres Legum conditores, inventionem Legum in Deum retulerunt: Zoroastes Bactrianis & Persis Legem tradens, in Horomasin; Trismegistus Ægyptiis, in Mercurium; Moses in Deum patrem; Minos in Jovem; Charondus Carthaginiensibus, in Saturnum; Lycurgus Lacedæmoniis, in Apollinem; Draco & Solon Athenienſibus, in Minervam: Numa Pomp. Romanis, in Ægeriam; Mahomet Arabibus in Gabrielem, Zamolxis Scythis in Vestam: Plato noster Magnesiis & Siculis, in Jovem & Apollinem. And to the same purpose an ancient and excellent Author [p] saith, that Mneves, an old Ægyptian Law-giver, Leges a Mercurio sibi traditas simulabat.

Our great English Lawyer Sir John Fortescue Knight (who was chief Justice of the Kings Bench in the time of K. Henry the 6th.) in that learned discourse [q] of his de Laudibus Leg. Angl. saith, that All humane Laws are either the Law of Nature; or Customes, or Statutes, which are called Constitutions: but Customs and the Sentences of the Law of Nature, after that they were once put in writing, and by the sufficient authority of the Prince published, and commanded to be kept, were changed into the Conſonant whereunto is that expreſſion of the Learned Selden, All Laws, in general (ſaith [r] he) are originally equally antient: All were grounded upon Nature; and no Nation was, that out of it took not their grounds: and Nature being the ſame in all, the beginning of all Laws muſt be the ſame.

[r] Notes upon Forteſcue, p. 37.

Now of thoſe who have been moſt famous for making Laws in ſeveral Nations, Moſes may be very well ranked in the firſt place, by reaſon that the Iſraelites received theirs from him.

Lycurgus in the next, from whom the Lacedemonians had theirs; and from Solon the Athenians; the memory of which men for their ſingular prudence in framing ſuch wholſome and beneficial Conſtitutions, in thoſe Countries, is ſtill no leſs famous, than of the greateſt Princes by whoſe power they were ever Governed.

The Romans received ſome of theirs, from their Kings; ſome from their Decemviri; ſome from their Senators; ſome from their Lawyers, and ſome from the People themſelves.

CAP. III.

The Antiquity of our Laws in England.

Common Law.

OF theſe, that which we call the Common Law, is, out of queſtion, no leſs antient than the beginning of differences betwixt man and man, after the firſt Peopling of this Land; it [a] being no other than pure and tryed Reaſon; (as the late great Lawyer Mr. Plowden expreſſeth) or the [b] abſolute perfection of Reaſon, as Sir Edward Coke affirmeth, adding, that [c] the ground thereof is beyond the memory or Regiſter of any beginning; And theſe were they which the Norman Conquerour at his Coronation did ſwear to obſerve; being then by him ſaid to be---Bonæ & approbatæ antiquæ Regni Leges.

The grave and judicious Thomas Lord Elleſmere, late Lord Chancellour of England, in his learned Diſcourſe of the [d] Poſtnati, ſaith, That the Common Laws of England are grounded upon the Law of God, and extend themſelves to the original Law of Nature, and the univerſal Law of Nations; and that they are not originally Leges ſcriptæ: which is conſonant to that of the eminent Lawyer Henry de Bracton (who lived in King H. 3. time) In [e] omnibus aliis regionibus utuntur Legibus & jure ſcriptis; ſola Anglia uſa eſt jure non ſcripto & conſuetudine.

And that their being not written doth no whit extenuate the authority and eſteem juſtly due to them, let us hear what Fleta excellently expreſſeth to that purpoſe,——— [f] Leges autem Anglicanas, licet non ſcriptas, Leges appellari non eſt abſurdum; cum hoc ipſum Lex ſit, quod Principi placet Legis habet vigorem; eas ſcilicet quas, ſuper dubiis in concilio diffiniendis, Procerum quidem conſilio, & Principis auctoritate accordante, vel antecedente, conſtat eſſe promulgatas: Si enim ob ſolum ſcripturæ defectum Leges minime conferentur, majoris proculdubio auctoritatis robur ipſis Legibus videretur accommodare Scriptura, quam decernentis æquitas, aut ratio ſtatuentis.

[f] Fleta, in ſecundamentarii juris Anglicani proœmio.

It is not incongruous to call our Engliſh Conſtitutions, Laws, though they be not committed to Writing; for as much as the Law it ſelf is, that what the King appointeth hath the ſtrength of Law; viz. That which in doubtful caſes, by the advice of his Nobles, and his own authority concurring, or preceding ſhall happen to be promulged: for if, through want of recording, they ſhould not have the eſtimation of Laws, the meer writing of them would attribute more authority unto them, than the juſtneſs of the Judg, or reaſon of the Compoſer.

Thus much, in general, in reference to the Common Law of England; whence I ſhall deſcend to ſay ſomething, briefly, of the moſt antient Law-makers in this Nation.

That the Druydes (id eſt, the Prieſts) amongſt the Britans, were the framers of their Laws, is probable enough, for Ceſar in the memorials [g] of his Warr in Gallia, ſpeaking of them, as the Determiners of all controverſies and matters of variance, there, as well publick as private; and that they do, at one time of the year ſit together at a certain hallowed place on the borders of the * Carnutes (whoſe Country is the middle of all Gallia) whereunto all ſuch as have any differences do reſort, and ſubmit to ſuch Decree as is then and there adjudged by them, ſaith, Diſciplina in Britannia reperta; atque inde in Galliam tranſlata eſſe exiſtimatur. This Diſcipline of theirs was tranſlated hither out of Britain.

And that the Britans had certain, and firmly eſtabliſh'd Laws, Dio [h] aſſureth us; Britannia (ſaith he) ſuis Legibus uſa eſt: and who was it like ſhould be the makers of them but the Kings by the help and aſſiſtance of the Druydes? for the ſame Cæſar, in that relation, plainly tells us, that [i] Drydæ fere de omnibus controverſiis, publicis privatiſque conſtituunt, &c. *They determine almoſt of all Controverſies and matters in variance, as well publick as private: and if there happen to be any Crime * committed, if murder, if controverſie concerning † the inheritance or boundaries of land, they decide it, and award recompence and penalties. Likewiſe, in caſe there be any perſon, private or publick, who ſhall not ſubmit to their Decrees, they forbid him to come to their Sacrifices, which is the moſt grievous puniſhment; and they who are thus interdicted, are ſhunned by others, as the moſt wicked of all people; ſo that no man will abide their company, leſt they ſhould be infected, and receive hurt from them: And if they require the benefit of Law, or any dignity* (being thus Interdicted) they may not have it.

But to derive the riſe and original of our Common Laws from that fountain, is more than I dare adventure; though Sir John Forteſcue doth ſeem to incline thereto, in his commendation of the reaſon and equity of them, in ſaying, [k] that the Romans, Saxons, Danes, or Normans would have altered them, had they not been ſo; eſpecially the Romans, who gave Laws almoſt to all the world beſides, —— Quæ, ſi optima non extitiſſent, aliqui Regum illorum, juſtitia, ratione, ſeu affectione concitati eas mutaſſent, aut omnino deleviſſent; & maxime Romani, qui Legibus ſuis quaſi totum orbis reliquum judicabant.

For if we well conſider the miſery whereunto thoſe people were, by the power of the Romans brought, even almoſt to an utter expulſion, as their own Hiſtorians Galfr. Monumethenſis, and Humphrey Lhoyd do acknowledge; it cannot probably be thought, that their Laws and Cuſtoms were tranſmitted to thoſe who afterwards became Lords and Rulers here; but rather that the Saxons, after they had well ſetled themſelves, did lay the firſt foundation thereof, from the uſages and Cuſtomes of the Germans, whence they ſprung. But my purpoſe being here not to diſcourſe argumentatively, leaving every one to their own judgement therein, I ſhall proceed, and briefly ſhew what I find Hiſtorically ſet down concerning this matter.

Our anticnt Laws and Law-makers.

IT is ſaid of Mulmutius Dunwallo (a King of the Brittains, who began his Reign no leſs than four hundred fourty and four years before the birth of our bleſſed Saviour) —— [a] Primo Leges in Britannia edidit Dunwallo Molmucius; cujus Leges Molmucinæ dicebantur: Inter quas ut in Bruto habetur) ſtatuit, ut Civitates & Templa Deorum, viæq; ad illa ducentes, & matra Colonum immunitate confugii gauderent. Dunwallo Molmutius was the firſt (King) that did conſtitute Laws in Brittain, which were thereupon called the Molmucian Laws: Amongſt which he enacted, That the Cities and Temples of the Gods, and the wayes leading to them; as alſo the Husbandmans Plows, ſhould have the priviledge of Sanctuary.

After this, the Danes ruling here, there was a third Law by them conſtituted, which was called Denelega, id eſt, the Danes Law: and by it were no leſs than xv. of the Eaſtern and Northern Shires of this Kingdome, heretofore governed, viz. Eſſex, Middleſex, Suffolk, Norfolk, Hartfordſhire, Cambridgſh. Huntingdonſh. Lincolnſh. Nottinghamſh. Derbyſh. Northamptonſh. Leiceſterſh. Buckinghamſh. Bedfordſhire and Yorkſhire.

Laws and Law-makers.

Out of all which three Laws, *viz. In primitivo regni statu, post conquisitionem, &c. Cap. 4.

In the Primitive state of this Kingdome after the (Norman) Conquest, there was not any Gold or Silver paid to the King, out of his own Lands, but only Victual, whereby the daily necessaries of the Court were supplyed; and those, who were assigned to this service, knew well how much came from each place; coyned Money, issuing out of Cities and Castles, where no Husbandry was exercised, being only imployed in Wages, and gifts to Souldiers, and for other necessaries relating to the Courts and publick Conventions of the Realm. Which institution continued during all the Reign of King William the Conqueror, and until the time of his Son King Henry the First; so that I my self (saith mine Author, who lived in King H. 2. time) have seen some of those, who thus brought these Provisions to the Court. Purveyance, how taken antiently.

The Officers of the Kings House, had likewise from some Counties of this Realm, whence such Provisions were due, a certain proportion of Wheat; of other several sorts of Provender for Horses; which being paid according to this setled form, the said Officers upon accompt with the Sheriffs, did reduce them into rates of Money; viz. for so much Wheat in measure, as was a competency to make bread for an hundred men, one Shilling; for the Carcass of a Pasturing Oxe, a shilling; and for a Ram or Sheep, four pence. But afterwards, the King (viz. King Henry the first) being necessitated to go beyond Sea, for the quieting those stirrs which were there raised, and to that end requiring ready Money, as most necessary for such a purpose; there came a sad complaint to his Court, by a multitude of Countrey men; nay, which was much more grievous, they brought their Plow-shares, as a testimony of the decay of Tillage, and offred them up to him, being so much oppresst by this Purveyance of Victual, thus taken from their dwellings. The King therefore being not a little moved therewith, did by the advice of his Nobles, send throughout his Realm diverse persons, of whose prudence and discretion, for that purpose, he was ascertained; who travelled, thereupon, into all parts, and viewed every mans land, estimating the proportion of Victual, paid

That the whole Reign of this King was very unquiet, is certain enough, the Clergy and Laity all complaining of great and many oppressions; but referring the relation of such discontents, whence those troubles arose, unto our Historians; I shall now come to his grant of those two so eminent and memorable Charters; viz. Magna Charta, and Charta de Foresta; taking notice only of some circumstances conducing thereto.

About the 14th Cal. of November in the year 1214. (being the 16th year of K. John's Reign) the Earles and Barons meeting [x] at St. Edmunds-Bury, to confer together [y] about the regaining of the Liberties confirmed by the Charter of King Henry the First (which contained all those that were granted by King Ed. the Confessor) they solemnly Swore [z] there, at the High-Altar; that if the King should refuse to ratifie them, they would forthwith put themselves in Armes, and withdraw their Allegiance from him, until such time as by his Charter sealed he would condescend thereto. And they farther concluded; that after Christmas following, they would all of them repair unto him, to represent these their desires; and in the mean time, make such provision of Horse and Armes; that in case he should recede from his Oath, viz. To restore the Laws of his anceſtors; eſpecially thoſe of St. Edward; and to do right to every one, (which he made at [z] Weſtminſter upon the day of St. Margaret the Virgin the foregoing year) they would by ſeiſure of His Caſtles compell him thereto.

z Ib. p. 239. n. 10.

Which accordingly they did, [a] coming in a warlike poſture, he then Lodging in the New-Temple at London; and there charged him with his ſaid Oath made at Wincheſter.

a Ibid. 253. n. 30.

The King ſeeing himſelf in this ſtraight, by reaſon of their ſtrength and power, deſired reſpite till [b] the Clauſe of Eaſter, to the end he might the better conſider what was fit for him, in reſpect of his Kingly dignity, to do: whereupon, after long diſcourſe had, he giving [c] Pledges that he would ſatisfie them at the time prefixed, they departed to [d] their ſeveral homes.

b Ibid. n. c 40. d

But after this; conſulting his own ſafety, he required all his Subjects throughout England, to renew [e] their Fealties and Homage: and that he might the better ſecure himſelf, he aſſumed [f] the Croſs, upon the Feaſt day of the Purification of the bleſſed Virgin next enſuing; eſteeming, that ſo doing, it might be ſome kind of Protection unto him.

e Ibid. f

But the Barons, who had got [g] to their party well nigh all the Nobility of the Realm; reſolving to carry on their deſigns with power, met [h] at Stamford in Eaſter-week with a very great Army; and on the Monday following, came [i] to Brackley: unto which place the King [k] ſent the Archb. of Canterbury, *Will. To whom they, (ſc. the Barons) delivered a [l] Schedule, which did, for the moſt part contain the antient Laws and Cuſtomes of the Realm; expreſſing, that if the King ſhould refuſe to confirm them to him by his ſealed Charter; they would make ſeiſure of his Caſtles, untill he did condeſcend thereto. Which Schedule being brought to the King by the ſaid Archb. and the reſt; he in great Fury [m] told them, That he would never grant unto them ſuch Liberties, whereby he ſhould be made their ſervant. Whereof the Barons having notice, they forthwith made choice [n] of *Robert Fitz. But for as much as he was then young, and therefore what he did being not held valid; the Archbiſhop of Canterbury with the reſt of the Peers, on the Octaves of the Epiphany, in the year 1223. (which was in the eighth year of His Reign) [h] required his further confirmation of thoſe their Laws and Liberties, for which they had ſo much conteſted with His Father: alleging, that upon the departure of Lewes (Son to the King of France) out of England, both Himſelf, and all the Nobility of this Realm, did make Oath, that thoſe Laws and Liberties ſhould be kept, and preſerved inviolable.

But herein there was nothing at that time done: howbeit, about two years after, viz. in the year 1225. Unto which the Archbiſhop of Canterbury and the reſt of the Biſhops, Earls, Barons, Abbots, &c. with great deliberation, anſwered; [o] that they would cheerfully comply with theſe his Propoſals, ſo that he would grant unto them their long deſired Liberties: and made [p] performance thereof accordingly.

new and old Forests; so that all those that were afforested after the first Coronation of King Henry the Second (Grandfather to the then King) might be deafforested.

And accordingly the said Hugh de Nevill (chief Justice of the Forests) and Brian de L'isle, with other special persons assigned, were sent [t] throughout all England, for to make choice of xii. Knights or other Freemen, to perambulate the bounds of the Forests, upon Oath; and determine what should remain, and what be deafforested: All which in every respect was punctually [u] performed.

But notwithstanding all this, about two years after, in a great Council held at Oxford, in the Moneth of February; the King declaring [w] himself then to be of full age, and thenceforth out of tutelage; expressed, [x] that he would for the future take the raines of Government into his own hands; and thereupon quitted the Bishop of Winchester as his Guardian; and applyed [y] himself to the Counsels of Hubert de Burgh his Chief Justice.

And at this Convention, he caused [z] all the Charters of the Liberties of the Forests throughout the whole Realm, to be cancelled, after they had been enjoyed two years: pretending that they were obtained from him in His Minority, whilst he was in Custody, and had neither power over Himself nor His Seal, and therefore ought not to be of force.

At that time also it was made [a] known to all persons, as well Religious as others; that they who desired a confirmation of their Charters of Liberties, should have them renewed and sealed with his new Seal; for as much as the King would not repute any to be valid, which were not so ratifyed; paying for the same according to their abilities, which was left to the discretion of the Chief Justice.

But these things so startled the Barons, that on the Ides of July then next following, they petitioned [b] the King, in a kind of Minatory way, that He would forthwith restore unto them those their Charters of the Forest Liberties, sealed, which he had caused so to be cancelled at Oxford: unto whom for the present he only gave good words, but afterwards, viz. in 21 of his reign, having in a full convention of the Arch-bishops, Bishops, Earls, Barons, Knights and Freemen of England met together at Westminster, in Parliament, on the Octaves of St. Hillarie, which is the 21th of January, obtained a grant [c] of the xxxth part of all their movable goods, upon the 28th day of the same Month he sealed them a new Charter [d] in confirmation of the former, which he so made in his Minority, whereunto all the Lords Spiritual and Temporal then assembled in that Parliament, as it seemeth (for the greatest part of them are specially named) were witnesses, and upon the xvith of March then next following, he issued out his special [e] Precept to all the Sheriffs of this Realm, to publish them again, and see them firmly observed.

Nor was all this thought enough, for in the Parliament held at Marlebridge in 52 of his reign he [f] ratified them again.

It would be too great a step out of my way, to tell the whole story of the particular discontents and differences that hapned after this, betwixt many of the then most potent Peers, and the King, which continued henceforth more or less, till near the end of his long reign.

But my business here, being chiefly to point at the Laws, which were made in this Realm, in those elder times; and not to descend lower than these memorable Statutes of Magna Carta and Carta de Foresta, I will now hasten, to the full and final confirmation of them, which was not absolutely accomplisht till the xxvth year of King Edward the First: resolving to touch upon no other Laws, made in this Kings reign, or after, for as much as they are all made publick by the Press, in sundry Volumes since the time of King Henry the Eighth.

Having therefore already taken notice, that Magna Carta and Carta de Foresta, first made by King John, and ratifyed

Most certain it is, that the Nobility, in those days enjoying vast possessions, had no small retinues: nay, some of that Degree esteemed themselves no less than petty Princes, as may seem from that bold answer given by John Earl Warren, when he was called before the King's Justices, to shew by what title he held his lands. ----Produxit in medium (saith my [g] Author) Gladium antiquum evaginatum; & ait, Ecce Domini mei, Ecce warrantum meum! Antecessores mei, vero, cum Will. Bastardo *venientes, conquesti sunt terras suas Gladio, & easdem Gladio defendam a quocunque eas occupare volente: non enim Rex terram per se devicit & subjecit, sed progenitores nostri fuerunt cum eo participes & coadjutores. And as their estates and power was very great, so were their animosities one against another; some being not willing to endure any equal, others no superior: in so much, as by fomenting discontents and jealousies amongst the vulgar (with whom they had no small interest) they at length got themselves into a warlike posture in which, discerning their strength, and how farr they had possest the people with a dislike of the Government, by infusing into their giddy heads strange fears of oppression and slavery from the King; and what glorious Reformers they themselves would be, they came at length to Oxford, with a powerful Army, and there forced the Kings consent to certain Ordinances of their own framing; which, in substance, were no other, than to devest him of his Sovereign Power, and to plant it in themselves, leaving him nothing but the name of a King. In order whereunto, after the overthrow of that Army in the Battel of Lewes (which he had raised for his defence against those their Usurpations) and the gaining of his person, and the person of Prince Edward his eldest Son into their hands; they, in his name summoned a Parliament, of such of the great Barons and others, who were of their party (as by the Writs [h] bearing date at Worcester 14 Dec. and at Woodstoke 24 Dec. 49 H. 3. appeareth) to meet at London on the Octaves of St. Hillary then next ensuing: and likewise directed Precepts [i] to every Sheriff through England, to send thither two Knights out of each County; as also to the Cities and Burroughs, the like number of Citizens and Burgesses; and to the Barons of the Cinque-ports a certain number of their discreetest men; whereby they might with the fairer colour settle the Realm, and please the People with some shadow of those fair Liberties, for which they so long had seemed to contend: But the little less than miraculous escape of Prince Edward out of their Custody, hapned soon after; by which means, he giving them Battel at Evesham, about the beginning of August following, obtained so clear a Victory, as did then put an end to their usurped power.

Having spoken thus much by way of Preamble, touching the confirmation of those two notable Charters, (viz. Magna Carta, and Carta de Foresta) I now come to the thing it self; which was done [k] in the Parliament held at [l] Lincolne in the 25th year of King Edw. the first's reign. By which Act it was appointed; that there should be sent into every County of this Realm, the formal recital and solemn Confirmation of them both, under the said King's great Seal, as well to his Justices of the Forest as others; and to all Sheriffs of Shires; and all other the King's Officers, as also to all the Cities throughout the Realm, together with the Writs, in which were contained the full cause of the publication thereof; and likewise a command to let the People know, that the King had so confirmed them in all points: And that all his Justices, Sheriffs, Mayors, and other Ministers, who under him had the Laws of the Land to guide, should allow them in judgment, so oft as they might happen to be pleaded before them; viz. the Great Charter as the Common Law, and the Charter of the Forest for the Wealth of the Realm. All which was done accordingly; and sentences of Excommunication and Execration pronounc'd, by Robert Kilwarby at that time Archb. of Canterbury, against the Violators, and Infringers of them: For which Confirmations the said King had then a grant [m] from the Commonalty of this Realm, of the ixth peny of their Goods, and from the Clergy of the Province of Canterbury a xth. and of York a fifth.

But the next year following, Pope Clement the Fifth revoked this Sentence of Excommunication, as by his special Bull (a Copy whereof I have seen) appeareth, which (though it needed not) might perhaps occasion that further Confirmation of those Charters, together with the addition [o] of certain Articles, directing how the transgressors against them should be proceeded with, made in the Parliament held at London 28 E. 1. called Articuli super Cartas.

CAP. V.

Of Parliaments.

BY what hath been said, it clearly and therefore appearing, that these good and wholesome Laws were made by the antient Kings of this Realm; it is not to be doubted, but they were so framed upon great and mature deliberation had and taken with the most eminent men for power and prudence in their respective Dominions; the Convention of which persons, was by the Britans called Kyfr-y-then, by reason that Laws were therein made: for that they had such meetings before the Romans arrival here, may very well be inferred from the words [a] of Cæsar---Summa imperii bellique administrandi, communi concilio permissa est Cassibellano. And Tacitus seems to ascribe the success that the Romans had at last against them, unto their neglect in the due holding of such publick and common Councills——— [b] quod in commune non consuluerunt.

By the English Saxons these Assemblies were termed pitena ȝemote, id est, a meeting of Wise men.

It is reported by Venerable Beda, [c] of Ethelbert King of Kent (of whom I have already made mention) that ---inter cætera bona, quæ genti suæ consulendo conferebat, etiam Decreta illa Judiciorum, juxta exemplaRomanorum, cum consilio Sapientum constituit; quæ, conscripta Anglorum sermone, hactenus habentur, &c.---That amongst other good things he did, for his People, he constituted Laws, with the advice of his wise men, according to the example of the Romans. Whence Dr. Duck, in that learned discourse [d] of his lately publish'd, observes; that though we find but few footsteps of the Roman Laws amongst the Saxons and Danes, as more minding such as might best curb the Britans and English: yet those of their Kings, who excelled others in piety and vertue, did in their Decrees, and making of Laws, often imitate the Romans: and herein doth instance King Ethelbert, before-mentioned, of whom Beda so makes mention; that he did frame his Lawes cum consilio Sapientum juxta exempla Romanorum.

K. William Rufus.

Whether any solemn Convention of this kind was held by King William the 2d. (commonly called William Rufus) I cannot say: but certain it is, that when his Brother Robert, purposing an expedition to the Holy Land, sent to him to borrow ten thousand Marks of Silver, with promise he should have Normandy in pledg for it; to satisfie his desire therein, he required from the great men of England, a loan of what Mony they were able to spare: Whereupon, sayes my Author, [w] the Bishops, Abbots, and Abbesses brake in pieces the silver and gold Ornaments of their Churches; the Earls, Barons, and Sheriffs, suos milites & villanos spoliaverunt, & Regi non modicam summam auri & argenti detulerunt— id est, took from their Tenants and brought a great deal of gold and silver to the King.

w R. Hoved. in a. 1096. (p. 466. Imp. Francf.) Idem R. Hoved.

Whence it being clear, that the Lords then answered for their Tenants; it may the more likely be presumed, that they at other times represented them in all great and publick Councills.

Cap. 5.

Of King Henry the first it is certain, [x] that per Commune Concilium Baronum he was Crowned; which words, as the same Mr. Lambard [y] deemeth, do signifie the Commonalty as well as the Nobles; considering, that the Germans do render the word Baro, by Frehere; id est, a Freeman: whence it was (saith he) that the Citizens of London were at that time called Barons, and the Burgesses of the Cinque-Ports ever since been known by that name; as also, that the Courts in every Manour are termed Courts Baron, though the Lords of them are of no higher degree than Gentlemen: And he further addeth; [z] that it is not altogether without ground said; that both the Nobility and Commonalty of the Realm were meant under these words, viz. the Barons of the Realm, and the rather, because that expression is accompanyed with the word Common Council, by which all our Writs grounded upon old Statutes, do intend the Parliament; and that our old Historian Math. Paris. doth afterwards use the words Communis assensus Baronagii when he purposeth to signifie a just Parliament: and moreover, the better to illustrate that it is so meant, he voucheth this Writ, [a] directed by K. John to the Sheriff of Roteland in the sixth of his Reign, viz. Rex, &c. Vicecomiti Roteland, *&c. g Chron. Joh. Brompton col. 1166. l. 61.

From which teſtimonies it may ſeem that the People were in ſome ſort repreſented.

But that which makes it moſt evident, by whom they were ſo repreſented, is King John's great Charter in 17 of his Reign; whereby he confirmed [h] to the People of England, their antient rights and liberties, for which they had ſo much contended; the words whereof run thus ---Nullum Scutagium vel Auxilium ponam in Regno noſtro, niſi per Commune conſilium Regni noſtri; niſi ad Corpus noſtrum redimendum; et ad Primogenitum filium noſtrum militem faciendum; & ad Primogenitam filiam noſtram ſemel maritandam, &c. he goes on---Et ad habendum Commune Conſilium Regni de Auxiliis aſſidendis, aliter quam in tribus caſibus prædictis; & de Scutagiis aſſidendis, ſubmoneri faciemus Archiepiſcopos, Abbates, Comites, & majores Barones Regni, ſingillatim, per literas noſtras: Et præterea faciemus ſubmoneri, in generali, per Vicecomites & Ballivos noſtros, omnes alios qui in Capite tenent de nobis, ad certum diem, ſcil. ad terminum xl. dierum ad minus, & ad certum locum in omnibus literis ſubmonitionis illius, cauſam ſubmonitionis illius exponens: Et ſic facta ſubmonitione, negotium procedat ad diem aſſignatum, ſecundum conſilium eorum, qui præſentes fuerint, quamvis non omnes ſubmoniti venerint.

h See the laſt Chapt. where he ſwore to reſtore the Laws of his anceſtors, eſpecially of King Edward.

Parliament.

Now that all the Peers had, of antient right, their particular Summons accordingly, is evident enough from the teſtimony of Math. Paris; [i] who ſpeaking of that Parliament held at Weſtminſter in An. MCCLv. 39 H. 3. and that divers of the Peers for want of Summons were abſent, ſaith; that the reſt of the Barons refuſed to anſwer the Kings propoſals then made unto them, for this reaſon ---quod omnes tunc temporis non fuerunt, juxta tenorem magnæ Chartæ vocati; & ideo, ſine paribus ſuis, tunc abſentibus nullum voluerunt tunc reſponſum dare.

i Imp. Tigu. an. 1606. 788.

And for as much as from the words of that great Charter (before expreſt) it may be inferred, that the ſame was no new grant to the people of England, but a Confirmation of their antient rights and liberties (as hath been ſaid) it muſt then neceſſarily follow; that the perſons, who held of the King in Capite, were the repreſentative of the moſt of the Commons, called [k] by ſome Barones minores; for that the whole body of the Parliament had the title of Baronage, appeareth by King Henry the 3ds Writ to the Shireeve of Herefordſhire in theſe words [l] ---Rex Vicecomiti Heref. Præcipimus tibi, quod, ſi aliqua gens armata, per Ballivam tuam, contra proviſionem nuper factam apud Glouceſtriam, de communi conſilio Baronagii noſtri, & per totum Regnum demandatam, ad pacem & tranquillitatem Regni noſtri ſervandam, &c. and that the dependent Tenants conſent was included in the aſſent of his immediate ſuperior Lord, whoſe preſence was ever ſo required in thoſe great Councils, need not I think be doubted.

Nor were the Commons otherwiſe repreſented than by theſe Tenants in Capite for the moſt part of King Henry the 3ds reign, for ought I can yet diſcern; it being evident, that the ſaid great Charter was confirmed in the ninth year of that King, per Commune conſilium totius Regni.

But in 49 H. 3. the rebellious Barons, having at the Battel of Lewes got the King and Prince into their power (as in the laſt Chapter hath been ſaid) they cauſed Writs to be ſent out in the Kings name, and under his Seal; in which, ſignifying the Kingdome to be then in Peace and quiet, and the Kings deſire to eſtabliſh the ſame to the honour of God, and benefit of his people, they iſſued out Summons to diverſe Biſhops and Abbots, and to ſuch of the Nobility as were of their party, to meet at London on the Octaves of St. Hillary: and likewiſe [m] Precepts to all the Shireeves of the Realm, to ſend thither two Knights out of each County, as alſo to the Cities and Burroughs the like number of Citizens and Burgeſſes, and to the Barons of the Cinque-ports a certain number of their diſcreeteſt men—Nobiſcum, ac cum prædictis Prælatis, & magnatibus noſtris, quos ibidem vocari fecimus, ſuper præmiſſis tractaturi, atq; conſilium impenſuri ——to treat with him the ſaid King, and with the Prelates and great men of the Land, touching the premiſſes, and to give their advice.

From what therefore hath been ſpoken, it may ſeem that the People of England, in thoſe great and publick Councills, were from the time of the Norman Conqueſt repreſented by ſuch as held of the King in Capite, untill the ſaid 49th of H. 3. but then by two Knights for each County, and certain Burgeſſes for ſeveral Burroughs, and Barons for the Cinque-ports, as appeareth by this ſhort memorial, which is entred upon Record [n] with that Writ of Summons to the Peers, viz.—Item mandatum eſt ſingulis Vicecomitibus per Angliam, quod venire faciant duos Milites, de legaliorib⁹ & diſcretioribus militibus ſingulorum Comitatuum, ad Regem London. in Octabis prædictis in forma prædicta.

Item in forma prædicta ſcribitur Civibus Ebor. Civibus Linc. & cæteris Burgenſibus Angliæ, quod mittant, &c.

Item in forma prædicta mandatum eſt Baronibus & probis hominibus quinque portuum, &c.

Howbeit (which is obſervable) this Precept of King Henry the third, to ſend two Knights for each County &c. was when the Barons had him in their power, and exerciſed Regal Authority in his Name: and though there were ſeveral Parliaments in K. Edw. the firſts time before the 23th year of his reign, yet there is no teſtimony left to us upon Record, of any Summons unto them till that year; and then the Writ [o] to the Shireeves was thus—tibi præcipimus, firmiter injungentes, quod de Comitatu prædicto, duos Milites, & de qualibet Civitate ejuſdem Comitatus, duos Cives, & de quolibet Burgo duos Burgenſes, de diſcretioribus, & ad laborandum potentioribus, ſine dilatione eligi; & eos ad nos, ad prædictos diem & locum venire facias; ita quod dicti Milites plenam & ſufficientem poteſtatem pro ſe & communitate Comitatus prædicti; & dicti Cives & Burgenſes pro ſe & communitate Civitatum, & Burgorum prædictorum diviſim ab ipſis tunc ibidem habeant, ad faciendum quod tunc de Communi conſilio ordinabitur in præmiſſis.

Which form continued till 6 E. 2. and then the words run—[p] ad faciendum & conſentiendum his, quæ tunc ibidem de Communi conſilio dicti regni noſtri, favente Domino, ordinari contigerint; the like whereof hath continued ever ſince to this day: that to the Peers being—ſuper præmiſſis (id eſt diverſis arduis & urgentibus negotiis, nos & ſtatum Regni noſtri, ac tranquillitatem & quietem populi ejuſdem Regni intime contingentibus, for the moſt part till 31 E. 3. but then & Eccleſiæ Anglicanæ præcipue concernentibus, was added) tractaturi, & conſilium impenſuri. At which time, it ſeemeth, that the Lords with their then numerous attendants were entertained at the Kings Charge: for I find, that Writs, bearing date the 30th of Auguſt,

CAP. VI.

Of Judges.

Whereof firſt of the King Himſelf.

TOuching the Original authority of Governing, having ſpoken briefly in my firſt Section of this preſent diſcourſe; viz. That it was at firſt in the Father of the Family, and afterwards in the Kings of ſeveral Nations; it now remaineth to be next enquired, in whom it is that the judicative power doth fundamentally reſide: wherein let us obſerve what Bracton's [a] expreſſion is; ---Rex, & non alius, debet judicare, ſi ſolus ad id ſufficere poſſit, cum ad hoc per veritatem Sacramenti teneatur aſtrictus: Exercere igitur debet Rex poteſtatem juris, ſicut Dei Vicarius & miniſter in terra. Sin dominus Rex ad ſingulas cauſas determinandas non ſufficiat; ut levior ſit illi labor, in plures perſonas, partito onere, eligere debet viros ſapientes, & timentes Deum, & ex illis conſtituere Juſticiarios. [a] Cap. 9. & 10.

The King, and no other, ought to judge, if he alone were able to perform that task, being thereunto obliged by the tenor of his Oath: To him therefore it belongs to exerciſe the power of the Law, as Gods Vicegerent and Officer on Earth: But if the King cannot of himſelf determine every controverſie; to the end his labour may be the leſs, by dividing the trouble amongſt divers perſons, he ought to chooſe men of wiſdome, fearing God; and out of them to conſtitute Judges.

Conſonant whereunto is that expreſſion of King Edward the firſt, in the beginning of his Book of Laws, called Breton [b], where, having declared, that he is Gods Vicegerent, and that he hath diſtributed his Chardge into ſeveral portions, as being not able alone to hear and determine all the complaints of his ſubjects; he thus goeth on ---Nous volons que noſtre juriſdiction, &c. ——We will, that our own juriſdiction be ſuperior to all the juriſdictions of our Realm; ſo that in all Felonies, Treſpaſſes, Contracts, and in all all other actions personal or real, we have power to give, or cause to be given, such judgments as do appertain (without any other Process) whereſoever we know the direct truth, as Judges.

And hence it is, that the King being Juſticiæ fons & origo, the head and fountain of Juſtice, that appeals from ſuch as are his Miniſters for diſtribution of Juſtice, in caſe they fail in performing of that their truſt, are made to him himſelf; as is evident from thoſe Laws of King Edgar, whereof I have already briefly toucht; where it is ſaid [c] ——— Nemo in lite Regem appellato, niſi quando domi jus conſequi non poterit, &c.

Of the Juſtice of England.

THe firſt and principal of thoſe unto whom the Saxon Kings of this Realm did commit that general truſt of adminiſtring Juſtice univerſally under them (of whom I have ſeen any direct mention) were Ailwin [a], the pious founder of Ramſey Abby, then called totius Angliæ Aldermannus, Toſtius, [b] Earl of Northumberland, and Harald [c] Son to Godwyn Earl of Kent: But after the Norman Conqueſt, he who had that power given to him, was termed Capitalis Juſticia, or Juſticiarius Angliæ, of which rank were Odo Biſhop of Bayeux, and William fitz Oſbern: and it is not unlike, but that Lanfranke Archbiſhop of Canterbury, Goiſfride Biſhop of Conſtance, and Robert Earl of Mortone had jointly the adminiſtration of the ſame Office, during ſome part of the Conquerours reign; for I find, [d] that ſeveral precepts were directed to them from that King, which do imply no leſs: So alſo Richard Baſſet and Alberic de Vere in ſome part of King Henry the firſts reign, as may ſeem by a ſpecial Precept * to them from that King, though I have rankt them aſunder in my Chronologick Tables.

CAP. VIII.

Of Lawyers.

IT is believed by ſome, that we had not many perſons in this Realm, other than of the Clergy, who were learned in the Laws, before the Norman Conqueſt; thoſe ages being ſo illiterate, by reaſon of the ſeveral inroades made upon them by the barbarous Northern Nations, which neceſſitated the Nobility and Gentry to exerciſe themſelves in martial feats. And from this their ignorance of Letters, probable it is, that the deciſion of moſt controverſies and Trials in Caſes Civil, was ſo much by Combate; and in Criminal, by Fire and Water Ordeal.

And to this opinion I am the more inclined; in regard, that upon the determining of that great controverſie, which was betwixt Lanfranke Archb. of Canterbury, and Odo Earl of Kent, in the time of King William the Conquerour, it[a] appears; that Agelric Biſhop of Chicheſter, was chiefly imployed—— Ut Legum terræ ſapientiſſimus; qui, ex præcepto Regis, advectus fuit in una Quadriga, ad ipſas antiquas Legum conſuetudines diſcutiendas & edocendas ---Brought thither in a Chariot, to diſcuſs, and inſtruct them in the antient Laws and Cuſtomes of the Land, as the moſt skilful perſon in the knowledge of them. As alſo, that in the time of King William the Conquerour one Alfwin [b]Rector of Sutton, and diverſe Monks of Abingdon, amongſt which Sacolus and Godric are ſpecially remembred, [c]were perſons ſo expert in the Laws, that others in divers parts did eaſily ſubmit to their judgment.

And of the like condition (viz. Clerical) was that Ranulph, in King William Rufus his Reign, whom Will. of Malmesbury [d]calleth invictus Cauſidicus, an unvanquiſh'd Lawyer: Nor, in truth, were there many other in thoſe dayes, as may ſeem from the words of that famous Hiſtorian, in his complaint of the enormities of that time; for he ſaith [e] Nullus Clericus niſi Cauſidicus (it being long after this, that there were any ſetled places for Students of thoſe our Laws called the Common-Law; as I ſhall hereafter ſhew:) the firſt reſtraint of the Clergy, for practiſing publickly in that kind (which I have yet obſerved) being about the beginning of K. Henry the III. Reign; where Richard Poor then Biſhop of Sarisbury, amongſt other his Eccleſiaſtical Conſtitutions, made in the year MCCxvii. (2 H. 3.) under the Title of that de bono Pacis, hath theſe words—[f]Nec advocati ſint Clerici, vel Sacerdotes in foro ſeculari, niſi vel proprias cauſas, vel miſerabilium perſonarum proſequantur.

Of Lawyers and Judges.

But though the Clergy were thus reſtrained, as to their pleading in Secular Courts, there was not the like reſtriction of Eccleſiaſtial perſons for ſitting as Judges in thoſe Tribunals: for, from that [g] very time, of the Canons in one Cathedral (viz. St. Pauls in London) I find (beſides ſome that were Lord Chancellours of England, Keepers of the great Seal, or Lords Treaſurers, as my Chronologick Tables will ſufficiently manifeſt) theſe ſeveral perſons, here named, who were Juſtices in ſome of the Courts at Weſtminſter, or Itinerant, before the 6th year of King Edw. I. CAP. IX.

Courts of Justice.

THat these originally flowed from the same Fountain that all Laws did, viz. Necessity, there can be no doubt: For when by the multiplying of People, iniquity so increased, as that contentions and differences did daily more and more abound; it was impossible, that any one person should hear and determine all their Causes; or any one place be of capacity sufficient to receive all the Suters. Hence was it therefore, that Jethro advised Moses, whom God had set over the Israelites (the first people of the World unto whom any Written Laws were delivered as their chief Ruler, to commit the distribution of Justice, under himself, unto several persons, and in sundry places, as in the xviii. Chapt. of the Book of Exodus appeareth.

The Israelites had theirs in the Gates of their Cities, as Godwin [a] observeth; and as is fully manifested from Text of Scripture, [b] where it is said, that the Prophet Jeremiah, being condemned to die by the Consistory of Priests, was [c] by the Consistory of Princes secular, or Judges sitting in the Gate, absolved and discharged. And the reason thereof was (as 'tis very probable) partly that the equity of their proceedings might be seen by all; and partly that none might go out of the Common way to seek for Justice. Cap. 9.

The old Romans, as we read, had at first their Seats of Justice within their Temples [d]; purposely to shew, that Justice was a Divine thing: afterwards in [e] Curia & Foro, in the Court and publick Market-place.

The Athenians had [f] theirs also in their Temples.

The old Brittains theirs in some hallowed place, as is evident from Cæsars relation [g] concerning the Druides (whereof I have already toucht.)

The Saxons, imitating the old Germans, did Jura per pagos & vicos reddere (as Tacitus [h] expresseth) distribute Justice in each Town and Territory; it being their Custom so to do; ---in more fuit, saith he, ut unusquisque Agricolis suis jus diceret. For which purpose, twelve of the most eminent men for their wisdom and worthiness, were made choice of, from amongst others, to ride several Circuits, for the seeing of Justice done, and good Customes observed. And so 'tis most like they did here, after they had dominion in this Realm; it being nothing probable, that the people, from all parts could repair to the King himself (the Fountain of Justice:) But, at length, the same Necessity, which taught former ages how to frame and establish some Government, with such Laws as might conduce to each mans better enjoying the fruits of his own industry and pains, did farther instruct the succeeding times, in sundry particulars, for more effectual and easie wayes in distribution of Justice.

Hence was it, that this Realm became first divided into Counties, or Shires, by King Egbert (about the year of Christ DCCC.) and those into Hundreds, afterwards, by King Alfred: For, when he was sole Monarch; like as the Germans (our ancestors) as Tacitus also expresseth, kept Moreover, he cauſed the* Counties to be parted into Centuries, id eſt Hundreds; and into Decimes, id eſt Tithings; and commanded withal, that every homeling, or natural inhabitant, ſhould be in ſome one Hundred and Tithing.

Courts of Juſtice.

And hence was it, after theſe Diviſions thus made, and ſetled; that the Court kept in the Shire-Town, called the County-Court, as alſo the Hundred-Court, and Town-Courts, had their firſt beginnings, of which I ſhall ſay more by and by: For beſides theſe Courts (according to the Example of Moſes, the ſpecial Miniſter of Juſtice, appointed [n] by God; who finding himſelf unable to undergo the trouble of deciding all controverſies of the people, conſtituted Judges over Tribes, Hundreds, and Fifties, of the multitude; unto whom he committed the determination of leſſer matters; reſerving the judgment of ſuch as were of greateſt importance to his own wiſdom and ſentence:) the Chief and principal place for adminiſtration of Juſtice, was in that Court kept in the Kings own Houſe, wherein he himſelf, or the * Juſticiarius Angliæ ſate; unto which Court any man might appeal in caſe he had not right done him in thoſe inferiour Courts, which were nearer home; as appeareth from King [o] Edgars Law (whereof I have already taken notice) ——Nemo in lite Regem appellat, niſi qui Domi Juſticiam conſequi, aut impetrare non poterit.

* Juſticiarius Angliæ.

And of this I have ſeen a notable inſtance in 8 or 12 H. 2. (the King being at that time beyond Sea) Where Robert Earl of Leiceſter, being Juſticiarius Angliæ, upon an Appeal then made to the King, iſſued out his Writ to the Prior of Ely, thus ---Robertus Comes Legreceſtriæ Priori de Eli ſalutem; Præcipio quod ſine dilatione teneas plenum Rectum Humfrido filio Gaufridi de terra de Dunnigelande, niſi ſit feodum militis, & niſi remaneat pro Aſſiſa Regis: Et niſi feceris Epiſcopus de Ely faciat: Et niſi fecerit ego faciam. In which precept theſe particulars are obſervable: Firſt, that the Juſtice of England commands the Prior of Ely to do the Complaynant right in his Court, in caſe the land in queſtion did not extend to a Knights fee, and that the deciſion thereof were not to be tryed by by the great Assize. Next, that if the said Prior did make neglect therein, the Bishop of Ely (whose Court was superiour to that of the Priors) should do it: And lastly, that if the said Bishop should fail, he himself (id est, the Justiciarius Angliæ) would do it.

So likewise from King Canutus his Laws ---Nemo Regem requirat de justicia facienda, dum ei Rectum offertur in Hundredo suo, &c.

Videsis Summam magnam Rad. de Hengham. imp. Lon. 1616. cum notis, J. Seldeni cap. 1. & cap. 3.

And hereof we want not some testimony at this day: for the Writ of Right, being the most solemn Trial now used, runs thus, Rex, &c. A. B. domino Manerii de S. Præcipimus tibi, quod sine dilatione plenum Rectum teneas T. D. de uno messuagio, cum pertinentiis in W. quod clamat tenere de te per liberum servicium, &c. *& quod N. Et Glanvill, lib. 12. cap. 4.

Nor hath the practice in this Realm been otherwise, as may seem from these following authorities, taken out of our famous and antient Law-writers; viz. Glanvill and Bracton.

[p] Glanvil, lib. 12. cap. 6.

Probantur [q] autem Curiæ ipsæ de Recto defeciſſe in hunc modum; Conquerente autem se eo qui petit Vicecomiti in Comitatu, & Breve domini Reg. afferente; mittet Vicecomes ad Curiam ipsam, die qua litigatoribus a Domino ipsius Curiæ statuta fuerit, aliquem servientem, ut et ille coram quatuor, vel pluribus legalibus militibus ejusdem Comitatus, qui ex præcepto Vicecomitis illic aderunt, audiat et videat probationem ipsius petentis, scilicet Curiam ipsam ei de Recto defeciſſe in placito ipso: quod et ipse petens sic esse, suo juramento, et cum duobus aliis id audientibus et intelligentibus, et cum eo jurantibus probavit. Sub tali ergo solemnitate solent loquelæ a quibusdam Curiis ad comitatus transferri, et ibi de novo tractari et terminari, sine contradictione, vel recuperatione ipsarum Curiarum, quam inde habere possunt ipsarum Curiarum domini, sive hæredes, quantum ad illud placitum: Sin autem priusquam Curia aliqua prædicto modo probetur de Recto defeciſſe, loquela aliqua ab ea ad superiorem Curiam trahatur, poterit dominus illius Curiæ, die placiti, Curiam suam ea ratione repetere, quod nondum probata fuerit de Recto defeciſſe; & ita eum per judicium retro habebit, nisi ibi probetur de Recto eam, ut dictum est defeciſſe.

[q] Ib. cap. 7. Cap. 9.

Sciendum tamen, quod si ad Capitalem Curiam domini Reg. ita tracta fuerit aliqua loquela, frustra vendicabit ibi quis, die Placiti, Curiam suam, nisi tertio die ante, coram legalibus hominibus eam vendicaverit. Nullo autem die, posito ipsi petenti, unde ipse queri possit, & juste, de dilatione ei facta, sufficit ei falsare Curiam ipsam, sub forma præscripta, quocunque loco voluerit in feodo ipso, si dominus nullam habuerit reseantisam super feodum ipsum, sicut ipsi domino licet Curiam suam ibidem tenere, & ipsi petenti diem ponere, quocunque loco voluerit super feodum ipsum. Extra autem feodum ipsum non licet ei, de jure.

Debet [r] autem impetrari Breve solummodo ad illum de quo clamat tenere eis qui petit; non ad alium, nec etiam ad Capitalem dominum: Sed quid erit, si petens ipse de uno clamat tenere, & tenens ipse de alio teneat? Equidem in tali casu, quia is cui Breve dirigitur placitum id tenere non potest, cum alium non possit de Curia, unde ipse seisitus esse intelligitur injuste et sine judicio dissesire, ex necessitate itur inde ad Comitatum, et ibi procedit Placitum, vel in Capitali Curia, ita quod uterque Dominorum per summonitionem ibi adesse debet; ut, utroque præsente, res agatur, sicut superius dictum est in tractatu de warrantis.

[s] Ib. cap. 9.

So far Glanvil: Whereunto Bracton [t] thus addeth: ----Et sciendum quod earum (scilicet actionum Civilium) quæ sunt ad rem, sicut rei vendicationes per Breve de Recto, terminari debent in Curia Baronum, vel aliorum, de quibus ipse petens clamaverit tenere, si plenum rectum ei non voluerit, vel possit, [t] Bracton, lib. 3. cap. 7.

Cap. 9. poſſit, vel ſciverit. Si autem noluerit, vel non poſſit, vel neſciverit; tunc probato a tenente, quod Curia Domini ſit, ei de Recto defecerit, transferri debet placitum ad Comitatum, ut Vicecomes Rectum teneat; & ſic a Comitatu transferri poſſit ad magnam Curiam, ex certa cauſa, ſi dominus Rex voluerit, & ibi terminari.

In this magna Curia, id eſt, the principal Court, which was within the Kings Palace, before him, and ſuch [u] of his Nobles, whom he pleaſed to aſſociate with himſelf for that purpoſe, were antiently all ſuch Pleadings, as are now diſtributed into the ſundry Courts of Weſtminſter: Amongſt which of the Nobility the Juſticiarius Angliæ alwayes ſate (an Officer not much unlike to the grand Seneſchal of France, there called Major Domus) In the Saxons time he was called Alderman; for ſo in King Edgars dayes they termed Alwyn; viz. totius Angliæ Aldermannus: which Juſticiarius did, in the Kings abſence, judge all cauſes as his Vice-gerent or Deputy: but in tract of time, people increaſing, and ſutes, conſequently, growing more numerous; there were certain perſons, expert in the Laws and Cuſtomes of the land, aſſigned to ſit with him, as his Aſſiſtants, and to attend the hearing of all cauſes, that ſhould be brought before them: Whereupon, by little and little ſuch great Men (Barons) who had uſually ſate as aſſociates and aſſiſtants with the King, declined that ſervice; thoſe ſo joyned with the Chief Juſtice, being ſuch, as by ſtudy of the Laws, were more fit to undergo that employment.

[u] Vide Stat. de Clarendon 10 H. 2. penes Gerv. Dorobern. col. 1387. cap. xi.

But I return to thoſe inferior Courts before-mentioned; viz. the County-Court, Shireeves-Turne; the Triking, or Lathe, the Hundred-Court, and Court-Baron.

As the Realm was divided into Counties, or Shires; and the Counties into Trikings or Lathes; and they into Hundreds, and the Hundreds into Towns or Villages; ſo, for the better diſtribution of Juſtice, theſe each of them held a diſtinct Court, having the power of that which our Anceſtors called Saca and Soca; that of Saca or Sac, being a priviledg to hear and determine cauſes within their Liberties, and to receive the amerciaments of offenders: and of Soca or Soc to have power of holding a Court of his own Tenants, id eſt, Freeholders. Courts of Juſtice.

Of all which Courts, to the end I may give the more brief and clear account, I will ſpeak in order, beginning firſt with the Town-Court, antiently called the Hall-mote, it having been in old time kept in the Hall or Chief Manſion of each Lord of a Mannour, every three weeks once, but ſince called the Court Baron, id eſt, the Court of the Freeholders, for by that name were they long ago ſtiled, as the Barons of the Cinque-ports have been, and are to this day.

CAP. X.

Court-Baron.

THis Court ſo kept in the Lords Mannour houſe, according to the uſage of the Germans, as may ſeem by theſe words of Tacitus, viz.——

[a] quod jura per Pagos & Vicos reddebant, that they diſtributed their Juſtice in every Town and Village, conſiſted of ten Judges or Triers, called in the old Engliſh Friburgi, or Tenmentale; who were under the Lord of the Mannour (Thain or Baron.) Theſe were to undertake [b] for every Inhabitant, and to ſatisfie for the offence of each man. Amongſt them, there was one called Decanus, Friborough or Headborough (a name retained amongſt us to this day:) And by theſe were all Civil actions, as, of debt, treſpaſs, detinue, or the like, which aroſe betwixt any of their Townſhip, determined: But when there was a Cauſe which concerned men reſiding in ſeveral Seigniories; then was it tranſmitted to the next ſuperior Juriſdiction, viz. the Hundred Court, (in ſome places called the Wapentak:) both theſe being proportioned to thoſe of the Iſraelites, wherein Tribuni, Centuriones, & Decani judicabant plebem omni tempore.

CAP. XI.

The Hundred Court.

THis Court in times paſt was called Hundred Gemot, and Centuriata, becauſe originally it was compoſed, either ex Hidarum aliquot centenariis (as hida de Centum acris commonly;) becauſe it conſiſted of an hundred Hides of Land, as an Hide, uſually, of an hundred Acres: or elſe becauſe ſuper decem decanos, & Centum Friburgos judicabat, that it had juriſdiction over ten Deanes, or an hundred Friboroughs.

Before the Norman Conqueſt, it was held [a] xii times in the year, viz. once every Moneth; and in King Henry the firſts time, once [b] every fortnight: But King Henry the 3d. in the 18th year of his reign, ordained [c] (as of the Court Baron) that it ſhould be held once every three weeks.

And in this, the Barons, or Freeholders of thoſe parts (as in the Hundred) were Judges, as appeareth by the ſute, which Wulſtan de Delham had for Stannete in Cambridgſhire in the dayes of King Edward, ſucceſſor to King Edgar; the ſtory whereof, in brief, was this [c]: A certain Widdow, named Æſcuen, having given Stannete, with the Fen thereunto belonging, unto this Wulſtan de Delham, he, the ſaid Wulſtan beſtowed it on the Monks of Ely, and they did let it to ferm, for a Rent of Eels, unto certain Kinsfolk of the ſaid Æſcuen; who, having held it ſome time, at length retained it as their own, ſine judicio & ſine lege Civium & Hundredanorum, without any judgment or law of the Freemen and Hundreders: where upon Ægelwyn the Alderman ſummoned thoſe perſons, who ſo unjuſtly held it, to attend him at Ely, to anſwer the ſame: who declining to appear, at length the ſaid Ægelwyn ſitting at Cambridge, held a Court there of the Freemen and Hundreders, before xxiiii Judges; where, after open manifeſtation of the wrong done, Judgment was not only given, that the ſaid Monks ſhould be repoſſeſt of thoſe lands and Fen, and to receive the arrear of the Rent; but, that the King ſhould have a fine from the Cap. 12. the Defendants, for that their injurious dealing: and moreover, that certain persons, then named, should perambulate the said land, and put the Monks into possession thereof again.

d Ibid. fol. 6. a. b. So also, [d] upon a great dispute betwixt the Monks of Ely and one Ulfe, concerning Lands in Chippenham, the said Ægelwyne the Alderman, Alwold his brother, and the Abbot of Ely, with all the antient men of the East-Angles and Cambridge, met at a Town called Pegentune, the Inhabitants of three Hundreds being there assembled; where the Claim on each part was heard, and Judgment given therein.

e Ibid. f. 4. a. Moreover, we find, [e] that the same Ægelwyne, & primates Northamptonienses, placitum habuerunt apud Thalmesford, in octo Hundredis.

And that Contracts for Land were also made in such Conventions, in those elder times, we want not several instances; of which I shall take notice of these few.

f Ex hist. Elien MS. in bibl. Cotton [Domitian A. 15.] f. 76. a. In [f] Stretham quædam vidua, Wlfled vocabulo dicta, &c. There was a certain woman, called Wlfled, dwelling in Stretham, the Widow of Siberth, who sold xxviiii acres of land to the Abbot of Ely; which land her father did purchase in King Athelstans time, and she had afterwards quietly enjoyed; & hoc noverat totum Hundredum; and of this all the Hundred had knowledge.

g Ibid. f. 78. a. So also in [g] Chippenham, one Wine purchased Lxxx. acres, and five pieces of ground whereon houses were built; for which he gave C s. unto Leffius de Frakenham; and likewise xx acres, and one parcel of Land with building on it, for xx s. And from Wulfelm brother to Wulfin, ten acres for ten shillings: Hoc quoq; factum est coram Hundreti testimonio; This also was done in the face of the Hundred.

And moreover, that upon a controversie touching certain Lands in Swatham, claimed by one Wulstane, the [h] witness of no less than eight Hundreds on the Southern side of Cambridgshire, was produced to prove his purchase thereof.

h Ex præf. Regist. Elien. Eccl. in bibl. Cotton. sub effigie Titi, A. 3. f. 4. a.

Nor is there want of testimony, that the like was practised after the Norman Conquest: for I have seen an original Deed, [i] of no less antiquity than King Henry the seconds time (as may seem by the hand) whereby Richard de Merburie of Merburie in Cheshire, granting the whole Lordship of Merburie to William de Merburie, his brother and his heirs, for certain services to him the said Richard and his heirs reserved, concludeth his Charter of donation thus; Hoc autem feci consensu & concessu domini Guarini Vernon & hæredum meorum; & depono a me, & hæredibus meis omne jus meum de terra prædicta, Willielmo fratri meo prædicto & hæredibus suis imperpetuum, pro tribus marcis & dimidia, quas Willielmus frater meus prædictus dedit mihi; partem coram omni Comitatu Cestriæ, & partem in Curia domini mei Guarini de Vernon, & partem coram Wapentachio de Hathelstona; Testibus Lidulfo de Twamlowe, Hamone de Bochintona, Gilberto filio Nigelli, Roberto de Stochalle, Radulfo Capellano, Richardo de Vernon, Raiero de Stanthorne, Gilberto de Bostoc, & omni Comitatu Cestriæ.

i Penes Tho. Merburie de Merburie in com. Cestr. arm. 14 Sept. 1663.

And that titles of land were tryed also in this Court, as well after the Normans entrance, as in the Saxons time, above remembred, is likewise evident from this testimony of King Henry the seconds Precept to the Shireeve of Norfolk. * *H. The Shireeves Turn.

Vide Fletam lib. 2. cap. 52. p. 112.

THis was antiently called Scyre mote (id est, the meeting of the Inhabitants of the Shire) and was held twice in the year, long before the Norman Conquest, as appeareth from sundry testimonies[a]: but since that, the Shireeves Turne, from the French word tour, id est vice, and in English Turne. Herein sate together the Bishop of the Dioces, and the Earl or Eolderman, in Shires that had Ealdermen; and the Bishop and Shireeves, in such Counties as were committed to Shireeves, for many ages in the Saxons time, as from these Laws of King Edgar and Canutus, cited in the Margent, doth appear; to the end they might determine as well of what concerned Ecclesiastical as Civil matters; the words of whose Law run thus; Ex omni Comitatu, bis quotannis conventus agitor, cui quidem illius diœcesis Episcopus & Senator intersunto; quorum alter jura divina, humana alter populum edoceto.

[b] Vide Fani Angl.

In every County let there be twice a year an assembly of the people: whereat the Bishop of the Dioces and the Earl shall be present, the one to direct in divine, the other in humane matters.

Which so continued (the Bishop and Earl sitting therein together) untill King William the Conquerour, in a full Convention[c] of his Archbishops, Bishops, Abbots and temporal Lords, commanded,[d] that Ecclesiastical matters should thenceforth be handled by the Bishop in Courts of their own; and not any more be discust amongst secular Affairs.

[c] [d] Cart. 2 R. 2. per Inspex. m. 12.

In this Court were also grants and contracts, antiently, upon some occasions made: for I have seen an original deed,[e] in 4 Edw. 1. by Alice the daughter of William de Wrotteſle (of Wrottesle in Staffordshire) in her pure Widowhood, of all that land which her father gave in frank marriage with her, unto one Henry Fitz. Hugh; which thus concludes --- Data

But it may seem, notwithstanding these old Laws before cited, that the Shireeves did keep their Turnes oftner than twice in a year, before the Statute of Magna Charta in 17 Johannis: for by that Statute it was decreed, That no Shireeve or his Bayliff should keep his Turne in the Hundred, but twice in a year; and no where but in due place & accustomed; viz. once after Easter, and again after Michaelmas[f]. Which Charter was confirmed by King Henry the Third in 9 of his Reign.

And it may also seem, that after this Statute of Magna Charta, the Shireeves did compel Religious persons as well as others to come to this Court, untill the Statute[g] of Marlebridge in 52 H. 3. which exempteth all Arch-bishops, Bishops, Abbots, Priors, Earls, Barons, and all other Religious men and women, from coming thither, except their appearance be specially required thereat, for some other cause.

THis Court is also very antient, and to be held once every Month by the Shireeve, as from King Edward the elders Laws appeareth:

A notable instance whereof I find in b Ex Regiſt. de Ramſey in Scacc. penes Remem. Regis.

To this Court were antiently appeals made from the Hundred Court, as appears by the Laws [c] of Canutus ——Et nemo namium capiat in Comitatu vel extra Comitatum, priuſquam ter in Hundredo ſuo rectum ſibi perquiſierit: Si tertia vice rectum non habeat, eat quarta vice ad Conventum totius Comitatus quod Anglice dicitur Scyremot, *&c. Likewiſe, that Bargains, and ſales of land, were antiently made here, I ſhall exhibit an inſtance, of little leſs than five hundred years antiquity; which is, that Hawiſia de Iſelham, with Raphe her Husband, and Roger their Son and Heir, did paſs the grant of their land of Iſelham to William Briwer in the County-Court of Devon. ——Hæc venditio facta fuit (ſaith the autograph) [m] in pleno Comitatu de Deveneſcire; & poſtea retracta & recordatæ apud Weſtm. die Jovis proxima poſt feſtum S. Lucæ Evang. an. xxvi H. 2. &c.

It ſeems, that notwithſtanding the Law of King Edward the elder (before mentioned) which appointed this Court to be kept once every Month (as I have inſtanced) it was afterwards held oftner, as appeareth by the Statute of Magna Charta, which reſtrained it to that diſtance of time, except antiently it had been otherwiſe, as for certain it had: for in 2 Edw. 6. the Act [n] which poſitively confines it to once a Month, intimateth, that, in ſome places, it had been held but every ſix weeks.

mony we have thereof from *Gerv. (15 E. 1.) by Peter de Wivill then Bishop of that Dioceſs, it was (inter alia) decreed [q] —Ne in Ecclesiis vel cimiteriis earum, Mercata, vel Placita secularia teneantur. The like inhibition do I also find in a Synod held at Winchester, about that time——— [r] Inhibemus firmiter, ne in Ecclesiis aut Cimiteriis publica fiant Mercata; nec propter hoc figantur Tentoria in eisdem, seu Placita secularia teneantur, &c.

CAP. XVI.

The Chancery.

HAving thus briefly toucht upon the antiquity of these inferior Courts, I now come to those of the highest rank; viz. the Chancery, the Kings-Bench, the Common-Pleas, and Exchequer.

It is the opinion of several learned *men (as Mr. Cambd. in his Britannia, and Dr. Cowel in his Interpreter have observed) that this Court had its name originally from certain bars of wood or iron, laid one over another Crosswise, like a Lattiss, wherewith it was environed for to keep off the press of people, and not to hinder the view of those Officers who sate therein, such Grates or Cross-barrs being by the Latins, called Cancelli: which, as some think, was the reason why those places that were only peculiar to the Priests, being by the appointment * of Pope Felix, severed from the bodies of our Churches, for that purpose, with certain Grates or Lattises, were also so called.

* Cassiod. Epist. 6. lib. 11. Petr. Pytham, lib. 2. advers. cap. 12. *Matth. Paris.

And that the Chancellours Office, originally, was to register the Acts and Decrees of the Judges---qui conscribendis & excipiendis judicum actis dant operam, as saith Lupanus: Pythæus also expressing, that he was antiently the same as we now call Secretarius: Howbeit, not only in this, but in other Kingdomes, this Office hath been, for many ages so much advanced, that the person who held it, hath been the chief for administration of Justice, especially in private Causes, next under the Prince.

As for its antiquity in this Realm, it is of no less, as our learned Selden [a] conceives, than K. Ethelberts time who was the first Christian King of the Saxons) for in a Charter [b] of his to the Church of Canterbury, bearing date in the year of Christ DCv. amongst other witnesses thereto, there is Augemundus Referendarius mentioned: where Referendarius, (saith he) may well stand for Cancellarius; and that the Office of both (as the words applyed to the Court, are used in the Code, Novells, and story of the declining Empire, signifying an Officer, who received Petitions and Supplications to the King, and made out his Writs and Mandates, as a Custos legis: And though (saith he) there were divers Referendarii; as sometime xiii, then viii, then more again, and so divers Chancellours in the Empire; yet one especially, here, exercising an Office of the nature of those many, might well

Cap. 16. well be ſtiled by either of thoſe names.

It will be a much harder task than I dare adventure upon, to exhibit a perfect ſeries of theſe great Officers throughout the reigns of the ſucceſſive Kings of the Saxon race, untill the Norman Conqueſt; I ſhall therefore content my ſelf, with the bare mention of the names of ſuch, as I have met with from any good authority. Of theſe Unwona * is the firſt, who is ſtiled Cancellarius to Offa King of the Mercians (who began his reign in the year DCCLviii.) Next to him is Boſa, in King Withlafes time [c], but ſtiled Scriba [d]. After him Swithulphus [e], called Notarius, under King Berthulph, about the year DCCCLi.

d Ingulphi, hiſt. e f

Then Turketill [f], under King Edward the Elder: of whom Ingulphus hath this expreſſion——Cancellarium ſuum eum conſtituit, ut quæcunque negotia, temporalia vel ſpiritualia, Regis judicium expectabant, illius conſilio et decreto (tam ſanctæ fidei, et tam profundi ingenii tenebatur) omnia tractarentur, et tractata irrefragabilem ſententiam ſortirentur; which Turketill continued [g] in that office alſo, under King Athelſtan, Edmund, and Edred (all Sons and Succeſſors to the ſaid King Edw. the Elder) being [h] likewiſe Conſiliarius primus, præcipuus, et a ſecretis familiariſſimus——his chief and principal Privy-Counſeller; and in his old age was conſtituted Abbot of Croyland.

g Ingulph. h ut ſupra.

After him, King Edgar had Adulphus [i] to his Chancellour: King Ethelred had [k] Alfric (the xith. Abbot of St. Albans) to his. Of which King Etheldred I alſo find, [l] that he appointed and ordained, that the Abbots of Ely, St. Auguſtines in Canterbury, and Glaſtonbury, ſhould exerciſe this office of Chancellour, by turns, annually; dividing the year into three parts.

i Lel. coll. vol. 1. p. 4. & 5. k M. Pariſ. in vit. Abbatum p. 43. n. 10. l Spelm. Gloſs. p. 127. b.

That theſe Kings, before-mentioned, had not any Seals (the Cuſtody of which, in ſucceeding times, was one of the principal duties belonging to this Office of Chancellour) Ingulphus (who lived in the Norman Conquerours dayes) ſeemeth ſomewhat poſitively to affirm, [m]——Nam Chirographorum confectionem Anglicanam (ſaith he) quæ antea, uſq; ad Edvardi Regis tempora, fidelium præſentium ſubſcriptionibus, cum Crucibus aureis, aliiſq; ſacris ſignaculis firmata fuerunt; Normanni condemnantes, Chirographa Cartas vocabant, & Chartarum firmitatem, cum cereâ impreſſione, per unius cujuſq; ſpeciale Sigillum, ſub inſtillatione trium vel quatuor teſtium aſtantium, conficere conſtituebant, &c.

m in Ingulphi, hiſt. f. 512. b. l. 20.

The Chantery.

But, that Seals were uſed by the French, long before this, is ſure enough: for in a Charter [n] of Charles the great, King of France, made to the Monaſtery of Ratrot, in Poictou (of his own foundation) there is this expreſſion ——Et ut hæc præſens authoritas, noſtris & futuris temporibus, inviolata perdurare valeat, manus noſtræ Signaculis, eam decrevimus roborari, & de Annulo noſtro juſſimus Sigillari.

n Preuve de le Hiſt. des Contes de Poictou, &c. Impr. Pariſ. 1647. p. 255.

So alſo in another [o] of Lewis, the Emperour (called Hludovicus pius) ſon and ſucceſſor to Charles the great, bearing date in the year of Chriſt DCCCxiiii.——Hæc vero auctoritas, ut noſtris & futuris temporibus melius credatur, &c. manu propria ſubſcripſimus, & de Annulo noſtro juſſimus Sigillari.

o Ibid. p. 181.

Nay, there are ſome learned men of opinion, that the Charter which King Edgar made to the Monaſtery of Pershore, in Worceſterſhire, which begins thus,——P. Orthodoxorum vigoris Eccleſiaſtico monitu creberrime inſtruimur, &c. and whereon there are apparent ſigns of three Labells, by the places cut therein for them, had three Seals hanging thereat; viz. one of King Edgar, the other of St. Dunſtan, and the third of Alferus, afterwards Duke of Mercia; for further teſtimony whereof, theſe words, in a [q] Letter from Godfrey Arch-Deacon of Worceſter, to Pope Alexander the third, are vouched; viz.——Novit Sanctitas veſtra, verum eſſe; quod concripti hujus Scripturæ originale, in virtute S. Trinitatis, Sigilla tria, trium perſonarum authenticarum, ad veritatem, triplici confirmatione commendat. Eſt autem Sigillum Primum illuſtris Regis Edgari; Secundum S. Dunſtani Cantuar. Archiepiſcopi; Tertium Alferi Ducis Merciorum, ſicut ex diligenti literarum impreſſarum inſpectione evidenter accepi, &c.

q Diſcourſe of the Office of Lord Chancellour by J. Selden, dedicated to Sir Fr. Bacon Knight, Lord Chancellour of England.

The Chancery

Whereunto I shall add what is recorded by Sulcardus a Monk of Westm. in his Register[t], of the same King Edgars Charter to that Abby; viz. ——Et ut hæc autoritas nostris & futuris temporibus, circa ipsum sanctum locum, perenniter firma & inviolata permaneat, & ab optimatibus nostris & Judicibus publicis & privatis certius credatur, manus nostræ subscriptione, subtus eam, decrevimus roborare, & Sigillo nostro jussimus sigillari.

And of the said Dunstan (in Ao 959) thus; ——Ego Dunstanus, ac si peccator, nomine tantum Episcopi, hanc libertatis scedulam, impressione Sigilli mei, & annuli, insuper & agalmate S. Crucis diligenter consignavi; ac deinde manibus ad cælum extensis, dixi; Si quis hanc munificentiam auxerit, augeat ille Deus; &c.

Likewise that of King Eadwi brother to King Edgar) An. 956. in his Charter of Gaing made to the Monks of Abendon[u]——Ego Eadwi Rex meum donum proprio Sigillo roboravi.

And I also find, that in the time of King Ethelrede, Godwine being then Bishop of Rochester, an antient controversie, betwixt Leofwyne, Aelfsege and the said Bishop, for Cnoddinglande, was determined in this manner; ——Þa cende se Cinge ge þæt he Dir inegle to Þam arcels alyfnice 7 hæt Dim þæt he 7 his begenas on Eafe cent 7 þa þeft cent hy on þæt ge reindon be on tale, 7 be of tale, þa þæt þar þe re b. þa com biden re rciper man Learnie, &c. Which maketh express mention, that the Kings Writ and his Seal were sent to assemble the ped of East and West Kent for the ending of that controversie.

Writs their Antiquity.

But admitting these few Examples, most certain it is; that, as Sealing of Charters, in the time of our Saxon Kings was not common; so the Office of Chancellour was not originally denominated from the keeping of the Kings Seal: and that, for a constant succession of Seals, we are not to look higher than King Edward the Confessor, in whose reign these were Chancellours, viz. [u] Leofricus surnamed Britannicus, Wulwius, and Rembaldus, the two last being also Keepers of his Seal, as is most evident from the very words of these his Charters to the Church of Westm. viz. to the one; ——Ut [w] hoc Decretum, a nobis promulgatum, pleniorem obtineat vigorem, nostra manu subter appositio signo roboravimus, atque fidelibus nostris præsentibus roborandum tradidimus; noſtræque imaginis Sigillo insuper assignari jussimus, (&c.) And afterwards; ——Wulwius regiæ dignitatis Cancellarius relegit & sigillavit, &c.

And to the other ——Ego [x] Reimbaldus Regis Cancellarius, relegi & sigillavi, &c.

So likewise was Mauritius, Chancellour to King William the Conquerour; the Keeper of his Seal, as appeareth by these words of his (the said Kings) Charter of Confirmation unto the said Abby of Westm. viz. ——Ego [y] Willielmus, Dei gratia Rex Anglorum, Dux Normannorum, & Princeps Cenomannorum, hoc præceptum scribere præcepi; & Scriptum hoc, Signo dominico confirmando † stabilivi; noſtræque imaginis Sigillo insuper assignari curavi, &c. And after---Mauritius Regis Cancellarius relegit & sigillavit.

From these few (and indeed very rare) instances it will appear, that the Sealing of Charters before the Norman Conquest, was little practised: but after that time, it became very usual, as may seem from what I have before taken notice of, from the testimony of Ingulphus; and shall here from the Laws [z] of King Edward the Confessor, recited and confirmed by King William the first; viz. ——Si quispiam murdratus alicubi reperiebatur, interfector illius, qui si inveniri non poterat, mensis & unius diei habebunt respectum ad eum perquirendum; quod si infra terminum non inveniebatur, colligebantur in villa illa xl^ta. marcæ: quod si ad tantæ solutionem pecuniæ non sufficiebat, per Hundredum colligebatur, quod in villa non poterat: Veruntamen quando omnino villa confundebatur, providerant Barones, quod per Hundreda colligerentur, & Sigillo alicujus Baronis Comitatus sigillarentur, & ad Thesaurariam Regis deportarentur; quas Sigillatas ipse servaret per annum & diem unum;

The Chancery

Having thus pointed at the Antiquity of this Court, I ſhall refer the farther mention of the ſucceeding Chancellours (viz. from the Norman Conqueſt downwards) to my Chronologick Tables, which are the principal part of this work; and here briefly take notice of what I find moſt antient, that doth beſt demonſtrate the nature of this great Office.

Another about the time of King Edward the firſt, thus, Officium Cancellariæ viro provido & diſcreto, ut Epiſcopo vel Clerico magnæ dignitatis debet committi, ſimul cum cura majoris Sigilli regni; cujus ſubſtituti ſunt Cancellarii omnes in Anglia, Hibernia, Wallia, & Scotia; omneſque Sigilli regii cuſtodes, præter Cuſtodem Sigilli privati.

Howbeit, notwithſtanding what is before expreſt, viz. that altera pars Sigilli regii pertinet ad ejus cuſtodiam, moſt ſure it is, that the Cuſtody of the Seal, was in antient time, not ſeldome committed to others, as will appear by my ſaid Chronloogick Table: yet for as much as thoſe who were Chancellours had for the moſt part the cuſtody thereof, it ſometimes hapned, that they who kept the great Seal were vulgarly reputed to be Chancellours: for ſo we ſee, that not only Matth. Paris, [k] (an eminent Hiſtorian, who lived in H. 3. time) calls Richard de Mariſco, Arch-Deacon of Richmund and Northumberland, but even the [l] Records themſelves.

But in the Parliament of 28 H. 3. it was ordained [m], that the Keeper of the great Seal ſhould be alwayes the Chancellour, and that all things ſealed otherwiſe ſhould be made void; the words are —— Sialiqua interveniente occaſione Dominus Rex abſtulerit Sigillum ſuum a Cancellario, quicquid fuerit interim ſigillatum irritum habeatur & inane; & deinde Cancellario fiat reſtitutio.

m Diſcourſe of the Office of Chancellour by Mr. Selden.

Which Law was not afterwards ſtrictly obſerved: for from our publick Records, cited in my Chronologick Tables, it will evidently appear; that the Cuſtody of the great Seal was not ſeldome committed to ſuch perſons, who were not the Kings Chancellours, untill by the Statute [n] of 5 Eliz. it was declared; that the Common Law is, that the Keeper of the great Seal of England, for the time being, is and alwayes was, &c. and hath alwayes had and uſed, &c. as belonging to his Office, the like place as the Lord Chancellour for the time being lawfully uſed, &c.

Cap. 16.

The Juriſdiction of the Lord Chancellour for hearing of Civil Cauſes, how antient.

IT is the opinion [o] of Mr. Lambard, that the Lord Chancellours of England had not any juriſdiction, for the hearing and determining of Civil cauſes, till King Edward the firſts reign: but that then, the power of the Juſticiarius Angliæ declining, it being reſtrained ad Placita coram Rege tenenda, the King committed to his Chancellour, together with the truſt and charge of his great Seal, his own royal, and extraordinary prehemineence of Juriſdiction in ſuch Civil Cauſes, as well for amendment, as ſupply of the Common Law; which power, that it was not ſo diſpoſed of by the King till then, may very well (ſaith he) be * inferred from Breton (a learned Lawyer) who, in that Kings time, writing of all other Courts, from the higheſt Tribunal to the Court-Baron, maketh no mention of the Chancery: Howbeit, towards the latter end of this Kings Reign, it was [q] enacted, that the Chancellour, and the Juſtices of his Bench, ſhould follow the King: (id eſt, whereſoever his Court did move) ſo that he might have at all times near unto him, ſome ſages of the Law, which were able to order all ſuch matters, as ſhould come unto the Court, at all times when need ſhould require; The Juſtices as to matter of Law (as tis moſt like) and the Chancellour for Equity.

Neverthleſs this Act did not give an abſolute power to the Chancellor alone of determining in ſuch Civil Cauſes, as may ſeem by that Law [r] which was made in 20 E. 3. where it appears, that the Treaſurer was joyned with him, to hear the Complaints of all them, who would complain of Sheriffs, Eſchaetors, Bayliffs of Franchiſes, and their under Miniſters; and alſo of Maintainers, Common imbracers, and Jurors in the County; and of the gifts and rewards which the ſaid Miniſters did take of the [f] Cap. 9. But in 36 E. 3. by an Act of Parliament, concerning Purveyours and Achators; as alſo of what things the Mayor and Conſtables of the Staple ſhould take cogniſance, then made, it was ordained; That if any man found himſelf grieved contrary to thoſe Articles (viz. touching Purveyours, &c.) or others, contained in divers Statutes, and would come into the Chancery, or any for him, and thereof make his complaint, he ſhould preſently there have remedy, by force of the ſaid Articles and Statutes, without elſewhere purſuing for redreſs.

Howbeit, notwithſtanding this Act, there doth not appear in the Reports of the Common Law, as Mr. Lambard obſerveth [t], to have been any frequent mention of Cauſes, uſually drawn before the Chancellour, for help in equity, till from the time of King Henry the Fourth, in whoſe dayes, by reaſon of thoſe inteſtine troubles, Feoffments to uſe, did either firſt begin, as ſome have thought; or elſe did firſt grow common and familiar, as all men muſt agree. Nor are there found any Bills, and Decrees in Chancery, before the 20th. of H. 6. Such cauſes as ſince that time were heard in that Court, having formerly been determined in the Lords Houſe of Parliament, as may ſeem from the number of Petitions in Parliament, of that nature, which are yet extant.

[t] Archeion, p. 67.

The place where the Lord Chancellour antiently ſate, and held this Court, was at the upper end of Weſtm. Hall, at that long Marble Table, which is there ſituate (though now covered with the Courts there erected) whereunto are five or ſix ſteps of aſcent: for in 36 E. 3. when Simon Langham Biſhop of Ely was made Lord Chancellour (which was on Sunday 19 Febr.) the Record [u] ſays; that on Tueſday next following, taking the great Seal with him to Weſtminſter, & in ſede marmorea, ubi Cancellarii ſedere ſunt aſſueti, ſedens, &c. Literas patentes, &c. conſignari fecit, ——he placed himſelf in the marble Chair, wherein the Chancellours uſed to ſit, and ſealed Patents, &c. CAP. XVII.

The Kings-Bench Court.

THis was antiently called Curia domini Regis, because oftentimes the King himself sate here in person, and had his Justices a latere suo residentes, as Bracton [a] expresseth; namely the Chief Justice, Chancellour and others, with the Constable and Marshall.

a Lib. 3. cap. 10.

Here ought Criminal Actions to be determined—ubi terminari debeant Actiones Criminales, vel placita, videndum est, saith the same Author: [b] Et sciendum, quod si Actiones Criminales sint, in Curia domini Regis debent terminari, cum sit ibi pœna corporalis infligenda; & hoc coram ipso Rege, si tangat personam suam; sicut Crimen lesæ Majestatis; vel coram Justiciariis ad hoc specialiter assignatis, si tangunt personas privatas.

And of the Justices that sit here, he addeth [c]—quidam sunt Capitales, generales, perpetui, & majores, a latere Regis residentes, qui omnium aliorum corrigere tenentur injurias & errores.

c Lib. 3. c. 10. (n. 2.)

Though this Court, in those elder times, was not so certainly fixed as that of the Common-Pleas, I do not think it was often moved till after the 28th year of K. Edw. the firsts reign, that by the Statute, [d] called Articuli super Cartas, it was enacted; That the Chancellor and Justices of his Bench should follow him; so that he might at all times have near unto him some, who were learned in the Laws, that might be able duely to order all such matters, as might come unto the Court at all times when need should require.

d Cap. 5.

For before that time, viz. in 42 H. 3. the King, whose removal to several of his Palaces was frequent, (as our publick Records do plainly shew) appointed it to be held at Westm. till he should otherwise determine, as by his special [e] Commission to Roger de Thurkelby, Gilbert de Preston, and Nicholas Handlo appeareth.

And soon after took their Oaths in the Exchequer, before the Lord Treasurer (as it seems) for in 1 Edw. 2. Roger le Brabazon, and the rest of his fellow Justices of this Court, then constituted, being appointed to do the like, the Record [f] addeth, prout moris est.

CAP. XVIII.

The Common-Pleas.

THat this Court, for the hearing of all controversies, in matters Civil, betwixt party and party, vulgarly called the Common-Pleas, was antiently kept in the Kings own Palace, and distinct from that of the Kings Bench, there is not only this circumstantial testimony from a Charter of King Henry the First, whereby he granted to the Abbot of B. conusance of all Pleas, with this expression; [b] so that neither the Justices of the one Bench, or of the other, or Justices of Assize, should meddle, &c. but the expres words of Magna Carta to prove it; *viz. Exchequer

Cap. 18. Exchequer having been the place where thoſe cauſes were heard, and not any other peculiar Court, untill the Confirmation of the great Charter at ſooneſt, which was about the latter end of King Johns reign, as is evident, not only from thoſe authorities, which I have cited in my diſcourſe of that Court; which ſhew that the Chief Juſtice of England, and other perſons learned in the Laws of this Realm, did antiently ſit there, and hear complaints in Caſes Civil; as alſo that Fines were then and there levied before them; but from the direct words of the Statute of 28 E. 1. (called Articuli ſuper Cartas) cap. 4. viz. that No Common Plea ſhall be henceforth held in the Exchequer, contrary to the form of the great Charter.

And as the ſevering of this Court from the Exchequer, was at firſt, no doubt, occaſioned from the great increaſe of Suters and Cauſes thereto: ſo queſtionleſs was it, that, for moderating the expence and trouble unto which the Subject was expoſed by repairing to the Kings ſupreme Court, where ever he moved; and for taking off the charge and hazard in carrying the Records upon all occaſions of the Kings removal, this Law for fixing the Common Pleas in a certain place (viz. at Weſtm.) was firſt made; to the end, that the people might be ſure, whither to reſort for tryal of their rights: After which time the Writs ran thus [c]; ----quod ſit coram Juſticiariis meis apud Weſtmonaſterium: whereas before -----[d] quod ſit coram me vel Juſticia mea.

The juriſdiction of this Court Bracton [e] doth in a few words thus deſcribe, ———Habet etiam Rex Curiam & Juſticiarios in Banco reſidentes, qui cognoſcunt de omnibus placitis, de quibus authoritatem habent recognoſcendi: Et ſine warranto juriſdictionem non habent, nec coertionem.

The firſt, who had the appellation of Capitalis Juſticiarius in this Court (that I have ever obſerved) was Gilbert de Preſton, who by that title [f] had his Livery of Robes in 1 E. 1.

It ſeems, that the certain fixing of this Court at Weſtm. occaſioned much more reſort thereto than before; for about the beginning of K. Edward the Seconds Reign, there were ſo many ſutes therein; as that the King was neceſſitated to increaſe the number of his Juſtices, who were to ſit there, unto ſix, which commonly were not above three before that time: and ſo to divide them as they might ſit in two places ---Et covient, ſaith the Record, [g] que taunz y ſoient, pur ceo q'il covent avcr deus places pour le multitude des plez, que pluseſt ore que unques ne fuſt en nuly temps: the names of which ſix were theſe, Sir William de Bereford Chief Juſtice, Sir Lambert de Trikingham, Sir Hervy de Staunton, Sir Henry le Scrope, Sir John de Benſtede, and Sir William de Bourne (as I have alſo in my Chronologick Tables expreſt.)

The Common Pleas.

How long they thus ſate in two places, I cannot ſay: but certain it is, that the number of them was afterwards increaſed; for within three years following (viz. in 6 Edw. 2.) there were ſeven, though no more than ſix in any year afterwards of that Kings reign: no nor in K. Edward the thirds till 7 E. 3. and then ſeven again: but in 11 and 12 Ed. 3. eight; viz. John de Stonore, Will. de Shareſhull, John Inge, John de Shardelow, Ric. de Aldeburgh, Roger Hillary, Will. Scot, and Will. Baſſet: And in Trinity Term 14 Edw. 3. theſe nine; viz. John de Stonore, Will. de Shareſhul, John Inge, Will. de Shardelowe, Ric. de Aldeburgh, Roger Hillary, Will. Baſſet, James de Wodeſtoke, and Robert Parnyng, as by the Fines then levied before them appeareth.

Howbeit, after that, there were never ſo many; there being, for the greateſt part of the ſame Kings and King Richard the ſeconds reign, but five: and ſo till 1 Hen. 6. that they were again increaſt to ſeven: But, that number held not; for after, there were ſeldome more than five till 27 H. 6. then ſix, and ſo the two enſuing years: In 29 and after, till 32. ſeven; and then eight. In 33. and after, ſeven: So alſo for a good part of King Edward the fourths time; but towards the end of his reign no more

Of this Court I find it also farther observable; that some of the Justices thereof were also Chief Barons of the Exchequer at the self same time; *viz. The Exchequer.

THe Deſcription of this Court, and its Original, is thus ſet forth by an old Manuſcript [a], in King Henry the ſeconds time, ſaid to have been written by Gerv. Tilburienſis.

[a] Penes Theſaur. & Camerar. Scacc.

Scaccarium (ſaith he) tabula eſt quadrangula, &c. The Exchequer is a four cornered board, about ten foot long, and five foot broad; fitted in manner of a Table for men to ſit about: On every ſide whereof is a ſtanding ledge, or border, four fingers broad.

Upon this board is laid a Cloth, bought in Eaſter-Term; which is of black colour, rowed with ſtrekes, diſtant about a foot or a ſpan. And a little after, he goeth thus on; This Court, by report, began from the very Conqueſt of this Realm; and was erected by King William; but the reaſon and proportion thereof is taken from the Exchequer beyond-Sea.

That this Court then had its name from the Board whereat they ſate, there is no doubt to be made; conſidering, that the Cloth which covered it was thus party-coloured; which the French call Chequy: Therefore I think we need not trouble our ſelves with looking farther, either into the German, Dutch or Latine Tongues, for the Etymology of it; conſidering, that places have not ſeldome received their names from the like occaſions, as well as from the nature of them.

And now touching the Authority and dignity thereof, let us farther ſee what the ſame old Author expreſſeth; — [b] Nulli licet Statuta Scaccarii infringere, vel eis quavis temeritate reſiſtere: habet enim hoc commune cum ipſa Domini Regis Curia, in qua ipſe in propria perſona jura decernit, quod nec recordationi nec ſententiæ in eo latæ, liceat alicui contradicere.

[b] Ex cod. nigro penes Theſaur. & Camerarios Scacc. per Gerv. Tilbur. (ut fertur) compoſito temp. Regis H. 2. Cap. 1.

By which words it is manifeſt, that the Court of Exchequer was then a diſtinct Court from that Court of the King, where he himſelf uſed to ſit in perſon, and whence there was no appeal.

In this Court then ſate, by the inſtitution [c] of the ſaid King William, not only the great Barons of this Realm, as well Eccleſiaſtical as ſecular; but alſo the Juſtice of England as Preſident thereof by his Office; and ſo continued to do for a long ſpace after: for in [d] King Henry the ſeconds time, the Abbot of Abingdon being dead, and one ſent by the Kings Juſtices to ſeize the poſſeſſions of that Monaſtery into the Kings hands; de communi conſilio, ſaith the Regiſter of that Houſe, miſimus domi-

num Nicholaum Priorem noſtrum, &c. by common conſent, we diſpatcht away Nicholas our Prior, and certain of the Monks, unto Ranulph de Glanvill, who then executed the power of Juſticiar under the King, throughout his whole Realm; to the end that he might, by word of mouth, repreſent to him our Cuſtomes; and to intreat him, that they might not be altered, by reaſon of this ſeizure: And when they came to the ſaid Ranulph, then ſitting in the Exchequer at Weſtm. and had manifeſted to him what our Liberties and Cuſtomes were; he, adviſing with the Biſhops, and other Juſtices who alſo ſate there, publiſhed the judgment of the Court; viz. that whether our Church were deſtitute of a Paſtor or not, our Cuſtomes ſhould not be infringed.

And to come lower, even to King Henry the 3ds time, I find, that upon the ſeizure of certain lands into the Kings hands, which did belong to one Roſe de Cheſterton; ſhe was then commanded [e] to appear coram Huberto de Burgo Juſticiario, & Baronibus de Scaccario, die dominica proxima poſt Octabas S. Trinitatis.

e Rot. Fin. 8. H. 3. m. 5.

So alſo, about ten years after, Stephan de Segrave, Capitalis Angliæ Juſticiarius (they are the words [f] of Math. Pariſ.) rem Scaccarii tractavit; ſcil. Theſaurum, Cuſtodias Puerorum, & Eſchaetas, uſq; annum Domini 1234. (id eſt 18 H. 3.)

f Matth. Pariſ.

In this Court Fines were antiently ſometimes levied and recorded, ai by theſe inſtances appeareth; the one upon an Agreement [g] made betwixt Roger de Brai, and Mabell the Daughter of William de Orgr, concerning lands in Waldone, ſold by the ſaid Mabell unto the ſame Roger —coram Juſticiariis Regis; ſcil. Ricardo Pictavienſi Archidiacono & Reginaldo de Warenna apud Dunſtaplam: which agreement concludes thus; Hanc cartam, quam Sigillo meo confirmavi, conceſſi & confirmavi apud Scaccarium, coram domini Ricardo de Luci, & aliis Baronibus de Scaccario. This, though not dated, was in K. Henry the Seconds reign; for then was the ſaid Richard de Luci Juſtice of England, and ſate in this Court as others, of whom I have already made mention, having that Office then did.

g Ex ipſo autogr. penes prænob. Thomam dominum Bruſe, Comitem Elginiæ an. 1660.

Cap. 19.

The other was [h] upon a grant made by Hawiſe de Iſelham and Raphe her Husband, and Roger their Son and Heir, unto William Briwere (Chief Lorde of the Fee) of all their Lands in Iſelham; wherein the words run thus---Hæc venditio facta fuit in pleno Comitatu de Deveneſcire, & poſtea retracta & recordata apud Weſtmonaſterium, ad Scaccarium, die Jovis, proxima poſt Feſtum S. Lucæ Evangeliſtæ an. xxvi. Regis Henrici ſecundi, coram Ricardo Winton. Gaufrido Elien. & Johanne Norwic. Epiſcopis; & Ranulpho de Glanvilla, & Ricardo Theſaurario, & Will. Baſſet, & Alano de Furnellis, & Roberto Mantell, & aliis Baronibus, qui tunc ibi aderant.

Whence alſo it is obſervable; that three of the Spiritual Barons then ſate in this Court, with Ranulph de Glanvill (who was at that time Juſtice of England) and three temporal Barons.

So likewiſe in King Richard the firſts time, as from the Record it ſelf is manifeſt; Hæc eſt finalis concordia facta in Curia domini Regis apud Weſtm. ad Scaccarium, die dominica proxima poſt Feſtum S. Marci Evangeliſtæ anno regni Regis Ricardi nono, coram H. Cantuarienſi Archiepiſcopo (&c.) Juſticiariis domini Regis (&c.)

i In Scacc. penes Camerarios Scac.

So alſo in King Johns, as appeareth by the Clauſe * Roll of that year; Rex, &c. Ieadem gratia Norwicenſi Epiſcopo, &c. Nuncios veſtros ad nos deſtinatos ſuſcepimus; & audito eorum nuncio eos miſimus ad fideles noſtros G. filium Petri Juſticiarium noſtrum, Saherum Comitem Wintoniæ, W. Briwar, Magiſtrum Ricardum de Mariſcis, tunc ad Scaccarium noſtrum reſidentes, & ad cæteros Barones de Scaccario noſtro; ut de ſingulis, per eorum conſilium vobis reſponderemus, &c.

* Clauſ. 14 Joh. m. 4. in dorſo.

And plain it is, that, not only till the ixth. of H. 3. that the great Charter was confirmed; but afterwards for the greateſt part of King Edw. the firſts reign, the Common-Pleas were uſually held in this Court: for by the Statute called Articuli ſuper Cartas made in 28 E. 1. it is there expreſsly enacted, * that No Common-

Cap. 19. Pleas ſhall be henceforth held in the Exchequer, contrary to the form of the great Charter.

And, in ſtead of theſe Eccleſiaſtical and Secular Barons, here ſate Canoniſts and other temporal perſons, learned in the Laws of this Realm; who thereupon had the name of Barons, becauſe they ſate in the ſame places as the real Barons did; the Lord high Treaſurer alſo ſupplying the room of the Chief Juſtice of England, as Fleta tells us [k]—Juſticiarios ibidem commorantes, ſaith he, Barones eſſe dicimus, eo quod ſuis locis Barones ſedere ſolebant, dum Comes Norfolciæ & Mareſcallus Angliæ locum habuit in ſedili, tanquam Capitalis Juſticiarius Regis Angliæ, Rege in regno ſuo non exiſtente; cujus locum hodie occupat Theſaurarius, ſed officium tamen occupare non poteſt.

k Lib. 2. cap. 26.

Conſonant to which teſtimony of Fleta, the Record [l] of 18 H. 3. expreſſeth, that William de Beauchamp was appointed ad reſidendum ad Scaccarium tanquam Baro: and ſo likewiſe were, at the ſame time, Alexander de Swereford Treaſurer of the Cathedral of St. Paul in London, and Richard de Muntfichet, each of whom had a Penſion [m] of xl. marks per annum, payable out of the Kings Exchequer for their ſupport in that ſervice. And that other ſuch perſons were ſo conſtituted in ſucceeding times, my Chronologick Tables will plainly demonſtrate: Amongſt which Roger de la Ley in 48 H. 3. who then, being the Kings Remembrancer in this Court, was aſſigned [n]—ad officium Baronis in Scaccario prædicto explendum, there being [o] no other Baron there, at that time, but himſelf.

CAP. XX.

Juſtices Itinerant.

IT cannot rationally be thought, conſidering the great change which the Norman Conqueſt had made in this Realm, that the Government ſhould eaſily ſo ſettle, as that a firm tranquility could be ſuddenly enjoyed; King William the firſt having enough to do, not only to ſecure himſelf from thoſe Inſurrections of the native Engliſh, whereof he had ſufficient cauſe to be in fear; but to qualifie his Norman Subjects, who were inclinable enough to a defection; and to oppoſe the invaſions of the Scots and Danes, on the behalf of Edgar Etheling, which often threatned his quiet.

Juſtices Itinerant.

Not in the time of his Son King William Rufus could it be well expected, by reaſon of the Rebellion of his Nobles, on the behalf of Robert Duke of Normandy; and the frequent incurſions of the Welch. And, though the reign of King Henry the firſt was for the moſt part proſperous: yet untill King Henry the 2d. (by whoſe Grandmother Maud, the Saxon blood was reſtored) after no ſmall conteſts with King Stephan, did enjoy the Crown, the Clouds of trouble were not clearly blown over: Howbeit in his dayes, peace and quiet beginning to flouriſh; to the end that the people might have Juſtice with more eaſe adminiſtred to them upon all occaſions, and conſequently the better attend their domeſtick affairs; by the advice [a] of his great Council, aſſembled at Northampton upon the Feaſt day of the Converſion of St. Paul (viz. 25 Jan.) in the year of our Lord MCLxxvi. (being the 23th year of his Reign) he divided [b] this his Realm into ſix parts; and into each of them ſent three Juſtices Itinerant; unto whom he gave an Oath, that they ſhould faithfully obſerve thoſe Conſtitutions [c], which he had then newly made in his great Council held at Clarendon (commonly called the Aſſize of Clarendon) and cauſe them to be inviolably kept by all his ſubjects of this Realm, the names of which Juſtices Itinerant, I have in my Chronologick Tables expreſt.

But notwithſtanding I here fix the Original of our Juſtices Itinerant, no higher than the 23d year of King Henry the 2ds reign: yet muſt I acknowledge, that there was ſomething of this kind before, though not ſetled in any conſtant courſe: for certain it is, that Geffrey Bishop of Cantelance, and some other great Men (Barones Regis they are called) did sit at Rentesord, in the time of King William the Conquerours reign; and [d] did then hear and determine the Clayms touching the rights and liberties of the Church of Ely, which were at that time disputed before them.

[d] Regist. Eccl. Elien. in bibl. Cotton. sub effigie Titi A. 1. f. 24. b.

These Justices, as [e] Bracton observes, were called Itinerant, by reason of their journeying from place to place; sometimes for the hearing of all causes in general; sometimes only certain special matters; viz. Assises, and the Gaols. Those, [f] saith he who are appointed in their Iters to travail from one County to another, for the hearing of all Causes in general, are to take an Oath for the better behaving themselves in that imployment; each of them having a particular Writ to warrant his proceedings therein; and afterwards one general Writ to them all: the form of the special Writ being as followeth.

In what manner and order they were to proceed in this service, Bracton doth fully set [g] forth: where also he describeth the Oath of the xii. Knights to be elected, for to present the Truth in all Pleas of the Crown, with the Articles whereupon they were to make enquiry.

T. Rege apud* Westm. xiiii die Junii, referring the names of the particular persons, who were at that time sent into the several Counties of this Realm, for taking Assizes of Novell disseisin and Gaol-delivery to my Chronologick Tables; where, under the title of Justices Itinerant they are inserted.

But after this, viz. in 21 E. 1. the King having by his last Statute [c] of Westm. given command, that there should be special Justices assigned for the taking of Assizes, Jurats, and Certificates at certain times, within the several Counties of this Realm, and no other: And in regard, that as well the Justices of each Bench, as Itinerant, appointed for that purpose at certain times, when they were not in their Circuits, were often hindred in performance of that service; as well in respect of their Office, as the Kings special Precepts to them directed, so that they could not come at the times and places by them so assigned: by reason of whose absence, many persons were hindred of their rights, and divers wrongs remained unpunished; the King, therefore, to his power, willing that speedy Justice should be done to all his people, gave command, that henceforth eight discreet Justices should be assigned to take Assizes, Jurats, and Certificates throughout his whole Realm; viz. two in the Counties of Yorke, Northumberland, Westmerland, Cumberland, Lancaster, Notingham, and Derby: And two in the Counties of Lincoln, Leicester, Warwick, Stafford, Salop, Northampton, Roteland, Gloucester, Hereford and Wigorn: And two in the Counties of Cornwall, Devon. Somerset, Dorset, Wiltes. Southampton, Oxon. Berks. Sussex and Surrey: and two in the Counties of Kent, Essex, Hertford, Norf. Suff. Cambridge, Huntendon, Bedf. and Buck. And that the Assizes, Jurats, and Recognizances for the County of Middlesex should be taken before his Justices of the Bench.

c Plac. Parl. 21 E. 1. n. 13. [p. 130. impr. Lond. 1652.

Which said eight Justices, so assigned as aforesaid, were diligently to attend that service throughout the whole year, on such dayes, and at such places, as might most conduce to the advantage of the people.

Trial by xii men.

HAving thus briefly pointed at the Antiquity of our Courts of Justice, I shall next take notice of the most antient manners and formes of Judicature, which were heretofore used in this Realm, in Cases Civil and Criminal: those which I call Civil, being title of Land, Debt, Trespas, Detinue, and the like; and Criminal, Murther, Burglary, Felony, &c.

It is not to be doubted, but that the most antient form of Tryal and decision in these Causes, was by a certain number of sworn men, of good credit and integrity; who, upon testimony given before them as to the matter of Fact, were to judge and determine thereof: for, by that Law [a] of King Ethelred made at Wantting, no less appeareth —— In singulis (inquit) Centuriis Comitia sunto, &c. Let there be in each Hundred a Court; and therein xii of the chiefest men together with the Provost (id est the Bayliff of the Hundred) sworn, according to their evidence, to condemn the guilty, and to acquit the innocent. Consonant whereunto was that * of six English and six Welsh to be joyned together, for determining of such controversies as hapned in the Marches of Wales.

Olaus Wormius (a person of great learning, and who in our age hath made an excellent discovery of the Danish Antiquities) tells [b] us; that the English (for so he calls our Saxon Ancestors) did derive this kind of Tryal from the Danes —a Danis ad Anglos defluxisse judicium hoc Duodecim-virale arguunt Leges hac de re, ab Ethelredo in frequenti senatu latæ, & a Lambardo editæ (saith he) ubi inter reliqua hæc extant—— In singulis Centuriis Comitia sunto, &c. Which people (I mean the Danes) laying aside that bloody kind of Decision by Duell, long exercised by them, first introduced it there, about the year of Christ DCCCxx. as the same Author farther testifieth, —[c] Abrogato Duello, tanquam medio nimis cruento, causarum cognitio. Duodecim viris commendata est; qui, quod æquum, quodque justum publica authoritate pronunciarent. Hanc controversias decidendi rationem primus invexisse videtur Regnerus cognomento Lodbrog; qui circa annum Christi DCCCxx. vixisse putatur: De eo enim Saxo noster lib. 9. in hunc modum —Ut omnis controversiarum lis, semotis actionum instrumentis, nec accusantis impetitione, nec rei defensione admissa, duodecim patrum approbatorum judicio mandarentur, instituit: Cujus Legis beneficio temeraria litium contractione summota, improborum calumniæ sufficienter obviatum existimans.

And to the Danes doth Olaus Magnus derive it from the Gothes—[d] Expurgatio in judicio duodecim legalium hominum (saith he) per Gothos, in Italia degentes, vetusto tempore observabatur; & hodierno die in Gothicis regnis observatur.

Trial by Combate in Cases Civil.

BUt though the Danes were so much civilized, as to abrogate and abolish that Trial by Duell, as hath been said; yet the Normans, after their Conquest here, under Duke William, in imitation of the antient practise of those Northern Nations, whence they sprung, did first ordain it here; reposing a strong belief that a certain divine Justice did attend those sharp encounters, which were exercised on such occasions, as our famous Selden hath notably observed in that discourse of his, intituled [a] The Duello, or single Combate.

The Northern Inhabitants (saith he) have especially, of old time, made use of this form of searching out hidden truth. The Russians, Hungarians, Almans, Normans, English and others: but the most common judgment of writers, and clearly the truest, derives the fountain thereof from the antient Lumbards (called by reason of their long Beards Longobardi) a people, that (out of those Northern parts of Europe, which under the general name of Scandia, contain Norway, Swetheland, Denmark, *and other regions by North-high-*Germany) over-ran some of the Chief Countreys of this fourth part of the World; and indeed at the first, when they sought those new habitations, tried their title of safe passage, through some parts of Germany) by single fight next one of their own Camps, and (as Paul [b] Warnfrod *reports) another of their Enemies. But in another[i] place he refers the abrogation of this kind of Tryal, in Denmarke, unto King Sweno, about the year of Christ DCCCLxxxvi. and in ſtead thereof that of Ordale to be there introduced; for which he voucheth theſe words of Saxo------ Dani abrogata Duellorum conſuetudine, pleraque cauſarum judicia, eo experimenti genere conſtatura decernerent, controverſiarum examen rectius ad arbitrium divinum, quam ad humanam rixam relegendam putantes.

i Ib. Cap. 11. p. 75.

And now, touching the manner and form of this tryal by Combate, I ſhall here tranſcribe what Ranulph de Glanvill (a perſon famous for his knowledge in the Laws of this Realm and Juſtice of England in King H. 2d. time) hath left us, in that part of his learned Diſcourſe* of our Laws, under the title De his quæ ſolent contigere, circa vel ſtatim poſt ingreſſum litis; & de diracionatione tenementi per Duellum, vel per magnam Aſſiſam; & de Campionibus, & de his quæ pertinent ad Duellum, vel magnam Aſſiſam.

* Imp. Lond. 1604. Lib. 2. cap. 1.

Both parties (ſaith he) being preſent in Court; and the Demandant claiming the land in queſtion; the Tenant may require the view thereof: But as to this, there is reſpite to be made, to the end it may be known whether the Defendant have not more Land in that Town, than what is in queſtion; and if he have not, then he ſhall not be allowed any reſpite; but if he have more, he ſhall; and likewiſe have aſſignation of another day. And when he ſhall be ſo departed out of the Court, at three reaſonable Eſſoines the Defendant may recover a view; and the Shireeve of the County wherein the land lyeth, ſhall have a Writ directed to him, to ſend freeholders of his County to view the Land; the tenor of which Writ [k] is as followeth.

k Ib. cap. 2.

Rex Vicecomiti N. ſalutem, &c. The King to the Shireeve of N. ſendeth greeting. We command you; that, without delay, you ſend free and lawful men of the Neighborhood of D. to take view of one hide of land, lying in that Town, which A. B. claimeth againſt C. D. and whereupon there is a ſuit depending betwixt them in our Court; and that you cauſe four of thoſe men to attend me, or my Juſtices, upon.... day, to teſtifie their view thereof. In witneſs, &c. Cap. 26.

Then[l], after three reaſonable Eſſoines concomitating the view of the ſaid land; and both Demandant and Tenant appearing again in Court; the Demandant ſetteth forth his claim in this manner. I do challenge againſt T.H. half a Knights Fee (or two Carucates of land in that Town) as my right and inheritance; and whereof my Father (or Grandfather) was ſeized in his demeſn as of Fee, in the time of King Henry the Firſt (or after the firſt Coronation of the King that now is) and whereof he hath taken the profits, to the value of x^s. at the leaſt; viz. in Corn ſowed, and other Commodities; and this I am ready to try by this my Freeman N. And if any miſchance ſhall befall him, then by that other perſon, who hath ſeen and heard this. Or thus——and this I am ready to try by this my Freeman S. unto whom his Father, on his Death-bed enjoyned, upon the Duty wherein a Son is obliged to a Father, that if at any time he ſhould hear of a Suit for that land, he ſhould adventure himſelf by Combate for it, as that which his Father had ſeen and heard.

The claim and demand of the Demandant being thus made; it ſhall be in the choice of the Tenant, either to put himſelf upon tryal for the ſame by Combate, or to put himſelf upon the great Aſſize of our Lord the King; and to require a recognition which of them hath moſt right in that land.

And if he will defend it by Combate, he is then obliged to defend the right of the Demandant, from word to word, as he ſheweth it againſt him, either by himſelf or ſome other fitting perſon: But note, that after the Combate ſhall be thereupon waged, it behoveth him who holdeth the land, to defend it by Combate, and thenceforth not to put himſelf into the great Aſſize. And after the Combate waged, he may again reaſonably Eſſoin himſelf thrice as for his own perſon; and thrice for the perſon of his Champion. All which Eſſoins being made, as they rightly ought

Cap. 26. ought to be, it is necessary, that before the Combate be begun, the Plaintiff do appear as in Court, and have his Champion there, in readiness to fight: nor may he bring any other Champion, than one of those, upon whom he did put the Tryal of his Cause: Neither may he change another for him after the first waging of the Battel.

But if he who did wage the Battel, shall die during the time that the controversie dependeth; if by natural Death, and that declared by the neighborhood, as it always ought to be, in case there be doubt thereof; the Demandant may have recourse to one of those upon whom he first put the Tryal; or on some other fit person, though he named no other, so that there be alway a fit witness; and so the Plea shall begin anew; but, if he shall die by his own fault, the Lord shall then lose his Sute.

Also see whether the Champion of the Demandant may substitute another in the Court, to make the dispute, which he undertook in his sted; for, according to right, and the antient Custom of the Kingdom, he may not make use of any but his Legitimate Son.

And note, that the Champion of the Demandant ought to be such a one, who may thereupon be a fit witness. Nor may the Demandant prosecute his Appeal in his own person; becaus that may not be, except by a fitting Ear and Eye-witness. But the Tenant may defend himself, either in his own person, if he so please, or another fit man, if he shall so choose to do. Howbeit, if he shall produce his Champion, and he (the said Champion) do die in the interim, it is a question in Law, whether the Tenant may defend himself by another, or lose his Sute, or his Seisin only; therefore here we are to distinguish as before.

Note also, that the Champion Defendant, cannot in Court produce in his place any other to undertake the Combate, than his own Legitimate Son.

But it often hapneth, that a Champion hired for reward, is produced in Court, to undergo the Tryal; and if the adverse party shall except against his person, alledging him to be less fit, by reason that he hath been so hired; and be ready to prove the same against him, in case he deny it, by himself, or by some person who saw the reward taken; upon this they shall be heard, and the principal Duel shall remain. Tryal by Combate in Cases Civil.

And if he shall be thereupon convict, and the Champion of the Demandant vanquisht in the Combate, then shall his Lord lose his Sute, and the said Champion, as a vanquisht person shall have no benefit of the Law of the land; that is to say, that thenceforth he shall never be admited in Court as a witness, upon Tryal for any by Combate; but for himself he may, either in his own person, or prosecuting other wrong done to himself, as breach of the Kings Peace. He may also defend his own right against another by Combate, for his fee and inheritance; and the Combate finished, the vanquisht person shall undergo the penalty of Lx^s. in the name of a Coward, and moreover lose the benefit of the Law of the Land.

And if the Defender (i. e. the Champion) shall happen to be vanquisht, his Lord shall lose the Land by him claimed, with the profits and commodities thereof, at the time of the seisin found in that fee; and shall never after be heard in Court again for the same. But whatsoever things shall be determined by Combate, in the Court of our Lord the King, are to remain firm for ever; and thereupon there shall be a Precept directed to the Shireeve, that the Victor shall have the land which was in dispute, and to give him seisin thereof by this Writ.

"The King to the Shireeve of N. sends greeting. We command you, that without delay you give possession unto A.B. of one hide of Land lying in the Town of R. concerning which there hath been a Sute betwixt him and G.H. *in our Court; because the said hide of land is adjudged unto him in our Court, by the determination of Combate. This, if the Demandant shall prevail vail in the Combate; but if he be overthrown by the vanquishing of his Champion; then the Tenant shall be acquitted from his claim, without recovery by the Demandant.

Thus far Glanvile, Howbeit, of such particular Combates, offered in civil Causes, our learned Selden[n] expresseth, that he hath not read of any which was before that in King Richard the firsts time; which was [for a Knights fee in Coxeton in Wiltshire] demanded by one Emme de P. from *Will. But as to the formalities in arming of the Combatants, and other particular circumstances preparatory to this kind of Tryal, I have not seen any narrative so exact as this which I have here added; which was in 3 E. 3. betwixt Thomas fitz Hugh de Staunton, and the Prior of Lenton, for the Advouson of the Church of Parlaston in Northamptonshire.

Thomas le fitz Hugh de Staunton porta une Brief de Droit d'avowson de une Eglise, vers le Prior de Lentone; & counta, que a tort luy deforce la voweſoun del Eglise de Perleston, ove les apurtenaunces; & pur ceo atort que cest son droit & son heritage, & dont son aunceſtor William per nom, fut seisie, come de fee & de droit, en temps le Roy Henri, besaiel nostre seigneur le Roy q'ore est, que a meisme le temps presenta un son Clerke, William de Grendon per noum, que a son presentement fut resceu & institut de Eveſq; en temps de pees, en temps de meisme le Roy: le quel clerk lez espleez prist, come en grosses dismes, & meni dismes, oblacions, obvencions, & altre manere issue de Eglise mountaunt a demy mark, & plus, com du droit del Eglise avauntdite. De William descenda le droit a Will. son futz & heir: De William, pur ceo q'il morust sanz heir, &c. descenda le Droit, &c. a Richard come a frere & heir: De Richard a Clement, come a futz & heir: De Clement descenda la droit a Thomas, come a futz & heir, que ore demande; & que tiel soit son droit il condy suite & d'reigne bone. Cap. 26.

Godele pur le Priour defend tort & force, &c. & demanda ay du Brief, & Defendant derchief, &c. & issit d'enparler, & revynt & defend tort & force, &c. & rehercea tut le counte; & sur ceo defend tort & force, & le droit Thomas tut atrenche, & la seisine William son aunceſter, de qui seisine il ad countee tut, outre come de fee & de droyt; nomement del avoweson del Eglise de Perleston, qui de ceo fut seisie come de fee & de droyt, a ceo q'il ad dit, & prist est a defendre per le corps une son frank home William le futz John per noum, que cy est prist a defendre per son corps, ou per quant que ceſt Court agarde, que defendre le deyne; & si mes avegne a meisme cely William, que Dieu Defende, prist est a Defendre per altre, qui doyt & put.

Et le Serjaunt que dit les paroles, prist le bras de Champioun en sa mayn, quant il engaga la Batail: & le Champion fut vestu, de sa cote desoynte, & deschevele, & deschauncee des soulers, & ses maunches reverses, issint que ces bras furent nudz; & tynt sa mayn destre leve, & en ceo un gaunt plie, & en chescun dey del gaunt un denier.

Et sur ceo Thomas pria conge d'enparler, & issint & revynt, & dit per Shard. Sire! vouz avez bien entendu, coment Thomas le futz Hugh de Staunton demande vers le Priour de

A qui le Priour ad defendu le droit Thomas tut attrenche, & la ſeiſine William ſon aunceſter; de qui ſeiſine il ad counte tut outre come de fee & de droit, reherceant tuttes les paroles en la manere come le Priour engaga la Batail; & puis dit; Sire! vouz avez cy Thomas le fitz Hugh de Staunton; qui vous dit, que atort defend il ſon droit tut attrenche, & la ſeiſine William ſon aunceſter; de qui ſeiſine il count tut, outre, come de fee & de droyt; nomement de la voweſon del Egliſe de Perleſton; & pur ceo a tort que ceſt ſon droyt & ſon heritage; & per la reſon que William ſon aunceſtor, per noum de cel avoweſon fut ſeiſi, &c. reherceant tut le Count, ſanz nule parole entreleſſer, tantq; celi clauſe, & que tiel ſoyt ſon droyt, &c. Et dit, & tiel ſoit ſon droyt ceſt il priſt a derener per le corps un ſon frank home, William le fitz Thomas per nom, qui cy eſt, qui priſt eſt a d'reygner le per ſon corps, ou per quant que ceſte court agarde; qui d'reigner le deyne; & ſi mes avegne a meſme cely William le futz Thomas, que Dieu Defend, priſt eſt a d'reigner per un autre, que deyne & puiſſe, & entedaunt le d'reigner, le Serjeaunt tynt le Champion le demandant per le bras; & meſme ceſty Champyon eſtut en meſme le manere a la Barre, com fit l'autre devaunt. Puis fut commaunde per les Juſtices que ambedens les Champiouns veniſſent outre la Barre tauntq; en bank, & il ſe firent; & commande fut, que l'un eſtut al un boute de la Table, & l'autre a l'autre boute.

Scrope demanda de les parties, s'il ſavoynt rien dire, que aſcun de eux avoyt rien meſpris en termes de ley; ou s'il ſavoyent rein dire a les perſones des Championes, & il dyſoyent, que non. Pur quoi Scrope dit a champioun le Tenant, q'il rendiſt ſus ſon gaunt a luy; le Champion ſe genula donant, & fiſt. Et puis dit al Champioun le Demandant en meſme la manere, & il fiſt.

Et puis Scrope ſaca hors du gaunt le Champioun le Tenant v'. & les remyſt en meſme le gaunt; & en meſme le manere fit al gaunt le Champioun le Demandant, & puis dona al Champioun le Demandant ſon gaunt; & puis al Champioun le tenant, en meſme la manere.

Et puis demanda des Champiouns, s'il fuiſſent de perfourmir la Bataill ſolon ceo, que les parties avoyent tonduz; & yl deſoyent que ayl; pur quoi commanda al Champioun le Tenant de profrer ſon gaunt al Champion le Demandant; & ſic fecit. Et ſe Champioun le Demandant le reſtut. Et puis commanda al Champioun le Demandant en meſme le manere; & il le fiſt. Et puis il commanda a l'un & l'autre, q'il rendiſſens ſus les gauntz a ly; & ſic fecerunt.

Et puis Skrop rebailla a cheſcun des Champiouns ſon gaunt deyne.

Et puis Skrop demanda des parties, s'il ſavoyent rien dire, pur quoi le Court ne dut agard la Battail. Il dyſoyent que noun. Pur quoy Skrop dit a les parties, q'il duſſent troyer pleges de perfourmir la Bataill; & ſic fecerunt, cheſcun deux pleges.

Skrope. Nous avouns entenu, coment vouz avez gage la Bataill d'une parte & d'autre; pur quoi depuis que vouz ne ſavez rien dire pur quoi le Bataill ne doyt eſtre agard, ſi agarde ceſt Court que la Bataill ſe face; & vous donons jour le Lundy en la ſecunde ſemaigne de Karreſme, d'aver cy a meſme le jour, vos Champiouns correes de Bataill, priſt a perfourmir la Bataill ſom ceo que vous l'aves tendu; & puis commaunda as Champiouns, que nul aprochaſt a altre en le meen temps de nule part.

Et puis dit as parties, que cheſcun d'eux deveroyt garder ſon Champiouns, que nul aprochat as autre, ſur peril que appent. Et puis dit al Tenant, q'il priſt ſon Champioun, & q'il le amenaſt a une Egliſe; & al Demandant, q'il priſt ſon Champioun, & le menaſt a une autre Egliſe, & offrer a les Egliſes l'un & leautre les v'. que furent en lour gauntz, en le honeur des v. playes Dieu; que Dieu dorreyt la victorie a cely que droit en ad.

Puis Scrope dit a les parties, q'il veniſſent a lour jour, ove lour Champiouns, & eux ferront une ſerement a la Barre, & un altre en le Champ.

Et en le ſamady prochein devant le Lundy avantdit, Scrope fiſt les parties menir lour Champiouns en une Chambre privement, cheſcun per eux meſmes de veer lour apparaile. Et Scrope ala en la Chaumbre, & fiſt le Priour venir devant ly, ove ſon Champioun; de veere le apparaille de Champioun; & en le regardant le quyr, & il le trova double ove une altre quyr; pur quoy Scrope commaunda del ouſter; & puis meſura la longure del baſtone, & furent trovez de la longure de v. quarters d'une aune; & ceo fut a juge de bone aſſiſe. Et puis l'eſcu fut trove de longure d'une aune, & la le our quarters d'une aune; & fut ajuge aſſie de certeyne, outre quel aſſiſe home ne deyt paſſer; mes il dona conge de uſer les de meyndre aſſiſe, ſolon la volunte de Champioun. Et puis il commanda d'aver ſon Champion priſt al jour aſſigne; & en meſme le manere fiſt al Demandant.

Al quel jour le Tenant vynt, & dit per Sharſhull. Sires! vous ave cy le Priour de Lentone, ove ſon Serjaunt, William le futz John par nom, qui cy eſt correye, de Bataill priſt aſſerre & perfourmir, per la grace de Dieu, ceo que la Court noſtre ſeignieur le Roy ad agarde & agardera. Et ceo profre vers Thomas le futz Hugh de Staunton, & prie q'il ſoyt eyde & fut Demande qui vint. Et dit per Shard. Sire! vous aves cy Thomas le futz Hugh de Staunton, ove ſon Serjaunt William le futz Thomas per nom, que cy eſt corree, de Bataill priſt a faire & perfourmir, ceo, que la Court noſtre ſeignieur le Roy ad agarde & agardera & ceo profre vers le Priour, &c.

Puis Skrop fiſt le Champioun le Tenant eſtere vers le North, & le Champioun le Demandant vers le South, & commanda le Champioun le Priour q'il priſt le Champioun Thomas per la mayn deſtre, ove ſa mayn ſeneſtre, & q'il tenſiſt ſwefe, ſanz de ſtrendre ou grever luy; & q'il meyſt ſa mayn deſtre al livre; & q'il deyt cheſcun parole ſolonc ceo q'il ſerroyt charge, ſanz dire plus ou meyns; & fut charge en ceſt manere. CAP. XXVII.

Tryal by great Assize.

Tryal by great Assize.

BUt this kind of Tryal by Combate being at the length deemed unchristian; King Henry the Second referred it to the choice of the person challenged (viz. the supposed wrong-doer,or Defendant) whether he would defend his Title in that sort,or put it upon Tryal by Oath of xii. good and lawful men,to be chosen out of the Neighborhood (as in the Saxons time:) which Trial was then and since called the Tryal by great Assize, whereof the learned Ranulph de Glanvill sayes[a] thus — Est autem magna Assisa regale beneficium, &c. The Tryal by great Assize is a royal benefit vouchsafed to the people, through the Kings Clemency, upon consultation had with his Nobles; whereby, in tenderness of life, men might decline that doubtful success of Battel, and try the right to their freehold that way.

[a] Glanv. Lib. 2. Cap. 7. Vide Spelm. Glos. p. 69.

And,that this Tryal by great Assize was first instituted by King Henry 2d. doth also more fully appear, by this Circumstantial proof, from King John's Charter of Liberties, granted to the Church of St. John of Beverley, in Yorkshire, where he saith, Volumus etiam,quod libertates & dignitates, ab antecessoribus nostris, & ab aliis, Deo & beato Johanni de Beverlaco, & Præpositis illius Ecclesiæ,in nullo depereant, vel minuantur, vel ledantur per Assizas vel Recognitiones ubi Assisæ fieri debeant,de tenemento aliquo,vel de re aliqua quæ pertineat ad Præpositum Beverlaci,& Præposituram,tam in Dominicis quam feodis; sed teneantur in Curia Præpositi Beverlaci, ubi Placita inde fuerunt & esse consueverunt tempore Regis Henrici patris nostri, vel tempore Henrici Regis avi patris nostri, antequam Recognitiones vel Assisæ in regno nostro essent constitutæ,&c. Dat. apud Vernonum 8 Oct. anno regni nostri 4to.

Glanvill, Lib. 2. Cap. 6.

If the Tenant had rather put himself upon the great Assize; either the Demandant will likewise put himself upon the Assise; or he will not. If the Demandant shall once consent in Court, that he will put himself upon the Assize, and express as much by word of mouth before the Judges sitting on the Bench; he cannot afterwards fly off, but either gain or lose by the said Assize. But if he will not put himself upon the great Assize; then ought he to shew some cause, why the Assize may not be taken betwixt them; as in case they were of the same blood, and of the same stock of parentage, whence the inheritance moveth.

And if the Demandant shall object, that the Tenant must either confess it, or not: If he do confess it in Court, the Assize shall thereupon remain; so that the business must be determined by Pleadings in the said Court; because then it shall be lawfully enquired, which of them is nearer to the stock, and so consequently the righter heir. And by this the next heir shall recover his right, unless his adversary can give a reason in Court, wherefore he, or any of his ancestors, hath lost his right otherwise, either for a time, or for ever; as if he had given it away, or sold it, or exchanged it; or otherwise justly alienated it; or that he or his Ancestors have by Felony forfeited their right for ever; and if upon some of those Articles, the plaint be stayed, obliquely by interpleadings between them, they may come to the Combate. But if he who hath put himself upon the Assize, shall maintain all his descent, betwixt himself and the Demandant; or at least, that they are not from the same stock whence the inheritance moveth; then shall they have recourse unto their Common Kindred, who Cap. 26. for that purpose are to be called to the Court, to the end that by them their Parentage may be discovered: who, if they shall unanimously affirm, that they are descended from one and the same stock whence the inheritance moveth, their assertion shall state the same: but then; if either of the persons at variance, shall stubbornly gainsay it, they must then have recourse to the Neighborhood, upon whose, and their Kinsfolks testimony, they are thereupon wholly to acquiesce.

In like manner shall be done, if his Parents shall be found to differ; for then he shall abide by the Verdict of the Neighborhood. But upon inquisition made certainly, if it be proved that they are descended from the same stock from whence the inheritance came, the Assize shall cease, and the Pleading shall proceed verbally.

But, if the contrary appear to the Court, and to the Kings Justices; then the Demandant, who hath objected this; viz. that they were of one stock, to the end he might maliciously take away the Assize, shall lose his Plaint: But no one interposing to hinder the Assize, then shall the business be as finally concluded thereby, as by Combate.

For the great Assize is a certain royal benefit, by the favour of the Prince, upon consultation had with his Nobles, vouchsafed to his people, whereby the life of Men, and the safety of their Estates, is so carefully considered, as that in knowing that any one doth possess of his Freehold, he may in keeping it, decline the ambiguous event of Combate. And by this means the punishment of untimely Death is avoided, or at least the consequent perpetuation of fame of that disgraceful and lying word; which sounds so ill in the mouth of the vanquisht.

Out of the greatest Equity therefore is this lawful constitution sprung, in regard that the right which by Combate, is scarce ever decided, by reason of many and long delayes, is more speedily & profitably dispatcht by the advantage of this Constitution.

Cap. 27. ſtitution. For this Aſſize doth not expect ſo many Eſſoines as the Combate doth; and hereby and by mens labour, charge to poor people is ſaved. Moreover, by how much the credit of many proper witneſſes doth more weigh in judgment than of one, by ſo much the more right, ought this conſtitution to ſtand, than that by Combate: for that of Combate proceeds from one ſworn Witneſs only, but this requireth the Oaths of xii lawfull men at the leaſt.

Unto this Aſſiſe they attain on thus ſort; wherefore he, who hath put himſelf upon the Aſſiſe from the beginning, is to move for a Writ to have peace; leſt afterwards he be by his adverſary impleaded by the Writ, whereby the ſute was betwixt them of that Tenement, whereupon the Tenant did put himſelf into the Aſſize. The form of which Writs are ſet forth in the 8th and 9th Chapter of that Diſcourſe.

Ib. Cap. 10. And by the like writs the Tenent is to purſue peace, and puts himſelf upon the Aſſiſe; untill his Adverſary coming into the Court, moveth for another Writ, that by four lawfull Knights of the County and Neighbourhood, twelve Knights of the ſame Neighbourhood ſhould be choſen, who may expreſs upon their Oaths, which of the parties at difference hath the beſt right to the land demanded; the tenor of which Writ is ſet down in the xvith Chapter of the Diſcourſe aforeſaid.

Ib. Cap. 12. At which day the Tenent may eſſoin himſelf; again have three other reaſonable Eſſoins; which may be juſtly done, as it ſeemeth; becauſe, as it hath been before ſaid, as often as any one ſhall appear in Court, and there performeth what by right he ought to do, he ſhall again have recourſe to his Eſſoins: but then it chanceth or may chance, that ſo many or more Eſſoines may happen by the great Aſſiſe, as by Combate, which is not conſonant to the premiſſes.

But be it, that the Tenant may Eſſoin himſelf three ſeveral times, againſt the choice of xii Knights; yet after three Eſſoins, he coming to the Court, any one of thoſe four Knights, may eſſoin themſelves the ſame day.

Tryal by great Aſſize.

And if the Tenent, after thoſe three Eſſoins, may eſſoin himſelf again anew; then the Aſſize will ſcarce ever be brought to any effect. But note, that the four Knights appearing in Court, upon the day prefixed for them, ready to chooſe other xii; hence in equity there is to be a Conſtitution; according to which, by the Counſel of the Court, the buſineſs is ſo to be expedited; that if the Tenent do come or not come, the election of the xii. ſhall be made by thoſe four, and upon their Oaths. But becauſe, in caſe the Tenent ſhould be there preſent, he might perhaps juſtly except againſt ſome of thoſe xii. and be thereupon heard in Court by his Councel, and ſatisfie the party abſent, the xii ſhould not only be choſen, but ſo many, as that without contradiction or diſpute, the party abſent, at his return might be ſatisfy'd

The Jurors alſo may be excepted againſt, in ſuch ſort, as the Witneſſes in the Eccleſiaſtical Court are juſtly refuſed. And furthermore note that if the perſon who hath put himſelf upon the great Aſſiſe ſhall come, though not all of the four Knights do come; yet, by the common agreement, and conſent of the parties at difference, and one of the ſaid four Knights; the ſaid xii Knights may be choſen, aſſociating to themſelves two or three other Knights of the ſame County, in caſe they ſhall be found in Court, though not on purpoſe thither ſummoned.

And for greater caution, as alſo to ſhun all Cavills; it is uſual to ſummon ſix or more Knights to the Court for this election. And for the diſpatch of theſe things in this ſort, it will be more fit to follow the Councel of the Court, than to keep the accuſtomed Courſe of the Law and Court: whence it is referred to providence, and the Kings pleaſure, or his Juſtices, to manage the buſineſs to the beſt advantage, and moſt equity.

Now any man may put himſelf into the Aſſize, for ſervice or land; and moreover for demands of ſervice, and of the right of Advouſon of ſome Church, not only againſt a Stranger, Ib. Cap. 13.

Tryal by great Assize.

but against his Lord; that is to say, that it may be known, which of them, &c. whether the Lord hath more right to hold it in demesne; or his Vassal to hold it of him; for it is easie to frame the Writs according to the occasion.

Ib. Cap. 14. When the xii. Knights are so chosen, they are to have summons, to the end they may come prepared to the Court, to express upon their Oaths, whether of them, viz. the Tenent, or the Demandant hath most right in his claim. The form of which writ of Summons is set forth in the *xv*th Chapter.

Ib. Cap. 16. And on the day prefixed for the xii. Knights to make their recognition; whether the Tenent do come, or not, the Recognition shall proceed without delay; no essoin being of avail; as well for that his presence there is not at all necessary, because the Recognition may be taken without him, as also for that, if he were present, he could not say any thing why it should rest, he having put himself upon the Assise. But it is otherwise touching the absence of the Demandant, for if he shall be essoined, the Assize shall stay for that day, and another day shall be appointed by the Court; because any may lose by default, but by his absence he can gain nothing.

Ib. Cap. 17. But the Assize proceeding to make the Recognition; either the right it self is well known to all the Jurors, or to some of them; or either some of them do know it, or all are ignorant thereof. If none of them doth know the truth thereof, and this be or shall be testified in Court upon Oath, recourse must be had to others, untill such shall be found, who do know the truth. But if some of them do know the truth of the thing, and some not; those that know nothing thereof are to be set aside, and others to be called into the Court, untill xii. at the least shall be found to agree therein.

Also, if some of them shall speak for one of the parties at variance, and some for the other; there must be more added to them, until xii at least shall agree upon one side. But every of them is to Swear, being called thereto, that they shall not say falsely; nor knowingly forbear to spake the truth. And to the understanding of those, who are sworn thereupon, it is required; that by their own proper view or hearing, they have had knowledge of the thing in question, or by relation from their Fathers, and by such whose credit they are obliged to receive, as their own. Cap. 27.

And when the xii. Knights shall appear to make the Recognition, and are satisfied of the truth of the matter, then shall the Assize proceed to recognize whether of the parties Demandant or Tenent hath most right to the thing in question. And if they shall say, that the Tenent hath most right; or shall say otherwise, where by it may sufficiently appear unto our Sovereign Lord the King or his Justices, that the same person hath most right in the thing in question; then by the judgment of the Court, he shall be for ever freed from any further claim by the Demandant, so that the said Demandant shall thenceforth be never more heard in Court, to any purpose: for controversies lawfully decided by the great Assize of our Lord the King, may not be upon any occasion for the future raised up again. But, if by the said Assize, judgment in Court shall be given for the Demandant, then shall the Tenent lose the Land, with all the profits and benefits found thereon at the time of his seisin, to be to him restored. Ib. Cap. 18.

The Punishment in this Assize of each Jurors is Ordinary, and elegantly joyned to the Kings Institution: for if the Jurors shall be lawfully convict of Perjury in the Court, or confessed in Law, they shall forfeit all their moveable goods to the King; but their Lands, through the Princes Clemency shall be preserved. Furthermore, they shall be imprison'd for a year at least; and thenceforth moreover having no benefit of the Law of the Land, shall perpetually incurr a deserved mark of Infamy; which punishment is justly ordained, that the like may restrain others from taking an unlawful Oath. Ib. Cap. 19.

Also it is to be observed, that there never can be a Tryal by Combate, where an Assize may not be; nor on the contrary. But the Demandant, if the Cap. 27. the land be adjudged to him, is to have recourſe to the Shireeve of the County, wherein it lyeth, for the recovery of his poſſeſſion by this Writ.

Ib. Cap. 20. Rex Vicecomiti N. ſalutem. Præcipio, &c.

Ib. Cap. 21. But if there be no Knights to be found in the Neighborhood; nor in that County, who do know the truth of the thing, what is right; whether then ſhall the Tenent prevail againſt the Demandant? If this be ſo, it is to be doubted whether the Demandant may not loſe his right therein, if he have any. Be it ſo therefore, that two or three lawful men, or more, but fewer than xii. are witneſſes of the thing, and do offer to plead the ſame in Court; if they be of ſuch an age, that they may diſpute it by Combate, and do preſent all the words in Court, whereby the Combate is to be conſidered in Court, whether hereupon ſhall any of them be heard? Quære.

And further, how theſe Aſſizes were to be held, take here from the words of Magna Charta*; Recognitiones de Nova diſſeiſina, &c. Aſſizes of Novell diſſeiſin, and Mort Danceſtour ſhall not be taken but in their proper Counties, and in this manner; If we ſhall happen to be out of this Realm, our Chief Juſtice ſhall ſend out our Juſtices, throughout every Shire, once yearly; who, with the Knights of the Shire, ſhall take the ſaid Aſſizes in thoſe Counties: And ſuch things as at the coming of our ſaid Juſtices, ſent to take thoſe Aſſizes in the Counties, cannot be determined, ſhall be ended by them, in ſome other part of their Circuit. And ſuch things, which for difficulty of ſome Articles cannot be determined by them, ſhall be referred to our Juſtices of the Bench, there to be ended.

* Cap. 12.

* Cap. 13. Aſſizes * of Dartein Preſentment, ſhall be alway taken before our Juſtices of the Bench, and there ſhall be determined.

Tryal by Combate in Caſes Criminal.

THe form and order of this kind of Tryal is thus ſet forth by Bracton, under the title De illis qui capti ſunt pro crimine, vel felonia magna, ſicut pro morte hominis. a Lib. 3. cap. 18.

—Cum autem productus fuerit, & de crimine ei impoſito accuſatus; ſi crimen ſtatim confiteatur, ſatis plenum erit judicium. Of judicial Combates in Cases Criminal, saith [b]Mr. Selden, some are for Tryal of a particular objected misdeed, against which the common Law by ordinary Course proceeds; and of these the Justices of the Kings Bench have the disposition; others for purgation of an offence against Military honour, and transmarine Treasons (remedyless by the old Custom of England) which the high Court of Chivalry is to Marshal by the Law of Armes. The manner of this, both in proceeding and execution is much different from the other; and therefore of it, by it self briefly thus.

[b] Treatise called the Duello &c. Cap. 11. f. 40. b.

A Chartel containing the Accusation is exhibited to the Judges of Chivalry for demand of the Combate (if the Appellant make choice of a Martial Tryal) the demand being comprehended in the Conclusion ---That he is ready to maintain the same by his Body. The truth of the Chartell, and freedome of the Appellant from all purpose of malicious wrong, is by his Oath confirmed: the Combate, upon due consideration of circumstances granted; denunciation of Challenge containing the whole Chartel, by Officers of Armes (which was wont to be by some private persons) is sent to the accused. If upon the process he be returned not found, then the Challenge is published in his Territories by the person (as religiously to be observed) of an Herauld. Hereof at his peril he takes notice; and upon default, after six Months (which is the time of instance for the Appellants proceeding) is adjudged guilty; But, if upon receipt of the Chartel of Challenge he appear not, the Judge may brand him with a note of dishonour hereby purchased; of which (but only by undergoing a new Challenge, as actor) he can never be cleansed; or may, under pain of taking it for a Confession, denounce a new time of defence; or further upon loss of his Court-armour compel him. Cap. 28.

Beuther concl. 56. Mutio Justinopolitano del Duello, Lib. 1. Cap. 26. Ex justa causa per Campionem se tuetur Reus Alciat. cap. 36. Beuth. conc. 40.

If he appear, and make his defence, but upon the Duel day (his adversary being there present till Sunset, and Proclamation of demand made at Noon and Night, which is peremptory and final) without just cause hide his head, it is sufficient conviction, and without all hope of restitution is his honour attainted: Whereupon (saith Alciat) some Appellants carry the Pictures of such Dastards about them with exprobation, or their Coat-Armour reversed, or ignominiously fastned under their Horses-tayl, or with such like disgrace.

If he stand to his defence at the appointed time and place (which by an old constitution of Frederick are at the Defendants election, but rather indeed at the Courts appointment) to be prefixed within xl. days, both parties ought to appear in the Field within the Lists, which are quadrangular, with Gates at each end (chosen in some spacious plain) adjoyning whereunto is pitched a seemly Pavilion (saith Ferne) of Gules, as a judgment Seat of the Constable and Marshall; at their feet a competent number of experienced Knights, with a King of Armes, and a Doctor or two of the Civil Laws, all for assistance in advice to the Court.

Alciat, cap. 6. Beuter. concl. 56. atq; hæc vetus Anglorum Consuetudo, quam habes in lib. impress. de honore & Armis, Lib. 4. Cap. 8.

The Appellant and his Procurator first come to the Gate on the right end of the Lists, banded with his Esquiers, clothed in his Colours, and arrayed with his Armes, waiting on him. The Constable and Marshal demand by voice of Herauld what he is, and why he comes so arrayed? upon his answer, and discovery of his face, by removing the Vizor of his Head-piece, he is admitted, and by a Knight with an Herauld of the Province conducted into the Lists, and placed before the Judgment Seat on the right hand.

In this like sort and converted solemnity, is the defendant placed, with with his face oppoſit to his Adverſary on the left ſide. The Gloſs upon the Norman Cuſtoms ſay; que le cauſe eſt pour ce, que le dextre partie eſt pluis digne; & le ſiniſtre meins digne. Search is made by the Knights, both of equality of their weapons (which are alſo at the Defendants election, ſo that he confine his choice within Antient, Uſual, and Military, although omnium more receptum eſt (ſaith Alciat) nobili & generoſo viro magis convenire, ut Eques & quidem lorieatus congrediatur; quam mercenariorum peditum more prodeat, cum Equeſtris militia noſtris moribus dignior ſit, & nobilium uſu frequentior. Solent autem (ſi aliter conventum non ſit) in campum omnia geminata Arma provocati deferre; ut eorum quæ ipſi in procinctu elegerint paria adverſarius, per Magiſtros, ſeu advocatos dari poſſumus;) as alſo, whether they have any Enchantments, or Magick aſſiſtance for the Victory.

Alciat. Cap. 39 & 40. Vide ſuperius, Cap. 8.

Upon ſound of a Trumpet the Appellant and Defendant are ſeverally demanded, who in perſon preſent the Regiſter to the Procurators, after recital of the Proceſs; Vous parains ſachez rien dire en empeachment del Combate? The Procurators affirming, that they admit all: It is demanded of the Appellant, if he perſiſt in his firſt purpoſe; and likewiſe of the Defendant. Both affirming, the Appellant kneeling layeth his right hand on the Evangeliſts, and with his left taketh the Defendant by the right.

Then the Regiſter--- J.R. Appellant, what ſayeſt thou to S.T. Defendant? Hereupon the Appellant briefly rehearſeth his Chartel of defyance to the Defendant, with a concluding Oath for the truth of his quarrel; to which the Defendant e converſo, reciting his Defence, with denial and Oath reſpectively applyed, gives anſwer, the beginning of both forms being thus;

Ferne, Lib. de gloria nobilit. p. 327.

---Hear you this my Lords, all true Knights and Gentlemen bearers of Armes, and thou S.T. Defendant, &c. The Concluſion; and that my quarrel (or defence) is true; neither have I done any thing whereby the Law of God and of Knighthood might be depreſſed, and the Law of Sathan enhaunced, ſo help me God.

Tryal by Combate in Cases Criminal.

All this finiſhed, the parties are ſet apart, and prepare themſelves to the Battail, an Herauld pronouncing ſoit la battaille grantus, et victorie a eux que droit, with Proclamation, that none be ſo hardy, as by motion, ſpeech, or crying out, to diſcomfit the Combatants, or diſturb the Combate; then immediately an Officer at Armes proclaims, Approver, gardes voſtre Challenge; & vous Defendour gardes voſtre Defence. Upon the ſound of the Alarm the Battail begins.

The time or inſtance (as the Juſtinianiſts call it) of the Combate, is an artificial day, from Sun-riſing (when the Liſts are to be entred) unto Sun-ſet; & licet aliqui (ſaith my Authour) uſq; ad Stellarum apparitionem permanendum exiſtiment, tamen receptior eſt ſententia, ut ſimpliciter occaſus expectetur.

If the Appellant overcome not the Defendant within that time, the Defendant is deemed guiltleſs of the imputation; but ben protebbe (*Mutio Juſtinopolitano telleth me) la patente del campo eſſer ſtata iſpedita con tal forma, che per la parteſi del ſole la battaglia non ſi dovrebbe partire, e'll ſeguente giorno ſi dovrebbe renovare.

Thus farr Mr. Selden verbatim transcribed.

That which followeth is taken out of a MS Book, sometime belonging to Sir Edward Wyndham Kt. Marshall of the Camp to King Henry the Eighth.

Per St. Lo. Kniveton. ar.

First a Bill of Challenge is, together with a Gauntlet delivered unto the Court by the Appellant.

The Defendant denyeth the point of the Bill, and accepteth the Gauntlet.

Then, if the Appellant have no witnesses to prove the matter of his Appeal, the Marshall perfixeth a day, within xl. for deraigning the Combate, taking pledges on both parties to appear at the day, and to do Battail between Sun-rising and Sun-set.

The place appointed for the Combate is a hard and even ground, rayled within certain Lists, Lx. foot in length, and xl. foot in bredth; and without the Lists are certain Counter-lists, within which the Marshalls men come, as well to attend any extraordinary accident within the Lists as to keep off the press of the people without.

Their Weapons are appointed a Glaive, a long Sword, a short Sword, and a Dagger. At the day, the Appellant doth appear and come to the East-gate of the Lists, where he is admitted to enter by the Marshal himself, together with his Arms, Weapon, Victual, and also his Councel with him: and then is brought to a certain place within the Lists, where he attends the coming of the Defendant.

The Defendant, if he appear not, is called by three Proclamations, made by the Marshall of the King of Heraulds of that Province wherein the Battail is deraigned.

The Marshalls Clerk doth enter into his Register their coming, the time of their coming, and the manner, whether on Horseback, or on foot; the fashion of their Arms and their Weapons; the colour of their Horses and the like. Cap. 28.

The Marshall doth measure their Weapons; and then the Marshal hath a Clerk ready, who brings forth a Crucifix and a Mass-book, whereupon both the Appellant and Defendant do take their Oaths.

The Bill of Challenge of the Appellant; and the answer of the Defendant is read unto them by the Marshalls Clerk; and then they take their Oaths.

1. That their Appeal and Defence is true.

2. That neither hath advantage of other by Weapon.

3. That either would do his best endeavour to vanquish his Enemy.

Then Proclamation is made at every Corner of the Lists, for the clearing and voidance of the Lists.

Then the Combatants being ready, the Constable and Marshal, sitting at the Kings feet, pronounce these words with a high voice, Lesses les aller, Lesses les aller; Lesses les aller & fair leur devoir.

In the fight, if either of the parties do give any sign of yielding: or if the King, being present, do cry Hoe; the Constable and the Marshal do part them, and observe precisely who hath advantage or disadvantage either of other at that instant: for if they should be awarded to fight again, they are to be put in the same posture as they were before.

If the King take up the matter, they are brought honourably out of the lists, neither having precedency before the other.

If the Battail be perfomed, and one party be vanquished, then in case of Treason the rayles of the Lists are broken down; and the party vanquished is drawn out at a Horse-tayl, and carryed presently to execution by the Marshal.

3. Sexagenarii, men of threescore.

4. Cæcus. Blind by accident after issue joyned.

And this difference is to be observed between an Appellant and an Approver in an Appeal; viz.

If an Approver appeal xx. he must fight with them all, one after another. But if divers Approvers appeal one; if he vanquish one, he is quit against all the rest.

The Appellant and the Defendant, both of them, before the day of Battail, do sue to the King by Petition, for as many Privy-Seals as should be needful for the providing of Armour, Weapons, Armourer, Proctor, and certain men to be of their Councel, at the Kings Charge, which the King accordingly granteth.

The manner of Ordenaunce withinne Lists.

Ex vetusto codice MS. in bibl. Seldeniana.

FIrst, the quarels and Billes of the Appelaunt and Defendaunt shull be pleded in the Court before Constable and Mareschall, and whan they may not make prefe by witness, nor by none othir maner, but determine their quarels by strength; that one to prove his entent upon that othir; and that othir in the same wise to defende him, the Constable hath power to joyn the Bataill, as Viker-general under God and the King. And the Bataill joyned by the Constable, he shall assigne theym day and place, so that the day be nat within xl. dayes after the seid Bataill so joyned, but onely by assent of the seid Appelaunt and Defendaunt, awardyng them than, howe many maner wepenes euerych of theym shall have; that is, to wite Gleyve, long Swerd, short Swerd, and Dagger. Also that th' Appelaunt and Defendaunt fynd sufficient Plegges, that everych of them shall come to his journey, the Appelaunt to make his prefe upon the Defendaunt, and the Defendaunt in his defence on the Appelaunt, and there to be there youyn hour and terme and Sonne to make his prefe, and to be at the farrest within the Lists to acquite his Plegge, and in likewise of the Defendaunt. And that none of hem doe none harme, damage, awayte, assault, ne none othir damage, nor Envye by theym nor by none of their Friends, Wellwillers, nor none othir person.

Apperaunce of the Pleggs.

THe day of the Bataile the Kyng ſhall ſitte in a Stage, in a Scaffold an high, and a place ſhall be made for the Conſtable and Mareſchall at the foot of the Steyre of the ſaid Scaffold, where they ſhall ſitte; and then the pleggs of th'appelaunt and Defendaunt ſhull be called to come into the Lyſts before the Kynge and to be preſent in the Court as Priſoners till th'appellaunt and Defendaunt be come into the Liſts, and have made her Othes.

Receyvyng of the Appelaunt.

WHan the Appelaunt cometh to the journey, he ſhall come to the Gate of the Liſts in the Eſt, in ſuch wiſe, as he will fight with his Wepens aſſigned by the Court. And there he ſhall abide til he be brought in by the Conſtable; ſo that when he is come to the ſeid Gate, the Conſtable and Mareſchall ſhull go togidir; and the Conſtable ſhull axe hym what man he is that is come armed to the Gate of the Liſts; and what is his name, and whye he cometh: and the Appelaunt ſhall ſey, I am ſuch a Man A. B. Appellaunt that am armed and horſed, and am come to the Gate of thiſe Liſts to aske entre to do my Devoir, and prove myn entent ayenſt C de D. and to acquyte my Pleggs. And then the Conſtable ſhall opyn the vyſer of his Baſnet, ſo that he ſee opynly his viſage, and that it be the ſame Man that is th'appelaunt. And after that he ſhall do opyn the Gate of the Liſts and do him come in, with his ſeid Armers, Wepyns, and Vitailes, and other ſeefull neceſſaryes upon him: and alſo his Counſaill with him, and bryng hym before the Kyng; and than to his place, where he ſhall abide till the Defendaunt be come.

Cap. 28.

Diſcharging of the Pleggs.

ALſo the Appellaunt ſhall require the Conſtable and Mareſchall to deliver his Pleggs, and to diſcharge theym of their pleggery; and the Conſtable and Mareſchall ſhull aske leve of the King to acqyte his Pleggs after that the Appelaunt is come into the Lyſts to do his devoir.

The firſt callyng of the Defendaunt.

ANd if the Defendaunt come not betimes to his journey, the Kyng ſhall commaund the Counſtable to do call him by the Mareſchall, and the Mareſchall ſhall commaund his Lieutenant, and the Lieutenaunt ſhall commaund the Mareſchall of the Herauldes of the South, yf it be in the Marche of the King of Clarenceux: And if the Bataile be beyond Trent in the Marche of the Kyng Noreys, the Mareſchall of the Kynge of the North, ſhall make the Crye; and in defaute of hym an Herauld of the Marche of the Kyng Noreys ſhall crye in this wiſe, Oiez, Oiez, Oiez. C. de D. Defendaunt, cometh to your journey that ye have entirpriſed at this day, to acquite your Pleggs before the Kyng, Conſtable, and Mareſchal, to defende you ayenſt A. B. Appelaunt, of that he hath putte upon you. And yf he come not betimes, he ſhall be called thrys at the iiii. Corners of the Liſts; and att the ſecond tyme, the Herauld ſhall ſey att the end of the crye, for the day paſſeth faſt. And yf he come nat by tymes, at the ſecond crye, the Heraulds ſhall crye by commaundment of the Conſtable and Mareſchall the third tyme ayen, bitwene the hour of Tierce and Midday at the ferreſt; and he ſhall ſay att the begynyng C. de D. Defendaunt, ſaveth your worſhip, and cometh to your journey, that ye have entirpriſed at this day. And att the ende of the Crye, the day paſſeth faſt, and the hour of Midday is nygh, and that ye come by that hour

Cap. 28. hour at the ferreſt on perill that longeth thereto.

How the time of their entree and array ſhall be regeſtred by the Conſtables Clerk.

ALſo the Conſtables Clerk ſhall entre in his Regeſtre her comyng, & the tyme of theire comyng, and how they entre the Lyſts, on Fote, or on Horsback: and how they ben armed, and the colour of the Horſes; and how the Horſes ben armed, for thynge that myght fall of enbeſelyng of their Horſes and harneyſes.

Alſo that the Conſtable take hede to the Kyng if the Kyng wole aſſign eny of his Knyghtes of Worſhip to counſaill theym.

The examynacion of their Wepenes.

ALſo the Conſtable and Mareſchall ſhull ſend after their Speres, and do cutte them off even meſure.

The keping of the Appelaunts place.

ALſo the Conſtable ſhall ſend ii Knights, or ii. Squires to the Appelaunt to kepe his place, that he uſe, ne hide no charme, ne carecte within the ground in his owne perſone, nor by none othir till he have made his Othe. And in likewiſe ſhall be done to the Defendaunt.

To enquire and know the Kyng's Will for makyng of their Othes.

ALſo the Conſtable ſhall wite the Kyngs wille, whethir his Othe ſhall be made before the Kyng; or that the Kyng wole, that it be made in the Lyſts before Conſtable and Mareſchall.

How the Appelaunt ſhall be ſent fore.

Trial by Combate in Caſes Criminal.

ALſo the Conſtable ſhall ſend by the Mareſchall, firſt aftir the Appelaunt to make his Oath, with his Counſeill: And firſt before the making of his Othe, the Conſtable ſhall aske of his Counſeill, yf they will make eny moo proteſtacions; that they put forth all her proteſtacions; for after that they ſhall make noe moo proteſtacions.

How the Conſtable's Clerk ſhall ley forth a Croſſe, and a Maſſeboke for the Othes.

ALſo the Conſtable ſhall have a Clerk that ſhall ley forth a Croſſe with a Crucifix and an opyn Maſsboke writyn with the holy Goſpells. And the Clerke ſhall turne the Boke to the Canon of the Maſſe, and turne up the Crucifix of the Boke.

The Redyng of the Bille of the Appelaunt and the firſt Othe.

THe Conſtable ſhall do his Clerke rede his Bill thurgh; and than the Conſtable ſhall ſey to the Appelaunt, and nempne his name; ye know this Bille and this Glove, that ye have up in our Court before us; ye ſhull ley your right hand upon the Croſſe, and on the Goſpells, that your Bille is trewe in all poynts, from the begynyng of the quarell conteyned in this Bill to the end: And that is your entent to prove upon the ſeid C. de D. Defendaunt, ſo God you help, and the holy Goſpells. And then he ſhall be brought to his place ayen; And the Conſtable ſhall do calle by the Mareſchall the Defendaunt; and there ſhall be done to him in like maner as to the Appelaunt. But that they both two att her firſt Othe ſhall ſett him on her knees, or by favour of the Conſtable and Mareſchall, they ſhull ſtand on her fete.

AFter that the Constable shall do brynge by the Mareschal the Appelaunt before theym: and the Constable, yf he wole, may licence hym to sitte before theym at this Othe: And the Constable shall sey A. de B. ye shull ley your hand ayen on the holy Gospels, and swere, that ye shull have no moo Wepnes or poynts, but tho that ben assigned you by the Constable and Mareschall, that is to wyte Gleyve, long Swerd, short Swerd, and Dagger: Nor no Knyfe, small ne grete; ne none Engine, ne none othir instrument with poynt: nor stone of vertue, nor hearb of virtue; nor charme, nor experement, nor none othir enchauntment by you, nor for you, whereby ye trust the better to overcome the said C. de D. your Adversarie, that shall come ayens you within thise Lysts in his defence: Nor that ye trust in none othir thynge propirly, but in God and your body, and your trewe quarell, so God you help, and all Halowes, and the holy Gospells. And after that he shall be brought to his place, ayen, and the Keepers of the place voided. And the same Ordenaunce shall be done on the Defendaunt of this Othe.

The thirde Othe.

AFterward the Constable and Mareschal shull send after bothe to come before theym; and the Constable shall name the Appelaunt and afterward the Defendaunt; and the Constable shall sey, take everych of you othir by the right hand; and I defend you that none of you be so hardy to handill other in evill manner by your handes, on pareil, that wole falle, and by your feithes. And ye shull ley your left hands on the Boks; and the Constable shall sey, I chardg yon A. Cap. 28.

The first Proclamation after the entre and Othes of the Partyes.

THat no man approach to the Lysts by iiii. fote, on peyn, &c. After thise Othes made, an Heraulde, by assignement of the Constable and Mareschall, shall crye at the four Corners of the Lists in manner that followeth, Oiez, Oiez, Oiez, We charge, and commaund you, on the behalfe of the Kyng, and of Constable, and Mareschall; that noe person of grete value, nor of small estate, of what condicion soever he be, be so hardy to approche the Lysts by iiii. fote; Nor to speake worde, nor to make crye, countenaunce, semblaunt, nor noyse, whereby any of thise two parties A. The assignement of the place for the Kyngs at Armes, and Heraulds.

AFterward the Constable and Mareschal shall assigne a place for the Kyngs at Armes, and the Heraulds togidir, where they may see all her fetes within Lysts; and to be nerer if they be called; for after that tyme the mynistracion of the Appelaunt and Defendaunt is theirs; that is to wite, yf the Appelaunt or Defendaunt have forgotyn any thinge in her confession, than the Heraulds shull be called to do a Confessour come secretly, for disclaundry of the people; and yf they will eate or drynke

Cap. 28. drynke of their vitailes that they have brought with theym within the Lists, the Heraulde shull serve theym and none othir persone. And yf the Appelaunt wole ete or drynke, he shall aske leve first of his adversary; and the Appelaunt and Defendaunt shall be of one accorde. And afterward the Kyng's Herauld shall goe to the Constable and Mareschall, and lete theym know their will. And afterward the Constable and Mareschal and the Herauld shull goe to the Kyng to aske leve to ete or drynke; or in caas yf the Appelaunt or Defendaunt wole do othir pryvy necessaryes, the minystration shall be done by the Heraulds and the Purcyvaunts.

Voidaunce of the Lystes.

AFterward the Constable and Mareschall shull voide the Lists of al manere people, except a Knyght and two Squyers for the Constable; and one Knyght and two Squyers for the Mareschall, that shull be armed on their bodyes; but everych of theym shall have in his hand one Spere without Iryn, to depart theym whan the Kyng cryeth Hoo, in maner as was used in old tyme. The Constable shall not have within the Lysts but a Knyght and two Squiers; and the Mareschall a Knyght his Lieutenant, and ii. Squiers, which shall be armed on their bodyes; but they shall nethir bere Swerds, Baselards, Knyfes, ne Daggers in the Lists. And they that longen to the Constable, shull keep one corner, and sitt alowe on the ground; and they that longen to the Mareschall shall kepe anothir Corner, alowe in like maner. And there shull be no more Rulers within the Lists, but the Constable and Mareschall. And yf the Kyng be nat present; than the Constable and Mareschall shall kepe the Kyng's place, and their Deiutenauntes shall be in the Felde.

The sittyng of the Constable.

AFterward the Constable alone shall sitte hym alowe in a Seige before the Kyng, in the Lysts, as his Viker general, and the Constable shall send his Lieutenant to the Appelaunt to accompanye hym and the Mareschall, or his Lieutenaunt shull accompanye the Defendaunt. And the Constable sittyng shall sey this sentence, with high vois. Lesser les alier; Lesser lez alier; Lesser lez alier & faire lour Devoire. And after that, in the Kyngs presence, the Appelaunt shall goe to the Defendaunt, and assaile hym vigerously; and that othir shall defend hym wysely. And the Constable and Mareschall shall alwey be nigh, or her Lieutenaunt to here or write yf eny of them speke or crye, or make eny signe to yeld hym or his quarel; and to take hede if the Kyng crye Hoo, than they that ben in the Lists with the Constable and Mareshall, shall cast her Speres bitwene the Appelaunt and Defendaunt, and suffre nat that one come nere that othir, til the Kyng have seide his Wille or do crye Essones, by the Constable, Arer lesser lez alier, & faire lour devoire.

And it is to wite, that the Appelaunt and Defendaunt may Arme hem as surely on their bodies, as they seme gode, and to have Targe and Pavys in the Listys; bicause it is but Armury; but it moste be without any Engine therein disavowable; howbeit that that one have it, and that othir have none; and if it happe that one of hem would make his Gleyve shorter than the mesure of the Standard, natheless that othir may have of the length of the Standard, if he wole aske it of the Court. But if the Gleyves pass the said measure of the Standard, that one shall be made of evyn measure after that othir.

If the parties be diffevered or departed, what shall be done.

FUrthermore, it is diligently to be considred by the Constable and Mareschall; that if the Kyng wole do the parties fightyng, to depart, rest, or abide for any cause, what so it be; that they take gode kepe, how they ben departed, so that they be in the same estate and degree in all things, yf the Kynge wole suffer or do them go ayen togidir. And also, that they have gode wache, and kepe to theym yf any of theym speke to othir, be it to yeld him, or any thinge els: For to theym perteyneth the witnesse and the recorde of their wordes, and to none othir.

The payne of hym that is discumfite.

AND if the said Batail be in cause of Treson, the that is convyct and discumfite, shall be unarmed in the Lists by the Commandment of the Constable and Mareschall; and a corner of the Lyst broken up in reproche of hym, whereby he shall be drawen out with Horses from the place where he is so unarmed, unto the Lists, unto the place of Juyse, where he shall be heded or hanged after the usage of the Countree: which thynge perteyneth to the Mareschall to oversee, and do by his Office; and to put it in execucion; and to go or ride alweyes on that one side of hym, till it be all done and performed; and that as wele of th'appelaunt, as of the Defendaunt; for gode feith and right of Armes wole that the Appelaunt ronne in the same payn that the Defendaunt shold, yf he were convict and discomfite. Cap. 28.

If the quarell be taken into the Kyng's hand.

AND if it happed so, that the Kyng wold take the quarrel in his hand, and make theym accorded, and lete them fight no more, than the Constable takyng that one party, and the Mareschall that othir, shall bring them before the Kyng; and he shewyng them his wille, the Constable and Mareschall shull bring them to one of the Gates of the Lists, with her Wepyns, Horses, and Armuryes, like as they have and been found, whan the King taketh the quarrel into his hands; and so shull they evynly be brought out att the Porte of the Lysts, so that that one go nat before that othir by no way in no thinge: For after that the Kynge have take the quarrell in his hand, it were not honest, that eny of the parties shuld have more dishonour one more than an othir; for it hath ben seide by many auncien people, that he that goeth first out of the Lists, hath the dishonour, and that as wele in cause of Treson as in any othir cause.

For the Faux Lystes.

AND it is to wite, that there shall be faux Lists without the principal Lists; bitwene the which the people of the Constable and Mareschal, and the Kyngs Sergeaunt of Armes shull stond to kepe and defende, yf any persone will make any offence or affraye ayenst the Cryes made in the Court; or any thing that might be ayenst the Kyngs Ma-

*Dict. Will. Somneri, Sax. Lat. Angl. Impr. Oxon. 1659.

THis kind of Trial is deduced* from a Saxon Original Ordale, signifying judicium æquum, justum, indifferens; an upright, just, and indifferent judgment.

That our Ancestors the Saxons (when Pagans) were much addicted to Divination, we have the testimony of Tacitus[a]; who saith, that they made special observations on the flying of Birds; as also on their Notes. So likewise on the neighing of Horses. And that when they went to war against a people, in case it hapned, that they did intercept one of their Enemies party, they would cause a Duell to be fought betwixt one of their own Men and him, and divine the success of their whole Army, by taking notice which of those two obtained the Victory.

[a] De moribus Germanorum Cap. x. Videsis Analecta Brit. per V. Cl. J. Selden Lib. 2. Cap. 8.

Nor is it improbable, but that they then, in some Cases, both Civil and Criminal, used this or some such kind of Judgment (scil. by Fire and Water Ordale) which, when they became Christians they waived not; for that these Tryalls were antiently practised by them, we have apparent testimony from the Laws of King Ina (one of our West-Saxon Kings) who began his reign in the year of Christ DCCx.

The manner of proceeding herein was either by Fire or Water, as from King Athelstans Law[b], I shall here take notice. De Ordalio præcipimus in nomine Dei, &c. Concerning Ordale we command, in the name of God, and by the Precept of our Archbishops and Bishops, that no man enter into the Church after the Fire is brought in, wherewith the Judgment is to be made hot, except the Priest, and he who is to undergo the Tryal. And let there be measured ix. foot from the Stake unto the mark, according to the measure of his foot, who is to come thus to judgment. Cap. 29.

[b] Analecta Anglo. Brit. Lib. 2. Cap. 8. Inter Leges Athelstani, Cap. xxx. Videsis Chron. Joh. Brampt. col. 844. & 856. l. 5. Videsis etiam Fani Ang. p. 112. 113. 114. 115.

And if the Tryal be by Water, let it be made hot till it boyle, in a Vessell of Iron, Brass, Lead or Clay: And if it be single, let his hand be put therein after a stone or stock, up to his wrist: but if the accusation be threefold, then to his elbow. And when the Judgment shall be prepared, let two men be brought in on each side, to make experiment, that it be as hot as is afore expresst.

Let as many also come in on each side the judgment, along the Church; and let them be fasting, and abstain from their Wives that Night; and the Preist shall sprinkle Holy water on them, and give them the Text of the holy Gospell to kiss, as also the sign of the Cross. And no man shall make the fire any longer than whilst the Benediction beginneth; but shall cast the Iron upon the Coales untill the last Collect. Afterward it shall be put upon the ... without any more words, then that they pray earnestly to God, that he will vouchsafe to manifest the Truth therein. Then shall the person accused drink Holy water, and his hand wherewith he shall carry the Judgment shall be sprinkled therewith; and so let him go, the nine foot measured being distinguished by three and three.

At the first mark, next to the stake, he shall set his right foot; and at the second his left foot, and thence he shall remove his right foot unto the third mark, where he shall throw down the Iron, and hasten to the holy Altar; which done, his hand shall be sealed up, and the third day after, viewed whether it be clean or unclean, where it was so sealed. And he who shall transgress these Laws, let the Ordale Judgment, or Tryal be done upon him, that he pay Cix. for a fine or mulct.

Peracta is, ut ante, trium dierum jejuniis, &c.

The three dayes fast and other holy Duties performed (as in the Tryal by Fire Ordale) Holy water is given unto the party accused, which he is to drink with

Cap. 29. with this following Execration; Let this water be to thee now for a Tryal. Whereupon this following Conjuration is to be used to the cold water wherein the person supposed guilty is to be put; viz.

I adjure thee, O thou Water, in the name of the Father Almighty, who created thee in the beginning, commanding thy use for humane necessities, and that thou shouldest be separated from the Waters above. I adjure thee, by the unspeakable name of the Lord Jesus Christ, Son of the living God, under whose feet, the Sea and Element being severed, was trode upon; and who was pleased to be baptized in the watry Element. I also adjure thee by the Holy Ghost, which descended upon the Lord when he was baptized. I adjure thee likewise by the name of the holy and individual Trinity, by whose will the Element of waters was divided, and the people of Israel forthwith passed thorough dry foot; At whose invocation the Prophet Helisæas caused the Axe which fell out of the Helve, to swim upon the water, that thou do not in any manner receive this man N. if he be guilty of what he is accused, by his act, consent, or knowledge, or any other device; but make him swim upon thee; to the end there may be no counterfeiting with thee, or any exploit of the Enemy, that may disguise it. And by the name of Christ, we command thee, that for his sake thou obey us, unto whom every creature doth service; whom Cherubim and Seraphim do praise; saying, Holy, Holy, Holy, Lord God of Hosts, who ruleth and reigneth world without end.

And afterwards, other Exorcisms being recited, the person supposed guiltly, putting off his Garments, is to be cast [his thumbs and toes tyed together with cords] into the water; into which if he sink, he is freed: but in case he swim then to be condemned.

Some instances there are in our publick Hist. of this Realm, of certain persons who underwent this kind of Tryal; [d] as of Emma Mother to King Edward the Confessor, whereunto I refer my Reader.

THat the puniſhment of Felons, by Death, with hanging upon Gallows, is very antient; appears from K. Ina's Law; who (reigning almoſt a thouſand years ſince) ſo [a] ordained: which Law, and practice, accordingly continued in force till the Norman Conqueſt. Howbeit then, King Will. the Firſt inhibiting [b] it; appointed [c], that in ſtead thereof, the puniſhment ſhould be, pulling out Eyes, Gelding, or cutting off hands or foot, according to the greatneſs of the offence; to the end they might live and be a terror to others; as were thoſe Welch men, of whom Flor. Wigorn. in his Annals (viz. an. 1098) makes mention; who for Treaſon had their Hands, Feet, and Stones cut off; and likewiſe their Eyes pulled out. Cap. 31.

It seems that the Decree of King Henry the first for putting to Death such as should be convicted of Theft and Robbery, by Hanging, was not used in the County Palatine of Chester; for by an account of Will. de Melton Chamberlain of Chester in 29 E. 1. it appears [h] that they were beheaded, and that the Justices of Peace in that Shire, did receive xii[d]. a piece from the King, for the head of every one which was cut off by their Officers.

CAP. XXXII.

Of the four Terms, &c. Hilary, Easter, Trinity, and Michaelmas, their Original.

THat these portions of the year assigned for the Kings Justices of his Courts at Westminster, to hold Plea of all Causes appertaining to their jurisdiction, were at first ordained and instituted by K. William the first: there are not a few, who resting upon the credit of Polydore Virgil, Holinshed, or some other late Chroniclers, do without further disquisition believe, though Will. of Malmsbury and our other old Historians of credit, say nothing thereof; to rectify therefore this mistake, I shall here briefly exhibit some particulars, which I acknowledg to have gathered from an ample and most judicious discourse upon this subject, written by the Learned Sir Henry Spelman Knight in the year 1614. very well worthy to be made publick, wherein he manifesteth; that our ginal, Saxon and Norman Ancestors, dividing the year between God and the King (as he expresseth) calling those days and parts which were assigned unto God Dies pacis Ecclesiæ, and the residue Dies, or tempus pacis Regis (as the Romans, when Heathens, had their Dies Fasti, and Nefasti,) did make choice of these special seasons of the year for their determining and judging in Civil affairs, as exempt portions of time from that which was by them assigned and devoted to the service of God and his Church.

The four Terms their Original.

And the more clearly to demonstrate this, he sheweth; that in the League [a] made between King Eaw. the Elder and Guthrun the Dane, they did forbid Ordal and Oathes (by which name Law-Tryalls at that time were called) to be used upon Festival or right fasting-dayes; and from the constitution made in the Synod held at Eanham, under King Ethelred addeth — [b] Judicium quippe quod Anglice Ordal dicitur, & juramenta vulgaria, festivis temporibus & legitimis jejuniis; sed & ab Adventu Domini, usq; post Octabas Epiphaniæ; & a Septuagesima usq; ad xv. dies post Pascha minime excerceantur; sed sit his temporibus summa pax inter Christianos, sicut fieri oportet.

The Rubric or Title to this Constitution, being* De temporibus & diebus pacis Regis.

Moreover, out of the Customs of Normandy (received by Duke William from King Edw. the Confessor, as in the beginning of their old Customary may be seen) under the title De temporibus quibus Leges non debent fieri.

Notandum autem est, quod quædam sunt tempora in quibus Leges non debent fieri, nec simplices nec apertæ; viz. omnia tempora in quibus matrimonia non possunt celebrari. Ecclesia autem Legibus apparentibus, omnes dies festivos prohibet et defendit; viz. ab hora nona die Jovis usq; ad ortum solis die Lunæ sequente; et omnes dies solennes novem lectionum, et solennium jejunorum, et Dedicationis Ecclesiæ in qua Duellum est deducendum: hence observing that the Term-times of the English and Normans were antiently the same.

Likewise out of the Laws of King Henry the first, under the title De observatione temporis Legis faciendi.

Hereunto he addeth, that King Henry 2d. ratify'd the Laws of Edw. the Confessor and William the Conquerour saying f, that he did it by the advice of Ranulph de Glanvill, then newly made Chief Justice of England; and that the same R. Glanvill did accordingly make some of his Writs returnable in Octabis, or Clause Paschæ, where, though the Laws of Edward the Confessor appoint the end of Lent Vacation, and that Gervasius Tilburiensis also mentioneth the same Return; yet the MS. Laws of K. H. 1. in the Red Book of the Exchequer, Cap. 62. following the Synod of Canham, do extend Lent Vacation, a Septuagesima usq; xv. dies post Paschæ; and do lay out the whole frame of the year, under the Rubric De observatione temporis Legis faciendi, in manner following;

Et si quis malefactum inter manus habens alicubi retinetur, ibi purgetur vel sordidetur, si solum inculpatio sit, plagis, si quid est datis, ubi judicium fuerit, unumquodque revertatur.*

To set forth therefore the bounds of the Terms, according to these Laws, he thus goes on;

1. Hilary Term began at Octabas Epiphaniæ, id est 13 Jen. which is seven dayes before the first Return it now hathe, and 9 dayes before our Term beginneth. And ended at the Saturday next before Septuagesima; which being movable, made this Term longer in some years than other.

2. Easter-Term, which now begins

Cap. 32. two dayes after Quindena Paſchæ, began then, as the Law of King Edw. the Confeſſor appointed it, at Octabis Paſchæ, as is alſo verifyed by Glanvill, who maketh one of his Writs returnable thus; Rex, &c. Summone per bonos ſummonitiones quatuor Legales milites de Viceneto de Stoke; quod ſint ad Clauſum Paſchæ coram me, vel Juſticiis meis apud Weſtmonaſterium, ad eligendum ſupra Sacramentum ſuum xii. legales milites, &c. but as it then began ix. dayes ſooner than it now doth, ſo it ended ſix or ſeven dayes ſooner; viz. the day before the Vigill of the Aſcenſion; which (doubtleſs) is according to the direction of King Edw. the Confeſſours Law, appointing the time from the Aſcenſion incluſive, to the Octaves of Pentecoſt with Aſcenſion Eve, to be dies pacis Eccleſiæ, and therefore Vacation.

3. Trinity Term in thoſe dayes began as it now doth (in reſpect of the Returns) at Octabis Pentecoſtes; which being alway the day after Trinity Sunday, is now by the Statute of 32 H. 8. appointed to be called Craſtino Trinitatis. But it ſeems, that the Statute of 51 H. 3. changed the begining of this Term from Craſtino Trinitatis to Octabis Trinitatis; and therefore the Statute of King H. 8. did no more herein than reduce it to its Original. And as to the end of that Term, the ſame Statute of 51 H. 3. aſſigned it to be within two or three dayes after Quindena S. Johannis Baptiſtæ, which is about the xiith of July.

4. Michaellmaſs-Term, as the ſaid Law of King Edward the Confeſſor leaves it, was more uncertain for the begining thereof than for the end: but Gervaſius Tilburienſis in his Dialogue de Scaccario Cap. 2. hath a Writ in theſe words, Rex, &c. Vicecomiti N. ſalutem. Vide, ſicut teipſum & omnia tua diligis, quod ſis ad Scaccarium in Craſtino S. Mich. vel in Craſtino Clauſ. Paſch. & habeas ibi tecum quicquid debes de veteri firma & nova; & nominatim, &c. whereby it appeareth, that the Term in the Exchequer, as touching Shireeves and Accomptants, and conſequently in the other parts, began then as it now doth.

And he concludes, that by the Stat. of 51 H. 3. called Dies communes in Banco; the Termes did then either begin and end as they did in An. D. 1614. when he wrote this diſcourſe, out of which I have extracted this, or that thoſe Statutes did aſſign the times for them: As alſo that the Statute of 36 Ed. 3. Cap. 15. confirmed that uſe, the Returns there mentioned being neither other, more, or fewer than they then were, ſaving that Trinity-Term is altered and ſhortened by the Stat. of 32 H. 8. Cap. 21. which hath ordained it, quoad ſeſſionem, to begin for ever the Friday after Corpus Chriſti day, and to continue 19 days, whereas in elder times it began two or three days ſooner.

The four Termes, their Originall.

But of late time, viz. in the Parliament held an. 17°. Car. 1. Michaellmaſs-Term, by a ſpecial Act * then made, was ſhortned, and thenceforth appointed to begin upon tres ſeptimanas S. Mich.

The Persons before whom Fines were levied in antient time, were divers: Some before the King himself, and such eminent persons as were then with him; as this [f] in 5 Ric. 1. —Hæc est Finalis Concordia facta in Curia domini Regis apud Winton. xx. die Aprilis anno regni Regis Ricardi quinto; coram ipso Domino Rege, & H. And this [g] in 6 Joh.——Hæc est finalis Concordia, facta in Curia domini Regis apud Wigorniam, die Martis proxima ante festum beatæ Mariæ, coram ipso domino Rege Johanne, Gaufrido filio Petri Comite Essexiæ, Sim. de Patshull, Jacobo de Poterna, Ric. de Mucegros Justiciariis, & aliis fidelibus, &c. A multitude more could I instance, if need were.

Some in the same King's time, and beginning of King John's, before the Chief Justice, with other the Kings Justices, & aliis fidelibus domini Regis; but most before such and such (as are there expreſt) Justiciariis, & aliis Baronibus, as the Originals still remaining in the Tresury of His Majesty said Exchequer will manifest. But after the seventh year of King John, they all run——coram (such and such)——Justiciariis, & aliis fidelibus.

In King Henry the second's time, some were levied in the Exchequer Court, before the Chief Justice of England, then sitting there, and other the great Barons of the Realm (as I have already observed in my discourse of that Court,) and so likewise in King Richard the first's time; whereof I shall only instance this one [h], for the form thereof——Hæc est finalis Concordia, facta in Curia domini Nor were they limited meerly to the Courts at Weſtminſter, in thoſe times; for I have ſeen a moſt antient Copy of one levied in the County Court at Nottingham, in the firſt year of King John, in the preſence of the Shireeve, and other of the Chief Gentlemen of that Shire; a tranſcript whereof, I have for the rarity of it, here thought fit to inſert [i].

Fines.

Several inſtances I have alſo ſeen of Fines levied, where the King himſelf hath been a party thereto, whereof take theſe for example.

Finis levatus apud Weſtm. in Octabis Purif. beatæ Mariæ an. 53 H. 3. inter ipſum dominum Regem, & conſortem ſuam Alianoram Reginam quærentes, & Edwardum filium ipſius domini Regis primogenitum, deforciantem, de Honore Aquilæ, cum pertinentiis, &c. eſſe jus ipſius Edwardi, de dono ipſorum Regis & Reginæ. Et idem Edwardus, ad inſtantiam Regis, conceſſit dictæ Dominæ Reginæ, prædictum Honorem, tota vita ipſius Reginæ; revertere ad prædictum Edwardum & hæredes ſuos.

Finis levatus in Curia domini Regis apud Weſtmonaſterium, in Craſtino S. Martini, anno regni Regis Edwardi, filii regis Henrici, quarto; inter ipſum dominum Regem quærentem, & Adam quæ fuit uxor Simonis de Vere deforciantem, de decem libratis terræ, cum pertinentiis, in Sprotele, &c. eſſe jus ipſius domini Regis, &c.

Finis levatus apud Weſtm. in xv. Trinitatis anno regni Regis Edwardi, poſt Conqueſtum quarti, xv. inter ipſum dominum Regem quærentem, & Ricardum Martin clericum deforciantem, de dominiis & maneriis de Higham Ferrers, Daventre, Raunds, Ruſheden, &c. in Com. Northampton, &c.

As the Fines, here inſtanced, thus

Fines. levied, be very remarkable; ſo, do I conceive, are theſe following Concords, the one concerning Lands in Seile (in Com. Leic.) touching which there had been a ſute in the Knights Templars Court there; betwixt Raphe Buche and Roger Fitz Hugh of the ſame Town; which Concord being confirmed by William de Ridware, Chief Lord of the Fee, was recorded in the Court of William de Ferrers Earl of Derby, at Tutbury, as appeareth by the expreſs words of that his confirmation *; viz. —Ut autem hæc præfata Concordia firmior & ſtabilior futuris permaneat temporibus, ego eam hac Carta, cum Sigilli mei appoſitione confirmavi; & ad majorem ejuſdem Concordiæ firmitatem, ego eam recordare feci & innovare in Curia domini mei Willielmi de Ferrariis Comitis Derbeiæ apud Tuttesburie, præſente eodem Radulpho Buche & audiente & aſſenſum præbente. His teſtibus Willielmo de Greſeleia, Johanne filio Hereberti, Rogero filio meo, &c.

* Ex ipſo autographo in bibl. Cottoniana.

The other in King Edward the firſts time, upon a grant of lands in Broughton Suleney in Comitatu Nott. made by John the Son of Alured de Suleney, unto Adam de Sancto Lando, whereunto Raphe de Hengham, then Chief Juſtice of the Court of Kings Bench, added his teſtimony and Seal, in theſe words* —in cujus rei teſtimonium ego Radulphus de Hengham, in præſentia prædicti feoffatoris, iſtud ſcriptum cognoſcentis coram me, & coram Osberto de Bereford, & Hugone de Kava Clerici mei, Sigillum meum appoſui, anno Edwardi Regis, filii Regis Henrici, quinto, die feſti S. Petri ad vincula.

* Ex autogr. penes Gerv: Clifton de Clifton in Com. Nott. mil. & Bar.

And becauſe the Agreements thus made have ever been held inviolable, I ſhall in the laſt place exhibit an antient teſtimonial, to manifeſt how exact a courſe hath long ago been taken, not only by the Judges before whom they were levied, in a ſtrict queſtioning of the Cognizors, but the care which the Cognizors themſelves on their own parts had, by a ſerious deliberating what they did in theſe great and ſolemn Concluſions.

To all criſten men to whom this preſent wryting ſhal come, Roſe, that was the wyff of Sir John Merſton knight ſendeth greting in God everlaſting: Know ye me the ſaide Roſe to ley and affirme, that Thomas Littleton, oon of the King's Juſtices of the Common place, bargayned, bought, and purchaſed for a certeine ſumme of money, which he hath truly payd, the reverſion of the Maner of Tixhale in Staffordſhire, and of certeine Tenements and Rents in other Towns in the ſame Shire, of the ſaid John Marſton, ſumtyme my husband, and of me; to have after the decece of my ſaid husband and me: by force of which a Fyne was rered at Weſtmynſter; by which Fyne a ſtate was made of the ſaid Maner to my husband and to me, terme of our lives; the remaynder thereof unto the ſaid Thomas Littleton and Jane his Wife, and to the heires of the ſaid Thomas Littilton for evermore, as in the ſayd Fine more pleinly appeareth. Afore which Fyne rered, I did aske of Sir John Priſot the Cheſe Juſtice of the Common place, and divers others, to whom I had ſpecial confidence and truſt; and alſo of other divers Apprentices lerned in the Lawe, of my Councell; whether that my ſeid husband and I, might ſille the reverſion of the ſaid Maner without perell of our Soules: and they deſired me to enfourme and ſhew them how the ſeid Maner afore that tyme was entayled: and I ſhewed them the part of an hole Fyne, whereof the tenor ſeweth in theſe words.

And they asked me of whom and how that I came of any such persons named in the seyd Fine: and I seyd; that I came of Makelyn Wastneys and Margaret his wiff named in the seyd Fine; that is to sey, that I am Daughter to Roger, sonne to William, son to the seyd Maculine and Margaret. They examined me, whether eny of the Brethren of the said Maculine; that is to sey, John, Herry, or William had any issue on lyve: and I seyd to them Nay, but all ben ded without issu, which is very trouth. They asked me whider I was heire to Geffrey Wastneys named in the seyd Fyne; and I seyd I am heire to the seyd Geffrey; for he was my Graunfire's Graunfire. They asked me whether there was eny more issue now on lyve, that come of the said Maculine and Margaret: and I said Nay: for I seyd, if Alianoure Harecourt, which was myn Aunte, that is to sey my Fadurs Suster, had bin on lyve, and oberleved me, she shuld enherite the seid livelode by vertu of the seid taill made to Makelyn and Margaret after me: but now she is ded without issue, there is no more issue now on lyve that come of the seid Makelyn and Margaret sauf only I, in as much as I was the last of the entaill, and the fee simple thereof was in me: whereupon my husband and I rered a Fyne in the fourme as I have seyd. And whereas Sir John Gresley Knight seyth, as I am enfourmed, that he shuld be my next kyn to enherite after me the seid Livelode; betwene God and me I sey, as I shall answer afore the day of Dome, I came not, nor never cowde wete or knowe, nor never herde by my Fader, nor other in noe maner wyse, how or in what wyse he shulde be kyn to me, to enherite in eny wyse the said livelode; save that it was seid, that he come of one Sir Thomas Wastneſſe, which Wastneſſe was longe tyme afore the seyd old Fyne a rered: but how, or in what wyse I was kyn to that Wastneſſe I cowd never here tell. And ferthermore I sey and affirme, that there is none on lyve, that I know or can here of, that is or may be enheritable by eny maner of fee taple specifyed or compyzed in the seid old Fyne reryd in the time of the seid King Edward the second: In witnes whereof to this present writinge I have put my Seall.

Pleadings in the French Tongue.

THese were first introduced here by King William the first; who, having made a full Conquest of this Realm, for the better establishing thereof, thought it good policy utterly to abolish [a] the English Language, and in stead thereof plant the French: and therefore ordained [b], that not only the Pleadings in Courts should be in that tongue; but that all Children put to School, should first learn learn French, and then Latine. But Forteſcu[c] addeth another reaſon for the ſame; viz. that the French becoming by that Conqueſt, Maſters here, might not be deceived in the Accompts of their Revenues.

c De Laudibus legum Angliæ, Cap. 48.

Which manner of Pleading ſo continued, till by a Statute[d] Law in 36 E. 3. upon a Petition of the Commons in Parliament, it was enacted by the King, that all Plees, which be to be pleded in any of his Courts, before any of his Juſtices, or in his other places; or before any of his other Miniſters; or in the Courts and places of any other Lords within the Realm, ſhall be pleded, ſhewed, and defended, anſwered, debated and judged in the Engliſh tongue, and that they be entred and enrolled in Latine. And that the Laws and Cuſtoms of the ſame Realm, termes, and proceſſes, be holden and kept as they be, and have been before this time; and that by the antient termes and forms of the Declarations no man be prejudiced; ſo that the matter of the Action be fully ſhewed in the Demonſtration and in the Writ.

d Cap. xv. Rot. Parl. 36. Ed. 3. n. 39.

But, though the Pleadings in French did then ceaſe, the terms in that language (as being accounted more ſignificant than other) were by this Act ſtill retained; So alſo Declarations upon Original Writs.

e Forteſcu, ut ſupra.

And Judgments entred into Books (which are commonly called Reports) then began[f] to be made in that Tongue: for which Sir Edward Coke[g] gives this reaſon; viz. that King Edward having a lawfull right to the Kingdom of France, and divers territories thereof in poſſeſſion, it was not thought convenient to publiſh thoſe or any Statutes, then made, in the vulgar tongue; leſt the unlearned, by barely reading of them, without right underſtanding, might be ſubject to errors, and truſting to their own conceits endamage themſelves.

Outlaries, how antient.

SOme might, perhaps, derive the Antiquity of Outlaries from Cain[a] who, for the murther of his Brother Abel, was out of the protection of the Law; but though we aſcend not ſo high, certain it is, that this kind of judgment is very antient; for Cæſar ſpeaking of the Druides, ſaith thus;

a Gen. Cap. 4. verſ. 11, 12.

[b]—Si quis eorum decreto non ſteterit, Sacrificiis interdicunt; hæc pœna apud eos eſt graviſſima. Quibus ita eſt interdictum, ii, numero impiorum & ſceleratorum habentur; ab iis omnes decedunt; aditum eorum, ſermonemq; diſfugiunt, ne quid, ex contagione incommodi accipiant; neq; iis petentibus, jus redditur, neq; honos ullus communicatur.— Whoſoever he is, that obeys not their ſentence, they forbid him their Sacrifices, which

Cap. 36. which is amongſt them the moſt grievous of puniſhments; for they who are thus interdicted, are accounted in the number of the moſt impious and wicked, all people ſhunning them, and refuſing their converſation, leſt they ſhould receive damage by the infection thereof. Nor is Juſtice to be afforded them, at their deſire; nor any honour allowed unto them.

Bracton deſcribes the nature of our Outlaries, here in England, thus;

c Bracton, lib. 3. Cap. 13. n. 1. Videſis etiam Fani Angl. fol. 52.

—Cum quis fuerit ita utlagatus, rite & ſecundum Legem terræ, &c.

When any perſon is thus outlawed juſtly and according to the Law of the land, let us ſee what he forfeits by this his Outlary, if after the fourth ſummons he do not appear. Firſt therefore, be it known, that he forfeits his Country and the Kingdome, and becometh a baniſhed man, ſuch a one the Engliſh calling Utlaugh, but antiently they had wont to call him a Friendleſs-man: whereby, it ſeemeth, that he forfeiteth his Friends, ſo that, if after ſuch outlary and expulſion, any one ſhall wittingly give him food, and entertain him, or knowingly converſe with him in any ſort whatever, or ſhall ſhelter him and hide him, he is to undergo the ſame puniſhment, as the perſon outlawed ought to do; which is to loſe all his goods, and alſo his life, unleſs the King be more merciful to him, &c

Forteſcu de laudibus Legum Angl. Cap. 51. fol. 121. b.

THe Lord Chancellour of England ſhall enter into the Court, where the Juſtice is lacking, bringing with him the Kings Letters Patents, and ſitting in the midſt of the Juſtices, cauſeth the Serjeant ſo elect to be brought in, to whom in the open Court he notifieth the Kings pleaſure touching the office of the Juſtice then void, and cauſeth the ſaid Letters to be openly read, which done, the Maſter of the Rolls ſhall read before the ſame elect perſon, the Oath that he ſhall take; which when he hath ſworn upon the Holy Goſpell, the Lord Chancellour ſhall deliver unto him the Kings Letters aforeſaid, and the Lord Chief Juſtice of the Court ſhall aſſign unto him a place in the ſame, where he ſhall then place him, and that place ſhall he afterwards keep. Juſtices how created.

Hic Oath. ib. fol. 122. b. That he ſhall indifferently miniſter Juſtice to all men, as well foes as Friends, that ſhall have any ſute or plea before him, and this he ſhall not forbear to do, though the King by his Letters, or by expreſs word of mouth would command the contrary: and that from time to time, he ſhall not receive any fee or penſion, or livery of any man, but of the King only, nor any gift, reward, or bribe of any man, having ſute or plea before him, ſaving meat and drink, which ſhall be of no great value.

Ibid. f. 123. a. A Juſtice thus made, ſhall not be at the charges of any Dinner, or ſolemnity, or any other coſt at the time when he taketh upon him his office and dignity, for as much as this is no degree in the faculty of the Law, but an office only, and a room of authority to continue during the Kings pleaſure.

As to the manner of their riding to Weſtminſter-Hall, after they are ſo made, take theſe inſtances from the authorities here cited.

Ex Regiſt. inter templi, fol. 58. a. Upon Wedneſday 29 Jan. An. Which error was the next day* (being Thurſday) reformed, in accompanying Mr. Juſtice Tanfeild, newly choſen Juſtice of the Kings-Bench to Weſtminſter, from his Chamber at Serjeants Inn.

Justices how created.

And accordingly did Sir Henry Mountagu Knight, one of the King's Serjeants at Law and Recorder of the City of London, proceed, in Michaelmas Term 19 Novembris, An. D. 1616. (& Regni Regis Jacobi 14.) then succeeding Sir Edward Coke in the Chief-Justice-ship of the Kings Bench; viz. First went on foot the young Gentlemen of the Inner-Temple, After them the Barristers according to their seniority; Next the Officers of the King's Bench; Then the said Chief-Justice himself on Horseback in his Robes, the Earl of Huntingdon on his right hand, and the Lord Willoughby of Eresby on his left, with above fifty Knights and Gentlemen of quality following.

Justices of the Kings Courts at Westminster, their Vestments.

THat peculiar and decent Vestments, have, from great antiquity, been used in religious services, we have the authority of God's sacred Precept to Moses. [a] Thou shalt make holy rayments for Aaron and his sons, that are to minister unto me, that they may be for glory and beauty.

a Exodus Cap. 28. V. 2.

And reason tells us, that in places of Civil judicature, it is not only proper, that the Magistrate should be distinguished from others, but all possible care used, that a venerable respect be had to his person and office. Hence was it, that the most civilized people of the world did accordingly make it their practice, the Roman Senators having their vesture much different from that of the Gentry; viz. [b] a Garment bestudded with flourishings of purple silk, in manner of broad Nayl. And the Consuls [c] a solemn Robe of purple, by which they were known from other Magistrates, and private men, with large embroydered works thereon, called Trabea; and in further honour of that their Consular dignity, xii. Lictors, who bare their bundles of Rods and Axes before them; as also an Ivory Chair of State, which was commonly carryed about for them in a Chariot; all which was done, to draw a more awfull reverence to them than ordinary.

Cap. 38.

And for the same reason it was, that the wisdome of our Ancestors, hath, with so great judgment, assigned such grave and venerable Garments for the Civil Magistrate in all Courts of Justice in this Realm; the materials and form whereof, as they were in antient times, may partly be discerned from these following instances; viz. first in 20 E. 1. where the King by his Præcept [d] to the Keeper of his great Wardrobe, commandeth him to deliver unto William Scot and the rest of his fellow Justices of his Bench, there named; as also to John de Stonore and those with him, Justices of the Common Pleas, and likewise to Robert de Sadyngtune and other the Barons of his Exchequer; viz. to each of them for their Summer Vestments (or Robes) for that present year, half a short Cloth, and one piece of fine Linnen silk; And for the Winter season another half of a Cloth colour Curt, with a Hood, and three pieces of Fur of white Budg. And for the Feast of the Nativity of our Lord, half a Cloth colour Curt, with a Hood of two and thirty bellyes of Minever, another Fur with seven tires of Minever, and two Furs of silk.

d Clauf. 20 E. 3. p. 1. m. 15.

Next in 21 E. 3. where Sir William de Thorpe, then Chief Justice of the Kings Bench, with Sir William Basset, and Sir Roger de Baukewell his fellow Justices of that Court, were allowed [e] out of the same Wardrobe, at the Feast of All Saints, for their Winter Robes, each of them half a Cloth Colour Curt; three Furs of white Budg, and one Hood of the same Budg. And for their Liveries at Christmas, each of them half a Cloth likewise colour Curt, one Hood containing xxxii. bellies of Minever helf pur, one Fur of Minever containing seven tires, and two Furs of silk, each of seven tires.

The like Liveries [f] at the ſame time, had Sir John de Stonore, Sir Richard de Wylughby, Sir Roger Hillary, Sir William de Shareſhull, Sir Richard de Kelleſhull, and Sir John de Stonford, Juſtices of the Court of Common Pleas.

And ſo alſo had [g] Sir Robert de Sadyngton, Sir Gervaiſe de Wilford, Sir William de Brokeleſby, Sir Alan de Aſſhe, and Sir John de Houton then Barons of the Exchequer.

[g] Ibid.

In 11 R. 2. Sir Walter de Clopton Knight, then Chief Juſtice of the King's Bench, and John Hull his Fellow Juſtice in that Court; Sir Robert Charleton Chief Juſtice of the Common-Pleas, and William Thyrning, William Rykill, John Wadham, and Richard Sydenham Juſtices alſo of the ſame Court, had [h] for their Summer Robes theſe following liveries; viz. each of the Chief Juſtices ten ells of green Cloth long, and xxiiii ells of green Taffata; and each of the reſt ten ells of green Cloth long. The like (viz. ten ells of green Cloth long) at the ſame time had John Caſſy Chief Baron of the Exchequer.

And in 22 Hen. 6. John Fray, then Chief Baron of the Exchequer, had [i] for his Winter Robe againſt Chriſtmaſs allowed unto him x. ells of violet in grain. 1. fur of xxxii. bellies of Minever pur, for his Hood. Another fur of Cxx. bellies of Minever groſs; and two furs each of ſeven tyres of ſilk. As alſo for his Summer Robe, againſt Whitſontide, ten ells of green Cloth long, and half a piece of green Tartarin.

[i] Ex alio vet. cod. MS. ibidem f. 75. b.

And at the ſame time Roger Hunt, Robert Frampton, and William Fallan, (the other Barons of the Exchequer) had for the like Summer Robes, each of them ten ells of Violet in grayn; with 1. fur of Cxx. bellies of Minever groſs; and another fur of xxxii. bellies of Minever pur, for the Hood, as alſo two furs of ſilk, each of ſeven tyres.

[k] Ibid.

From which allowance we may take notice, that the colour of their Robes was not conſtantly the ſame, there being ſo much variation in thoſe times above-mentioned; though for the faſhion of them (I preſume) they did not much differ.

Judges Robes.

Sir John Forteſcu Knight who was Chief Juſtice in this King's time, in his learned diſcourſe [l] de Laudibus Legum Angliæ, ſetting forth the formality in making a Judge, ſaith, that he ſhall thenceforward from time to time change his Habit in ſome points; for being a Serjeant at the Law he is cloathed in a long Prieſt-like Robe, with a furred Cape about his Shoulders; and thereupon a Hood with two Labells (ſuch as Doctors of the Law uſe to wear in certain Univerſities) with their Coyfe. But being made a Juſtice, in ſtead of his Hood he muſt wear a Cloak, cloſed upon his right ſhoulder, all the other Ornaments of a Serjeant ſtill remaining, ſaving that his Veſture ſhall not be party-coloured, as Serjeants may; and his Cape furred with Minever, whereas the Serjeants Cape is ever furred with white Lamb.

This is all concerning their Robes, that I have met with from any good authorities, excepting theſe following; the firſt from a very old Seal affixed to an Original [m] grant of Lands unto the Canons of Dſulvſton in Com. Leic. by Robert Grimbald a Judge in K. Henry the ſeconds time: upon which Seal he is repreſented in his Habit, holding a naked Sword, at length, in his right hand (as the embleme of Juſtice) and in his left, one broken in the midſt (as the embleme of Mercy.) The ſecond from a Monument of John Cokaine, one of the Juſtices of the Court of Common-Pleas temp. H. 4. ſtill in being at Aſhburne, in Derbyſhire; and the laſt from certain figures in Glaſs; viz. Sir William Howard Knight, who lived in King Edward the firſts time, and the two other in King Edward the Fourths time ſet up in the Church of Long-Melford in Suffolke *temp. Cap. 38. But there having been such variations in those antient times, as I have instanced; and more afterwards, as it may seem: for certainty therefore as well as uniformity in these their Habits, there was a solemn Decree and Rule made by all the Judges of the Courts at Westminster, bearing date the fourth day of June, An. 1635. Sir John Brampston Knight being then Chief Justice of the King's Bench; Sir John Finch Chief Justice of the Common Pleas, and Sir Humphrey Davenport Chief Baron of the Exchequer, subscribed by them, and the rest of the Judges in those Courts, appointing what Robes they should thenceforth use, and at what times; the Copy whereof I have here inserted.

The Judges in Term time are to sit at Westminster in the Courts, in their Black or Violet Gowns, whether they will; and a Hood of the same colour put over their heads, and their Mantles above all; the end of the Hood hanging over behind; wearing their Velvet Caps, and Coyfes of Lawn, and cornered Caps.

The facing of their Gownes, Hoods, and Mantles, is with changable Taffata; which they must begin to wear upon Ascension day, being the last Thursday in Easter Term; and continue those Robes untill the Feast of Simon and Jude: And upon Simon and Jude's day, the Judges begin to wear their Robes faced with white furs of Minever; and so continue that facing till Ascension-day again.

Upon all Holy-dayes, which fall in the Term, and are Hall dayes, the Judges sit in Scarlet faced with Taffata, when Taffata-facing is to be worn; and with Furs, or Minever, when Furs or Minever are to be worn.

Upon the day when the Lord Maior of London comes to Westminster to take his Oath, that day the Judges come in Scarlet. And upon the fifth of November (being Gunpowder day) unless it be Sunday, the Judges go to Westminster-Abby in Scarlet to hear the Sermon; and after go to sit in Court. And the two Lords Chief Justices, and the Lord Chief Baron have their Collers of SS. above their Mantles for those two dayes.

Judges Robes.

When the Judges go to Pauls to the Sermon, upon any Sunday in the Term time, or to any other publick Church, they ought to go in Scarlet Gownes; the two Lords Chief Justices, and the Lord Chief Baron in their Velvet and Sattin Tippets; and the other Judges in Taffata Tippets; and then the Scarlet Casting-Hood is worn on the right side, above the Tippets; and the Hood is to be pinned abroad towards the left Shoulder. And if it be upon any grand dayes; as upon the Ascension-day, Midsomer-day, All-Hallow-day, or Candlemass-day; then the two Lords Chief Justices, and the Lord Chief Baron wear their Collers of SS. with long Scarlet Casting-Hoods, and Velvet and Sattin Tippets.

At all times, when the Judges go to the Council-Table, or to any Assembly of the Lords, in the After-noons in Term time, they ought to go in their Robes of Violet, or Black, faced with Taffata, according as the time of wearing them doth require: and with Tippets and Scarlet Casting-Hoods, pinned near the left Shoulder, unless it be Sunday, or Holy-day, and then in Scarlet.

In the Circuit the Judges go to the Church upon Sundays, in the fore-Noon in Scarlet Gownes, Hoods, and Mantles, and sit in their Caps. And in the after-Noons to the Church in Scarlet Gownes, Tippet, and Scarlet Hood, and sit in their cornered Caps.

And the first Morning at the reading of the Commissions, they sit in Scarlet Gowns, with Hoods and Mantles, and in their Coyfs and cornered-Caps. And he that gives the chardge, and delivers the Gaol, doth, or ought for the most part, to continue all that Assizes the same Robes, Scarlet, Gown, Hood, and Mantle. But the other Judge, who sits upon the Nisi prius, doth commonly (if he will) sit only in his Scarlet Robe, with Tippet and Casting-Hood: or if it be cold he may sit in Gown, and Hood, and Mantle.

And where the Judges in Circuit go to dine with the Shireeve, or to a publick Feast, then in Scarlet Gowns, Tippets, and Scarlet Hoods; or casting off their Mantle, they keep on their other Hood.

The Scarlet Casting-Hood is to be put above the Tippet, on the right side: for Judges Robes.

Justice Walmesley and Justice Warburton, and all the Judges before, did wear them in that manner; and did declare, that by wearing the Hood on the right side, and above the Tippet, was signified more temporal dignity; and by the Tippet on the left side only, the Judges did resemble Priests.

Whensoever the Iudges, or any of them are appointed to attend the King's Majesty, they go in Scarlet Gowns, Tippets, and Scarlet Casting-Hoods; either to his own presence, or at the Council-Table.

The Iudges and Serjeants when they ride Circuits, are to wear a Serjeants Coat of good Broad-Cloath with Sleeves, and faced with Velvet. They have used of late to lace the Sleeves of the Serjeants Coat, thick with lace. And they are to have a Sumpter, and ought to ride with six men at the least.

Also the first Sunday of every Term, and when the Iudges and Serjeants dine at my Lord Mayors, or the Shireeves, they are to wear their Scarlets, and to sit at Pauls with their Caps at the Sermon.

When the Iudges go to any Reader's Feast, they go upon the Sunday or Holy day in Scarlet: upon other days in Violet, with Scarlet Casting-Hoods, and the Serjeants go in Violet, with Scarlet-Hoods.

When the Iudges sit upon Nisi prius in Westminster, or in London, they go in Violet Gowns, and Scarlet Casting-Hoods and Tippets, upon Holy-days in Scarlet.

A word or two now concerning the Collars of SS. so worn by the Chief Justices and Chief Baron as aforesaid.

That this kin of Ornament hath been very antiently used here in England, especially by Knights, we have sufficient testimony from Monuments and Tombs of neer 300 years old; how long before I dare not take upon me to say; but the Original occasion of them is of much greater Antiquity; which, from an Author of Credit, writing of the lives of Simplicius and Faustinus, Brethren and Roman Senators, who suffred Martyrdome under Diocletian the Emperour, I shall here add—Ille ipso loco (Bibliothecam Fuldensem intelligit) reperi societatem Sancti Simplicii descriptam, quæ constitit ex viris Domi nobilibus. Horum consuetudo fuit Torques argenteas de geminis SS. fabricatas collo gestare. Geminæ vero SS. indicabant S. Simplicii nomen. Per harum intervallum continebat Torquis duodecem laminas minutissimas de argento, in quibus insculpti erant duodecem Articuli fidei Christianæ, una cum trifolio Simpliciano. A Torque autem visebatur Simplicius pensilis, & ab eo septem laminæ, septem Charismata Spiritus sancti significantes. Porro hos toto mysterio dicebatur, ut illi ita torquati in religione Christiana, tam domi quam militiæ perdurarent constantissimi. Cap. 38. And the reason of this Chain so used by such noble persons, was in regard that these two Brethren were Martyred by tying a Stone with a Chain about their Necks, and casting their Bodies into the River Tiber. Ex vet. Legenda Sanctorum in bibl. Cotton.

CAP. XXXIX.

Justices of the Kings Courts at Westminster, antiently dignified with Knighthood.

THat this degree was most antiently conferred by Bathing, and divers sacred Ceremonies, I need not here stand to demonstrate, the Learned Selden in his Titles * of Honour having so fully manifested the same. Therefore, passing by the further proof thereof, I shall now only take notice of such of the Justices of the Kings Courts at Westminster, as I find, in our publick Records, to have been antiently dignified therewith, and describe what allowance for Robes and other things were made to them by the Kings, out of their great Wardrobe, upon their reception of this Honour.

* Part. 2. Cap. 5. p. 781.

The first of them were Thomas Bacon, John de Shardlow, Richard de Aldeburgh, and Will. de Shareshull, Justices of the Court of Common-Pleas; Will. de Denum, one of the Barons of the Exchequer, and Rob. de Scorburgh, CAP. XL.

Juſtices of the King's Courts at Weſtminſter, their antient yearly Fees or Salaries.

TOuching the yearly Salaries paid to the King's Juſtices of his reſpective Courts at Weſtminſter for their ſupport in his ſervice, I have not ſeen any thing before the *xi*th year of K. Henry the Thirds reign, the Liberatæ Rolls before that time being all periſht; but then [a] VVill. de Inſula and R. Duket had each of them x. marks per annum out of the Exchequer.

[a] Liberatæ 11 H. 3. m. 5.

Howbeit, not long after, theſe Fees were increaſt; for in 23 H. 3. VVill. de Culeworth, one of the Juſtices of the Common-Pleas, had [b] xx l. per annum Fee.

[b] Lib. 23 H. 3. m. 3.

In 27 H. 3. Alexander de Swereford a Baron of the Exchequer (and Chief as it ſhould ſeem) had [c] xl. marks per annum; and [d] in 38 H. 3. John de VVyville, one of the Barons of that Court, xx. Marks.

[c] Lib. 27 H. 3. m. 3.
[d] Lib. 38 H. 3. m. 7.

In 43 H. 3. Gilbert de Preſton, then one of the Juſtices of the Kings Bench, had [e] xl. l. per annum: and [f] in 44 H. 3. Roger de Thurkilby, one of the Juſtices of the Court of Common-Pleas C. marks per annum: But he was then Chief Juſtice in that Court, as I gueſs, though there was a Juſticiarius Angliæ at the ſame time (as in my Chronologick Tables is evident) for Robert de Brivis, then alſo a Juſtice in the ſaid Court of Common Pleas, had [g] no more than xl. l. per annum.

[e] Lib. 43 H. 3. m. 2.
[f] Lib. 44 H. 3. m. 8.
[g] Lib. 45 H. 3. m. 1.

To Roger de Thurkilly (for he died in 44 H. 3.) ſucceeded Will. de Wilton in the Chief Juſticeſhip of the Court of Common Pleas, whoſe Fee [h] was advanced to C. l. per annum, the Fee of the other Judges in that Court, being but xl. l. a piece.

[h] Lib 46 H. 3. m. 2.

And as the Salaries in this Court were thus enlarged, ſo were thoſe in the Exchequer: for in 49 H. 3. Roger de la Laye, one of the Barons there, had [i] xl. l. per annum. But this held not long; for Gilbert de Preſton, Chief Juſtice of the Kings Bench in 35 H. 3. received [k] but a C. marks per annum. Nor had he more [l] in the beginning of King Edward the firſt's time, when he was Chief Juſtice of the Court of Common Pleas. And after this they ſunk more, for Thomas de VVeyland, Chief Juſtice of the Common Pleas in 7 E. 1. had [m] but xl. l. per annum as long as he lived; and [n] VValter de VVymburne, another Juſtice of the ſame Court, xl. marks, which proportion, viz. xl. l. per annum to the Chief Juſtices of both Benches; and xl. marks a piece to the Juſtices, and Barons of the Exchequer continued till the 25th of Edw. 3. as may appear by the Liberatæ Rolls of thoſe times. And then the Salary of the Chief Juſtice of the King's Bench ſhrunk more; viz. [o] to fifty marks per annum (which is no more than [p] xxxiii l. vi s. viii d.) the yearly [q] Fee of the Chief Juſtice of the Common Pleas being augmented to C. marks per annum; the Chief Baron of the Exchequer having [r] no more than xl. l. per annum; and the other Juſtices of both Benches and Barons of the Exchequer, being then reduced to [s] xx l. per annum.

Neither in theſe their annual Salaries have I ſeen any direct certainty of a long time after; for in 28 E. 3. it appears [t], that Thomas de Setun then one of the Juſtices of the Kings Bench had Lxxx. marks per annum.

[t] Lib. de an. 28 E. 3. m. 1.

In

In 36 E. 3. the Chief Baron and other Barons of the Exchequer had [t] all alike; viz. xll. per Annum.

[u] [w] [x] Lib. 39 E. 3. m. 3.

In [y] 5 R. 2. the Juſtices of the Common Pleas no more than xl. marks per Annum. So alſo in [z] 8. and [a] 14. R. 2.

[y] Lib. 5 R. 2. m. 13.
[z] Lib. 8. R. 2. m. 9.
[a] Lib. 14 R. 2. m. 5.

In 1 H. 4. the Chief Baron and other the Barons of the Exchequer but [b] xl. mark per Annum. The [c] Chief Juſtice of the Common Pleas xl l. The other [d] Juſtices of that Court xl. marks.

[b] Lib. 1 H. 4. m. 7.
[c] [d] Ibid.

In [e] 3 H. 4. the Chief Juſtice of the Kings Bench xl l. per Annum. And in [f] 9 H. 4. John Colepeper one of the Juſtices of the Common Pleas Lv. marks per Annum.

[e] Lib. 3. H. 4. m. 6.
[f] Lib. 9. H. 4. m. 4.

But I do incline to believe, that there was more of certainty, both in their yearly Salaries, and allowances for their Robes, after the 18th year of King Henry the Sixth's Reign; in which year aſwell the Judges of all the Courts of Weſtminſter, King's Attourney, and King's Serjeants exhibited a Petition in Parliament; a Copy whereof I have here added.

PRætextu Brevis regii huic ſcedulæ conſuti, ſcrutatis libris de particulis Compotorum Roberti Rolleſton, Cuſtodis magnæ Garderobæ in eodem Brevi ſpecificatis, tam de Emptionibus, Receptionibus, Liberationibus, & aliis diverſis rebus, quam de aliis cuſtubus & expenſis, per ipſum Cuſtodem in eadem Garderoba factis & appoſitis ad opus Domini Regis nunc, per decem annos ante xii^m. diem Novembris, in Brevi prædicto ſpeceficatos, proximæ elapſos; viz. a Vigilia S. Michaelis anno regni Regis octavo, uſq; vigilia S. Michaelis anno xviii. ad Scaccarium dicti domini Regis redditis, penes idem Scaccarium in Theſauro reſidentibus, compertum eſt in dictis libris de particulis compotorum prædictorum; quod in quolibet hujuſmodi compoto, in quolibet anno prædictorum decem annorum, una magnæ pecuniæ ſumma pro pannis laneis, ſub titulo Draperie, emptæ; & alia magna pecuniæ ſumma pro limura ſub titulo Mercerie, emptæ pro robis, pellura, & limura, tam pro perſona Domini Regis, & pro Cancellario & Theſaurario Angliæ, Cuſtode privati Sigilli dicti Domini Regis, quam pro Juſticiariis, Servientibus Domini Regis ad Legem, & Atturnato ipſius Regis, in dicto Brevi ſpecificatis; aliiſq; pluribus diverſis perſonis, per decem annos, in dicto Brevi ſpecificatos, prædicto Cuſtodi, in dictis libris de particulis Compotorum prædictorum annuatim in groſſo ſunt allocatæ.

Compertum eſt etiam in dictis libris de particulis, quod dicto xii. die Novembris, nihil dictis Juſticiariis, Servientibus ad Legem, vel Attornato Regis extitit a retro minime liberatum, de robis, furruris, limuris, vel veſturis ſuis in dicto Brevi ſpecificatis, de aut pro prædictis decem annis, eo quod in dictis libris de particulis, ſub titulo viz. Liberationes forinſeces, compertum eſt; quod in quolibet anno prædictorum decem annorum, liberatæ fuerunt cuilibet Juſticiariorum prædictorum, profeſto Natalis dominis, *decem ulnas panni, coloris long. Virtute tamen prædicti Brævis, & pleniore cognitione præmiſſorum. nos præfati Theſaurarius & Barones habuimus & cepimus informationem prædicti Cuſtodis in præmiſſis, per quandam Billam ipſius cuſtodis, nobis ad Scaccarium prædictum, per manus ſuas proprias, in ſcriptis liberatam, ex parte Rememoratoris domini Regis reſidentem: per quam quidem ſcedulam manifeſte liquet, quod annuatim pro majori parte prædictorum decem annorum; viz. octavi, noni, Decimi, undecimi, quarto-decimi & ſexto-decimi, quælibet roba & furrura cujuslibet Juſticiariorum prædictorum, erga feſtum Natalis Domini, in emptione, valebat per medium valorem per idem tempus ad Cvi s. xi d. ob. qu. & ſextam partem oboli. Et quod quælibet roba & limura cujuſlibet eorundem Juſticiariorum, erga feſtum Pentecoſtes, in emptione, valebat & ſe extendebat, per medium valorem, per idem tempus ad Lxiii s. vi d. Et quod quælibet veſtura cujuſlibet prædictorum Servientium ad Legem, & attornati Regis, erga feſtum Natalis Domini, in emptione valebat, & ſe extendebat, per medium valorem per idem tempus ad xxvi s. xi d. Quæ quidem ſummæ Cvi s. xi d. ob. qu. & ſexta pars oboli, Lxii s. vi. d. & xxvi s. xi d. annuatim, per majorem partem prædictorum decem annorum, dicto Cuſtodi in prædictis Compotis ſuis, ſub prædictis magnis pecuniæ ſummis fuerunt allocatæ.

So that after this, they had (as it ſeemeth) an increaſe of their Salaries; and likewiſe an allowance in Money for their Robes: for it appeareth that in 1 Edw. 4.[a] John Markham then Chief Juſtice of the King's Bench, had an yearly Penſion of a CLxx. marks granted unto him, and payable by the Clerk of the Hanaper: As alſo Cvi s. xi d. qu. and ſixth part of an half penny, for his Chriſtmaſs Robe; and Lxvi s. vi d. for his Robe at Whitſontide, juxta formam cujuſdam Actus in Parliamento an. 18 H. 6. as are the words of the Record.

Judges, their annual Salaries.

So likewise Sir Will. Huse Knight constituted Chief Justice of the same Court in 1 H. 7. had the yearly fee of Cxl. marks, for his better support in that place, granted [b] to him; and Cvi. s. xi. d. farthing, and the sixth part of an half peny, for his Winter Robe; as also Lxvi s. vi d. for his Robe at Whitsontide.

Pat. 37 H. 8. p. 16.

After this, viz. in 37 H. 8. there was a farther increase of their Fees; viz. to the Chief Justice of the Kings Bench and his Successors for the time being, of xxx l. per annum: To every other Justice of that Court, and their successors xx l. per annum. And to every Justice of the Common-Pleas, and their successors xx l. per annum. 17 Nov. 37 H. 8.

CAP. XLI.

Serjeants at Law.

THese were long since called Narratores, in Latine; and Countors in French, id est Pleaders, as that notable Treatise, called the Mirrour [a] of Justices sheweth: which Book, if it be so old as Sir Edw. Coke [b] conceiveth, will prove them to be of greater Antiquity than eleven hundred years. But setting that testimony aside, it is sure enough that this Degree of Lawyers is very antient; for 'tis evident, that the Statute [c] of Westminster the first (which was in 3 E. 1.) makes mention thereof;

b Coke's Reports Lib. 9. in proœmio.

c Cap. 29.

—Purview est, que si nul Serjeant Countor, ou auter, face nul maner de desceit, ou de colluſion en Court le Roy, &c. & de ceo ſoit attaint, eit la priſonement d'un an & un jour, & ne ſoit oy en Court le Roy, &c. id est.

—It is provided also, that if any Serjeant Pleader, or other, do any manner of deceit, or colluſion in the Kings Court, &c. and thereof be attainted; he ſhall be impriſoned for a year and a day; and thereforth not to be heard to plead in that Court for any man: And that Thomas de Weylande, John de Metingham, John de Cobbeham, and Elias de Bekingham (soon after Justice of the Court of Common Pleas (being then the King's Serjeants had Pensions assigned [d] them out of the Exchequer for that their Service.

d Lib. 3 E. 1. m. 2. Cap. 41.

And if my authority [e] mistake not, of the same degree, about that time, was John de Lyte, owner of Lyte's Carey in Com. Somerset, who lying there buried, with his Portraiture in a Coyf, hath this Epitapth. John de Lyte, & Amy ſa femme; Pater noſter Ave Amen.

e Cod. MS. penes Will. Boothe interioris Templi ſocium.

And we find; that, in 3 E. 2. Roger de Scotre and Edmund Paſſelegh, were, by special Writ assigned to be the King's Serjeants —Serjeants aſſignes as plees le Roy & a ſes beſoines, saith the Record [f]: In which employment, both they and their successors gained such high esteem, that from 20 E. 3. those, who were then in that place (viz. Rob. de Thorpe and Henry de Grene) had Summons [g] to Parliament, to sit amongst the Justices of both Benches; and were specially exempted [h] from serving on those eminent Tryals called the grand Assize, but where there were no Knights in the County: which sheweth, that their rank and place was little inferior to that degree of Honour Whereunto Sir Edward Coke addeth; that they precede thoſe who ſit on an high Bench in Westminster-Hall; id est Maſters of the Chancery.

g Clauſ. 20 E. 3. p. 2. m. 22. in dorſo.

h Mich. 22 E. 3. 18. f. Challenge. Hill. 26 E. 3. 57 fol. Drois 37.

It should seem that this state and degree of Serjeant, considering their grand Feasts made at the reception thereof, whereof I shall give instance by and by) and the large [i] retinue for attendance they then had, was antiently so chargeable, as that the Learned in the Laws were not then very forward to take it upon them insomuch as the Kings of this Realm became necessitated to require them thereunto by a special Writ of Summons: The first of which Writs (wherewith I have met) was in 6 E. 2. unto John Cary, Edmund Clay, and John Hulle. Howbeit after that time, several others had the like Writs, as in my Chronological Tables will appear; but not at their own seeking, as it seems by this following instance of John Maryns, William i See the Statute of 8 H. 6. Cap. 4. wherein it is observable, that upon the restraint unto Knights and others of less degree, for giving Liveries to others than their own menial Servants, the Serjeants at Law were exempted. So also by the Statutes of 1 H. 8. Cap. 14. & 7 H. 8. Cap. 7. they were at liberty for the quantity of Cloth in their Gowns, others under the degree of a Knight being limited.

Cap. 41. William Babington and others, who declining to take upon them that degree and ſtate, being called by Writ [i] in 3 H. 5. had a complaint made againſt them in the Parliament of 5 H. 5. whereupon they were compelled thereto, as by the Roll of that year (a Copy whereof I have here added) appeareth.

Serjeants at Law.

Their Oath.

On the which day every one of them appearing, ſhall be ſworn upon the holy Goſpel of God, to be ready at the day and place then to be appointed, to receive the ſtate and degree aforeſaid; and that he the ſame day ſhall give Gold, according to the Cuſtome in that behalf uſed: howbeit, how and after what ſort, every of the ſaid perſons ſhall that day demean himſelf; and alſo the form and manner, how that ſtate and degree ſhall be given and received, for ſo much as the ſame cannot be ſo briefly written, as to the ſhortneſs of this work is requiſite; therefore at this time I will leave this points untouched; and yet I have declared the ſame to you ere now by way of talk.

The magnificence of their Feaſt.

But this you muſt underſtand; that when the day appointed is come; thoſe elect perſons, among other ſolemnities, muſt keep a great dinner, like to the Feaſt of a King's Coronation; which ſhall continue and laſt for the ſpace of ſeven days; and none of thoſe elect perſons ſhall defray the charges growing to him, about the coſts of this ſolemnity with leſs expences then the ſum of four hundred Marks; ſo that the expences, which eight men ſo elect ſhall then beſtow, will ſurmount to the ſum of three thouſand and two hundred Marks: of which expences one parcel ſhall be this;

Every of them ſhall give Rings of Gold to the value of forty pounds ſterling at the leaſt; and your Chancellor well remembreth, that at what time he received this ſtate and degree, the Rings which he then gave, ſtood him in fifty pounds. For every ſuch Serjeant, at the day of his creation, uſeth to give unto every Prince, Duke, and Archbiſhop being preſent at that ſolemnity; and to the Lord Chancellor and Lord Treaſurer of England, a Ring of the value of xxvi*s.* 8 d.

And to every Earl and Biſhop, being likewiſe preſent, and alſo to the Lord Privy Seal; to both the Lords Chief Juſtices, and to the Lord Chief Baron of the King's Exchequer, a Ring of the value of xx s.

And to every Lord Baron of the Parliament; and to every Abbot and notable Prelate, and Worſhipful Knight, being then preſent; and alſo to the Maſter of the Rolls, and to every Juſtice, a Ring of the value of a Mark; and likewiſe to every Baron of the Exchequer, to the Chamberlains, and to all the Officers and notable men ſerving in the King's Courts. Rings of a ſmaller price, but agreeable to their Eſtates, to whom they are given. Cap. 42.

Inſomuch that there ſhall not be a Clerk, eſpecially in the Court of Common Bench, but he ſhall receive a Ring convenient for his degree: and beſides theſe, they give divers Rings to other of their friends.

Liveries then given by them.

They give alſo Liveries of Cloth in one Suit or Colour, in great aboundance; not only to their Houſhold meany, but alſo to their other friends and acquaintance; which during the time of the aforeſaid ſolemnity, ſhall attend and wait upon them.

Wherefore, though in the Univerſities, they that are promoted to the degree of Doctors, do ſuſtain no ſmall charges at the time of their Commencement, as in giving of Bonets and other rich gifts; yet they give no Gold, nor do beſtow any other gifts or coſts like unto thoſe expences.

No ſuch degree but in England.

Neither in any Countrey of the World, is there any ſpecial degree given in the Laws of the ſame Land, but only in the Realm of England: Neither is there any man of Law throughout the univerſal World, which by reaſon of his Office or profeſſion, gaineth ſo much as one of theſe Serjeants.

None to be a Juſtice in any of the Kings Courts, but of this degree.

No man alſo, be he never ſo cunning and skilful in the Laws of the Realm, ſhall be exalted to the Office and Dignity of a Juſtice in the Court of Common Pleas before the King; or in the Court of the Common Bench, which are the chief ordinary Courts of the ſame Realm, unleſs he be firſt promoted to the ſtate and degree of a Serjeant at Law: neither ſhall any man, but only ſuch a Serjeant, plead in the Court of the Common Bench, where all real actions are pleaded.

None to plead in the Court of Common Pleas, but a Serjeant.

Wherefore to this ſtate and degree hath no man been hitherto admitted, except he hath firſt continued by the ſpace of ſixteen years in the ſaid general ſtudy of the Law: And in token or ſigne that all Juſtices are thus graduate, every of them always, whileſt he ſitteth in the King's Court, weareth a white Quoif of Silk, which is the principal and chief inſign-

None to be admitted to this degree, under xvi. years ſtudy of the Law.

The Coif the principal enſignement of this degree.

IN primis, in every howſe of the fower Innes of Court, upone Fridaye affore ther Creaſions, abowte iii. of the clock at After noone, the companye aſſemblith, the new Serjaunts of every Howſe thene beyng in ther Innes, in ther own chaumbers. And after that the companye is ſoo aſſembled in ther Halle, thence comyth downe to theme the newe Serjaunts: and after that the newe Serjaunts be ſoo come downe to the companye, thene all they ſtondynge togeder, the moſt auncyent of the company rehearſith the maner of lernynge and ſtody, gevynge lawde and preyce to theme that have well uſid theme, ſhewenge what wurſhipp and profite comythe and growith by reaſone of the ſame, in proffe whereoffe, thoſe newe Serjaunts for ther konnynge, diſcrecione, and wyſdome be callide by the Kyng's Highnes, and his honorabill Councelle, to the gret promocyone and dignytie of the Office of a Serjaunt of the Lawe: And thene he gevythe them a lawde and preyce for ther gode converſacione, and peyne, and diligence, that they have takyne and uſed in ther ſtodye, preſentynge to theme the rewarde of the Howſe, beſechyng theme to be gode, and kynde to the companye. Cap. 44.

And thene, thoſe newe Serjaunts geve onto the companye thanks, and preye the companye to be gode and kynde to theme, and they ſhall alweys owe their favors and love to theme; ageyne, gevynge a gret lawde onto the maners of the howſe wher thorough they have atteynid to ther konnyng and promocyon. And after that doone, the newe Serjaunts goo togedyr oon of theme takyng anoder be the arme, and goo forth toward the place, whereas the Serjaunts feeſt ſhall be kepte: and all the companye, as they be in auncyentie folow theme twoo and twoo togedyr: and when they come to the place wher as the Serjaunt's feeſt ſhall be kepte; ther ſhall be redy to receyve theme at ther fyrſt entryng into that place, the hie Styward and Countroller, which ſhalle convey them into the place, where as they ſhall have ſpiced bredde, comfeits and oder godely conceyts with ypocras. After which rekreatione, the newe Serjaunts

Cap. 44. jaunts goo to ther chaumbers, and the companye of Court gooith home ageyne to ther places. And upone Satyrday then next followeng, all the Judges and olde Serjaunts come from Weſtminſter to the place wher the newe Serjaunts be to Dyner; and when Dyner is doone, then all the Iuges and old Serjaunts depart, except the chieffe Iuſtice of the Comyne place, which chieffe Iuſtice of the Comyne place goith into a ſecrete chaumber with the chieffe Pronotare and the ſecund Pronotare, and then the chieff Juſtice of the Comyne place cauſith the Styward of the feſte to ſpeke to the newe Serjaunts to come before hym in the ſeid ſecrete place; and ther he gevyth to them a godely exortacione, after which exortacione doone, then the eldeſt Serjaunt begynnyth after the maner of motyng to trete upone the Writte, that he will trete and plede upone.

And then the next of the newe Serjaunts in auncient make the defence, and axeth heryng of the Writte; and then the chieff Pronotary redith that Writte: and then the ſeid ſecund newe Serjaunt emparleth; and after that the ſecund newe Serjaunt doith in like maner, and the ſecund Pronotary redith the ſecund Writte; and ſoo the thyrd and the fourthe in like maner, &c.

And after all theis thyngs doone the chieff Juſtice of the Comyne place departith home to his lodgyng, and the newe Serjaunts to ther chaumbers, &c.

And upone Sondaye then next foloweng, the chieff Juſtice of the Comyne place, with all the oder Juſtices and olde Serjaunts, aboute ix. of the clok, goo to the chieff Juſtice lodgyng of the Kyng's Benche; and then all they togedyr in a godely order goo to the place, wher as the newe Serjaunts be then a waytyng upone them, the ſeid ii. Pronotaries and the Wardeyne of the Flete with his ſervaunts, and the Marſhall of the Comyne place with all his Cryours, and the old Serjaunts ſervaunts, and in the newe Serjaunts lyvere.

And then they goo into a grete chaumber wher the companye of Court aſſembleth: and ther all the Juſtices ſett in a godely order, and the olde Serjaunts ſtonding nygh to them in ane order, with the ſeid ii. Pronotaries, then the ſeid Styward of the feſte, by the commaundement of the Juſtice, goith to the newe Serjaunts to bryng them before them, which come in ane order ii. and ii. togeder, and every oone of them a ſurvaunt with a ſcarlet Hode one his arme, and a Serjaunt's Coiff in his hande. Serjeants at Law.

And the newe Serjaunts ſet them ſylff in an order, the oldeſt in the mydds ſtondyng arowe in new blewe gowns cloſe affore with hooll ſleeves; and ſoo ſtondyng in ane order, the chieff Juſtice of the Kyng's Benche gevyth a godely exortacione.

After which doone, the ſeid newe Serjaunts, and the ſeid ii. Pronotaries uſe them ſylff in declaracions and redyng of the ſeid Writtes, in fourme affore reherſid.

And after that done, the oldeſt newe Serjaunt knelyth affore the chieff Juſtice of the Kyng's Bench; and all the oder newe Serjaunts in ane order, knele down affore the oder Juſtices, and every Juſtice puttith upone the newe Serjaunts ſoo knelyng, ther coyffs, and ther ſcarlet Hodes abowte ther nekks.

And that doone, they riſe uppe, and make dewe curteſye, and departe ii. and ii. togeder to ther Chaumbers: and then, all the Juſtices goo down into the Hall to dyner; and then come all the newe Serjaunts with ther ſeid Coiffs upone ther Hedes, and ther ſeid Hodes aboute ther nekks, and ſtonde arowe oone by anoder along affore the Table on the Sowth ſide in the Hall. And then all the Juges waſſhe and ſitt downe, and the chieff Juſtice of the Kyng's Benche commaundith all the newe Serjaunts to waſſhe, and ſit downe, which ſitte downe in ane order, oone a lytell diſtaunce from anoder, and ych of them hath a Karvar ſtondyng before hym, and two of the newe Serjaunts ſitt at oone meſe, and ſo dyne with ſober countenance and lytell communycacion.

Serjeants at Law.

And after that they have denyd, they rise up and goe afore the Justices, and make dewe obedience to them, and then stonde ageyne in lyke prder as they did affore they satte downe.

And afterward the Justices arise and wasie and geffe thanks onto the newe Serjaunts for ther gode Dyner.

And then the newe Serjaunts make newe curtesie, gevyng thanks onto the Justices for ther peyne.

And then the Justices departe home to ther lodgyngs, and the newe Serjaunts to ther chaumbers, &c.

And upone Mondaye then next foloweng, the newe Serjaunts goo soberly to Westminster aboute ix. of the clock affore noone, the eldest affore, and the next auncient foloweng and soo to the yongest.

And affore the newe Serjaunts goo the Wardeyne of the Fleet, and the chieff Marchall of the Comyne Place, and ther Offycers and servaunts in ther Lyverees.

And after the newe Serjaunts goo ther owne serveaunts in ther lyverees; and they goo fyrst thorough the Kyng's streite to Seynt Edward, and ther offer.

And then they goo to ower Lady of Pewe, and ther they offer; and then they come into the Hall, and stonde severally with ther bakks to the Tabyll affore the Comyne Place, affore the Juges: and soo stondying in ane order, the old Serjaunts goo to my Lorde Chaunceller; and then come with hym my Lord Treasorer and my Lorde Pryve Seall into the Comyne Place with the Judges of the Kyng's Benche, and all they with the Judges of the Comyne Place sitt down in the Comyne Place.

And after that they be sette, the chieff Justice of the Comyne Place comandith ii. of the olde Serjaunts to fetch the eldest of the newe Serjaunts. And then those ii. old Serjants goo and take the eldest of the newe Serjaunts by the armes bytwene them; and at the Table coming forward, they iii. togeder make a lowe curtesie, and ageyn in the myddis of the Hall a lyke curtesie; and when they come to the Barre, a lyke curtesie; and they come thorough a lane made mete and redy for them by the Wardeine of the Flete, and the seid Marchall, and ther Offycers. Cap. 44.

And when they be soo at the Barre, the seid eldest newe Serjaunt soo brought to the Barre, seith after this manner, My Lorde Brudenell, John at Style, ad sue cye devaunt vous une breff de &c. envers Robert Downe, prid q' il soit demaunde.

And then the chiefest Pronotare shall seye cye per Attorney.

And then the seid eldest newe Serjaunt shall declare upone his Writte.

And after declaracion made, the eldest of the olde Serjaunts shall make his defence and praye heryng of the Writte; and then the seid chieffe Pronotare shall rede the Writte; and then the seid eldest of the olde Serjaunts shall emparle.

And then he that dealith the Ryngs for the eldest of the newe Serjaunts, shall rise up as he sittyth amonge the Offycers of the Comyne Place, and shall stonde upone the myddes of the borde of the Comyne Place, and ther make a lowe curtesie, and then he shall come and steppe upon the Benche bytwene bothe the Pronotaries, and ther he shall knele down before my Lord Chaunceler; and seye; that the seid eldest of the new Serjaunts recomendith hym to his Grace; and sendith hym a tokyne of his Creasione, and kysse it, and delyver it to hym: and in lyke maner he shall delyver a Ryng to my Lord Treasorer: and anoder to my Lord Prive Seall, and anoder to the chief Justice of the Kyng's Benche; and anoder to the chieff Justice of the Comyne Place; and so forth to the oder Justices, Pronotaries, and oder Officers of the Place.

And then shall the secund and the third of the eldest of the olde Serjaunts fetche the secund of the newe Serjaunts and demean themsylff as the fyrst dyd; and the secund Pronotare shall read the Writte.

And then he that shall deal the Rungs for hym shall demeane hym

Cap. 44. hym ſylff as the fyrſt dealer dyd.

And after lyke maner, ſhall the reſidew of the eldeſt and newe Serjaunts and ther dealers demean them ſylff.

And when all that is doone, then my Lord Chaunceller ſhall geff them thanks for ther Rynge, and a gret commendation, and hys ſoleme blyſſing.

All which doone, my Lord Chaunceller and the ſeid Judges, and olde Serjaunts goo homward, to the Feſt.

And after them goo the ſeid newe Serjaunts with ther Officers, as they came forth.

And when thoſe newe Serjaunts come home, they goo to ther chaumbers to ther wyffs and freends, and ther have ther hool ſervyces brought to them by ther Clerks: And Gentilmen of Court ſerve ther that daye according to ther lots, &c.

And when the ſeid newe Serjaunts have denyed, then they goo in a ſober maner with ther ſeid Offycers and Servaunts into London, oone the Eſt ſide of Chepe Syde, one to Seynt Thomas of Acres, and ther they offer, and then come down on the Weſt ſyde of Chepe Syde to Powles, and ther offer at the Rode of the North door, at Seynt Erkenwald's Shrine, and then goo down into the body of the Chirche, and ther they be appoyntid to ther Pyllyrs by the Styward and Countroller of the feſte, which brought them thidder with the oder Officers.

And after that doone, they goo home ageyne to the place of the feſt, &c.

And upone Teweſdaye, the ſeid newe Serjaunts goo ageyn in ſober maner to Weſtminſter, with the ſeid Wardeyne of the Fleet and the Marchall, and oder Offycers afore them, and ther ſervants after them in ther lyverees; and goo thorough Weſtminſter-Hall, onto ower Lady of Pews; and after come down ageyne into Weſtminſter Hall to the Tabyll ageynſt the Comene place, and they ſtondyng with ther bakkys ageynſt the ſame Tabyll, the ſeid Officers take ther leve of the ſeid newe Serjaunts.

And then, when the Court is doone, the ſeid newe Serjaunts goo home ſeverally with ther owne ſervaunts, and no more with them, excepte ſuch as lyſte to ſpeke with them for cauſis. Serjeants at Law.

And then afterward the Juſtices of the Comyne Place appoynte them a daye iiii. or v. dayes after that, to argue ther matter in Lawe appoynted to them a ſevenyght affore ther Creacione, &c.

Cap. XLV.

The order in making of Serjaunts at Law, 1 Edw. 6. viz. Mr. Whiddone, Mr. Meynill, Mr. Croke, Mr. Morgan, Mr. Pollard, and Mr. Coke.

THeh the ſyxe new Sergeaunts here after named, which were elected. and had their Writts in Trinite Term afore, to appere before the Juſtices, and reſceyve ther charge according to their Vocation in Craſtino Purificationis beatæ Mariæ, which was the Thurſdaye next after the deyth of the ſeid Kyng Henry the 8. whoſe ſowle God pardone, they had newe Writs agene delivered to theme of lyke effect with the olde, returnable the ſame daye. Ex cod. nigro MS. vocato. the black book of Lincolns Inn 178. b. (4.)

And the ſeid newe Sergeaunts proceeded, and kept their feaſte at Lincholnes Inne, by the appoyntement, and at the ſpecyal requeſt of the ſeid Lorde Wriotheſley thene Lorde Chauncelor, as followeth.

Uppone the ſeid Thurſdaye in the mornynge beyng the next day after Candlemas daye, and the thirde daye of February, came ine to Lincholnes Inne Hall Sir Richard Lyſter Knighte, Chief Juſtice of England, Sir Edward Mountague Knighte, Chief Juſtice of the Comen place, Sir Roger Cholmeley Knight, Chief Baron of the Eſcheker, and other the Juſtices of bothe Benches, and Barons of the Eſcheker; and all the olde Sergeaunts; viz. Mr. Molineux, Mr. Hales, Mr. Harres, and Mr. Saunders; and after that the Juſtices Justices were there sett uppone the Benche; and after every of the seid newe Sergeaunts of other Howses of Courte were browght that mornyng in lyke maner, with all their cumpanyes and felawshippe severally to their several Chambers in Lincholnes Inne; and from thens the seid newe Sergeaunts being conveyed to the Library, there then came down into the Hall, and before them went the Wardene of the Flete, and his Men with Tipstaves, all in the seid Sergeaunts Lyvere, and Mr. Crafford, oone of the auncyent Benchers of Lincholns Inn their Steward, and Mr. Rollewood of Lincholnes Inne aforesaid, chief Pronotary of the Comen place, their Comptroller, in the seid Sergeaunts Livere, Gownes also furred with Martrons, and eche of them a great Cheyne of Golde abowte his neck, and a whyte stafe ine his hande, ine lyke wyse camme before the seid newe Sergeaunts, whose names nowe orderly followe; viz. Mr. Whiddone of the Inner Temple, Mr. Meynell of Lincholnes Inne, Mr. Croke of the seid Inner Temple, Mr. Morgane of Lincholnes Inne aforeseid, Mr. Pollard of the Middle Temple, and Mr. Coke of Grayes Inne; these sixe newe elected Sergeaunts stonding before the seid Justices there beyng placed on the Bench; and afterward a godly, thowghe sumwhat prolixe and long Declaration of their seid duties and exhortation to their full following and execution of the same, accordingly made to them by the seid Sir Richard Lyster Chief Justice of England, and their Writts and Declarations rehersed, their Coyfes were severall put on their heads; and ther Hoods in lyke wyse delivered to them.

And then the Justices so departing from Lincholnes Inne, went to Westminster about 10 of the Clock in the forenoon of the same day.

And then, shortly after, the seid newe Sergeaunts went also to Westminster Hall, and from thens to our Lady of Pewes Chappell, and then came agene into Westminstir Hall, and there orderly over ageynst the Comen place; to the barre of which place were they solempnely browghte oon after ane other, by ii. of the olde Sergeaunts; and the seid Wardene of the Flete, from time to time, particulerly, went afore every of theme. Cap. 45.

And there rehersed they eche of them ageyne ther several Writts and Declarations; and then dyd gyve Rynges to the Magistrates and Judges, there being placed accordyng to their degrees; as to the Lord Wriotheseley, Lord Chancelor of England, to the Lord Russell, Lord Prevy Seale, to the Lord Seint John Lord great Master and Presedent of the Kyngs Magesties most honorable Counsell; to the twoo chief Justices, and to as many of the other Justices as cowde then there convenyently sitt.

And this ended, the seid Lord Chancelor, and th' other Lords and Judges camme that daye to dynner at Lincholnes Inne; and thyther camme also to dynner my Lord Mayer of Londone, with certene Aldermene, and the Sheriffs of the Citie, and sum other men of Worshyppe, and Gentlemene besydes, which were bidden to the Feaste, (and but a fewe other) where they were all honorably resceyved, thowgh ther dynner was not Epicuryous nor very sumptuous; but yet moderately discretely and sufficiently ordered, with a wyse temperaunce, withoute greate excesse or superfluyte, as it was moste convenyent, and to learned Lawers, and sobre and experte Cownselors was most decent, and requisyte.

At the seid dinner the hyghe Table was furnyshed principally with my seid Lord Chauncelor, and other noble menne, Lords, and Gentlemenne of Woorshipp, and good callynge: At the second Table, beyng one the Northe syde of the seid Halle, dyd sytt my seid Lord Mayer with the Aldermene, Shirefes of the Citie, and divers other Gentlemene; as Mr. Carrell, Attorney of the Duchy, Mr. Chidley Attorney of the Tenthes, with soche other of woorshipful calling: The third Boorde of the Southsyde of the seyd Halle was ryght

Cap. 45. ryght woorshypfully and cumly furnished with the sage Judges of the Laws, the moste notable and profownde Cownselors, the olde Sergeaunts; and the two expert, discrete, grave, and depe stodyed menne yne the seid Lawes, Mr. Bradshawe of the Inner Temple, the Kyng's general Attorney, and Mr. Griffyne of Lincolnes ynne the Kyngs Magesties general Sollicitor: At the fourthe Boorde one the seid Southsyde of the Halle, dyd orderly sytt upon the Bench, all of oone syde, the seid newe Sergeaunts, every of them in their auncientye: At the fifth Table on the seid Northe syde of the seid Halle, did sit Gentlemene of a meaner callyng.

The Halle being thus furnysshed, the Benchers of Lincholnes ynne did see the seid dynner ine good course served; and thene they themeselves furnished uppe the Table in the mydds of the Halle, toward the lower end thereof, commawndyng certene other Gentlemene of Lincholnes ynne, of the most sobre, and wyse sorte, to several places in the Halle, apyoynted to wayte and attende all the seid dynner to the service thereof; which with all diligens they executed accordingly.

And whene dynner was solempneley finished, the Lorde Chauncelor, with the othet Lordes departed frome Lincholnes ynne about twoo of the clock in the after noone.

And withyn ane howre after, the seid newe Sergeaunts went to Paules, and there eche of theme stode at thejr several Pillers in the body of the Church accordyng to the auncyent custome in that case used; and frome thens they camme to Sergeaunt's ynne, every of theme to their several Chambers, and there remayned.

And thus ended, this honorable Sergeaunts Feaste with all the circumstances and proces moche to their praise, woorshippe, and perpetual fame woorthy commendation.

And it is farther to be remembred, that the twoo newe Sergeaunts of Lincholnes ynne; viz. Mr. Meynell, and Mr. Morgane, the nyght before they were made Sergeaunts, were called ineto the Chappell of Lincholnes ynne, and there after an ornate Oration, made to theme by the ryght woorshipful Mr. Baron Pilsbarowghe, in the presence of my Masters of the Benche, and all the cumpany of the Gentlemene, and of the felawshipe of the seid Howse, every of the seid Sergeaunte had thene to hyme deliverd in the name of the seid whole felawshippe, as of their free gyfte and rewarde, towards their charges vi.l. in a purse; which was gathered of all the cumpany of the Howse; and a good summe besides which was delyvered to Mr. Foster Treasorer of Lincholnes ynne; which money was payde after the rate of xld. every Gentlemane, whereof my Masters of the Benche payd nothing, nor were contributary to the same.

the iiii. Innes of Courte beinge, and caused their names to be written in a bill, and delivered to the Queens heighnes, and her grace did electe and pricke those seaven in that bill; and after that, ther warrant was made and signed, and other writts sealed and delivered to them to appeere, and take upon them the saide estate and degree in xva. Michaelis then nexte followinge: And then in Tryntye Tearme then next before that Michelmas Tearme, the saide seaven Serjaunts elected, did desire the saide three old Serjaunts to a supper, and then and there communed with them, of the makeinge of ther Steward and Comptrowler and their Officers, and of other things towcheinge their saide degrees and doings &c.

Yf the holl Tearme had holden they should then have appeared the daye next before.

Item the saide Michelmas Tearme by means of the Pestelence in London was adjourned to Mense Michaelis and after to Crastino Martini, which was on a fridaye: And then that day being the firste daye of the sittinge of Courts in Westminster hall, theise Serjaunts elected, aboute ten of the Clock appeared in the Chancerey, and went thether in Westminster haull, and the Warden of the Fleete before them; and then their writts were shewed, and stode arowe in ancyenty, and the auncyent of them stode next to the Kings benche, and then after exhortation given to them by Sir Nicholas Bacon Knight, Lorde Keeper of the great seal of England, howe to behave themselves in their Vocations, and howe they should be discreet; for out of ther flock may come the Judges of this Realm, &c. And then they weare severally sworn; and after that the ancyent of those seaven saide to the saide Lorde Keeper theise words or other in effect as do follow, scil. Yf it please yowe my Lorde Keeper, by the ancyent order in this Realme, yt hath been accustomed, that the newe Sergeants at ther Creation, should give to the King or Queens heighnes of this Realme for the time being, a Ring of gold, in token of ther duties and thancks to ther Majesty; And also hath byn the olde custome that the same Serjaunts should humbly desire the Lord Chauncelor of this Realme, or the Lord Keeper of the great Seale of England for the time beinge, to receive that Ringe of them, and to deliver it to his or her Majestie; therefore I and my brethren here most humblye beseeche your good Lordshipp, to take this ring and to deliver the same accordinglie. And then he to kysse that ringe and sende it upp to him, and he kisseth his hand and taketh it and promisseth to deliver it; and then the saide Lord Keeper adjorneth them to appere in the Common place in the Tewisdaye next after. And then they went ageine into the Haull to ther places ageine, in the North side of the Haull, with the Warden of the Fleete before them; and after home to ther houses. And after that in that daye aboute fowre of the clock in the after none they appered all seaven before Sir James Dyer, Knight, Cheffe Justice of the Common place, at his Chamber in Serjaunts Inne, with the two Cheeff Prothonotaries with them, and ther the saide Cheffe Justice declared their vocation what the Law is, and rehearsed Scripture that the Law was grounded cheeffely upon God, and that Mr. Fortescue saide Quod Lex est sanctio sancta, jubens honesta & prohibens contr ria. And declared that all vertues have been conteyned in honestye: And he also rehearsed to them the effect of ther Writts, and of the olde Oth; and also did councell them not to use delayes, nor to give deceytfull councell to take away anye mans right by untrue vowchers, in forme doones; not to be captious one upon another, nor to mocke one another; but to be discreete, to ride with six horses and ther Sumpter in longe Jorneys; to werr ther habite most commonlye in all places at good Assemblies; and to ride in a shorte Gowne; to keep the common place barre; he saide Melius est modicum justo super divitias peccatorum multas, & injusti punientur; & semen impiorum peribit; justi autem hæreditabunt terram, &c.

Sir James Dyer Knight.

And then and their after that, the auncyent Serjaunt elect they all stondinge a rowe before the same Lorde

In manner of moteinge in Frenche.

Cap. 46. Lord Cheefe Juſtice in auncyentye, did declare to him his Writt and Declaration: And the ſecond newe Serjaunt next him did make defence thereto; and asked hearinge of the writt: And the cheefe Prothonotary ſtandinge by the firſte of the leaft ſide did reade it; And that done, the ſaide ſecond Serjeant did imparle, and everie other of them did ſo; And the ſecond Prothonotary to the ſecond Serjaunt did reede the ſecond writt, and ſo the firſt and the ſecond and all the reſt; and that done they had licence to deperte.

All in reall actions.

And on the ſaide twiſdaye next followeing, the ſaid Serjaunts elected in the houſes of Courte, came before all the companye of ther ſaide houſe at the Cupborde ther aboute eight of the Clock in the mornynge; and then the moſt auncyent of the companye of that houſe rehearſed the manner of learninge ſaide giving lawde and prayſe to them, that they have ſo well uſed themſelves, ſhewinge what worſhipp and profytt comethe and growethe by reaſon of the ſame; in proffe whereof thoſe newe Serjaunts for ther connynge, diſcretion and wyſdome, be called by the Quenes heighneſs and her honorable Counſell to great promotion and dignity of the Office of a Serjaunt att the Law; and then he givethe them lawde and prayſe for ther good converſation, paine, and diligence that they have taken and uſed in ther ſtudy, preſenting to them the reward of the Houſe; deſireing them to be good and kynde to the companye; And then thoſe newe Serjaunts give unto the companye greate thancks, and praye them likewiſe to be good and kinde to them; and they ſhall allwaye ſhew ther favor and love to them ageine, giveinge a great lawde and prayſe to the manners and orders of that Houſe, where thoroughe they have attayned to ther learnynge and promotion: And after that done the ſaide newe Serjaunts go together one of them takeinge the other by the arme, and goe forth towards the place where the newe Serjaunts feaſt ſhall be kept into ther ſeveral Chambers there before appoynted; and all the companye as they be in auncientye follow them two and two together, &c.

Serjeants at Law made Term. Mich. 19. Eliz.

And then they mete all together in one chamber, and ther put on their browne blewe Gowns, and one of everie ther cheefe Clarkes, do beare ther skarlett Hodd uppon bothe his Armes, and the tayle thereof uppon ther right ſhoulder; and the Quoyff lieinge upon the myddeſt of that Hodd, and followe ſo everie his Maſter, and then the Warden of the Fleete with his men and Typſtaves, the Marſhall of the Common place with his Cryers, the Steward and the Comptrowler go before them into the Haull, and ther in the upper end of that Haull, do ſit redye, the cheeffe Juſtice of England in the myddeſt; the cheeffe Juſtice of the Common place on his left hand; and the cheeffe Baron on his right hand; and ſo every other Juſtice on both Benches in ther auncyentye; and then the eldeſt olde Serjaunt ſtandinge at the right hand of the ſaide Juſticyes, at the end of the rowe by the laſt Juſtice, and the Steward and the cheeff Prothonotary by him; and the ſecond olde Serjaunte at the other ende of the rowe of thoſe Juſtices, the Comptrowler, and ſecond Prothonotary by him; and ſo the other olde Serjaunts ſtand in order, ſome att the one end and ſome att the other; and then and ther Sir Chriſtopher Wray Knight, Lorde cheeffe Juſtice of England, Sir James Dyer Knight, Cheeffe Juſtice of the Common place, Sir John Jeffrye Knight, lately before made Cheeffe Baron of The exchequer, Mr. Southcote Juſtice, Mr. Manwood Juſtice, Mr. Mounſon Juſtice, Mr. Thomas Gaudye Juſtice, ſittinge together in a rowe in auncyentye; and the ſaid Sir Chriſtopher Wraye in the myddeſt of them, and the auncyent new Serjaunt ſtood before him in the myddeſt of his brethren over againſt him, about two yards from him; and all his newe Brethren in auncyenty on either ſide of him; and ther ſaide Clarks next behind them; and the ſaide Marſhall and Warden, of the Fleete did ſtand, the one att the one ende, and the other att the other ende of them: And then the ſaide Cheeffe Juſtice made a godlye exhortation to them ſayinge, Ambulate in vocatione in qua vocati eſtis, &c. and then exhorted them to ſidelytie and ſecretneſſe, and then to circumſpect prudence, and ſaide Malum Conſilium eſt Conſultori peſſimum; and ſaide that their Quoyff hath two things in it; videlicet, It is a Helmet or Sallet, that they ſhould not feare having that on to ſpeake bowldly the Law, & eſt ſicut veſtis candida & immaculata, and they mighte weare it in place of Juſtice before the King's preſens; and ther partye garment and hoodd betokeneth prudence and temperancye. They were the olde Collers uſed in this Realme in Judges in King Edward the Confeſſors tyme; and the Taberte and Gowne is cloſe to ther bodies and girte, and not open before; that ſheweth that they ſhould be ſecret to their Clyents, not diſcloſeinge ther Councell: Ther two tongs and ther taberts declarethe, that they ſhould have one tonge for the poore, another for the riche; and their rings that they give be of gold which is one of the beſt Mettells; the ſame betokenethe ther bountifulneſſe; they be round, they have no end; it ſheweth ther integrity. The Prophett ſayethe, ambula coram me & ſis integer, that is, holle and ſound in ther vocation; and ſaid, Cavete de avaritia, ambitione, negligentia, & exceſſu; & diſcite cultum Dei, reverentiam ſuperiori, fortitudinem in danſa Clientis, fidelitatem Clienti, & miſericordiam pauperi, &c. And ſome Cheeffe Juſtice hath begune ſayeinge, Hortamur vos, ne gratiam hanc in vacuum recipiatis; and declared what that grace was, and ſaid, Sepe aures tuas ſpinis, & linguam nequam noli audire; auri tuo facite oſtia, & ſeras auribus tuis. And ſome other Cheffe Juſtice beganne ſayinge, Omne datum optimum & donum perfectum deſurſum eſt; and he expounded it, &c.

And then when the ſaide Sir Chriſtofer Wraye had made an ende of that his ſaide good exhortation, the ſaid auncyent newe Serjaunt, firſte nameinge the Cheeffe Juſtice of the Common place, dothe rehearſe his writt and declaration, and the auncyent olde Serjaunte dothe therto make defence, and aske hearinge of the writt; and then the Cheffe Prothonotarye ther redethe it formallye to the end: and the ſecond old Serjaunt thereto imparleth, and ſo after do all the reſidue of the old and new Serjaunts, one after another, &c. And that done, the ſaid auncyent of the newe Serjaunts knelethe down before the ſaide Juſtice of England, and ſo do all the other newe Serjaunts in order knele down before everie of the other Juſtices, and everie of the Juſtices putteth on and knyttathe (the ſaide newe Serjaunts ſo kneleinge) ther Quoyffs, and layethe ther ſkarlett Hooddes about ther necks a Croſſe behynde; and the tayle thereof uppon everie of ther right ſhoulders: And that done, they ryſe upp and make lowe curtſye, and deperte in ther ancyenties, with ther ſaide Officers before them to their Chambers ageine, and then all the ſaide Juſtices go to Weſtminſter haull to ther places, and the ſaid newe Serjaunts do put on ther partye Gownes and ther Hoods, and ther Taberts upon that, the tayle of the Hood being pulled over the Tabart behynde, and the Quoyffe on ther heads, and goe ſoberlye a rowe one after other to Weſtminſter aboute or before Tenne of the clock; the auncyent before, and the next auncyent followeinge him; and ſo to the youngeſt; And before the ſaide newe Serjaunts goe the Servaunts of the Serjaunts go the ſervaunts of the Marſhall of Common place in ther lyverys; the Marſhall of the Common place and the Warden of the Fleete on his left hand, and then the Steward and the Comptrowler on his lower hande, with ther two white ſtaves and longe Gownes of the newe Serjaunts lyveries, furred with Marternes and Chaynes of gold about ther necks: And then next them followe the newe

Cap. 46.

Cap. 46. newe Serjaunts in order as aforesaid; and next after the newe Serjaunts followe ther owne servaunts in ther lyvery; and they go first into the King's street, and so to Westminster Churche; and ther knelinge downe, say ther prayers to Allmighty God; and then the come into Westminster haull, and stonde severlye with ther backs to the Table before the Common place before the Judges; and then be set in the common place the Lorde Chancelour, or Lorde Keeper of the great Seale; and many of the Privye Councell, and all the Judges of both Benches: And then the Cheeffe Justice of the Common place commandeth two of the olde Serjaunts to fetche the auncyent newe Serjaunt to the Barr; and then they go with the Steward Comptrowler, Marshall, and Warden of the Fleete before them; and take the eldest of the new Serjaunts by the Armes between them; and at the Table comeinge forthward, they thre together make a lowe Curtsye, and so againe in the myddest of the Haull a like Curtseye; and when they come to the Barr, a like Curtsey; and they come thorough a lane made meet and redye by the Warden of the Fleete for them and the saide Marshall and other Officers, &c.

And when they be at the Barr, the saide eldest newe Serjaunt, so brought to the Barr, saithe after this manner, scil. Yf it please you my Lord Dyer, I S ad sue cy devaunte vous un breve, &c. envers C D & pria que ill soit dd. And then the Cheeffe Prothonotary shall saye, Cy per Attorney; and the said newe Serjaunt shall declare uppon his writt; and after declaration made, the eldest of the old Serjaunts shall make defence, and praye hereinge of the writt; and the saide Prothonotarye shall reede it, and the second olde Serjaunt shall imparle; and then the said eldest Serjaunt, settethe the saide newe auncyent Serjaunt, at the Northe end of that Barr, and then and there, after he that dealeth the rings for the saide auncyent newe Serjaunt shall ryse upp, as he settethe amongst the Officers of the Common place, and shall stande uppon the myddest of the borde of the Common place, and ther make a lowe Curtsey; and then he shall come and stepp before the Benche betwen the two Prothonotaryes, and ther he shall kneele downe before the Lorde Chauncelor, and saye that the Cheeffe of the newe Serjaunts dothe commend him unto his Lordshipp, and sendethe him a token of his Creation, and kysse the Rynge and deliverethe it to him; and in lyke manner he shall deliver a Rynge to the Lorde Treasurer; and after to the Lorde Privye Seale; and another to the Chiefe Justice of the Kings Benche; and another to the Cheeffe Justice of the Common place; and so forthe to the other Justices and Prothonotaryes, and other Officers of the place. And in that tyme shall the second and thirde of the Eldest of the saide olde Serjaunts fetche the second of the saide newe Serjaunts, and demeane themselves as the firste did; and the second Prothonotary shall say, Ci per Attorney, and reade the writt: And then he that shall deale Rings for the second newe Serjaunt, shall demeane himselfe as the firste dealer did: And after the like manner shall the residue of the eldest and newe Serjaunts and ther dealers demeane themselves as the firste did. And then when all is done, Then the eldest of the olde Serjaunts shall put a shorte Case materiall to the Cheeffe Justice of the Common Plees; and he maye yf he have tyme saye his mynde to it, or els saye that he will hear it the next daye: And then when all that is done, then the Lorde Chauncelor doethe give them thancks for ther Rings and Commendation, and then the Lorde Chauncelour, &c. and the olde Serjaunts, &c. go homewarde to the Feste; and after them go the newe Serjaunts with ther Officers and Servants, as they came forthe. And when these newe Serjaunts come home, they go to ther Chambers and put of that habitte, and put on ther browne, blewe, and sharlett hoodes over bothe ther shoulders behinde aboute ther necks, and ther Quoyffs on; and then the saide

CAP. XLVII.

Serjeants Feaſts.

TOuching theſe, I ſhall here exhibite what I have found amongſt our Hiſtorians, or otherwiſe, whereby the antient grandure of them may be the better diſcerned.

In [a] Ely Houſe, for the large and commodious roomes thereof (ſaith John Stow) divers great and ſolemn Feaſts have been kept, eſpecially by the Serjeants at the Law, whereof twayne are to be noted for poſterity: The firſt in the yeare 1464. 4 Edw. 4ti. in Michaelmaſs Terme, the Serjeants at Law held their Feaſt in this Houſe; to the which, amongſt other Eſtates Mathew Philip Major of London, with the Aldermen, Shireeves, and Commons of divers Crafts being invited, did repaire: but when the Major looked to keep the State in the Hall, as it had been uſed in all places within the City and Liberties (out of the King's preſence) the Lord Grey of Ruthin, then Lorde Treaſurer of England, unwitting the Serjeants, and againſt their Wills (as they ſaide) was firſt placed. Whereupon the Mayor, Aldermen, and Commons departed home; and the Mayor made the Aldermen to dine with him: Howbeit he, and all the Citizens were wonderfully diſpleaſed that he was ſo dealt with; and the newe Serjeants and others were right ſorry therefore and had rather than much good (as they ſaid) it had not ſo hapned.

Holinſh. Chron. in an. 1495. p. 779.

In the 10th. of Henry 7th. on the xxvith. of November, the Serjeants Feaſt was alſo held at Ely Houſe; where dined the King, Queen, and all the Chief Lords of England; the new Serjeants names being Mr. Mondant, Higham, Kingſmill, Comiſbye, Butler, Takeſley Frowick, Oxenbridg, and Conſtable.

Serjeants Feaſts.

In the 19th. of Henry 7th. 19 Nov. the Serjeants Feaſt was holden within the Palace of the Archbiſhop of Canterbury at Lambeth; where dined the King and all his Nobles: and upon the ſame day Thomas Granger, newly choſen Shireeve of London, was preſented before the Barons of the King's Exchequer, there to take his Oath; and after went with the Mayor unto the ſame Feaſt, which ſaved him money in his purſe: for if that day the Feaſt had not been kept, he muſt have feaſted the Mayor, Aldermen, and other Worſhipfull of the City. This Feaſt was kept at the chardge of ten learned men; Robert Brudnell, William Grevill, Thomas Marrow, George Edgore, John Moore, John Cutler, Thomas Eliot, Lewes Pollard, Guy Palmis, and William Fairfax.

Holingſh. Chron. in an. 1504. p. 504.

In the 23th of King Henry 8th. the Serjeants Feaſt was kept in Ely Houſe; the Serjeants then made being in number eleven; ſcil. Thomas Audeley, Walter Luke, J. Baldwin, J. Hinde, Chriſtopher Jenny, John Dowſell, Edward Mervine, Edward Knightley, Roger Chomley, Edward Mountague and Robert Yorke. Theſe alſo held their Feaſt here for five days; viz. Fryday the 10th. of November, Saturday, Sunday, Monday, and Tueſday.

Stow's Survey of London p. 426.

On Monday, which was their principall day King Henry and Queen Catherine dined there (but in two Chambers) and the forein Embaſſadors in a third Chamber.

In the Hall, at the high Table ſate Sir Nicholas Lambard Maior of London; the Judges; the Barons of the Exchequer, with certain Aldermen of the City.

At the board on the South ſide ſate the Maſter of the Rolls, the Maſters of the Chancery, and Worſhipfull Citizens: On the North ſide of the Hall certain Aldermen began the Board; and then followed Merchants of the City. In the Cloyſtry, Chapell and Gallery, Knights, Eſquiers, and Gentlemen were placed Serjeants Feasts.

In the Halls, the Crafts of London: The Serjeants at Law, and their Wives kept in their own Chambers.

It were tedious to set down the preparation of Fish, Flesh, and other Victualls spent in this Feast, and would seem almost incredible; and (as to me it seemeth) wanted little of a Feast at a Coronation: Nevertheless a little I will touch, for declaration of the change of prices. Cap. 47.

There were brought to the slaughter-House twenty four great Beefes at ——— } 01l.—06s.—08d. the piece.

Hall's Chron. in an. 1540. p. 241.

In 32d of Henry the 8th. on St. Peter's Even, the Serjeants Feast was kept at St. Johns, with all plenty of Victuall; at which Feast were made ten Serjeants; three out of Grayes Inne, three out of Lincolnes Inne; and of every of the Temples two. At which Feast were present all the Lords and Commons of the Parliament, besides the Maior and Aldermen, and a great number of the Commons of the City of London.

CAP. XLVIII.

The ordering of the Serjeants Feast, with other things depending thereon, as it was managed the 16th of October, Anno Domini 1555. 2 & 3 Ph. & M.

Ex cod. MS. penes Eliam Ashmole arm. an. 1662.

The names of the Serjeants, at this Call, were;

J. Prideaux, of the Inner Temple.
Francis Morgan, Robert Catlyn, Anthony Browne, } of the Middle Temple.
Will. Rastall, Will. Benlowes. } of Lincoln's Inn.
John Walpole, of Gray's Inne.

THese Serjeants at Law so elected, after the receipt of their several Writts, assembled together, and concluded that their Feast should be kept in the Inner Temple Hall; and thereupon they made choice of all manner of Officers for the same, according to antient custome.

Inprimis

Cap. 48. Inprimis Mr. Albany, a Draper in Watlingſtreet, was appointed to furniſh them with Cloth, viz. The Serjeants Feaſt in an. 1555.

Note,

Cap. 48. Note, that every Serjeant made choice of the Benchers of that Houſe, whereof he was a member, to ſee the diſpoſing of the Rings, in a decent manner, unto the perſons before-mentioned. And alſo of a like Bencher to be his Patron, for the continuance of the Feaſting.

Officers appointed to give their attendance, during the time of the Feaſt, and ceremony thereof.

MR. John Cooke of the Inner-Temple, Steward.

Mr. Guy Wade, of the ſame Houſe, Comptroller.

To theſe two it appertained to make proviſion, for Tables, Formes, and Stools convenient; with Carpenters, and others, to be in readineſs, to carry, remove, and recarry the ſame to and fro the Hall and Chambers, appointed for the repair of every Serjeant unto, at pleaſure.

To the ſaid Steward and Comptroller it alſo appertained to provide to be decently furniſhed divers private Chambers, for every the ſaid Serjeants to reſort unto, during their abode there, the time of the Feaſt: as alſo in their abſence to entertain within them, Gueſts invited to dine therein privately; as alſo convenient rooms for the Clerk of the Kitchin, and the Maſter Cook.

Two gentlemen of the Houſe there were alſo appointed for inferior Stewards, to attend the Tables where the Lords dined; and two gentlemen more were to be Carvers, and other two Cupbearers to the Lords.

Alſo two gentlemen of this Houſe were appointed to be Sewers, to attend the Body of the Hall.

The Steward and Comptroller beforementioned, in the morning that the new elected Serjeants had taken their coifes, and ended Breakfaſt in the Hall, went before them, bearing White ſtaves, till they came without the Temple-gate into Fleetſtreet: which done they made their return into the Inner-Temple, to manage things decent and convenient in the Hall, for the Feaſt. The Serjeants Feaſt in An. 1555.

The Serjeants being returned from Weſtminſter Hall to the Inner-Temple, and the Judges and great men being aſſembled to participate of the Feaſt, the ſaid Steward and Comptroller went before the firſt courſe, to the Lords Table. Which being performed, and the Lords placed, they kept order in the Hall till Dinner ended.

After the Feaſt, and Tables voided, the ſaid Officers went before the new elected Serjeants from the Temple-Hall, attending upon them thence, with white ſtaves bare-headed, through Fleetſtreet, with many others accompanying them unto St. Thomas of Acres in London, and thence to the Cathedral Church of St. Paul; and after ſome accuſtomed Ceremonies performed in both places, they returned unto Serjeants Inne in Fleetſtreet, where they received thanks of the ſaid Serjeants, and either of them a Ring of Gold: and ſo with Congees and reverence on both parties, departed, and were diſmiſſed.

There came from every Inne of Court eight of the chiefeſt gentlemen Students there, to be Servitors in the Hall during the Feaſt.

Alſo to every ſeveral Serjeant was allowed from the Inne of Court, whereof he was a Fellow, three Gentlemen of his chooſing; the one to attend him at the Table for Sewer, another for Carver, and the third for his Cupbearer.

The Lords of the Councell, and Peers; the Lord Mayor and Aldermen of London, the Judges, the old Serjeants; the King's Attorney, and Sollicitor general; the Chancellour of the Exchequer; the King's Attorney of the Court of Wards and Dutchy, Sir Edw. Montagu and Sir Roger Cholmley, were all of them invited to the Feaſt, by the Steward and Comptroller, whoſe office it was to invite perſons of State.

Alſo the new elected Serjeants ſate all Dinner time, on the Bench ſide, diſtinct one from another a good ſpace; and had their Table on the worthiest side of the Hall, and every one a whole mess, served out in Lordly state.

The Lords of the Councell first served in the Hall.

The Lord Mayor and Aldermen next to the Lords, whose Table was on the other side of the Hall, with one full mess of Meat.

Then the two Chief Justices served with one full mess, who sate at a middle Table; the end of which Table was equal with the upper end of the Lord Mayors Table, and the upper end of the new Serjeants Table.

Then was the auntientest Serjeant served with one mess.

Then the Aldermen of London.

Then the residue of the Judges.

Then the Serjeants new elect, in their degrees of auntienty. And lastly other Tables furnished with guests of inferior quality.

The before-mentioned Tables fully served, then was meat great plenty carryed from the Dresser, to feast the Guests that dined in the private Chambers appointed for the new elected Serjeants.

The Serjeants made choice of one Wilcocks for their Cook, whose office it was to furnish the Kitchin, with Potts, Panns, Spits, Racks, Chafers, and other like necessaries. Cap. 48.

They also elected one Randle Kenaldone, the Lord Mayors Butler to be their Butler for the Feast; who furnished the same with all kind of Napery and Plate; but none for private Chambers at all; every Serjeant providing for the private.

They also appointed to be Clerk of the Kitchin, one Christopher Bernard, the Steward of Grays Inne, under whose charge and oversight were all Kitchin provisions, except Red Deer, and the like, which was sent in by every Serjeant a portion, for the better furnishing of the Feast, as after appeareth.

All the new Serjeants named the Chief Master Porter: and besides, every Serjeant, by himself nominated one other Porter: and all the Serjeants consented to the choice of the said Clerk of the Kitchin, to appoint three Porters more.

The said new Serjeants agreed to have four and four Mess of Meat, to be bountifully furnished for the Feast, as followeth.

CAP. XLIX.

The Writs of Summons.

THe Tenor of the Writ of Summons ~~issued out to them~~ from the Lord Chancellour, runs thus; Rex, &c. NN. salutem: Quia de advisamento Consilii nostri ordinavimus vos ad statum, & gradum Servientis ad Legem .... die mensis .... proximo futuro, suscepturos: Vobis mandamus, firmiter injungentes; quod vos ad statum & gradum prædictum, ad diem & locum, in forma prædicta suscipiendum, ordinetis & præparetis: & hoc, sub pœna mille librarum nullatenus omittatis. Teste, &c. But tis observed, that this Writ is not in the printed Register as Writs of Summons to Parliament to those who are thereupon Barons; becaus they are ex gratia Regis, whereas those in the Register are originally de jure Legis.

a Cokes Reports Vol. 10. in proœmio.

The Poesies to the Rings they give, are usually thus, or to this purpose;

Robur Legis, decor Regis.
Qui servit Legi, servit Regi.

CAP. L.

Their Robes.

THe beforementioned Lord Chief Justice Fortescu, in his Book [a] de Legum Angliæ laudibus, saith, that a Serjeant at Law is Cloathed in a long Priestlike Robe, with a Cape about his Shoulders, furred with Lambskin; and thereupon an Hood, wi h two Labells, such as Doctors of the Laws use to wear in certain Universities, with a white Coif of silk.

a Cap. 51. f. 123. a.

The Robes they now use, do still somewhat resemble those of the Justices of either Bench, and are of three distinct colours; viz. Murrey; Black, furred with white, and Scarlet: but the Robe which they usually wear at their Creation only, is of two Colours; viz. Murrey, and Mouse-colour; whereunto they have a Hood suitable; as also a Coif of white silk, or linnen.

I am of opinion, that the form of the Robe, and colour thereof, which they use at their Creation, is very antient: for in Chaucer's time (which is Cap. 50. is 3. hundred years ſince) it is evident, that parti-coloured Garments were much in faſhion; and that the people of that age were grown to a great exorbitancy therein; ſo that, in his Parſon's Tale he ſharply inveighs againſt the vanity thereof: and amongſt other particulars, which he there inſtanceth, take notice, that the one half of their Hoſe was white, and the other Red.

For the better ſupporting the charge at the taking of this degree, the whole Houſe, whereof they were Students, did antiently contribute; for by an Accompt * in 11 *H.*7. upon the advancing of John Boteler, Richard Higham, and Robert Conſtable thereunto, it appearth, that every perſon of the Society of Lincolns Inn did give 3 s. 4 d. and that he whole ſum, then amounting to 21 l. 13 s. 4 d. being divided into three parts, was put into a pair of Gloves, price 12 d. and given to the new Serjeant.

* Ex Regiſtro Hoſp. Linc. f. 34. a.

Likwiſe at Grays Inne in 23 H 8. Term. Mich. John Hynde, and Roger York, then newly created Serjeants, had each of them C^{s}. and a pair of Gloves, price 4 d. juxta antiquam & laudabilem conſuetudinem, ſaith the Regiſter c of that Houſe.

c Ex Regiſtro Hoſp. Grayenſis fol. 128. a.

And by an Order d made in the Inner Temple 13 Junii 32 H. 8. it appears, that Mr. Conysby, and Mr Bromley, who were made Serjeants Craſt. Joh. Bapt. the ſame year, were each of them to have five pounds, and a pair of Gloves of 3 d. according to the antient uſe, delivered unto them, upon their departing at the Hall dore of the Temple, after their propoſition, and leave taken at the fire.

e Again, at a Pencion held in Grays Inne 27 Jan. 38. H. 8. William Coke then elected Serjeant, had eight pounds in gold given him, Nomine Regardi.

e Ex præfato Regiſtro Hoſ. Grayenſis fol. 172. b.

And by the Accompt f of John Walpole, Collector of the gifts, or Rewards, againſt the Serjeants Feaſt in that Houſe 12 Febr. 1 Edw. 6. it appears, that he received 3 s. 4 d. a piece of a Cxviii. Maſters, on the behalf of the Serjeants at Law of that Houſe, which were called in Hillary Term the ſame year.

f Ib. f. 179. b.

So alſo at a Pencion held there 12 Oct. 6 E. 6. there was an Order made, that William Stamford, and William Dalyſon, then made Serjeants, ſhould each of them have five pounds, and a pair of Gloves. But in 2 & 3 Ph. & Mar. Seajeant Walpole of this Houſe had 10 l. and a pair of Gloves, price ſix ſhillings, given him at his Creation. And in 9 Eliz. Barham, Jeffrey and Lovelace had ten pounds a piece in mony.

Serjeants at Law, when firſt made Knights.

IT ſeems, that thoſe of this degree were not antiently made Knights: for I finde *, that Thomas Rolfe a Serjeant at Law in 9 H. 6. being then ſummoned to receive the Order of Knighthood, and for his not appearance, like to be fined, pleaded his privilege; viz. that he was a Serjeant at Law, and bound to attend the Court of Common Pleas, and not elſewhere.

Cap. LII.

The Form and order in creating of Serjeant at Law, as it is at this day practiſed.

ON the Morning of that day, on which he is to receive his Degree, Wine and Cakes are ſent to one of the Serjeants Innes, for the Judges and Serjeants; as alſo to that Inne of Court, whereof the new Serjeant is; there to be preſented to the Benchers and others of that Society.

Serjeants at Law.

After which repaſt, the ſaid Benchers and Bariſters repair to the Serjeants Inne, where all the old Serjeants are, paſſing two and two together; the Warden of the Fleet, and his Tipſtaves, with the Marſhall of the Court of Common Pleas, proceeding all bareheaded before them.

And from Serjeants Inn they proceed, in like ſort, to Weſtminſter. And being come near to the Hall (about ~~ix~~ of the Clock before Noon) the new elected Serjeant in ſome private place, putteth on his parti-coloured Robe; and having ſo done, (the Warden and other Officers ſtill attending) he entreth Weſtminſter Hall, and paſſeth to that part of it, directly oppoſite to the Court of Common Pleas. Where the Court being ſet, and all buſineſs ceaſing, two of the old Serjeants recede from the Barr with a ſolemn Conge, and go towards the new Serjeant; and when they come to the mid-way betwixt him and the Court, they turn their faces towards the Court, and make a ſecond Conge; and when they are come to the ſaid new Serjeant, they make their third Conge towards the Court. And then, after a little pawſe, they proceed to the Court again, with the new Serjeant betwixt them; making their three Conges; viz. the firſt at their going forwards, the ſecond in the mid-way; and the third at the Bar of the Court.

Being thus come to the Bar (after a formal Exhortation given to him by the Lord Chief Juſtice of the Kings Bench, who is to be then there ſitting with the other Chief Juſtice, and the reſt of the Juſtices of the Court of Common Pleas) he declareth upon a real Writ, of what nature ſoever he himſelf pleaſeth; and in Law French: which being done, the moſt antient Serjeant maketh anſwer, by way of Defence; and demandeth that the Writ be read. And ſo being read and pleaded, and entry made thereof by the Prothonotary; the ſecond antient Serjeant offereth emparlance thereto. And then the Serjeant elect, paſſing from the Bar into the Court, kneeleth down at the feet of the Lord Chief Juſtice of the Kings Bench, where having firſt taken the Oath of Supremacy, the Oath of a Serjeant at Law is by the Clerk of the Crown read to him; in manner following; Cap. 52.

Ye ſhall ſwear well and truly to ſerve the Kings people as one of the Serjeants at the Law; and ye ſhall truly counſail them that ye be retained with, after your cunning: and ye ſhall not defer or delay their cauſes willingly, for covetiſe of money, or other thing, that may turn ye to profit: and ye ſhall give due attendance accordingly, ſo help ye God.

Which being done, the Lord chief Juſtice of the Kings Bench, putteth the Lawn Coif on his head, and the Hood on his Soulder. After which performed, the Court ariſeth, and all depart.

An Inſtance of their proceeding to Weſtminſter take here from the Regiſter * of the Inner Temple. a fol. 82. b.

Memorandum, that Edward Bromley, one of the Benchers of this Houſe, being ſolely elected Serjeant at the Law; upon Monday 5 Febr. Ann. 1609. (7 Jac. Regis) took his leave in the open Hall of this Houſe, where the Treaſurer in behalf of the Houſe did preſent him with a purſe and ten pounds in money: and from thence the Benchers and fellows of this Houſe, without the Innes of Chancery, attended him to the Serjeants Inne: where having his Robes put on, he went from thence, attended by the Benchers and fellows of this Houſe, to Weſtminſter, they all following after.

Cap. LIII.

A memorial concerning Serjeants at the Law taken 4 Junii, An. 1635. for a preſident to poſterity, made by Sir John Brampſton Knight, then Chief Juſtice of the Kings Bench; Sir John Finch Knight, Lord Chief Juſtice of the Common Pleas, Sir Humphrey Davenport Knight, Chief Baron of the Exchequer, Sir John Denham, Sir Rich. Hutton, Sir Will. Jones, Sir George Crooke, Sir Thomas Trevor, Sir George Vernon, Sir Robert Berkly, Sir Francis Crawley, and Sir Richard Weſton Knights, Judges of the ſaid Courts and Barons of the Exchequer.

FOr the Serjeants at their Creation; they come to the Lord Chief Juſtice of the Kings Bench, the ſame day that they are to go to Weſtminſter, in the Hall of that Serjeants Inne, of which the Lord Chief Juſtice, for the time being, is: And the Serjeant comes in a black Robe, his antient Clerk bringing after him a Scarlet Hood ſpread upon his Arms, and a Coif upon the Hood.

Then, after the ſolemnity of a Speech made by the Lord Chief Juſtice, and the Pleading repeated, the Lord Chief Juſtice puts the Coif on the Serjeants Head, and tyes it under his Chin: and then he takes the Hood, and puts it upon his right ſide, and over his right Sholder. After this the Serjeant goes, and puts off his black Robe, and puts on a party-coloured Robe of black and murrey, and his Hood of the ſame, ſo over his neck, with the Tabard hanging down behind; and ſo goes to Weſtminſter, his man carrying before him the Scarlet Hood, ſpread on his Arms, and the cornered Cap upon it. And all that year, the Serjeant, both in the Term, Guild-Hall, Weſtminſter, and Circuit, ought to go in his party-colored Robes; and his men in party-coloured Coats, unleſs upon a Sunday or Holy-day; and then in Violet, with the Scarlet hood. Serjeants at Law.

At all times when the Judges ſit at Weſtminſter in Scarlet, all the Serjeants, aſwell he of the firſt year, as the other, are to wear a Violet Robe, and a Violet hood cloſe over his neck, with the tongue hanging back, and down behind.

And at all grand days, all the Serjeants are to wear Scarlet Gowns, and Scarlet Hoods: but no Serjeant may pin their hoods, nor have uſed to line their Gowns.

Cap. 55.

Cap. LV.

Setled places for Students of the Law, called Innes of Court and Chancery.

THat the learned in our Laws were antiently persons in holy Orders, is out of all question, if what I have instanced in the 8*th* Chapter of this Discourse, intituled Of Lawyers, be well considered: as also, that divers Justices of the Kings Courts, and those called Itinerant, were Bishops, Abbots, Deans, Canons in Cathedal Churches, Arch-Deacons, and the like, as in my Chronologick Tables may evidently be seen: But, after the Statute * of Magna Charta, whereby King Henry the 3*d.* appointed, that Communia Placita non sequantur Curiam, sed teneantur in aliquo certo loco, 'tis not to be doubted, but that, aswell the Students in the Law, as the peculiar Ministers of each Court, being at a better certainty how and where to exercise themselves, began to fix and settle in certain places and stations most proper for their Studies, conference, and practice: which, that they might the more regularly do, King Edward the first in 20. of his reign, ----* injunxit Johanni de Metingham, & sociis suis (saith the Record;) quod ipsi, per eorum discretiones, provideant & ordinent certum numerum de Atturnatis & Apprenticiis, de quolibet Comitatu, de melioribus & legalioribus, & libentius addiscentibus, secundum quod intellexerint, quod Curiæ suæ & populo de regno melius valere poterit, & majus commodum fuerit: Et, quod ipsi, quos ad hoc elegerint, Curiam sequantur, & se de negotiis in eadem Curia intromittant, & alii non. Et videtur Regi, & ejus Concilio, quod septies viginti sufficere poterint, &c. Apponant tamen præfati Justiciarii plures, si viderint esse faciendum, vel numerum anticipent; & de aliis remanentibus fiat secundum discretionem eorundem Justiciariorum.

* 9 *H.*3. Cap. 11.

* Plac. in Parl. 20 Ed. Rot. 5. in dorso. Imp. Lond. an. 1661. p. 104. Videsis Cokes Reports lib. 9. in procœmio. Et Notas Seldeni in Fortes. de Laud. Leg. Angl. c. 8.

Id est ---- King Edw. 1. did especially appoint John de Metingham (then Lord Chief Justice of the Court of Common Pleas) and the rest of his fellow Justices (of that Court;) that they, according to their discretions, should provide and ordain, from every County, certain Attorneys and Lawyers, of the best and most apt for their learning and skill, who might do service to his Court and people; And that those, so chosen onely, and no other, should follow his Court, and transact the affairs therein; the said King and his Council then deeming the number of seven score to be sufficient for that imployment; but it was left to the discretion of the said Justices, to add to that number, or diminish, as they should see fit.

Inns of Court and Chancery.

So that, soon afterwards, though we have no memorial of the direct time, or absolute certainty of the places; we may safely conclude, that they setled in certain Hostells or Inns, which were thenceforth called Inns of Court; becaus the Students in them, did there, not only study the Laws, but use such other exercises as might make them the more serviceable to the King's Court, as Sir John Fortescue in the xlix Chapter of his Book, de Laudibus Legum Angliæ, observeth; where he saith; that the Students in the University of the Laws (for so he calleth the Houses of Court and Chancery) did not onely study the Laws, to serve the Courts of Justice, and profit their Country; but did further learn to dance, to sing, to play on Instruments on the ferial dayes; and to study Divinity on the Festival; using such exercises, as they did, who were brought up in the Kings Court. So that these Hostells being Nurseries or Seminaries of the Court, taking their denomination of the end wherefore they were so instituted, were called therefore the Innes of Court. But, their Registers being lost, or by some unhappy accidents perished, I have not seen any thing to point out the certainty of their setling in these Hostels, till King Edw. the thirds time; and then the first that hath come to my view, was a demise * from the Lady Clifford, of that House neer Fleetstreet, called Cliffords Inn (now one of the Innes of Chancery) Apprenticiis de Banco; which, as I take it, is meant to the Lawyers belonging to the Court of Common Pleas. For, that there were then ſuch Innes and Hoſtels will appear by this farther teſtimony; viz. that in 20 E. 3. in a quod ei deforciat to an exception taken; it was anſwered by Sir Richard de Wiloughby (then a learned Juſtice of the Common Pleas) and William Skipwith (afterwards alſo one of the Juſtices of that court) that the ſame was no exception in that Court, although they had often heard the ſame for an exception, amongſt the Apprentices in Hoſtells or Inns.

Innes of Court why so called.

There is a Tradition, that in times paſt, there was one Inne of Court at Lowgate, called Johnſons Inne; another in Fewter lane; and another in Pater-noſter-row: which laſt they would prove, becauſe it was next to S. Pauls Church, where each Lawyer and Serjeant, at his Pillar heard his Client's Cauſe, and took notes thereof upon his knee; as they do in Guild Hall at this day: And, that, after the Serjeants feaſt ended, they do ſtill go to Pauls in their Habits, and there chooſe their Pillar, whereat to hear their Clyents cauſe (if any come) in memory of that old Cuſtome. But, if we may rely upon the teſtimony of Sir John Forteſcue, this tradition will prove but a mere conceit; for he tells[d] us; that the Innes of Court and Chancery, were then (as they are now) placed out of the City and noiſe thereof, in the Suburbs of London ----- Situatur etiam ſtudium illud (ſaith he) inter locum Curiarum illarum, & Civitatem Londini: and a little after ----- nec in Civitate illa, ubi confluentium turba ſtudentium quietem perturbare poſſit, ſitum eſt ſtudium iſtud; ſed ſeorſim parumper, in Civitatis illius ſuburbio, & proprius Curiis prædictis; ut ad eas, ſine fatigationis incommodo, ſtudentes indies, ad libitum accedere valeant.

This great and famous Lawyer, was Chief Juſtice of the Kings Bench in King Henry the ſixths time, in whoſe dayes theſe Hoſtels flouriſhed very much; for, there were then belonging to the Lawyers Univerſity, ſaith he[e], four Innes of Court (which are the ſame now extant) each containing two hundred perſons; and ten Innes of Chancery, and in each of them one hundred perſons; (which are more than at this day; there being now but eight; and of thoſe, onely two of the ſame which were then, viz. Cliffords Inn, and Thavies Inn, as I think.) Cap. 55.

And that it may the better appear in what an high eſtimation the ſtudy of the law then was, let us obſerve what he farther ſaith [f] ----- in his enim majoribus Hoſpiciis, nequaquam poteſt ſtudens aliquis ſuſtentari, minoribus expenſis in anno, quam octoginta Scutorum: & ſi ſervientem ſibi ipſe ibidem habuerit, ut eorum habet pluralitas, tanto tunc majores ipſe ſuſtinebit expenſas: occaſione vero ſumptuum hujuſmodi, ipſi Nobilium filii tantum in Hoſpiciis illis Leges addiſcunt; cum panperes & vulgares, pro filiorum ſuorum exhibitione tantos ſumptus nequeant ſufferre: & Mercatores raro cupiunt tantis oneribus annuis attenuare mercandiſas ſuas, id eſt.

--- In theſe greater Hoſtells (viz. the Innes of Court) no Student can be maintained at leſs charge yearly then Lxxx ſcutes (id eſt 20 marks:) and if he had a ſervant with him, as many of them have, then is his charge the greater: So that, by reaſon of this great expence, the ſons of Gentlemen do onely ſtudy the Law in theſe Hoſtels; the vulgar ſort of people being not able to undergo ſo great a charge: and Merchants are ſeldom willing to leſſen their traffick by undergoing ſuch burthens.

Whereunto I ſhall add, what Mr. John Ferne (ſometime a Student of the Inner Temple) in his learned Book*, intituled The Glory of Generoſity (pag. 24.) expreſſeth; viz. Nobleneſs of blood, joyned with virtue, compteth the perſon as moſt meet to the enterprizing of any publick ſervice: and for that cauſe it was, not for nought, that our antient Governors in this land, did with a ſpecial foreſight and wiſdom, provide, that none ſhould be admitted into the Houſes of Court, being Seminaries, ſending forth men apt to the Government of Juſtice, except he were a Gentleman of blood. And that this may ſeem a truth, I my ſelf have ſeen a Kalendar of all thoſe which were together, in the Society of one of the ſame Houſes,

And here I may not omit to obſerve, that the Students in the Innes of Court were antiently called Apprenticii nobiliores; for Thomas of Walſingham ſhewing that the Rebels in 4 R. 2. did plunder the Lawyers of the Temple, ſaith [g] —— etiam locum qui vocatur Temple Bar, in quo Apprenticii juris morabantur nobiliores, irruerunt.

Innes of Chancery.

THeſe were ſo called, as Juſtice Forteſcu, in the ſame book ſaith; * quia Studentes in illis, pro eorum parte majori juvenes ſunt, &c. becauſe the Students in them are, for the greater part, young men, learning the firſt elements of the Law; and becoming good proficients therein, as they grow up, are taken into the greater Hoſtels, which are called the Innes of Court. [a] Chap. 49.

Now, that theſe Hoſtels did then conſiſt of ſuch young men, is apparent enough from this teſtimony of the ſame Forteſcu: but the reaſon why they were called Innes of Chancery ſeemeth to have been from another ground; viz. becauſe they were antiently Hoſpicia for the Clerks of the Chancery. And if that Inne of Chancery ſituate near St. Andrews Church in Holburne, now called Davies, or Thavies Inne, be the ſame which is mentioned in the Fine Kolle of 11 E. 3. (as ſome judicious perſons do think it is) conſidering the little difference betwixt Travers and Thavye in pronunciation, it will then be out of doubt: Of which Record, to the end the cleerer judgment may be given, I have here inſerted a true Copy.

And of theſe Readers are Serjeants elected by the King; and out of them the King electeth two or three, as he pleaſeth, to be his Serjeants: And out of them are the Judges choſen.

Having ſaid thus much, in general, touching the antiquity of our Hoſtells for Students of the Laws, I come to the particular Houſes of theſe Societies.

The Inner Temple.

BEfore I go on to ſpeak of this place as an Inne of Court, I ſhall take leave to ſay ſomething, by way of Preface, for diſcovery of what it was before; and ſo conſequently how it hath this name, which nothing relates to the uſe it is now put to; viz. a Manſion for Students of the Law. Cap. 57.

About the beginning of King Henry the ſeconds reign, the Knights Templars, leaving their Houſe in Holburne (ſituate on the South part of that ſtreet, where Southampton horſe lately ſtood, and upon which thoſe new Tenements called Southampton buildings, were lately erected) did, for their more conveniency, ſet up another habitation for themſelves over againſt the end of a Street heretofore called New-ſtreet, but now Chantery lane; which had thereupon the name of the New-Temple, and contained all that ſpace of ground from the White Friers Weſtwards, unto Eſſex-houſe, without Temple Barr; yea and part of that too, as appears by the firſt Grant * thereof to Sir William Paget Knight, after Secretary of ſtate to King Edw. 6th. * Pat. 2 E. 6. p. 2.

That they thus ſetled themſelves here about that time, is evident from the date of the Church its Dedication, which was in anno MCLXXXV. as by an old Inſcription yet to be ſeen over the dore thereof is manifeſt. But the Order of Templars being throughout all Chriſtendom ſuppreſt, about the beginning of King Edward the ſeconds reign, and their poſſeſſions here in England coming thereupon to the Crown, the King gave this [a] houſe unto Thomas Earl of Lancaſter; who forfaiting [b] it ſhortly after by Rebellion, it returned again to the Crown; and was [c] graunted, firſt to Adomare de Valence Earl of Pembroke, and after his deceaſe to [d] Hugh le Deſpenſer the younger, for life: which Hugh being attainted [e] in the firſt year of King Edward the third, the right thereof devolved once more to the Crown, and might therein have continued, but that by a Decree [f] made in the great Councel at Vienna in anno MCCCxxiv. (about the 19*th* year of the ſame King Edward the II. reign) the lands of the Templars, being generally beſtowed [g] upon

Cap. 57. upon the Knights Hoſpitalers of St. John of Hieruſalem, King Edward the 3d. granted this Manſion unto the Knights of that Order here in England; who, ſoon after (as the tradition is) demiſed the ſame, for the Rent of x^l. per annum, unto divers profeſſors of the Common law, that came from Thavyes Inne in Holburne.

Now that there is nothing but tradition left to us; for this cannot ſeem ſtrange, conſidering what ſpoil Wat Tyler, with his fellow Rebells, made here, in 4 Ric. 2. by deſtroying and burning their Books and Records, as an old Annal * telleth us, in the Law french of that time; ſcil. —Les Rebells alleront a le Temple, & jetteront les meaſons a le terre, & avegheront tighles, iſſint que ils fairont coverture en mal array; & alleront en l'Egliſe; & priſteront touts les liveres & Rolles de Remembrances, que furont en lour huches deins le Temple de Apprentices de la Ley; & porteront en le haut chimene, & les arderont Conſonant whereunto Thomas of Walſingham[h], ſpeaking of the miſchief they did, in plundring and burning of the Savoy (then the noble Palace of John of Gaunt Duke of Lancaſter) thus goes on —quibus perpetratis, ſatis malitioſe etiam locum qui vocatur Temple-barr, in quo Apprenticii Juris morabantur nobiliores, diruerunt, ob iram quam conceperant contra Robertum de Hales, Magiſtrum Hoſpitalis Sancti Johannis (de quo præfati ſumus) ubi plura munimenta, quæ Juridici in Cuſtodia habuerunt, igne conſumpta ſunt.

Howbeit, that they were here ſeated in King Edward the third's time, is out of all doubt, from what our famous old Poet Geffrey Chaucer expreſſeth in his Prologue to the Manciple, concerning them (he having alſo been a Student of this Houſe as the Hiſtory of his life, printed in the front of his works, ſheweth) viz.

* Olim Abbath. S. Mariæ Ebor. ſpectans.

h In an 1381. 4 R. 2.

A Manciple there was of the Temple,
Of which all Catours might taken enſemple,
For to been wiſe in buying of Vitaile:
For whether he payd, or tooke by taile,
Algate he wayted ſo in his aſpare,
That he was aye before in good eſtate.
Now is not that of God a full faire grace,
That ſuch a leude man's wit ſhall pace
The wiſdome of an heape of learned men?
Of Maſters had he mo than thrice ten,
That were of Law expert and curious;
Of which there was a dozen in that Houſe,
Worthy to been Stewards of Rent and land
Of any Lord that is in England,
To maken him live by his proper good
In honour debtleſs, but if he were wood;
Or live as ſcarcely as him liſt deſire,
And able to helpen all a Shire,
In any Caſe, that might fallen or hap;
And yet the Manciple ſett all her Capp.

But notwithſtanding this ſpoil by the Rebells, thoſe Students ſo increaſed here, that, at length they divided themſelves in two Bodies; the one commonly known by the Society of the Inner-Temple, and the other of the Middle-Temple, holding this Manſion, as Tenants to the ſaid Hoſpitalers, till their diſſolution in 30 H. 8. and afterwards from the Crown, by Leaſe, till the 6*th* year of K. James, that they had a grant [i] thereof by Letters Patents, bearing date at Weſtminſter on the 13*th.* of Auguſt, by the name of Hoſpicia, & Capitalia meſſuagia cognita per nomen de le Inner Temple, & le Middle Temple, ſive novi Templi London. unto Sir Julius Cæſar Knight, then Chancellour and under-Treaſurer of the ſaid

King's Exchequer; Sir Henry Mountagu Knight, then Recorder of the City of London, William Towse, and Richard Daston Esquiers, then Treasurers of the said Innes of Court, Sir John Boyse Knight, Andrew Grey, Thomas Farmer, Raphe Radcliffe, and divers others, Esquiers, and then Benchers of these Houses: to have and to hold the same Mansions, with the Gardens, &c. and appurtenances, to the said Sir Julius Cæsar, Sir Henry Mountagu, and the rest above mentioned, their heirs and assignes for ever, for Lodgings, reception, and education of the professors and Students of the Laws of this Realm. Yielding and paying to the said King, his heirs and successors, at the Receipt of his Exchequer; viz. for the Mansion called the Inner Temple, the summ of ten pounds yearly; and for the Middle Temple x^l. yearly also, at the Feasts of St. Michael the Arch-Angel, and the Annunication of our Lady, by equal portions.

As to what else is most memorable of these Soicieties; either touching their Building, Orders for government, and advancement of learning, or otherwise, I have here added it, from the later end of King Henry the 7^ths reign, their Registers, whence I have had my Chief light therein, beginning about that time.

The Buildings.

OF these the Church is the most antient and beautifull, having been built by the Knights Templars in King Henry the 2^ds time, according to the form of the Temple neer unto the holy Sepulchre at Hierusalem; and consecrated by Heraclius Patriarch of Hierusalem, in the year from our Saviour's Incarnation MCLxxxv as the Inscription over the entrance thereto from the Cloysters, plainly sheweth. But the Hall is a much later structure, as may seem by the form of the Windows, which I suppose to be about King Edward the third's time.

Of the rest, as I find them recorded in the Registers of this House, I shall, in their order, take notice.

The Buildings. Cap. 57.

The Wall betwixt the Thames and the Garden, was begun in 16 H. 8. Mr. John Pakinton (afterwards Serieant at Law) and Mr. Rice being appointed Overseers [a] of the work. This Mr. Pakington was Treasurer here, in 20 H. 8. and caused the Hall to be seeled. He also built divers Chambers between the Library and Barington's Rents; and gave ten pounds to the Treasury; for which respect it was ordered [b] by the Society 5 Febr. 25 H. 8. that those new Chambers should be thenceforth called Packinton's Rents. The Lodgings in that Court, now known by the name of Tanfeild Court (by reason of Sir Laurence Tanfeild Chief Baron's residence there) were first erected [c] by Henry Bradshaw Treasurer in 26 H. 8. whence they were long after called Bradshaw's Rents.

In 1 Mariæ the Kitchin was new [d] built, every Knight and double Reader being taxed at x^s. towards the chargde thereof; every single Reader and Bencher at vi^s. viii^d. and every Utter-Barrister, and other of this Society at iii^s. iiii^d.

In 2 Eliz. were those buildings raised [e] near the Alienation Office and called Fuller's Rents, by an Order of the Society 22 Nov. 5 Eliz. by reason that John Fuller was then Treasurer.

In 16 Eliz. the great carved Skreen in the Hall was [f] made, Thomas Bromley, then Sollicitor to the Queen being Treasurer. And in 18 Eliz. those buildings paled about, that stood neer to the Alienation Office (commonly called the black Buildings) were erected by Mr. Bonham, Mr. Bourchier, and Mr. Williams: which buildings were pull'd down for enlargemeut of the walkes in an. 1663.

In 19 Eliz. the Alienation Office was built [g], by the appointment of Robert Dudley then Earl of Leicester.

In 23 Eliz. those Lodgings in the Middle-Temple lane, called Crompton's buildings (in part whereof the Prothonotaries Office of the Common Pleas is kept) were erected [h] by Thomas Crompton Esquire, a Member of this Society.

Orders for good Government and advancement of learning.

Admittances.

IN 3 & 4 Ph. & M. (23 Maii) there was an Order [a] made, that thenceforth no Attorney, or Common Sollicitor, ſhould be admitted into this Houſe, without the aſſent and agreement of their Parliament. And in 5 Eliz. (19 Nov.) it was alſo ordered, [b] that none ſhould thenceforth be admitted of this Fellowſhip and Company, but he that ſhould pay for his Admittance, to the uſe of the Houſe and Company, xl. except he were the ſon of one of the Bench or Utter-Barr; or except he were and had been by the ſpace of one whole year of the Company of one of the Innes of Chancery belonging to this Houſe.

b Ib. f. 140. a.

In 42 Eliz. it was further ordered [c] (ſcil. 8 Febr.) that none ſhould be admitted of this Society, except he were of good Parentage, and not of ill behaviour.

c Ex Regiſtro ejuſdem Hoſp. Vol. 2. fol. 39. b.

Lodgers.

In 36 Eliz. there was an Order [d] made (24 Junii) that no Fellows of this Houſe ſhould admit any perſon to lodge in their Chambers, except their known Clerks and Servants, upon pain of *xl*s. to the uſe of the Houſe.

d Ex Regiſtro ejuſdem Hoſp. Vol 1. fol. 173. a.

Keeping Commons.

In 32 H. 8. it was ordered [e], that if ſixteen perſons, fellows of the Houſe, would after the Term keep Commons in the Houſe, that then, the Officers of the Houſe ſhould give their attendance, and they to find the Officers, and the Houſe to allow them weekly towards their chardges *vi*s. *viii*d. a piece. This Rule being made (as the ſaid Order expreſſeth) becauſe no learning was then kept.

e Ib. f. 194.

The Inner Temple.

And if there were under sixteen persons[e], the Commons to break, and the Servants to have allowance after *vi*s. *viii*d. a piece the week; but if any of them should depart, his allowance to be deducted.

Exercises for learning.

In 3 & 4 Ph. & M. there was an Order[f] made, that every man called to the Bench, should keep some learning Vacations, next after his calling to and coming to the Bench, upon pain of forfeiture for every Vacation five pounds. And in 3 Eliz. (9 Feb.) that[g] every single Reader should be at three Mootes in every Term, and in Michaelmas Term at four Mootes. And every Boucher not a Reader, to be at five Mootes in every Term, and in Michaelmas Term at six, upon pain of five shillings every Moote.

Drinking in earthen pots.

Untill the second year of Q. Eliz. reign, this Society did[h] use to drink in Cups of Ashen-wood (such as are still used in the King's Court) but then those were laid aside, and green earthen pots introduced[i], which have ever since continued.

Calls to the Barr.

In 6 Eliz. (2 Maii) there was an Order[k] made, that none should be called to the Barr, or received as an Utter Barrister in this Society, before he had been first called and examined by the whole Bench, as by a former Order made 5 Nov. 3 & 4 Ph. & M. was provided. And in 42 Eliz. it was also ordered[l] that special regard should be taken of such as shall be called to the Barr and Bench, for their learning.

Service of God.

In 3 & 4 Ph. & M. (20 Junii) it was ordered[m], that all Fellows of this House, being in Commons, should from time to time, come to the Church to hear Divine Service; viz. Mass, Mateus, Evensongs, &c. as before that time had been used. As also that every Fellow of this House being in Commons, or lying in the House, should from time to time observe and keep xviii Offering days in the year, according to the antient laudable Custome of this House.

And in 42 Eliz. it was further ordered[n], that all the Gentlemen fellows of this Society, should repair to the Church, and hear Divine Service and Sermons, at the usual days and times, unless hindred by sickness or some other reasonable Cause. And that they receive the Communion therein once at the least in every year.

Orders for Government. Cap. 57.

In 38 H. 8. (30 Maii) there was an Order[o] made, that the Gentlemen of this Company should reform themselves in their cut or disguised Apparel, and not to have long Beards: And that the Treasurer of this Society should conferr with the other Treasurers of Court, for an uniform reformation, and to know the Justices opinion therein, and thereupon to perform the same: Whereupon in their Parliament held 5 Maii 1 & 2 Ph. & M. there was a decree[p] made, that no Fellow of this House should wear his Beard above three weeks growth upon pain of *xx*s. forfeiture.

Apparel and beards.

And for their better regulation in Apparel, it was ordered[q] in 36 Eliz. (16 Junii) that if any fellow in Commons, or lying in the House, did wear either Hat, or Cloak in the Temple Church, Hall, Buttry, Kitchin, or at the Buttry-Barr, Dresser, or in the Garden, he should forfeit for every such offence *vi*s. *viii*d. And in 42 Eliz. (8 Febr.) that[r] they go not in Cloaks, Hatts, Bootes and Spurrs into the City, but when they ride out of the Town.

Weapons.

So also in 38 Eliz. (20 Dec.) that no Fellow of this House should come into the Hall with any Weapons, except his Dagger, or his Knife, upon pain of forfeiting the summ of five pounds.

Precedency.

In 3 Jac. (10 Maii) it was ordered[t] that if any then, or thenceforth of this Society, should be called to the Bench, at that time being, or that thereafter should be a Knight, that notwithstanding such his dignity of Knighthood, he should take place at the Bench Table, according to his auncienty in the House, and no otherwise In

Orders for Government

Cap. 57.

In 8 Jac. (10 Junii) there was an Order [u] made, that Thomas Cæsar, then one of the Benchers of this House, notwithstanding an Act made 7 Junii 5 Jac. viz. that none who should thenceforth be called to the Bench, that had not Read, should take place of any Reader, or have voice in Parliament; having not Read, but fined for not Reading, and then called to be puisne Baron of the Exchequer, should have his place at the Bench Table, the said Order notwithstanding. Also at the Parliament held upon the 6th of November next following, there was an Order [w] made, that John Sotherton, one of the Barons of the Exchequer, being called to the Bench, should have his place at the Bench Table above all the Readers, in such sort as Sir Thomas Cæsar Knight late puisne Baron of the Exchequer had.

Attendance to Westminster.

And in the same year it was likewise ordered [x] (10 Maii) that the said Thomas Cæsar, then being the puisne Baron of the Exchequer (commonly called the Baron Curritor) should not be attended to Westminster by any but the Officers of the Exchequer; for as much as none but such as are of the Coif, ought to be attended by the Fellows of the House.

x Ib. f. 85. a.

Sports.

In 13 H. 8. in their Parliament held 17 Julii it was ordered [y], that none of the Society should, within this House, exercise the play of Shosse grote, or Slyp-grote upon pain of vi^s. viii^d.

y Ex Registro ejusdem Hosp. Vol. 1. fol. 60. b.

And in Febr. 8 Jac. that for future prevention of disorder and scurrility, no more Plays should be in this House upon the Feast of All Saints, or Candlemas-day: but this Order was repealed the 4*th* of November following.

And for keeping good Rule in Christmas time, these following Orders [a] were made 7 Nov. 7 Car. primi.

a Ib. f. 195. a.

Christmas

1. That Christmas Commons should continue by the space of three weeks only, and no longer, according to the antient usage and Custome of this House.

2. That every week there be three Stewards chosen for that week, according to the old Order of Christmas, and the innovation of Treasurers to be abolisht.

The Inner Temple.

3. That every one of those Stewards be chosen of such of the Gentlemen under the Barr, as have Chambers in the House, who may be responsal for the moneys they receive.

4. That the Gentlemen who shall be Stewards, shall pay the Baker, Brewer, Chandler, and all other Officers that shall serve the House with necessary Provisions during the time of Christmas.

5. That no Stranger; nor any of this Society, that had not been in the ordinary Commons of this House within two years then past, or stood put Extra, per mandatum; or ne recipiatur, should be admitted to take any Repast, or to be in Commons in the time of Christmas, or to be present at any of the Christmas Parliaments.

6. That there be no allowance of Wine, but only one Pottle to the Stewards Mess, according to the antient usage of Christmas.

7. That there be no drinking of Healths; nor any Wine or Tobacco uttered or sold within the House.

8. That there shall not be any knocking with Boxes, or calling aloud for Gamesters.

9. That no Play be continued within the House upon any Saturday night; or upon Christmas Eve at night, after xii of the Clock.

10. That there be not any going abroad out of the Circuit of this House, or without any of the Gates, by any Lord or other Gentleman, to break open any House or Chamber; or to take any thing in the name of Rent, or a distress.

11. That for preventing of Quarrells within the House, and that general scandal and obloquie which the House hath heretofore incurred in time of Christmas, there shall no Gentleman of this House side with any person whatsoever, that shall offer to disturb the peace and quiet of the

the House; but shall endeavour to punish them, according to the old Custome of the House: and that no Strangers be suffred to come within the Hall, but such as shall appear and seem to be of good sort and fashion.

Barryers.

And now, after all this, I may not omit to take notice; that fourty of the Gentlemen of the four Innes of Court, whereof ten were of this Society, were appointed [b] to be Barryers at the Court, upon the 4th. day of November, in the 14th. year of King James, in honour of the Creation of Prince Charles, Prince of Wales; which they performed accordingly, the chardge thereof being defrayed by a contribution of xxx[s]. from each Bencher; every Barister of seaven years standing xx[s]. and all other Gentlemen in Commons ten shillings a piece.

[b] Ib. f. 123.

Maskes.

And that there was also a Mask [c] performed at the Court, by the Gentlemen of this House, and of Grays Inne, at the marriage of the Lady Elizabeth (Daughter to King James) unto Frederic Prince Elector Palatine of the Rhene.

[c] Ibid.

As also that at Christmas 9 Car. I. there was a Mask [d] presented to his Majesty at the equal chardges of the four Innes of Court; towards which was contributed by { Every Bencher ——— 05[l]. ——— 00[s]. / Every Utter-barister of 7 years standing 02 ——— 10 / Every Gentleman under the Barr ——— 02 ——— 00 }

[d] Ib. f. 211. a.

Nor is it to be forgotten, that upon the *xvii*th day of November, in the 2[d] year of Queen Elizabeth reign, the Society of this House, taking into consideration, that the Fellowship of the Middle Temple (who had lost Strande Inne upon the building of Somerset House, temp. Edw. 6.) having endeavoured to take away Lyons Inne (an Inne of Chancery) from this House, whereunto it had antiently belonged; as also that the two Chief Justices (viz. Sir Robert Catlyn and Sir James Dyer) had abetted that their attempt; and that, through earnest intercession to the Queen, by the Lord Robert Dudley (afterwards Earl of Leicester) there was a stop made therein; did then order 'and enact, that no person or persons of this Society, that then were, or thereafter should be, should be retained of Councell against him the said Lord Robert, or his heirs: And that the Arms of the said Lord Robert should be set up and placed in some convenient place in their Hall, as a continual Monument of that his Lordships favour to them.

Grand-Christmasses. Cap. 57.

Mr. Martyn, Ranger of the Forests.
Mr. Stradling, Sewer.
And there were fourscore of the Guard; besides divers others not here named.

TOuching the particulars of this grand Feast, Gerard Leigh in his Accidence * of Armory pag. 119. &c. having spoken of the Pegasus born for the Armes of this Society, thus goes on—[After I had travailed through the East parts of the unknown World, to understand of Deedes of Armes, and so arriving in the fair River of Thames, I landed within half a league from the City of London, which was (as I conjecture) in December last; and drawing neer the City, suddenly heard the shot of double Canons, in so great a number, and so terrible, that it darkened the whole ayr; wherewith, although I was in my native Country, yet stood I amazed not knowing what it meant. Thus as I abode in despair, either to return or continue my former purpose, I chanced to see coming towards me an honest Citizen Clothed in a long garment, keeping the high way, seeming to walk for his recreation, which prognosticated rather peace than perill; of whom I demanded the cause of this great shot; who friendly answered: It is, quoth he, a warning shot to the Constable Marshall of the Inner Temple, to prepare to Dinner.

* Impr. Lond. 1576.

Why (said I) what, is he of that Estate, that seeketh no other means to warn his Officers than with so terrible shot in so peaceable a Country. Marry, saith he, he uttereth himself the better to be that Officer whose name he beareth.

I then demanded what Province did he govern, that needeth such an Officer. He answered me, The Province was not great in quantity, but antient in true nobility. A place, said he, privileg'd by the most excellent Princess the high Governor of the whole Island, wherein are store of Gentlemen of the whole Realm, that repair thither to learn to rule and obey by Law, to yield their fleece to their Prince and Common-weal; as also to use all other exercises of body and mind whereunto nature most aptly serveth to adorn by Speaking, countenance, gesture, and use of Apparel the person of a Gentleman; whereby amity is obtained, and continued, that Gentlemen of all Countries, in their young years, nourished together in one place, with such comely order, and daily Conference, are knit by continual acquaintance in such unity of mindes and manners as lightly never after is severed, than which is nothing more profitable to the Common-weal.

The Inner Temple.

And after he had told me thus much of honour of the place, I commended in mine own conceit the policy of the Governour, which seemed to utter in it self the foundation of a good Common-weal; for that the best of their people, from tender years train'd up in Precepts of Justice, it could not choose but yield forth a profitable people to a wise Common weal, wherefore I determined with my self to make proofe of that I heard by report.

The next day I thought for my Pastime to walk to this Temple, and entring in at the Gates, I found the building nothing costly; but many comely Gentlemen of face and person, and thereto very courteous saw I to pass to and fro, so as it seemed a Princes port to be at hand: and passing forward, entred into a Church of antient building, wherein were many Monuments of noble Personages armed in knightly habit, with their Cotes depainted in antient Shields, whereat I took pleasure to behold. Thus gazing as one bereft with the rare sight, there came unto me an Herehaught, by name Palaphilos, a King of Armes, who curteously saluted me, saying, for that I was a Stranger, and seeming by my demeanour a lover of Honour, I was his guest of right: whose curtesy (as reason was) I obeyed, answering I was at his Commandment.

Then said he, ye shall go to mine own lodging here within the palace, where we will have such cheer as the time and Country will yield us; where I assure you I was so entertained, as no where met I with better cheer or Company, (&c.)

—Thus talking we entred the Prince his Hall, where anon we heard the noise of Drum and Fyfe. What meaneth this

this Drum said I. Quoth he, This is to warn Gentlemen of the Houſhold to repair to the Dreſſer, wherefore come on with me, and ye ſhall ſtand where ye may beſt ſee the Hall ſerved: and ſo from thence brought me into a long Gallery, that ſtretcheth it ſelf along the Hall neer the Princes Table, where I ſaw the Prince ſet; a man of tall perſonage, a manly countenance, ſomewhat brown of viſage, ſtrongly featured, and thereto comely proportioned in all lineaments of body. At the nether end of the ſame Table were placed the Embaſſadors of ſundry Princes. Before him ſtood the Carver, Sewer, and Cupbearer, with great number of Gentlemen-wayters attending his perſon; the Vſhers making place to ſtrangers of ſundry regions that came to behold the honor of this mighty Captain. After the placing of theſe honourable Gueſts, the Lord Steward, Treaſurer, and Keeper of Pallas Seal, with divers honorable perſonages of that Nobility were placed at a ſide Table neer adjoyning the Prince on the right hand: And at another Table on the left ſide were placed the Treaſurer of the Houſhold, Secretary, the Prince his Serjeant at the Law, four Maſters of the Revels, the King of Arms, the Dean of the Chappel, and divers gentlemen Penſioners to furniſh the ſame.

At another Table on the other ſide were ſet the Maſter of the Game, and his Chief Ranger, Maſters of Houſhold, Clerks of the green Cloth and Check, with divers other ſtrangers to furniſh the ſame.

On the other ſide againſt them, began the Table, the Lieutenant of the Tower, accompanied with divers Captains of Foot-bands and Shot. At the nether end of the Hall began the Table, the high Butler, the Panter, Clerks of the Kitchin, Maſter-Cook of the Privy Kitchin, furniſhed throughout with the Souldiers and guard of the Prince: all which with number of inferior Officers placed and ſerved in the Hall, beſides the great reſort of ſtrangers, I ſpare to write.

The Prince ſo ſerved with tender meats, ſweet fruits, and dainty delicates confectioned with curious Cookery, as it ſeemed wonder a World to obſerve the proviſion: and at every Courſe the Trumpetters blew the couragious blaſt of deadly War, with noiſe of Drum and Fyfe, with the ſweet harmony of Violins, Sackbutts, Recorders, and Cornetts, with other Inſtruments of Muſick, as it ſeemed Apollo's Harp had tuned their ſtroke. Grand Chriſtmasſes. Cap. 57.

Thus the Hall was ſerved after the moſt antient order of the Iſland; in commendation whereof I ſay, I have alſo ſeen the ſervice of great Princes, in ſolemn ſeaſons and times of triumph, yet the order hereof was not inferior to any.

But to proceed, this Herehaught Palaphilos, even before the ſecond Courſe came in, ſtanding at the high Table, ſaid in this manner, The mighty Palaphilos, Prince of Sophie, high Conſtable Marſhall of the Knights Templars, Patron of the honourable Order of Pegaſus: and therewith cryeth a Largeſs. The Prince, praiſing the Herehaught, bountifully rewarded him with a Chain to the value of an hundred Talents.

I aſſure you I languiſh for want of cunning, ripely to utter that I ſaw ſo orderly handled appertaining to ſervice; wherefore I ceaſe and return to my purpoſe.

The Supper ended and Tables taken up, the high Conſtable roſe, and a while ſtood under the place of Honour, where his Atchievement was beautifully embroidered, and aviſed of ſundry matters, with the Embaſſadors of forein Nations, as he thought good, till Palaphilos King of Armes came in, his Herehaught Marſhall, and Purſivant before him; and after followed his Meſſenger and Caligate Knight; who putting off his Coronal, made his humble obeyſance to the Prince, by whom he was commanded to draw neer and underſtand his pleaſure; ſaying to him in few words to this effect; Palaphilos, ſeeing it hath pleaſed the high Pallas, to think me to demerit the office of this place; and thereto this night paſt vouchſafed to deſcend from Heavens to increaſe my further honour, by creating me Knight of her order of Pegaſus; as alſo commanded me to join in the ſame Society ſuch valiant Gentlemen throughout her Province, whoſe living honour hath beſt deſerved the ſame, the choice whereof moſt aptly belongeth to your skill, being the Watchman of their doings and Regiſter of their deſerts; I will ye chooſe as well throughout our whole Armyes, as elſewhere, of ſuch ſpecial Gentlemen, as the Gods hath appointed, the number of xxiiii. and the names of them preſent us: commanding alſo thoſe choſen perſons to appear in our preſence in Knightly habit, that with conveniency we may proceed in our purpoſe. This done, Palaphilos obeying his Princes Commandement, with 24. valiant Knights, all apparelled in long white Veſtures, with each man a ſcarf of Pallas colours, and them preſented with their names to the Prince, who allowed well his choiſe, and commanded him to do his office. Who after his duty to the Prince, bowed towards theſe worthy perſonages, ſtanding every man in his antienty, as he had born Armes in the field, and began to ſhew his Princes pleaſure; with the honour of the Order.

Other particulars touching theſe grand Chriſtmaſſes extracted out of the Accompts of the Houſe.

FIrſt, it hath been the duty of the Steward to provide five fat Brawns, Veſſels, Wood, and other neceſſaries belonging to the Kitchin: As alſo all manner of Spices, Fleſh, Fowl, and other Cates for the Kitchin.

The Office of the Chief Butler to provide a rich Cupbord of Plate, Silver and parcel gilt: Seaven dozen of Silver and gilt Spoons: Twelve fair Salt-cellers, likewiſe ſilver and gilt: Twenty Candleſticks of the like.

Twelve fine large Table-Clothes, of Damask and Diaper. Twenty dozen of Napkins ſuitable, at the leaſt. Three dozen of fair large Towels; whereof the Gentlemen Sewers, and Butlers of the Houſe, to have every of them one at meal-times, during their attendance. Likewiſe to provide Carving Knives: Twenty dozen of white Cups and green Potts: A Carving Table; Torches; Bread; Beer, and Ale. And the chief of the Butlers was to give attendance on the higheſt Table in the Hall, with Wine, Ale, and Beer: and all the other Butlers to attend at the other Tables in like ſort. The Inner Temple.

The Cupbord of Plate is to remain in the Hall on Chriſtmas day, St. Stephans day, and New Years day, from Breakfaſt time ended, untill after Supper. Upon the Banquetting night it was removed into the Buttry; which in all reſpects was very laudably performed.

The Office of the Conſtable Marſhall to provide for his employment, a fair gilt compleat Harneys, with a neſt of Fethers in the Helm; a fair Pole-axe to bear in his hand, to be chevalrouſly ordered on Chriſtmaſs day and other days, as afterwards is ſhewed: touching the ordering and ſetling of all which ceremonies, during the ſaid Grand Chriſtmaſs, a ſolempn Conſultation was held at their Parliament in this Houſe, in form following.

Firſt at the Parliament kept in their Parliament Chamber of this Houſe, on the even at night of St. Thomas the Apoſtle, Officers are to attend, according as they had been long before that time, at a former Parliament named and elected to undergo ſeveral offices for this time of ſolempnity, honour, and pleaſance: Of which Officers, theſe are the moſt eminent; namely the Steward, Marſhall, Conſtable-Marſhal, Butler, and Maſter of the Game. Theſe Officers are made known and elected in Trinity Term next before; and to have knowledg thereof by Letters, if in the Country, to the end they may prepare themſelves againſt All Hallontide; that if ſuch nominated Officers happen to fail, others may then be choſen in their rooms. The other Officers are appointed at other times neerer Chriſtmas day.

If the Steward, or any the ſaid Officers named in Trinity Term, refuſe or fail, he or they were fined every one, at the diſcretion of the Bench; and the Officers aforenamed agreed upon. And at ſuch a Parliament, if it be fully reſolved to proceed with ſuch a grand Chriſtmas, then the two yongeſt Butlers muſt light two Torches, and go before the Bench to the upper end of the Hall: who being ſet down, the antienteſt Bencher delivereth a Speech, briefly, to the whole Society of gentlemen then preſent, touching their conſent, as afore: which ended, the eldeſt Butler is to publiſh all the Officers names, appointed in Parliament: and then in token of joy and good liking, the Bench and Company paſs beneath the Harth, and ſing a Carol, and ſo to Boyer.

Chriſtmas Eve.

The Marſhall at Dinner is to place at the higheſt Tables end, and next to the Library, all on one ſide thereof, the moſt antient perſons in the Company, preſent: the Dean of the Chappel next to him: then an Antient, or Bencher, beneath him. At the other end of the Table, the Sewer, Cupbearer, and Carver. At the upper end of the Bench-table, the Kings Serjeant and chief Butler: and when the Steward hath ſerved in, and ſet on the Table the firſt Meſs, then he is alſo to ſit down.

Alſo at the upper end of the other Table, on the other ſide of the Hall, are to be placed the three Maſters of the Revels: and at the lower end of the Bench table, are to ſit, the Kings Attorney, the Ranger of the Foreſt, and the Maſter of the Game. And at the lower end of the Table on the other ſide of the Hall, the fourth Maſter of the Revels, the Common Serjeant, and Conſtable-Marſhal. And at the upper end of the Utter-Bariſters Table, the Marſhal ſitteth, when he hath ſerved in the firſt Meſs: The Clark of the Kitchin alſo, and the Clark of the Sowce-tub, when they have done their offices in the Kitchin, ſit down. And at the upper end of the Clarks table, the Lieutenant of the Tower, and the attendant to the Buttery are placed.

At theſe two Tables laſt reherſed, the perſons there may ſit upon both ſides of the Table: but of the other three Tables, all are to ſit upon one ſide. And then the Butlers or Chriſtmaſs ſervants, are firſt to cover the Tables with fair linnen Table-Cloths; and furniſh them with Salt-cellers, Napkins and Trenchers, and a Silver ſpoon. And then the Butlers of the Houſe muſt place at the Salt-celler, at every the ſaid firſt three higheſt Tables, a ſtock of Trenchers, and bread: and at the other Tables, bread onely without Trenchers.

Grand Chriſtmas Cap. 57.

At the firſt Courſe the Minſtrels muſt ſound their Inſtruments, and go before; and the Steward and Marſhall are next to follow together; and after them the Gentleman Sewer; and then cometh the meat. Thoſe three Officers, are to make altogether three ſolempn Curteſies, at three ſeveral times, between the Skreen and the upper Table; beginning with the firſt, at the end of the Benchers table; the ſecond at the midſt; and the third, at the other end; and then ſtanding by the Sewer performeth his Office.

When the firſt Table is ſet and ſerved, the Stewards Table is next to be ſerved. After him, the Maſters table of the Revells: Then that of the Maſter of the Game. The high Conſtable-Marſhall: Then the Lieutenant of the Tower: then the Utter Bariſters table: and laſtly the Clerks table: All which time the Muſick muſt ſtand right above the Harth ſide, with the noiſe of their Muſick; their faces direct towards the higheſt table: and that done, to return into the Buttry, with their Muſick ſounding.

At the ſecond courſe every Table is to be ſerved, as at the firſt Courſe, in every reſpect; which performed, the Servitors and Muſicians, are to reſort to the place aſſigned for them to dine at; which is the Valects or Yeomans table, beneath the Skreen. Dinner ended, the Muſicians prepare to ſing a Song, at the higheſt Table: which ceremony accompliſhed, then the Officers are to addreſs themſelves every one in his office, to avoid the Tables in fair and decent manner, they beginning at the Clerks table, thence proceed to the next; and thence to all the others till the higheſt table, be ſolempnly avbided.

Then, after a little repoſe, the perſons sons at the highest Table arise, and prepare to Revells: in which time, the Butlers and other Servitors with them, are to dine in the Library.

At both the doors in the Hall, are Porters to view the Comers in and out at Meal times: To each of them is allowed a Cast of Bread, and a Candle, nightly after Supper.

At night, before Supper, are Revels and Dancing; and so also after Supper, during the twelve daies of Christmas. The antientest Master of the Revels, is after Dinner and Supper, to sing a Caroll, or Song; and command other Gentlemen then there present, to sing with him and the Company, and so it is very decently performed.

A Repast at Dinner, is —— 8 d.

Christmas day.

Service in the Church ended, the Gentlemen presently repair into the Hall, to Breakfast, with Brawn Mustard and Malmsey.

At Dinner, the Butler appointed for the grand Christmas, is to see the Tables covered and furnished: and the ordinary Butlers of the House, are decently to set Bread, Napkins, and Trenchers in good form, at every Table; with Spoones and Knives.

At the first Course is served in, a fair and large Bores-head, upon a Silver Platter, with Minstralsye. Two Gentlemen in Gownes are to attend at Supper, and to bear two fair Torches of Wax, next before the Musicians and Trumpetters, and stand above the Fire with the Musick, till the first Course beserved in, through the Hall. Which performed, they with the Musick are to return into the Buttery. The like course is to be observed in all things, during the time of Christmas. The like at Supper.

At Service time this Evening, the two youngest Butlers, are to bear two Torches in the Genealogia. A repast at Dinner is 12 d. which Strangers of worth are admitted to take in the Hall; and such are to be placed at the discretion of the Marshall.

St. Stephens day.

The Butler appointed for Christmas, is to see the Tables covered, and furnished with Salt-Sellers, Napkins, Bread, trenchers and spoons. Young gentlemen of the House are to attend and serve till the latter Dinner, and then dine themselves.

The Inner Temple.

This day the Sewer, Carver, and Cup-bearer, are to serve as afore. After the first Course served in, the Constable-Marshall cometh into the Hall, arrayed with a fair, rich, compleat Harneys, white and bright, and gilt, with a Nest of Fethers of all colours upon his Crest or Helm, and a gilt Pole-axe in his hand: to whom is associate the Lieutenant of the Tower, armed with a fair white Armour, a Nest of Fethers in his Helm, and a like Pole-axe in his hand; and with them sixteen Trumpetters; four Drums and Fifes, going in rank before them: and with them attendeth four men in white Harneys, from the middle upwards, and Halberds in their hands, bearing on their shoulders the Tower: which persons, with the Drums, Trumpets, and Musick go three times about the Fire. Then the Constable-Marshall, after two or three Curtesies made, kneeleth down before the Lord Chancellor; behind him the Lieutenant; and they kneeling, the Constable-Marshal pronounceth an Oration of a quarter of an hours length, thereby declaring the purpose of his coming; and that his purpose is to be admitted into his Lordships service.

The Lord Chancellor saith, He will take farther advice therein.

Then the Constable-Marshal standing up, in submissive manner delivereth his naked Sword to the Steward; who giveth it to the Lord Chancellour: and thereupon the Lord Chancellor willeth the Marshall to place the Constable-Marshall in his Seat: and so he doth, with the Lieutenant also in his Seat or place. During this Ceremony, the Tower is placed beneath the fire.

Then cometh in the Master of the Game apparelled in green Velvet: and the Ranger of the Forest also, in a green suit of Satten; bearing in his hand a green Bow, and divers Arrows, with either of them a Hunting Horn about their Necks; blowing together three blasts of Venery, they pace round about the fire three times. Then the Master of the Game maketh three Curtesies, as aforesaid; and kneeleth down before the Lord Chancellour, declaring the cause of his coming; and desireth to be admitted into his service, &c. All this time the Ranger of the Forest standeth directly behind him. Then the Master of the Game standeth up.

This Ceremony also performed, a Huntsman cometh into the Hall, with a Fox and a Purse-net; with a Cat, both bound at the end of a staff; and with them nine or ten Couple of Hounds, with the blowing of Hunting-Hornes. And the Fox and Cat are by the Hounds set upon, and killed beneath the Fire. This sport finished, the Marshall placeth them in their several appointed places.

Then proceedeth the second Course: which done, and served out, the Common Serjeant delivereth a plausible Speech to the Lord Chancellour, and his Company, at the highest Table, how necessary a thing it is, to have Officers at this present; the Constable-Marshal, and Master of the Game, for the better honor and reputation of the Common-wealth; and wisheth them to be received, &c.

Then the King's Serjeant at Law, declareth and inferreth the necessity; which heard, the Lord Chancellour desireth respite of farther advice. Then the antientest of the Masters of the Revels singeth a Song, with assistance of others there present.

At Supper the Hall is to be served in all solempnity, as upon Christmas day, both the first and second Course to the highest Table. Supper ended, the Constable-Marshall presented himself with Drums afore him, mounted upon a Scaffold, born by four men; and goeth three times round about the Harthe, crying out aloud, A Lord, A Lord, &c. Then he descendeth & goeth to dance, &c. & after he calleth his Court, every one by name, one by one, in this manner.

Grand Christmas Cap. 57.

Sir Francis Flatterer of Fowle-hurst, in the County of Buckingham.

Sir Randle Rackabite, of Rascall hall, in the County of Rake hell.

Sir Morgan Mumchance, of Much Monkery, in the County of Mad Mopery.

Sir Bartholmew Baldbreech, of Buttocks-bury, in the County of Breke neck.

This done, the Lord of Misrule addresseth himself to the Banquet: which ended with some Minstralsye, mirth, and dancing, every man departeth to rest.

At every Mess, is a Pot of wine allowed. Every Repast is 6d.

About seaven of the Clock in the Morning, the Lord of Misrule is abroad, and if he lack any Officer or attendant, he repaireth to their Chambers, and compelleth them to attend in person upon him after Service in the Church, to breakfast, with Brawn, Mustard and Malmsey. After Breakfast ended, his Lordships power is in suspence, until his personal presence at night; and then his power is most potent. St. Johns day.

At Dinner and Supper is observed the Diet and service performed on St. Stephens day. After the second Course served in, the King's Serjeant, Orator-like, declareth the disorder of the Constable-Marshal, and of the Common Serjeant: which complaint is answered by the Common Serjeant, who defendeth himself and the Constable-Marshal with words of great efficacy: Hereto the King's Serjeant replyeth. They rejoyn, &c. and who so is found faulty committed to the Tower, &c.

If any Officer be absent at Dinner or Supper times; if it be complained of, he that sitteth in his place is adjudged to have like punishment, as the Officer should have had being present: and then withall he is enjoyned to supply the office of the true absent Officer, in all pointe. If any offendor escape from the Lieutenant into the Buttery, and bring into the Hall a Manchet upon the point of a knife, he is pardoned: For the Buttry, in that case is a Sanctuary. After Cheese served to the Table, not any is commanded to sing.

Childermas day.

In the Morning, as afore on Monday, the Hall is served; saving that the Sewer, Carver, and Cup-bearer do not attend any service. Also like Ceremony as Supper.

Wednesday.

In the Morning no breakfast at all; but like service as afore is mentioned; both at Dinner and Supper.

Thursday.

At Breakfast Brawn, Mustard, and Malmsey. At Dinner, Roast-beef, Venison-Pasties, with like solempnities as afore. And at Supper Mutton and Hens roasted.

New-years day.

In the Morning, Breakfast, as formerly. At Dinner like solempnity as on Christmas Eve.

The Banquetting night.

IT is proper to the Butler's Office, to give warning to every House of Court, of this banquet; to the end that they, and the Innes of Chancery be invited thereto to see a Play and Mask. The Hall is to be furnished with Scaffolds to sit on, for Ladies to behold the Sports, on each side. Which ended, the Ladyes are to be brought into the Library, unto the Banquet there; and a Table is to be covered and furnished with all Banquetting Dishes, for the Lord Chancellor in the Hall; where he is to call to him the Ancients of other Houses, as many as may be on the one side of the Table. The Banquet is to be served in, by Gentlemen of the House.

The Marshall and Steward are to come before the Lord Chancellours Mess. The Butlers for Christmas must serve wine; and the Butlers of the House, Beer and Ale, &c. When the Banquet is ended, then cometh into the Hall the Constable-Marshal, fairly mounted on his Mule; and deviseth some sport, for passing away the rest of the night.

Twelf-day.

At Breakfast, Brawn, Mustard, and Malmsey, after Morning-Prayer ended: And at Dinner the Hall is to be served, as upon St. Johns day.

The Inner Temple.

On Thursday Aug. 15°. An. 1661. 13 Car. 2. Sir Heneage Finch Knight and Baronet, Solicitor general to the King, being Reader, kept his Feast in the great Hall of the Inner Temple.

TO the honor of whom, and of the whole Society, the King came in his Barge from White-Hall, accompanied by the Duke of York; and attended by the Lord Chancellour, Lord Treasurer, Lord Privy Seal, the Dukes of Buckingham, Richmund, and Ormund; Lord Chamberlain of his Houshold; the Earles of Oxford, Bristol, Berks. Portland, Strafford, Anglesey, Esser, Bathe, and Carlisle; the Lords Wentworth, Cornbury, De la Warre, Gerard of Brandon, Berkley of Stratton and Townwallis; the Comptroller and Vice-Chamberlain of his Majesties Houshold, Sir Will. Morice one of his Principal Secretaries of State: The Earl of Middleton Lord Commissiones of Scotland, the Earl of Glencarne, Lord Chancellour of Scotland; the Earls of Lauderdale and Newburgh, and other the Commissioners of that Kingdome; with the Earl of Kildare and other Commissioners of Ireland.

At the Staires where his Majesty landed, stood to receive him, the Reader; and the Lord Chief Justice of the Common Pleas, in his Scarlet robe and Collar of SS.

On each side, as his Majesty passed, stood the Readers Servants in Scarlet Cloaks and white Tabba Doublets; there being a way made through the Wall into the Temple Garden: and above them on each side the Benchers, Baristers, and other Gentlemen of the Society, all in their Gowns and formalities, the loud Musick playing from the time of his landing till he entred the Hall; where he was received with xx. Violins, which continued as long as his Majesty stayed.

The Inner Temple.

Dinner was brought up by fifty ſelect Gentlemen of the Society in their Gowns, who gave their attendance all Dinner while, none other appearing in the Hall but themſelves; the King and the Duke of York, ſitting under a Canopy of State at a Table ſet at the upper end of the Hall, advanced three ſteps above the reſt. The Lord Chancellor with the reſt of the Noblemen ſitting at a long Table on the right ſide of the Hall; and the Reader with thoſe of the Society on the other ſide.

On the 3d of November following, to the farther honor of this Society, his Royal Highneſs the Duke of York, the Duke of Buckingham, the Earl of Dorſet, and Sir William Morrice Knight, one of his Majeſties principal Secretaries of ſtate, were admitted of this Houſe; the Duke of York being then called to the Barr and Bench.

And on the 4th of November 14 Car. II. his highneſs Rupert Prince Palatine, Thomas Earl of Cleveland, Jocelyn Lord Percy, John Lord Berkley of Stratton, with Henry and Bernard Howard of Norfolk were admitted of this Society.

Orders and Exerciſes there.

THe Degrees of Tables in the Hall.

1. The Benchers Table.
2. The Utter-Bariſters.
3. The Inner-Bar Table, which conſiſts of two for thoſe of the Maſters Commons.

And a third ſhort Table, at the lower end of the Hall, called the Clerks Commons Table.

Clerks Commons.

Of the Clerks Commons, the moſt antient amongſt them is called the Abbot; who is the firſt man that is to bring in the Moote into the Library, as alſo the Clerks Commons Caſe in the Vacation, and to inform the reſt what is meet to be done.

The Gentlemen of the Clerks Commons did in former times daily ſerve up the firſt Meſs, from the Dreſſer to the Bench Table, by uſe and Cuſtom, and likewiſe their own meat. Cap. 57.

When any one of the Clerks Commons will, he may be removed or tolted thence, unto the Maſters Commons: but rather than the Clerks Commons Exerciſe ſhould fail, he is, for performance of Exerciſe, to be retolted by the antient Meſs at the Bench Table, at the end of the Term, and the upper Meſs of the Barr in Vacation time.

An Inner Bariſter, or a Gentleman of the Clerks Commons, is to attend four Vacations in like Exerciſe and like Vacations.

Upon great Feſtival daies the Gentlemen of the Inner Barr do ſerve up into the Hall, the firſt and ſecond Courſe from the Dreſſer, being attended on, at the firſt Courſe, with Muſick; the Maſter of the Revells following next to the Muſick, holding a white wand in his hand; and the Treaſurer with another of the Bench (viz. the laſt Treaſurer, or he that is to have that office next) holding white Staves in their hands. Then follows the Service to the Table where the Lords and Judges do ſit. Inner Barriſters.

The Maſter of the Temple, for the time being, ſtanding at one ſide of the upper end of the Table, ſays Grace: And if out of Reading time (after Grace ſaid) he takes his place and ſits uppermoſt, though any Nobleman or Judg were there. But in the times of Reading, the Reader hath that place above any perſon whatſoever, of the higheſt degree.

When the Clerks Commons Exerciſe in the Vacation beginneth, the Abbot, or antienteſt of them, comes up to the Barr Table, at the end of Dinner; and acquainteth them, that the Gentlemen of the Clerks Commons, have a Caſe to put their Maſterſhips; and after, during the whole Exerciſe of that Vacation, upon Monday, Wedneſday and Friday, there are Clerks Common Caſes to be argued. The Gentleman, that is to bring it in, as ſoon as the Tables in the Hall be covered, and Salt-cellers ſet upon the Clerks Gentlemen of the Clerks Commons.

Cap. 57. Clerks Commons Table, and that the Horn hath blown to Dinner, he that is to put the Case, layeth a case fair written in paper, upon the Salt, giving thereby notice, of the case to be argued after Dinner; which case so laid upon the Salt, if any one Gentleman of the House do take up and read, he by order of the House is to be suspended Commons, and to be amerced.

Barristers. The time before any one ought to be called to the Barr, by the antient Orders of the House, was heretofore eight years; but now reduced to seaven. And the Exercise then done by him so called (if he were not called ex gratia) was, by the like antient Orders, xii. grand Mootes, which were performed at the Inns of Chancery, in the time of the Grand Readings; and xxiv. petty Mootes at the Innes of Chancery likewise, in the Term times, before the Readers of the respective Innes of Chancery. Which Exercises, having been much discontinued, are now reviving, to the great advantage of young Students.

A Barrister newly called, is to attend the six next long Vacations, the Exercise of the House; viz. in Lent and Summer; and is thereupon for those three years called a Vacation Barrister.

Vacation Exercise. For a Vacation Exercise, the first Moote, and the last tender of the Moot in that Vacation in the Library, is always upon one Argumentable Quere: and all the residue of the Exercise of Vacations in the Library, is to be upon two argumentable points: and besides, the puisne Barrister, after the Case brought in, repeates the pleading Verbatim, and takes as many exceptions to the insufficiency of the pleading, as he can; and all this Ex tempore.

The second Barrister answers those exceptions taken by the first; and takes as many more exceptions as he can; and then argues the points in Law, contrary to the first Barristers Argument.

The third Barrister is to repeat all the Exceptions taken by both the puisne Barristers; and those which he conceives to be good in Law, he allows; and disallows of the contrary. Then, if he finde any more Exceptions then were formerly moved, he shews those Exceptions, and then argues the points in Law, as he takes the Law to be in his own opinion. Immediately after the Argument ended in the Library, as afore, the Barristers repair to their Table in the Hall, and sit there according to their Antiquity: to whom the Inner Barr, and those that brought in the Case, resort; and there, the most material Exceptions spoken of in the Library, are again touched: and if any material Exception were admitted by the Barristers in the Library, then it may be moved there; and there the Gentleman that brought in the Case, may make answer to the Exceptions that were taken, and maintain the Pleading to be good in Law, notwithstanding those Exceptions, if he can.

The Inner Temple.

Utter-Barrister Vacationers. The Utter Barrister Vacationers, have the rule, ordering, and government of the House in Vacation times, if the Treasurer and Benchers be absent.

Reading. The Eve next before the Reading begins, the Reader takes his place at the upper end of the Bench Table, in the Treasurers place: and Supper ended, the antientest Utter Barrister in Commons, brings in a Case at the Bench-Table, which the Reader and Benchers are to argue, if they will. And then, after, rising from the Table, the Reader first, and next all the Benchers and Gentlemen follow, and come to the place between the Buttry door, and backside of the Skreen in the Hall; where the Reader by some plausible words, or House-speech, declares publickly the Statute whereon he purposeth to Read the next day. Then the antientest Bencher, by another plausible House-speech, commends Mr. Readers discretion in the choice of his Statute; and declares the desires of the whole House, and what great desire they have to hear the Readers learned conceipts upon that Statute, in his ensuing Reading, and so take leave and depart.

The next Morning about 8 or 9. of the Clock, the Reader comes into the

the Hall, followed by the Judges if any of that House be present, and Benchers that attend the Case that day: and as soon as the Reader is set at the Table, and all ceremonies of Curtesy made, the Reader takes the Oaths of Supremacy and Allegeance, and then makes another House-Speech; wherein he utters some divisions and expositions of the Statute whereon he is to read.

During the Reading time, the Reader is to read every Reading day, his two first Cases twice, if the Barrister, who is to argue the Case, do desire it: And the first day, the antientest Utter Barrister in Commons, is to take the Reader's Case, and is to argue it. And the Readers of Innes of Chancery, and the Vacationer Utter-Barristers, one after another, are to take the Reader's Case in the Morning every Reading day; and the antientest Bencher or the antientest of the Judges then present, who are to argue the Readers Case (if they will) may put the Utter Barister, appointed to argue that Morning, to any other of the Readers Cases: after whom, the Judges and Benchers argue according to their antiquity, the puisne Bencher begmning first; and so every one after another, till the antientest Judge or Bencher have argued the Case; All which is to be done ex tempore Pro & Con.: And lastly, the Reader to answer the objections made against his Conclusion, to shew his opinion of his Case, as he takes the law to be; and so concludes that Mornings Reading.

Immediately after the first Morning's Reading ended, the Reader delivers his Paper of Cases, for that Morning, to the puisne Vacationer Utter-Barrister, who is to argue one of those Cases which he likes best, immediately after Dinner, at the Bench Table end; and the puisne Barrister, and all the other Barristers attending the Reading, resort together, to break the Case, and open the points to the said puisne Barrister; and then he argues the Case at the Bench Table, after Dinner: and after him, every Bencher present argues the Case, pro & con. And lastly the Reader concludes the Argument with his opinion, as he takes the Law: And so the Exercise is continued every Reading day, which is closed up by the antientest of the Bench: and then the Reader, with congratulatory House Speeches, each to other for their company, pains, and attendance, costs and charges. Cap. 57.

If in Reading time, or other times of Exercise, there fail to be sufficient attendance upon the Exercise, the Reader, Benchers, and Utter-Barristers respectively may amerce the absents, dissolve the Exercise for that time, and so depart.

Before any Moote in the Hall, after Supper, the Benchers go all behind the Skreen as afore, and there break the Case, which is to be argued then forthwith in the Hall: and they have power to over-rule the Case, as not argumentable; and that over-ruling is termed a Failer; and the whole Inner Barre is to be amerced, unless they presently plead and argue another Case of the same learning: which, if the Benchers that sit approve of, the Amercement is saved.

Although the Reader at the first weeks end, or fortnights end do end his Reading, yet there is Exercise in the House or abroad, by Readers, or Vacationers, untill the end of the whole Reading Month, as if the Reading had so long continued. But if no Reading at all be in the House, yet are the Readers of Innes of Chancery, and the Gentlemen of the Inner Barr, to hold the grand Mootes, so long time as any other Reader of any other the three Innes of Court do continue their Reading, except in time of mortality.

Grand Christmas

At the Benchers Parliament on St. Thomas Day (before Christmas) at night, all the grand Officers for the grand Christmas, are openly summoned and called in the Hall, and merced for their default of non appearance.

Bench Table Cases.

In the Terme time certain Cases, called Bench-Table Cases, are at certain days, brought in by the Utter-Barrister, and argued by four of the

puisne

Chap. 57. puiſne Benchers; unleſs it pleaſe the Treaſurer or the Auntient Bencher then preſent, either to over-rule the Caſe, or elſe to take it up: and the Benchers are to chuſe the ſide, whereon to argue, with and againſt the Action: and the Utter-Bariſter is to put two Caſes to them: and ſometimes the Benchers make the Utter-Barriſters afterwards to put a third Caſe, and to argue againſt the Action.

Battles. All the Bench Table, every meal, and the antienteſt Meſs of the Utter-Barr, muſt alſo battle every meal, by order of the Houſe.

Reader's Caſes. After Supper, on that night the Steward's Drinking is, the auntienteſt Utter-Barriſter in Commons, is to put one of the Reader's Caſes to the Reader, in the preſence of the Reader's gueſts: and this Caſe is ſeldom argued by the Utter-Barriſter, but the Reader makes a Houſe-ſpeech, and takes up the Caſe.

Readers of Innes of Chancery. At the election of Readers for Inns of Chancery, the order is, that the laſt Reader of the Inne of Chancery, neer the time of Reading, delivers to the Bench, at Dinner, the names of ſix Utter-Barriſters, that have not yet read; out of which number the Bench makes choice of three, and ſends the names of thoſe three, to the Inns of Chancery, who chooſe one of thoſe to be their Reader; only to Lions Inne they ſend the whole ſix.

Revells: The three grand dayes are All-hallown, Candlemaſs, and Aſcenſion-day; whereof All-hallown and Candlemaſs are the chief, for coſt, ſolemnity, dancing, revelling and Muſick, guided by a Maſter of the Revells in form following.

First the ſolemn Revells (after Dinner, and the Play ended) are begun by the whole Houſe, Judges, Sergeants at Law, Benchers; the Utter and Inner Barr; and they led by the Maſter of the Revells: and one of the Gentlemen of the Utter Barr are choſen to ſing a Song to the Judges, Serjeants, or Maſters of the Bench; which is uſually performed; and in default thereof there may be an Amerciament. Then the Judges and Benchers take their places, and ſit down at the upper end of the Hall. Which done, the Utter-Barriſters, and Inner-Barriſters perform a ſecond ſolemn Revell before them.

The Inner-Temple.

Which ended, the Utter-Barriſters take their places and ſit down. Some of the Gentlemen of the Inner-Barr, do preſent the Houſe with dancing, which is called the Poſt Revells, and continue their Dances, till the Judges or Bench think meet to riſe and depart.

Admittances. A ſpecial Admittance into this Society is *vi*l. *xiii*s. *iiii*d. unleſs upon favour; then leſs, as the Treaſurer and Maſters of the bench do ſet down.

A general Admittance, is——— *iii*l. *vi*s. *viii*d.

The Admittance of a Student, certified to have been in Commons two years, and during that time kept the Exerciſes of the Houſe, paid all duties there, and been of good behaviour, and ſo ſignified by the Principal and Reader, for the time being, of any Inne of Chancery, is only *xx*s.

The Fees to the Head Butler, upon every Admittance, is———*ix*s.

The Officers of this Houſe.

Officers of the Houſe. A Steward, who by his place and Office is in the degree of an Eſquire, during the time he continues therein; and antiently did wear a Gold Chain about his neck, of about the value of an C. marks: his ſtanding Fee being four marks a year.

A Lawndress for the House, per an. —10*l.* 6*s.* 8.

Masters Commoners.

The Master Commoners are called from the Clerks Commons, by the Masters of the Bench, when it is petitioned, and the time expired to sit any longer on the Clerks side.

These Master Commoners having for the space of about eight years, commendably perform'd Exercises in the Terms, Readings and Vacations, and according to the Orders of the House, are by the Bench call'd thence to the Barr Table, for their sufficiency and merit.

Cap. 57.

Utter Barristers called to the Bench.

The Utter-Baristers, or he that sits at that Table, being reputed a person able and fit to remove to the Bench, is by Parliament there thence called to the Bench.

TO this there did antiently ſeveral Priſts belong, who had Hall and lodgings aſſigned to them, as appears by ſome teſtimonials of H. 7. time.

But ſince the diſſolution of the Hoſpitalers (temp. H. 8.) there hath been a Divine, by name of a Maſter or Cuſtos, conſtituted by the King's Letters Patents, who hath adminiſtred the Sacraments, and performed other Divine ſervice therein without any Inſtitution or Induction, as in other Churches, by the Biſhop.

There are certain Buildings on the Eaſt part of the Church-yard, in part whereof he hath his Lodgings, and the reſt he letteth out to Students. His dyet he hath in either Houſe at the upper end of the Benchers Table, except in the time of Reading, it then being the Reader's place.

Beſides the Maſter there is a Reader, who readeth Divine Service each Morning and Evening; for which he hath his Salary from the Maſter.

And of late years there hath been a Lecturer maintained at the equal chardge of both Houſes; (viz. Inner and Middle Temple) who preacheth every Sunday Afternoon: and beſides 8*o l. per annum* from each Houſe and convenient Lodgings hath his dyet at the Benchers Table, in which Houſe he pleaſeth.

Chap. 58. Inns of Chancery.

Cap. LVIII.

Innes of Chancery belonging to the Inner Temple.

Cliffords Inne.

THis House was antiently belonging unto the honourable Family of the Barons Clifford (from whom the late Earls of Cumberland did descend:) and being their habitation here in London, had thence the name of Cliffords Inne.

The first of them that possest it was Robert de Clifford, who had the inheritance thereof by Grant * from King Edward the second 24 Febr. in the 3d year of his reign; to hold by the service of one peny, to be paid into the Exchequer at Michaelmas: By which Grant it appeareth, that it had been before that time the House of Malculine de Harley, Escheator to King Edward the first on this side Trent, and came to that Kings hands for certain debts due to him from the said Malculine.

* Pat. 3 E. 2. m. 19. Extracta Finium Cancellariæ de anno 3 E. 2. m. 8. n. 16.

After the death of which Robert de Clifford, Isabell his Widdow dimised it in 18 Edw. tertii to the Students of the Law (Apprenticiis de Banco are the words of the Record) for the yearly Rent of 10l. So that, since that time, first by Lease, and afterwards by a grant thereof in Fee ferm to Nicholas Sulyard Esq; Principal of this House, Nicholas Guybon, Robert Clinche and other the then seniors thereof, in consideration of six hundred pounds, and the rent of 4 l. per annum, as I have heard, it hath continued to be a mansion for the Lawyers, and called an Inne of Chancery.

Cap. LIX.

Clements Inne.

THis had doubtless its name, from standing near unto St. Clements Church, or St. Clements Well, and was an Inn of Chancery, or House wherein Students of the Law had residence, in King Edward the fourths time, as may seem by the Book * of Entries, from the Record of Mich. 19 E. 4. fol. 61. titulo Misnomer: where the Defendant, to shew that he was not named of the right place of his abode, pleaded thus — Dicit, quod tempore impetrationis Brevis, fuit de Hospicio de Clements Inne, in Parochia S. Clementis Dacorum, extra barram Novi Templi Lon. in Comitatu Middlesexiæ: quod quidem Hospicium est, & tempore ante impetrationis Brevis, & diu ante, fuit quoddam Hospicium hominum Curiæ Legis temporalis, necnon hominum Consiliariorum ejusdem Legis.

* Imp. Lond. 1596. f. 108.

Of whose inheritance it antiently was, I find not: but in 2 Hen. 7. Sir John Cantlowe Knight, by a Lease * bearing date 20 Dec. in consideration of xl. marks fine, and four pounds 6 s. 8 d. yearly Rent, demised it for 80 years unto William Elyot and John Elyot (in trust, as may be presumed for the Students of the Law.) And about the 20th of H. 8. (as I have heard) Cantlowes right and interest therein was passed to William Holles Citizen of London (afterwards Knight and Lord Mayor of that City) and from him is descended to the right honourable John Earl of Clare, of whom this Society do hold it.

* Ex autogr. penes Principalem & socios hujus Hospicii. Videsi etiam Rot. Claus. de anno 2 H. 7.

Cap. LXI.

The Middle Temple.

The Buildings

OF theſe, the moſt antient, now remaining, is the great Gate towards Fleetſtreet, commonly called the Middle Temple Gate. This, as the Hiſtory of Cardinal Woolſey's life (written by Mr. Cavendiſh, one of his Gentlemen Uſhers) teſtifieth, was built by Sir Amias Paulet Knight about the 7*th* year of King Henry the 8th, who, being upon an old grudge, ſent for up by the Cardinal, and commanded not to depart London without Licenſe, lodg'd in this Gate-houſe, which he re-edified and ſumptuouſly beautified on the outſide, with the Cardinals Arms, Hat, Cogniſance, Badges, and other Devices, in a glorious manner, thereby hoping to appeaſe his diſpleaſure.

But the faireſt ſtructure belonging to this Houſe, is the Hall, it being very large and ſttaely; the firſt preparation *whereunto, was in the year 1562. (5 Eliz.) though not finiſhed †till the year 1572. 14 Eliz. Mr. Edmund Plowden being conſtituted Treaſurer * for that work.

* Ex Regiſt. ejuſdem Hoſp. f. 47. b.
† Stows Survey of Lond. p. 440. b.
* Ib. f. 111. b.

The next, whereof I find mention, are thoſe (called then the Brick Buildings) which I ſuppoſe to be the ſame that now paſs by the name of the Brick-Court (Northwards from the Hall:) towards the chardge *whereof Thomas Daniel, ſometime Treaſurer of this Houſe, beſtowed no ſmall coſt in 11 Eliz.

*Ex Regiſt. præcitato fol. 83. b.

In 17 Eliz. the new Skreen in the Hall was * made; towards which every Maſter of the Bench was aſſeſſed at 20 s; every Maſter of the Utter-Barr, Officer, and common Attorney at 10 s, and each perſon elſe of this Society at 6 s. 8 d.

It ſeems that the fabrick of the Hall did put the Houſe much in debt; and that it was not diſcharged of divers years after: for in 17 Eliz. (16 Junii) there was an Order *made in their Parliament; that, foraſmuch as by one Decree made 8 Febr. 13 Eliz. the old Penſions had been augmented for three years then next following, towards the payment thereof: and by another, in their Parliament held 10 Febr. 16 Eliz. that they had been augmented one year more, to the ſame purpoſe; and that all theſe helps were not ſufficient; that the augmentation of the ſaid Penſions ſhould continue yet one year longer.

And in 10 Jac. (an. 1612.) thoſe alſo of Brick in the Vine Court, over the Cloyſters three ſtories high, by Francis Tate Eſq; a perſon of great learning in the Laws, and eminent for his knowledg in Antiquities.

* Ib. f. 88. a.

In 19 Car. I. (an. ſcil. 1625.) were erected *thoſe fair Brick-buildings adjoyning to the Hall. And the next year following, thoſe †Brick build- the Pump Court.

† Ex Regiſtro 4to f. 5. a. 21. b 24. a. & 25. b.

In an. 1629. (ſcil. 5 Car. I.) there was an Order *made (19 Junii) for pulling down that Fabrick erected by Sir Walter Cope and Sir Arthur Gorge before mentioned, and to rebuild it that next Vacation.

*Ib. f. 32. b.

And in the next year following (viz. an. 1630. 6 Car. I.) were erected thoſe lodgins of *Brick, on the Eaſt ſide of the Middle Temple lane: thoſe alſo in Elm-Court, and † over the Church porch.

*Ib. f. 42. b.
* Ib. f. 47. a. 57. a. & 91. a.
† Ib. f. 66. b.

In an. 1631. (7 Car. I.) was the Building *by the Church in the Inner Temple lane made. And in an. 1637. (13 Car. I.) the reſt of the Brick buildings *in the Pump Court; and † between the Vine-Court, Elm-Court, Pump-Court, and Middle Temple lane were ſet up.

Towards this Sum of 4668 l. — 10 s. — 11 d. There were collected, not full out 2300 l. by or amongst the Gentlemen that were builders. Every one deposing 80 l. for a whole Chamber, and 40 l. for a half Chamber; the rest of the charge went out of the Treasury, which did put the House much in Debt.

Besides the old materials of the former Buildings, Timber, Stone, Lead, Glass, Bricks, Tiles, &c. which could not be so little of value as 331 l. 09 s. 1 d. which were wrought in again. The Old Buildings were much more spacious than the new: but not so high builded, it being five stories high, besides the Celler-Chambers.

There hath since that been built in the Middle Temple lane, a good fair Fabrick, but the first story thereof was only of Brickwork. It was erected An. 1653.

And since that one other very large, high, spacious Brick building in Essex Court, on the West-side and North end thereof, An. 165 .

Admittances

IN 10 Eliz. (2 Junii) it was ordered, [a] that whosoever had been of an Inne of Chancery belonging to this House, should pay xl[s]. only for his admission into this Society; but if he were of any other, then to pay five pounds: and if of no Inne of Chancery vi[l]. xiii[s]. iiii[d].

[a] Ex Registro ejusdem Hosp. [D.] f. 81. b.

[b] Ex Registro ado. f. 280. b.

And in 30 Eliz. by an Order [b] made 30 Junii, it was decreed, that such Students of New Inne, who should be desirous to be of this Fellowship of the Middle Temple, after such time as they had mooted and done their Exercise of learning in the said House of New Inne, should have their antiquity in this House, notwithstanding their continuance and being in Commons in New Inne: provided always, that they bring a true Certificate of their mooting and Exercise, under the Reader and Principal's hands of the said House, for the time being, before their names be entred in the Book of Admittances, or have any antiquity in this House; and the Fines for their Admittances to be respited untill their coming into Commons in this House: and to serve their Vacations, and to pay their Pensions presently upon their coming into Commons in this House, and not before.

[c] Ib. f. 332. a.

In 2 Jac. (25 Jan.) there was a confirmation [c] of an Order made here in Parliament 12 Maii 27 Eliz. viz. that none should be admitted to be associate with the Bench, at the Bench Table, except he did first pay the sum of ten pounds at the least, in Plate; or such like provision for the said Bench Table, if he were no Reader.

Barristers.

[d] Ex Registro [D.] f. 31. b.

In 1 Eliz. (3 Nov.) it was decreed [d] in their Parliament, by command from the Judges, that the Utter-Barristers who did then practise, or did afterwards purpose so to do, should not presume to plead at any Barr untill they were of xii. years standing, and with the License of the Benchers, upon pain of expulsion out of this Society: provided, that they might be of Councel with their Clyents, and come with them to the Barr, upon their businesses already begun. How long this Decree was observed I have not seen: but in 11 Jac. (23 Apr.) there was an Order [e] made that none should be called to the Barr under seven years standing.

The Middle Temple.

[e] Ex Registro 3. f. 49. b.

Apparel.

In 4 & 5 Ph. & M. it was ordered, [f] that none of this Society should thenceforth wear any great Bryches in their Hoses, made after the Dutch, Spanish, or Almon fashion; or Lawnde upon their Capps; or Cut doublets, upon pain of iii[s]. iiii[d]. forfaiture for the first default, and the second time to be expelled the House. And in 26 Eliz. there was this establishment [g] here made, for Reformation in Apparel.

[f] Ex Registro [D.] f. 27. b.

[g] Ex Registro ado. f. 168. b.

1. That no great Ruff should be worn.

2. Nor any white colour in Doublets, or Hosen.

3. Nor any facing of Velvet in Gownes, but by such as were of the Bench.

4. That no Gentlemen should walk in the streetes, in their Cloaks, but in Gownes.

5. That no Hat, or long, or curled hayr be worn.

6. Nor any Gownes, but such as were of a sad colour.

Christmass.

In an. 1631. (7 Car. 1.) at their Parliament held 25 Nov. there were divers good [h] Orders established for Christmass goverment, as may be seen in their Register whereunto I have here referred.

[h] Ex Registro 3. fol. 81. a. & p. 184.

Orders [i] made and set down for the better goverment of the Society of the Middle Temple, in An. 1635. 11 Car. 1.

[i] Ibid. p. 151.

WHereas for the good goverment of the Innes of Court, it hath been lately advised and required by the Judges, by command from his Majesty signified unto them by the Lords of his Majesties most honourable Privy Councel, amongst other things; That every Gentleman of the several Societies in Commons, shall once every year at the least receive the holy Communion. That no Gen-

Gentleman, foreiner, diſcontinuer, or other not of the Societies, ſhall be permitted or allowed to lodg in any of the ſaid Societies. That no Common Attorney or Sollicitor be hereafter admitted of any of the four Innes of Court. That no Utter-Barriſter publickly practiſe at any Barr at Weſtm. untill he have been three years at the Barr. That none be admitted to the Barr under eight years continuance, and ſuch as have kept Exerciſes in the Houſe, and at the Innes of Chancery, according to the Orders of the Houſe: And that when the Bench ſhall find the number of fit and learned Students, of honeſt condition and well deſerving the ſame. That no Gentleman of any Houſe ſhall come into the ſeveral Halls or places of publick Prayer, with Hats, Cloaks, Boots, Spurs, Swords or Daggers; or ſhall wear long hayr. And that every Utter-Barriſter and other Gentleman do give due reſpect and reverence to the Readers, Benchers, and Antients of every Houſe: The Maſters of the Bench conforming themſelves to the grave advice of the ſaid Judges, and in obedience to his Majeſties command; and finding all the ſaid particulars agreeable to the antient Orders and conſtitutions of this Houſe, have agreed and ordered concerning the ſame, in manner and form as followeth.

1. That every Gentleman of the Houſe by the ſecond Communion in next Michaelmaſs Term at the fartheſt, ſhall receive the holy Communion in the Temple Church: and if any ſhall refuſe or neglect ſo to do, to be expelled the Houſe. And it is farther ordered, that the Act of Parliament of this Houſe, made the 8th. day of July 12 Jac. An. 1614. every man to receive the Communion twice within the compaſs of every year, upon pain of expulſion, be revived and from henceforth duly put in execution.

2. That the Orders of 26 Junii 10 Jac. 1612. and of 20 Maii 1631. the former forbidding any Gentleman to lodg any Stranger in his Chamber, upon pain to forfeit five pounds for his firſt offence, and to loſe his Chamber for the ſecond: The later forbidding every Gentleman having a Chamber, to ſuffer any other Gentlemen of the Houſe, that hath none, to lodg in the ſame, without allowance of the Treaſurer firſt had, upon pain of five marks for every week of ſuch ſufferance; and for default of payment thereof upon demand, the loſs of his Chamber: that every of theſe Orders be duly obſerved, and ſtrictly put in execution.

Orders for Govrnment. Cap. 61.

3. That the Act of Parliament of this Houſe, touching none admittance of Common Attorneys, made 25 Junii 3 & 4 Ph. & M. be from henceforth duly obſerved: And further, that a liſt be made of the names of the preſent Attorneys and Sollicitors of this Houſe, and entred into the Parliament book: and if any Gentleman from henceforth, after he ſhall be admitted, ſhall then become an Attorney, or ſhall practiſe as a Common Attorney, or Sollicitor in any of his Majeſties Courts, ſhall ipſo facto be expelled the Houſe.

4. That whereas there have been heretofore, antiently, divers Acts made by the preceding Benchers, governours of this Houſe, to reſtrain the too early practice of young Barriſters, which ſuit not ſo well unto theſe times: the Maſters of the Bench have therefore ordered, that no young Barriſter preſume to take upon him to practiſe, in any of the Courts at Weſtm. before he have been full three years at the Barr, at the leaſt; upon pain to be convented before the Bench, and fined, or otherwiſe dealt withall as to them in their diſcretions ſhall ſeem meet. Neither do they intend to call any to the Barr hereafter, other than ſuch as have their full time, and are otherwiſe qualified thereunto, as the Orders of the Houſe do require: And therefore they enjoyn the Gentlemen under the Barr to apply and follow their Studies; to keep the Caſe; To perform their Exerciſes: To order their Habits and Hayr to decency and formality, according to the Orders of the Houſe; and to yield due reſpect and obſervance to the Benchers and antients, their Governours, as they expect

Cap. 61. pect and deſire the preferment to the degree of the Barr, or otherwiſe care to be lyable to the cenſure of the Bench; or (as the cauſe ſhall require) to be cut off from the Society.

Library. k Ib. p. 265. In an. 1642. (29 Apr.) there was an Order made, that the Books given by the laſt Will and Teſtament of Mr. Robert Aſhley, an ancient Barriſter of this Houſe, ſhould be kept under Lock and Key till a Library were built.

A Deſcription of the form and manner, how and by what Orders and Cuſtomes the ſtate of the fellowſhip of the Middle-Temple, (one of the Houſes of the Court) is maintained; and what wayes they have to attaine unto learning. (temp. Reg. H. 8.)

Vitellius C. 9. in bibl. Cotton. f. 320. a. FIrſt there is no lands nor revenues belonging to the Houſe, whereby any learner or Student mought be holpen and encouraged to ſtudy, by means of ſome yearly Stipend or Salary; which is the occaſion, that many a good witt, for lack of exhibition, is compelled to give over and forſake ſtudy, before he have any perfyt knowledge in the law, and to fall to practiſing, and become a Typler in the Law.

The auctoryte of the hed Officer in ther Houſe.

ITem, that there is in the ſaid Houſe, yearly choſen by the Elders of the Houſe, one of the ſageſt of them to bere the office and name of Treaſorer; and his auctoryte is to admit into the fellowſhip, ſuch as he thinketh mete: His auctoryte is to aſſign to ſuch as are of the fellowſhip there, their Chambers and lodgings. His auctoryte is to gather of certen of the fellowſhip, a Tribute yerely of iii^{s}. iiii^{d}. a piece, which among them hath the name of a pencion, and to receive of certain of the fellowſhip, a Rent of certain Chambers. His Office is alſo to pay of the ſaid money, the Rent due to the Lord of St. Johns, for the Houſe that they dwell in; and to pay alſo of the ſame money for reparations of their Chambers and Houſes. His Office is alſo to pay of the ſame money, the wages or ſalary of the ſervants of the Houſe; as the Stuard, their Butlers, Cooks, and other officers; and yearly to yield Accompt of his receipt unto two Auditors, which are appointed unto them by the Elders of the Houſe. The Middle-Temple.

The diverſity of Fellowſhips there, their manner of Study, and preferment therein.

ITem, that there is in the ſame Houſe of the fellowſhip there, two Companyes; the one called the Clerks commens; the other called the Maſters Commens.

Item the Clerks commens are ſuch young men as are admitted to the fellowſhip of the Houſe, who during two of the firſt years, or thereabout after their admiſſion, ſhall dyne and ſup together, and ſyt one more at a Meſs than the Maſters commens doth; and untill they be called up to be of the Maſters commens, they ſhall not pay the penſion money of iii^{s}. iiii^{d}. a piece; neither pay ſo much for their commens weekly as the Maſters commens doth, by vi^{d}. a piece: and they ſerve the Maſters commens of their meat, every day at Dinner and Supper.

Item, that the Maſters commens are ſuch as have byn in the Houſe, by the ſpace of two yeres or thereabouts; and then are by the Elders of the Houſe, which they call Benchers, called up to the Maſters commens, whereas they ſit one leſs in a Meſs, than the Clerks Commens do; and pay vi^{d}. a week for their commens more than the Clerks commens do; and pay eche of them iii^{s}. iiii^{d}. yearly to the Treaſorer for their penſion.

Furthermore the Maſters commens are ferder divided into three Companies; that is to ſay, no Utter-Bariſters, Utter-Bariſters, and Benchers.

The Middle-Temple.

Item, thoſe that be no Utter Bariſters, are ſuch as for lack of continuance in the Houſe, or becauſe they do not ſtudy or profit in lerning, are not by the Elders of the Houſe call'd to diſpute, argue and plead ſome doubtful matter in the Law, which among them is called motyng, before the Benchers and Elders.

Item, the Utter Bariſters are they, which after they have continued in the Houſe by the ſpace of five or ſix years, and have profited in the Study of the Law, are called by the Elders or Benchers, to plead, argue, and diſpute ſome doubtful matter in the Law, before certain of the ſame Benchers, in the term time, or in the two principal times in the year, of their learnings, which they called Grand Vacations, and the ſame manner of argument or diſputations is called motyng: and this making of Utter Bariſters, is as a preferment or degree, given him for his learning.

Alſo the Benchers are thoſe Utter-Bariſters, which after they have continued in the Houſe, by the ſpace of fourteen or fifteen years, are by the Elders of the Houſe choſen to reade, expound, and declare ſome eſtatute openly unto all the Company of the Houſe, in one of the two principal times of their learning, which they call the Grand Vacations; in Summer: and during the time of his Reading, he hath the name of a Reader, and after of Bencher.

Item, that they have two chief times of lerning with them, which they call their Grand Vacations; the one doth begin the firſt Monday in clean Lent, and doth continue three weeks and three days, in which time one of the Elders or Benchers, that hath before time read, and expounded ſome Eſtatute, doth then read and expound ſome other Statute again: The other doth begin the firſt Munday after Lammas day, and doth continue three weeks and three days, in which doth read ſuch as are firſt choſen to be Benchers.

Item, by the old Cuſtome of the Houſe, all ſuch as are made Fellows of the Houſe, unleſs they be diſpenſed withall at their Admittance, are compelled to be perſonally preſent, at two the firſt Grand Vacations in Lent, after their coming: At two the firſt grand Vacations in Summer, after their coming, and two the firſt Chriſtmaſſes, that be ſolemnly kept, after ther comyng, upon peyne of forfaiture of xx s. for every defaut. Cap. 61.

Item, all they that are Fellows of the Houſe, except at the time of their admittance they be diſpenſed withall, or for their lernyng be promotyd and made Utter-Bariſters, are ~~compell'd to exercise all such rooms~~ and offices, as they ſhall be called unto, at ſuch time as they kepe a ſolempne Chriſtmaſs, upon ſuch peynes as are by old Cuſtome uſed to be aſſeſſed for the refuſal of occupying of ſuch offices.

Furthermore, in the ſame grand Vacations, when that one of the Elders do rede and expound and an Eſtatute, ſuch Utter-Bariſters as are of long continuance, do ſtand in a place together, where as they reherſe ſome one opinion, or ſaying of him that readeth, and by all wayes of lerning and reaſon, that can be invented, do impugne his opinion: and ſometimes ſome of them do impugne it, and ſome other do approve it, and all the reſt of the Houſe give ear unto their diſputations; and at laſt the Reader doth confute all their ſayings, and confirmeth his opynion.

Alſo in the ſame Grand Vacations, every day at night, except Sonday, Saturday, or ſome feſte of 9 Leſſons, before three of the Elders or Benchers at the leſte, is pleadyd and declared in homely Law-Frenche: by ſuch as are young Lerners, ſome doubtful matter, or queſtion in the Law; which afterwards an Utter-Bariſter doth reherſe, and doth argue and reaſon to it in the Law-frenche: and after him another Utter Bariſter doth reaſon in the contrary part, in Law-frenche alſo; and then do the three Benchers declare their myndes in Engliſh; and this is that they call motyng; and the ſame manner is obſerved in the Terme time.

Furthermore, beſides this; after Dynner and Supper the Students and Lerners in the Houſe, ſit together by three and three in a Company; and one

Cap. 61. one of the three putteth forth ſome doubtfull queſtion in the Law, to the other two of his Company; and they reaſon and argue unto it in Engliſh; and at laſt, he that putteth forth the queſtion, declareth his minde, alſo ſhewing unto them the judgment or better opinion of his Boke, where he had the ſame queſtion: and this do the Students obſerve every day through the yeat, except Feſtivall days.

Alſo after the Term ended, and after the two grand Vacations ended, then the young men that be no Vtter-Bariſters, do diſpute and argue in Law Frenche ſome doubtfull queſtion, before the Vtter-Bariſters, who at the laſt, do ſhew their opinions, in Engliſh thereunto: and this manner of Diſputations is called meane Vacation Motes, or Chapell Motes.

Item that the Middle-Temple doth finde two Readers, which are Vtter-Bariſters unto two Houſes of Chancery; that is to ſay Stronde-Inne, and New-Inne: which Readers do reade unto them upon ſome Statute in the Terme time, and in the graund Vacations: and they of the Houſes of Chancery do obſerve the manner of Diſputations and Motyng, as they do in the Temple: and their Readers do bring each of them two with him of the Temple, and they argue unto it alſo.

And beſides this in the graund Vacation time, out of the four Houſes of Court, come two and two to every Houſe of Chancery; and there according to their years and continuance of the Houſe that they be of, which they call auncienty, they do argue and reaſon to ſome doubtfull matter, that is proponed, ſo that the moſt youngeſt doth begyn, and the next to him in continuance doth follow; and at laſt he that readeth to that Houſe of Chancery, doth declare his opinion in the matter that is called in queſtion.

There is none there, that be compelled to learn, and they that are learners, for the moſt part, have their Studies and places of learning ſo ſett, that they are much troubled with the noiſe of walking and communication of them that be no learners: and in the Terme time they are ſo unquieted by Clyents and ſervants of Clyents, that reſort to ſuch as are Attorneys and Practiſers, that the Students may as quietly ſtudy in the open ſtreets, as in their Studies. The Middle-Temple.

Item, they have no place to walk in, and talk and confer their learnings, but in the Church; which place all the Terme times, hath in it no more quietneſs, than the Pervyſe of Pawles, by occaſion of the confluence and concourſe of ſuch as are ſuters in the Law.

The chardges of the Maſters commens and Clerks commens, for their mete and drink by the year, and the manner of the Dyet, and the Stipende of their Officers.

Item every one of the Clerks commens payeth by the year for his Dyet *vi*l.—*iiii*li.

This is a general rule always obſerved, that whenſoever two of the Maſters commens, doth ſit at a Meſs, then at ſo myche mete doth ſytt three of the Clerks Commens: and when three of the Maſters commens doth ſytt at a Meſs, then doth four of the Clerks commens ſit at ſo much meat.

The ſecond Butlers wages by the year, *vi*s. *viii*d.

The third Butlers wages by the year, *vi*s. *viii*d.

The Chief Cokes wages by the year, *xl*s.

The Manciple, or Students ſervant, his wages by the year, *xxvi*s. *viii*d.

The under-Cookes wages by the yeare, *xx*s. Cap. 61.

The Laundreſſe of the Clothes of the houſe, her wages yearly *vi*s. *viii*d.

Alſo at Chriſtmaſs the three Butlers have in reward of every Gentleman of the Houſe *xii*d. and ſome give them in reward more.

Alſo at Eaſter the Cookes Manciple have in reward of every Gentleman of the Houſe *xii*d. or thereabouts.

¶ The manner of puniſhment of Offences, and making of Orders.

THere is among them no certaine puniſhment for Offences; but ſuch offences and miſdemeanors as are committed, are puniſhed by the judgment of the Elders, or Benchers; who puniſh the Offender, either by payment of money, or by putting him forth of commens; which is, that he ſhall take no meate nor drynke among the fellowſhip, untill the Elders liſt to revoke their judgment.

Item at certain times in the year, the Benchers and Utter-Bariſters do reſort together, and there they do conſult and adviſe themſelves, concerning the cauſes of their Houſe, and make Decrees and Orders concerning ſuch things, as they thinke meet to be reformed in the Houſe; and that they call a Parliament.

ITem, that they have every day three Maſſes ſaid; one after the other: and the firſt Maſſe doth begin in the mornyng at ſeaven of the Clock, or thereabouts. The Feſtivall days they have Mattens and Maſſe ſolemnly ſung; and during the Matyns ſinging, they have three Maſſes ſaid.

¶ Their chardges towards the ſalary, for mete and drynke of the Prieſts, is none; for they are found by

Cap. 61. by my Lord of St. Johns; and they that are of the fellowſhip of the Houſe, are chardged with nothing to the Prieſts, ſaving that they have eighteen offring days in the year, ſo that the chardge of each of them is *xviii*d.

¶ Their order for payment of Debts due to the Houſe.

ITem, if any of the Fellowſhip be indebted to the Houſe, other for his Diet, other for any other duty of the Houſe, he ſhall be openly in the Hall proclaymed; and whoſoever will pay it for him, ſhall enjoy and have his lodging and Chamber, that is ſo indebted.

¶ Apparell.

THey have no order for their Apparell; but every man may go as him liſteth, ſo that his Apparell pretend no lightneſs, or wantonneſs in the wearer: for, even as his Apparell doth ſhew him to be, even ſo ſhall he be eſteemed among them.

¶ The faſhion of their Houſe in the night.

IN the night time they have not their Yates ſhut, ſo that every man may go in and out through the Houſe, all ſeaſons of the night; which is occaſion, that their Chambers are oftentimes robbed, and many other miſdemeanors uſed.

¶ Library.

THey now have no Library, ſo that they cannot attaine to the knowledge of divers learnings, but to their great charges, by the buying of ſuch bookes, as they luſt to ſtudy. They had a ſimple Library, in which were not many bookes beſides the Law; and that Library, by meanes that it ſtood allwayes open, and that the learners had not each of them a Key unto it, it was at the laſt robbed and ſpoiled of all the bookes in it.

The Middle-Temple.

¶ Their uſage in time of Peſtilence.

IF it happen, that the plague of Peſtilence be any thing nigh their Houſe, they immediately break up their Houſe, and every man goeth home into his Country, which is a great loſs of learning: for if they had ſome Houſe nigh London to reſort unto, they might as well exerciſe their learning, as in the Temple, untill the Plague were ceaſed.

The ſtate of the Houſe at this day.

THis Society conſiſteth alſo of three ſorts or degrees of men profeſſing the Laws; viz. Benchers, id eſt, ſuch as have been Readers (antiently called Apprentices of the Law) Utter-Bariſters, and Students under the Barr; all which have their Commons in the Hall.

The Officers are theſe; A Steward and his Servant; one Chief Butler, four others who wear Gownes, and two more inferiors called Waſh-pots: one head Cook, an under-Cook, a Turn-broach, two Scullions, a Porter and a Gardner. All which except the Porter and Gardner have their diet in the Houſe, and receive wages with certain Vailes belonging to their Offices. The Officers.

The Porter hath his lodging under the Middle-Temple Gate, and two Shops there, on the Eaſt-ſide, which afford him Rent; his Office being to ſhut and open that Gate at due hours, and to keep out Beggers, and ſuch looſe kind of people: as alſo in Vacation time to ſee to Gentlemens Chambers, that the Dores be not broke open.

The Steward is to provide the ordinary Diet for the Houſe (extraordinary being to be taken care for by the ſecond Cook) and hath his lodg- The Stewards Office.

ing under the Hall. He is allowed a Servant under him, beſides a Porter or Pannyer-man to bring in the meat; and keeps a Roll, wherein the names of all perſons are entred, who are either in whole, or in half Commons, viz. half the week, and ſuch only as take Repaſts; every Repaſt being one meal in the Hall, and of which two and no more are allowed: for if they exceed that number it goes for half a week; and accordingly they are rated at the weeks end, viz. Saturday, when he caſts up the Commons in the preſence of two Utter-Barriſters in the Term-times, and two Gentlemen under the Barr in Vacation time, who are to overſee him, and to examine his Accompts, being termed Auditors. But it belongs to the Chief Butler (and not to the Steward) to take a note of the names of ſuch as are in Commons, which entered in the Buttery book; out of which the Steward makes up his Roll; wherein if any Gentleman be wrong'd, id eſt, caſt in Commons, whereas in truth he was abſent, and took no Commons that week; or caſt in whole Commons, where he ought to be but half Commons, yet he ought to pay it, the Stewards Roll being a Record, and ſigned by the ſaid Auditors is a concluſion to him: his only remedy in that caſe being to pay an allowance of another week, or half a week, as the caſe falls out, in lieu thereof; which is granted to him in caſe the error be manifeſted.

To the Steward and his ſervant it belongs to ſerve in the meat in Meſſes throughout the whole Hall, except the Maſters of the Bench-Table and their aſſociates (being like Fellow-Commoners in the Univerſities) who are ſerved by the ſecond Butler and his aſſiſtant; and the Maſters of the Bar, that is the Primier Bar-table (conſiſting of ſuch as have been Readers of New Inne, or ſuch whoſe puiſnes have been Readers there) who are ſerved by the ſecond Butler and the Panyer-man.

The Chief Butler is to keep a Butry-book, and to enter therein all ſuch Orders as are made by the Bench, at the Table, but not ſuch as are made in Parliament; for thoſe are entred by the Under-Treaſurer. He is likewiſe to enter the names of ſuch as are admitted into Commons, or which are admitted into the Houſe by the Readers in their times of Reading, and divers other things of like nature. He alſo entreth the names of all ſuch as perform any Moot or Exerciſe, either within the Houſe or abroad, to the end he may give a true accompt thereof when he is thereto called. Cap. 61.

He is likewiſe to provide Bread and Beer, as alſo green earthen drinking pots, which he caſts into the Steward's Accompts, who pay for the ſame: but Cheeſe he provides at his own charges; and after Dinner cuts every man his portion; for which he hath a certain weekly allowance from every one in Commons. And to him it belongs (as aforeſaid) to enter into a Roll the names of all ſuch as are in Commons.

He is alſo imployed to call any offender to the Bench Table, to be either puniſhed or admoniſhed for his offence: and likewiſe to provide Torches for the ſolemn Revells, and a white Rod, and a white ſtaff for the Readers elect; and others at thoſe Revells; which are the two next antients in Commons, then preſent in the Hall: the firſt of whom, being denominated Maſter of the Revells, is at all ſolemn Revells to carry the White ſtaff, and leads the ſeveral Dances, or antient meaſures, conducting the whole Society (id eſt, all Under-Benchers) round the Hall at thoſe times: The other is to carry the White Rod or Verge, and is called Maſter of the Ceremonies, who ſtanding at the Cup-board, with a loud voice doth thrice Summon the Maſter of the Revells to come forth and perform that duty.

To the Office of the Chief Butler it likewiſe appertaineth to take the names of thoſe that are abſent at the ſaid ſolemn Revells, and to preſent them to the Bench: as alſo inform the Bench of ſuch as wear Hats,

Bootes,

Cap. 61. Bootes, long Hair, or the like (for the which he is commonly out of the young Gentlemens favour:) and to appoint such as in Term are to recite Pleadings, or to Moot; or to perform any assignement: and to inform the Bench thereof, in case they refuse.

The three other Butlers Office.

These are to see the Tables throughout the Hall covered, and again voided at the end of every meal: the antientest of which three attends at the Bar Table, and next upon them on that side of the Hall. The puisne or fifth Butler attends on the other side, and serves the several Tables there with Bread and Beer. Moreover this puisne Butler is to say Grace, both before and after every meal, which he doth with an audible voice, standing in the Term time with his face towards the Bench Table; and in the Vacations towards the Bar Table.

The antientest of these Butlers keeps the Pension Roll, and collects the Pensions every Term, which are five Groats a Term from every one of the Society; as well Students and Utter-Baristers, as Benchers; out of which collection he is allowed for his paines xii^{d}. in the pound: but antiently these Pensions were collected Termly by a Gentleman of the Society. And the other of these Butlers do collect the other Rolls; viz. the Calves-head Roll, the Parsons Roll, and other occasional Rolls, having the like poundage for their so doing.

These three Butlers were heretofore (as appears by an entry in the Buttry-book made an. 18 Eliz.) to have xii^{d}. yearly of every Gentleman, for their Salary; and the Chief Butler was to make a Roll of all their names, to be signed by the Treasurer and affixed to the Pension Roll, for the better collection thereof: but now every Gentleman under the Bar pays xii^{d}. and every Barister xviii^{d}. yearly; which summs are gathered yearly by the second Butler; who for that purpose keeps a little Book of the Gentlemens names, and crosseth those that have paid. Which Collections, by an Order made an. 19 Eliz. were thus distributed; viz. the three antient Butlers to have three parts thereof (of four to be divided) and the two puisne Butlers the fourth. Which puisne Butlers serve, for the most part to Wash pots, fill beer, and serve the same into the Hall, for the ease of the other Butlers; as also to chip bread, and to do such other servile work. Of these the head Butler hath for his wages iii^{l}.vi^{s}.viii^{d}. and the other four but xx^{s}. a piece yearly.

Five Butlers antiently.

The middle Temple.

The Wash pots Office.

The Chief Cookes Office

The Chief Cook, besides his ordinary service in the Kitchin, in looking to the Dressing and serving out of the meat, To his Office do belong divers Vailes; viz. Dripping, and Scummings; the Rumps and Kidneys of loynes of Mutton, which is the usual Supper-meat of this Society, there being seldome any other joynt served in the Hall. Besides, for his farther benefit, he was wont yearly every Easter Term to bestow upon the whole Society a break-fast of Calves heads, for which every Gentleman gave xii^{d}. or more, according to his discretion: But by an Order made in 11 Jacobi, these Calves-heads used for break-fasts were turned into a Dinner, which was appointed to be on the first and second Munday in Easter Term. And whereas heretofore the benefit of these breakfasts was wholy conferred upon the Cookes; now all other inferior Officers of the House, viz. Scullions, Turn-spits, Washpots, under-Butlers, the Panyer-man, Porter, and such like, do (by usurpation) partake of the Gentlemens bounty; and heretofore stood in rancks at the Hall dore, ready (as the Gentlemen passed out of the Hall after Dinner) to receive their benevolence. But this custome of standing being disliked by the Society, hath been laid aside above thirty years since; and in lieu thereof, there is a Roll, called the Calves head Roll instituted, whereby every Bencher is taxed yearly at ii^{s}. every Barister at i^{s}. vi^{d}. and every Gentleman under the Bar at i^{s}. which is a greater advanadvantage to the said Officers and servants, receiving the Tax now from the whole Society (all admitted members, as well absent as present) whereas formerly they received not a certain duty, but a voluntary gratuity from a few who were in Commons, only in Easter week; and of them also, but such as did not absent themselves from that Mundays Dinner in Easter-week.

Besides the Vailes beforementioned, the Chief Cook hath for his yearly wages allowed him by the House *iii*l. *vi*s. *viii*d. The *Under-Cook xl*s. yearly. The *Turn-broach xxvi*s. *viii*d. yearly; but the two Scullions no more than what they receive from the benevolence of the Gentlemen.

The second Cooks Office.

To the second Cookes Office it belongeth to provide special Achates for the Bench Table, and likewise for the antient Mess of the Barr Table; as also of the Auntients Table, such as are past their Reading, and never read: which special Achates are such (for the most part) as the Bench pleaseth to make choice of, and for the same the Benchers pay weekly, but the rest by the meal.

The Panyer-man's Office.

The Panyer-man, by the winding of his Horn, summons the Gentlemen to Dinner and Supper. He also provides Mustard, Pepper, and Vinegar for the Hall; and hath for his wages yearly *iii*l. *vi*s. *viii*d. and the fragments of certain Tables; viz. the Barr-Table, and those others in the middle of the Hall, which he serves, and is to attend unto.

The Gardner and Porter.

The Gardner is allowed *vi*l. *xiii*s. *iiii*d. per annum to dress the Gardens. And the Porter's wages is *v*l. *x*s. per annum.

The Chief Treasurer.

The Chief Treasurer, who is chosen yearly at the first Parliament in Michaellmass Term, from amongst the Readers, to receive and disburse the Fines and revenues belonging to the House, is by reason of his Office dischardged of his Pension for that year. He is the supreme Officer of the whole Society upon whom the Judges (who have formerly been of this House, as Supervisors thereof) do call, if things be amiss in the Society, to see the same corrected and amended. He admits all Gentlemen into the Society. He hath power to remit and abate of Fines at such times; as also when they are admitted into Chambers, and to make sale of all such Chambers as are forfeited, or such as do fall to the House by the Death of any member thereof. And if a Chamber do so fall, he may admit any son of his (being of the House) into such a Chamber Gratis and without fine. He may lay out of the publick moneys of the House, at his discretion, what is convenient or requisite, on his own Chamber (being a Bench Chamber) in reedifying, repairing, enlarging, Wainscoting, or adorning the same. He hath also power to compound and mitigate forfeitures, House-duties, Rents of Tenants, and other matters which concern the Society: but he hath no wages, fee, or gratuity by reason of his Treasurer-ship. Heretofore one person hath continued in this Office two or three years, till by an Order made in an. 39 Eliz. it was made annual. Cap. 61.

The Under-Treasurer.

The Under-Treasurer's Office is to make entries of every Gentleman's admittance into this Society, or into any Chamber belonging thereto; together with the Fines paid for such admittances, and to take Bonds of them for payment of their duties. His entries are preserved in a Book kept for that purpose; and therein also are registred and preserved all such Orders as are made from time to time by the Bench in their Parliament assemblies. He is, by reason of his Office, discharged of all Pensions, Taxes, and contributions, and hath *xx*l. per annum fee or wages: as also his Diet, with a Chamber for himself and another for his Clark. He hath likewise the Fee of *ii*s. *vi*d. per diem, as Supervisor of the Buildings, reparations, and alterations of the House: and *vi*s. *viii*d. upon the admittance of any Gentleman into the Society, and his Clark (then)

He attends on the Maſters of the Bench at all their Parliaments and ſolemn aſſemblies, and is their Clark of the Parliament. He enters up all matters of Record, is Cuſtos Rotulorum for the Society, and receives Fees or gratuities for ſearching, copying, or certifying of the Records and Orders of the Houſe.

Their Parliaments.

Their Parliaments are held thrice in Michaelmas Term; viz. the firſt and laſt Friday of the Term; and the Friday next before Allhallown tide: and twice in every other Term, viz. the firſt and laſt Fryday of the Term, in the Evening.

The Order in keeping theſe Parliaments is this; Firſt the Benchers onely, who have been Readers, meet in the Parliament Chamber, which is at the lower end of the Hall, and take their places according to their Antiquities. Then the Treaſurer for the time being, ſits at the Table bare-headed, and reads ſuch Petitions; and propoſeth ſuch matters as ſhall be thought convenient for the better government of the Houſe; the Under Treaſurer ſtanding by as an attendant: And when the Bench have concluded on any Order, he ſees to the entry of it. If they differ in any thing, every one gives his voice apart, beginning at the puiſne, and ſo upwards, and thereupon the moſt voices prevail. Heretofore none who had been called to the Bench to read, came to thoſe meetings before he had Read, and was allowed by the Bench; nor was any aſſociate admitted to be preſent amongſt them: but of late time, all ſuch as are called up to the Bench Table, and do re vera intend to read, have place and vote in their Parliaments, except only the laſt Reader himſelf, who is excluded from the firſt of their Parliaments (which is held in the next Term after his Reading) to which he may not come untill it is ended, and that the Barriſters (id eſt, all in Commons) be called in by the Under Treaſurer, to have notice given them by the high Treaſurer of all new made Laws and Orders, or alterations of the old ones: to which ſervice they are bound by the Orders of the Houſe every laſt Friday of each Term: (which is called a Parliament of Attendance,) and whoſoever are abſent, do forfait 3 s. 4 d. pro non conſultando, although they may not conſult (but muſt conſent) when they meet there.

The Middle Temple

After the Reader is thus entred and placed, his laſt and immediate predeceſſor welcomes him hither with an Oration; and according to his merit reports of him to the reſt of the Maſters of the Bench; unto whom the Reader replies in another Oration, and excuſeth his imperfections and inabilities; but is rejoyned unto by the high Treaſurer in a third Oration, and in the name of all their Maſterſhips, welcom'd thither and pronounced a Bencher; who, from that inſtant is as abſolute as any of them.

Amiſſion of Students,

The admittance of Students into the Houſe is thus: Firſt he makes his choice, whether he will be generally or ſpecially admitted. If generally, then he is to pay five marks for his admittance; if ſpecially, five pounds: but formerly it hath been 6 l. 13 s. 4 d. except he were of an Inne of Chancery, and then the fine is leſs; viz. if he hath been two years, his ſpecial admittance is 40 s. and his general 20 s. When he hath made his election, the Under Treaſurer brings him to the high Treaſurer, who allows of him, and ſets his Fine as aforeſaid: yet ſometime, by ſpecial favour, the Treaſurer mitigates the Fine. This being done, the Under Treaſurer enters into a book the parties name; whoſe Son he is, and the day of his admittance. Then the party and two others formerly admitted of the Houſe, enter into Bond with him; as his Sureties, to obſerve the Orders, and diſcharge the duties of the Houſe: after which the

The Middle Temple.

Under Treasurer makes him a Recipiatur: which being delivered to the Chief Butler, he is thereupon admitted into Commons, the Chief Butler having 2*s*. 6*d*. for his fee, and the senior Wash-pot 6*d*. from him that is a new Comer, at his entrance.

Afterwards, if his admittance be general, he is bound to continue in Commons two years Vacations: and if he fail, he is then fined 20*s*. at the least, for every fayler: but if specially admitted, he is not then bound to any such attendance.

His Habit is a Student's Gown, and in the Term time a round Cap, which he wears both in the Hall, and in the Church. Boots and Spurs, Swords and Cloaks are in those places forbidden; as also extradinary long hair: and for any offence against these Orders, he is fined.

Next to his admittance into the House, he is admitted into a Chamber, when he can purchase the same of any other of the Society; or of the House, when any falls void by death. Touching which Chambers, it is to be noted, that all but the Benchers go two to a Chamber; a Bencher only hath the priviledge of a Chamber to himself. When any one is admitted to a Chamber, it is entred generally by the Under Treasurer, that he is so admitted such a day; without limitation of any estate at all: yet by the antient usage and Custome of the House, he hath an estate therein, for the Term of his life, if he so long continue in the Society, and keep Commons: For unless he be in Commons six weeks in every year, he forfaits his Chamber to the House. But though he hath onely an estate for life therein, yet he hath power to sell it to any other of the Society; and the party that buyes it, hath his own life therein, and upon his Admittance payes a Fine of 5 l. or thereabouts: but if any so admitted, dy, before sale made of his Chamber, it then falls to the House, who sell the same to the best value.

If there be any one Chamber, consisting of two parts, and the one part exceeds the other in value, and he who hath the best part sells the same; yet the Purchaser shall enter into the worst part: for it is a certain rule; that the Auntient in the Chamber, viz. he who was therein first admitted, without respect to their antiquity in the House, hath his choice of either part. Cap. 61.

These Students, heretofore used, in the Reading times, to carry the Reader's meat unto the Bench Table; but now that use is omitted: nevertheless they carry up the meat at the Reader's feast, and at the two other Feasts, viz. All Saints, and the Purification of our Lady. They used also Post-Revels, upon those Feast-dayes, and every Saturday night between the said Feasts: besides Masques and other disports in the time of Christmas.

After two or three years, these Students are to perform certain Exercises; viz. first to recite the Pleadings of such Baristers, as moot in the Term time: To moot also in the Vacations; and shortly after, perform their Exercise of mooting abroad, in the Innes of Chancery. After the performance of all which, at home and abroad; and after the expiration of seven or eight years, they are by the Bench (amongst other their fellow Students) admitted unto the Degree of Utter-Barister; so that once at the least, every two year, a dozen or more, are by a general Call preferred to this Degree. This now is an Act of the whole Bench, at their Parliamentary meeting: But heretofore every Reader of the House, made choice of such as he thought fit, and had power to call them to the Bar; viz. every single Reader, two; and every double Reader, four; which is confirm'd by an Order of the House, made an. 37 Eliz.

Note, that there is no ceremony used in the calling of any to the Bar, more than that their election is at the end of the Parliament, declared by the high Treasurer to the rest of the Baristers, who are then called to be informed what the Bench hath concluded concluded on, in that meeting. Their names then entred by the Under-Treaſurer; the next day, immediately before Dinner, they are called to the Cupboard; where the Treaſurer of the Houſe, with ſome of the Benchers aſſiſting him, cauſe the parties called, or elected, to take the Oath of Supremacy, the one after the other: which being done, all is ended, and they remain Utter Bariſters. Nevertheleſs, after this their call, it was not heretofore allowed them, either to wear a Bar-gown openly at any Bar in Weſtm. Hall, or to practiſe the Law; but to forbear, for the ſpace of two years, and in the mean time to continue their Exerciſe of mooting in the Innes of Chancery.

There is an Exerciſe, beſides, to be performed by every Utter-Bariſter, within the Houſe, in the Term time; viz. to perform two ſeveral aſſignments of Moots, every ſuch aſſignment conſiſting of three or four Moots, or Exerciſes; wherein they argue pro and con, a Caſe agreed on between themſelves; conſiſting for the moſt part, of two Queſtions; three Benchers ſitting as Judges, and arguing the ſame Caſe after them. Amongſt theſe Utter-Bariſters, there is one (commonly of about eight or nine years ſtanding of the Bar) yearly choſen to be Reader of New-Inne; who in the times of Reading, doth there argue certain Caſes, of his own framing: which Caſes are firſt argued by two Gentlemen of New Inne; and afterward by two Gentlemen of every Inne of Court; whereof one is commonly of the Barr, the other under the Barr; who argue in their turnes, beginning with the puiſne; who maintaineth what ſide he pleaſeth. The next argues againſt him, and ſo all the reſt maintain that concluſion, which falls to their turn. Laſtly, the Reader himſelf argues the Caſe, and delivers his conceipt and opinion, what he thinks, in truth, the Law to be therein.

Cupboard men.

The next ſtep, whereunto a Bariſter of this Society aſcends, is to the Cupboard; whereof there are four, who in the Reading times, argue in turnes, the Readers Caſe, beginning at the puiſne; who, of thoſe Caſes, which the Reader propoſeth, takes his choice, and is to argue againſt the Readers concluſion: the next againſt him, and the reſt as it falls out to their turn. Theſe four Cupboard men were heretofore wont to be the four antienteſt Bariſters of the Houſe; who in time, and by reaſon of their antiquity, were to be the two next Readers of the Houſe: and this was obſerved, whether they purpoſed to be Readers or not: But by an Order of later time, no man ought to take upon him to be a Cupboard-man, unleſs he reſolveth to Read, when his turn cometh: therefore, if any one do declare his intention not to Read, he is ſpared from the Cupboard; and the next in antiquity unto him, is choſen to ſucceed in his roomth, Yet time alone makes not a Cupboard man: for the Bench, upon juſt cauſe of diſlike, may paſs over any whom they hold not fit for that place, and elect others next in Antiquity. Which election of theirs is twice in every year, at the meeting of the Bench in Parliament; viz. in the laſt Parliament of Hillary Term; at what time the four Cupboard men, for the next Lent-Reading are choſen and declared by the Treaſurer; and in the laſt Parliament in Trinity Term, when, in like manner, the four Cupboard-men, for the next Summer Reading are choſen and declared.

A Bencher.

The next degree is a Bencher: then a Reader; which at the fartheſt falls out to be within two years after the parties firſt admittance to the Cupboard.

A Reader.

Theſe Readers are likewiſe choſen by the Bench, at their aſſembly in Parliament yearly, upon the Fryday before the Feaſt of All Saints, at what time the two Readers for the year following, are elected and declared: wherein, although it be ſeldome ſeen, but that the parties ſo choſen, be the two ancient Cup-board men; yet the Bench is not tyed to any ſuch neceſſity of choice: for if upon due conſideration of the eſtate, learning, quality, and carriage of the person, he be not thought worthy of so great a Calling, the Bench hath power to put him by, and to elect another in his room, notwithstanding his precedent election to the Cupboard: for during the time of his attendance to the Cupboard, and before he be declared a Reader, he is only in the nature of a Probationer.

The two parties nominated, as aforesaid, for Readers, are the next day at Dinner, called to the Bench Table; where, from thence forward they take their Commons, and are to bestow upon the rest of the Benchers and antient Baristers, a certain proportion of Wine for their first welcome.

On the other side, those who are put by their Readings, remove from the Bar table (where before they used to sit) unto a Table called the Auncients Table, on the other side of the Hall, opposite to the Bar table; where also they give a garnish of Wine for their welcome; and from thenceforth they are freed from all Mootes and Exercises in the House, and likewise from the ceremony of walking the old measures about the Hall at the times accustomed. And it is no disgrace for any man to be removed hither; for by reason of the excessive chardge of Readings, many men of great learning and competent practise, as well as others of less learning, but great estates, have refused to Read, and are here placed.

The two Readers, new chosen as aforesaid, at the next Feast day of All Saints (on which day such Judges and Serjeants at Law, as have issued out of this Society, are highly feasted, and come in their Scarlet robes) are bound to give their Attendance, their duty being to meet the Judges and Serjeants at the lower end of the Hall, and to conduct them upwards. For distinction, and orders sake, the one of them, viz. the Ancient, hath a white staff in his hand; the other a white Rod, with which they usher in the meat, following next after the Musick. When the meat is brought to the Table (which at such solemn Feasts is always performed by young Gentlemen of the House, under the Bar) the one of the two new Readers elect, receives every Dish of the Gentlemen, who carried it, and placeth it on the Table, in decent order; the other standing by to wait on the Judges. And during the Feast, they both, with solemn curtesies, welcome both the Judges and Serjeants. Cap. 61.

Besides this, the puisne Reader elect, serves every Mess throughout the Hall, receiving it from the Steward, and placing it on the Table. Dinner being ended, they wait on the Judges and Serjeants; ushering them, either into the Garden, or some other retiring place, untill the Hall be clensed, and prepared; and then they usher them again into the Hall, and place them in their rooms, one after another. This being done, the Ancient of the two that hath the staff in his hand, stands at the upper end of the Bar Table; and the other with the white Rod, placeth himself at the Cupboard, in the middle of the Hall, opposite to the Judges; where the Musick being begun, he calleth twice the Master of the Revells. And at the second call, the Auncient, with his white staff, advanceth forward, and begins to lead the measures; followed, first by the Baristers, and then the Gentlemen under the Bar, all according to their several antiquities: and when one measure is ended, the Reader at the Cupboard, calls for another, and so in order.

All such as are in Commons, under the degree of Benchers (except onely them of the Auncients Table, who are past their Readings) ought not to absent from solemn Revels: and whoever they be that do absent themselves, do forfait, or are finable 3*s.* 4*d.* And whosoever of the Bar that are made choice of to carry up Wafers (on grand days) to the Judges, and do refuse, do forfait 10*s.* And whosoever of the young gentlemen under the Bar, that refuse, do forfait 5*s.* And whosoever on days of solemn Revels, do refuse to carry up Bread and Beer to the Masters of the Bench do forfeit, Baristers 6*s.* 8*d.* and others 3*s.* 4*d.*

When

Chap. 16. When the last measure is dancing, the Reader at the Cupboard, calls to one of the Gentlemen of the Bar, as he is walking or dancing with the rest, to give the Judges a Song: who forthwith begins the first line of any Psalm, as he thinks fittest; after which, all the rest of the Company follow, and sing with him. Whilest they are thus walking and singing, the Reader with the white Rod, departs from the Cup-board, and makes his choice of a competent number of Utter-Barristers, and as many under the Bar, whom he takes into the Buttry; where, there is delivered unto every Barister, a Towel with wafers in it; and unto every Gentleman under the Barr, a wooden Bowl, filled with Ipocras, with which they march in order into the Hall, the Reader with his white Rod, going foremost. And when they come near to the half pace, opposite to the Judges, the Company divide themselves, one half (as well Baristers, as those under the Bar) standing on the one side of the Reader; the other on the other side: and then, after a low solemn Congee made, the Gentlemen of the Bar first carry the Wafers; the rest, with the new Reader, standing in their places. At their return, they all make another solemn low Congee, and then the Gentlemen under the Bar, carry their Bowls of Ipocras to the Judges: and returning, when the Judges have drank, they make the like solemn Congee, and so all depart, saving the new Readers elect, who wait upon the Judges untill their departure; and then usher them down the Hall, unto the Court Gate, where they take their leaves of them.

In the self same manner, they entertain the Judges and Serjeants on All-Hallown day and on the Feast day of the Purification of our Lady. Which two Feasts, viz. All Saints and Candlemas, are the onely Feasts in the whole year, made purposely for the Judges and Serjeants in this Society: but of later time, divers Noblemen have been mixed with them, and solemnly invited as Guests to the Dinner, in regard they were formerly of the Society.

As for the chardge of these Feasts, it is cast amongst the Gentlemen of the House, in their Commons; no man exempt, if he be within the City, though not in Commons; for in such case he is called Visus in villa, and shall pay half that weeks Commons, wherein the Feast day happens, though he take none.

The Middle Temple

Moreover, for a farther honour to the Judges and Serjeants at Law, two auncient Baristers of the Society, are chosen to invite them to these Feasts, who to that end do repair to their several Chambers, four or five daies before. Likewise, when they are in the Hall, and before they take their places, two antient Utter-Baristers are appointed to wait on them, with Basins and Ewers of sweet water, for the washing of their hands; and two other like antient Baristers with Towells.

Besides these solemn Revels or measures aforesaid, they had wont to be entertained with Post Revels, performed by the better sort of the young Gentlemen of the Society with Galliards, Corrantoes, and other Dances; or else with Stage-playes: the first of these Feasts being at the beginning, and the other at the later end of Christmas. But of late years, these Post Revells have been dis-used, both here and in the other Innes of Court.

The next duty, which these new Readers are, in time, to perform, are their Exercises within the House; which, together with the young Gentlemen under the Barr, and the new-chosen Readers, they perform in this manner.

The new Baristers (as before hath been intimated) are, for their degree to perform each of them two several assignments of Mootes: which Exercises are done in the Hall, in the Term time only, every Tuesday and Thursday night immediately after Supper. The Case is framed with apt and proper Pleadings unto it, by the two Utter-Baristers, who are to perform the assignment. These Pleadings are recited by two Gentlemen under the Bar; one of which speaks for the Plaintiff, the other for the Defendant:

fendent: which done, and the Caſe briefly put, out of thoſe Pleadings, and argued by the Utter-Bariſters, three of the Benchers, as Judges, argue the ſame Caſe, whereof one of the new elected Readers is allwayes one, they ſupplying the place alternis vicibus. Which Courſe (touching the two Readers) holds only, untill the end of Hillary Term: for ſhortly after, follows the Lent-Reading, performed by the auncient of the two elect; after which time he is freed from this alternate Courſe of arguing, taking his turn onely as other Benchers do: For which Cauſe, in the two Terms following (ſcil. Eaſter and Trinity) the former Reader elect, doth, without his fellows help, ſit at every of their Mootes, untill his own Reading be paſt; two other Benchers (as aforeſaid) arguing with him.

Beſides theſe Exerciſes, the Reader, by the antient Cuſtome of this Houſe ought to remain in Commons, from the end of the Term, next preceeding his Reading, untill the week before he takes his place, as Reader; and in all that time, viz. every Tueſday and Thurſday night, to ſee the Exerciſes of the Houſe performed, and to be preſent and aſſiſtant to them. Which Exerciſes are Mootes of the ſame nature as the other, and differing only in the perſons; the Caſes and Pleadings to them, being framed and argued by two Gentlemen under the Bar, and the Pleadings recited by two other puiſne Gentlemen, and laſtly argued by two Utter-Bariſters, and the Reader elect, the Reader ſitting in the middle, and arguing laſt of all.

Then follows the laſt peculiar Act, and Exerciſe of the Reader, being his Reading; which begins regularly in Lent, viz. the firſt Munday of clean Lent; and in Summer the firſt Monday in Auguſt, unleſs thoſe dayes be Feſtival, and then it begins the day following. Howbeit, the Reader, having firſt abſented himſelf out of Commons for the ſpace of a week, in which time he ſeldome comes abroad, that his entrance may be with the more ſtate, appears firſt as a Reader, at the Church, the Sunday after-noon, next before his Reading, accompanyed by ſuch Benchers as are in Town; whereof two are appointed for his Aſſiſtants (being, for the moſt part, the two next precedent Readers) and attended by twelve or fourteen Servants, at the leaſt, in one livery; and the ſame night at Supper, he takes his place in the Hall, in a chair, at the upper end of the Bench-Table. Cap. 61.

The next morning he makes choice for his Sub-Lecturer, of a puiſne Gentleman of the Houſe, to whom he delivers his bag of books and papers; and then repairs unto the Parliament Houſe to Breakfaſt. Which ended, he goes into the Hall, where the whole Society expects his coming; and reſting at the Cupboard, doth there take the Oaths of Supremacy and Allegiance. Then he takes his place towards the lower end of the Bench Table, where the Sub-Lecturer doth firſt, with an audible voice, read over the Statute, or at leaſt that branch of it, that he hath choſen to read on.

This endeed, the Reader begins with a grave ſpeech, excuſing his own weakneſs, with deſire of their favourable cenſures; and concluding with the Reaſons, wherefore he made choice of that Statute. Then he delivers unto them his diviſions made upon the Statute, which are more or fewer, as he pleaſeth; and then puts ten or twelve Caſes upon his firſt diviſion; of the which, the puiſne Cupboard-man, before ſpoken of, makes choice of one to argue; and in his Argument, endeavours what in him lyes, to oppoſe the Readers concluſion. After him follow the reſt of the Cupboard-men, ſtanding at the Cup-board: then the Benchers, who are placed on a form oppoſite to the Reader, argue in their turnes; and laſt of all, the Reader himſelf, who maintains his own concluſion; and oftentimes ſuch Judges or Serjeants at the Law, as are of this Society, come to argue the Readers Caſe; who, at ſuch time, come alwayes in their purple Robes, and Scarlet Hoods, and are placed on a form, oppoſite

Cap. 61. to the Benchers, with their backs to the Reader.

All Arguments being ended, Dinner is ſerved in, where he entertains the Company with a great Feaſt, at his own Table; with addition of one Diſh extraordinary unto every Meſs throughout the Hall.

When Dinner is ended, and the Cloth taken away; the Sub-Lecturer repairs unto him, with his bag of books; and then one of the Cupboard-men repeats another of his Caſes, and argues it againſt him: after whom follows the Reader, with an Argument in maintenance of his own concluſion and ſo that days Exerciſe is ended.

This Courſe he obſerves three dayes in a week, untill the end of the Reading, viz. every Munday, Wedneſday, and Fryday, the other intermediate dayes being ſpent in Feaſting, and entertainment of Strangers, who are commonly great Lords and other eminent perſons: but, be the Gueſts of never ſo high a degree, the Reader, within the Precincts of the Houſe, hath precedence of them: and at the Table keeps his Chair at the upper end. His expences during this time of Reading, are very great; inſomuch as ſome have ſpent above ſix hundred pounds in two dayes leſs then a fortnight, which now is the uſual time of Reading.

Although latter times and examples have added to the Exceſs; yet heretofore, when they were moſt frugal, a competent proportion, for entertainment of Strangers (which was held to be a luſtre and honor to the Houſe) was ever expected from them, and in ſome ſort hath been preſcribed unto them, as in part appears by an Order of the Bench, made in the reign of King Philip and Mary; whereby every Summer Reader was enjoyned to ſpend xv. Bucks in the Hall, during his time of Reading, on pain of ··· marks. And ſhortly after (to avoid all occaſion of ſuperfluous expence) by an other Order, in the reign of the ſame King and Queen, the Reader was enjoyned not to exceed thoſe 15 Bucks: but the times are altered; there being few Summer Readers, who, in half the time that heretofore a Reading was wont to continue, ſpent ſo little as threeſcore Bucks, beſides Red Deer: ſome have ſpent fourſcore, ſome an hundred; whereof one brace of Bucks are commonly beſtowed on New Inne, to feaſt the Students there: And the neighbour Pariſhes to the Temple, do alſo taſte of the Reader's bounty in this kind. Yet ſome help the Reader hath from the Houſe, which allows every ſingle Reader, one Hoſhead of Wine, or five pounds in money; and a ſpecial admittance of any Gentleman into the Houſe, or five pounds mor in lieu thereof. Beſides, in the laſt week of his Reading, a great and coſtly Feaſt is provided for the entertainment of foreign Ambaſſadours, Earls, Lords, and men of eminent quality: which although it be call'd the Readers Feaſt, yet he bears no part of the chardge, the ſame being impoſed on four gentlemen of the Houſe; whom they call Stewards of the Feaſt; whereof two are Utter-Bariſters, and the other two under the Bar, whoſe chardge is now at the leaſt 10 l. a piece; but heretofore leſs: for by an Order made 34 Eliz. they were to be at no farther chardge then five pounds a man.

The Middle Temple.

Heretofore the Reading continued by the ſpace of a Month; afterwards three weeks, but of later times no more than a fortnight; beginning commonly on the Monday, and ending the Fryday ſevenight following: on which day, the Reader (after Breakfaſt) comes unto the Cupboard, with his Aſſiſtants and Cupboard-men, and there makes a grave and ſhort ſpeech to them, tending to the excuſe of his weakneſs, with deſire of pardon for his errors committed: which forthwith is anſwered by the moſt antient Bencher then preſent, who extolleth the Reader's bounty and learning; concluding with many thanks unto him: which ended, he taketh his uſual place; and having put his Caſes upon the diviſion of that day, two of the Cupboard-men argue one of thoſe Caſes, and a third deſires to know Mr Rea- der's opinion therein the next Term: whereupon the Reader ariseth, without making any Argument at all; and taking his leave of the society, retires unto his Chamber, and preparet'h himself for his journey homewards; wherein the young Students and many others, do usually accompany him for that dayes journey, bringing him forth of the Town, with great state and solemnity; and at night, bestow a great Supper upon him in his Inne, at their own charges; and the next Morning part company.

Yet here the formal part of the Reading ends not: for the first Parliament of the next Term, when the Benchers there assembled, have dispatched their otheir affairs, this new Reader is sent for to come amongst them; where being come, and takeing the lowest seat of the room, one of his Assistants (who commonly is the next precedent Reader) being by the Bench called to give an account of the Reading, makes a great Oration unto them; declaring the great learning and charge of the Reader, together with the Statute that he read upon, and his divisions thereupon made, with other words, tending wholy to the Readers commendation. In answer whereof, the Reader makes another grave Oration, in his own excuse; magnifying the learn'd Arguments of his Assistants and Cupboard-men, as also the good order and behaviour of the young Gentlemen; with thanks to them all, for so patiently bearing with his infirmities. After which, the Bench gives him thanks, and so they all together sit down to Supper: at what time (and not before) the Reader is an absolute and confirmed Bencher, and hath voice, with the rest, in all succeeding Parliaments; and is, for the two next Readings, chosen one of the Assistants to those Readers. But note, that before the new Reader is thus called into the Parliament House, the Bench receiveth particular information of his carriage and proceedings, during the time of his Reading: and if they finde him guilty of any great fault, they set a good fine upon his Head, or make such other Orders against him, as they think fitting. Cap. 61.

Note also, that in antient times, the former Reader, by a Custom used in this Society, was to be Steward of the House, for the time of Christmass: but this Custome was abolished by an Order made an 4 Eliz. whereby some other fellow of the Society (fit in respect of his estate) was to be chosen Steward, and the Reader to be spared, paying a reasonable Fine for the same: the which Fine is now turned into a Brawn and Muskadine, which the Summer Reader doth bestow on the Gentlemen of the House, at Christmas before; the charge thereof amounting to about four pounds.

Yet a Reader's trouble and chardge here ends not: for in the Term time, the Case is orderly kept every day after Dinner, aswell amongst the Benchers, as Utter-Barristers, and Students, the manner thereof being thus; viz. One of the Benchers (beginning commonly at the puisne, and so the rest in turn) puts a short Case, consisting of two or three difficult questions in the Law, of his own invention. The Case being put from one Mess to another throughout the Table, they divide themselves by three in a Company, and so argue it; the party that framed the Case, being the last of the Company that argues it: but all the rest argue according to their antiquity, beginning at the puisne. The like is done by a Case put by one of the Utter-Barristers; which runs through the whole Table, and is argued in like Companies, as aforesaid: which kind of Exercise, doth both whet their wits, and strengthen their memory.

Moots. Besides these daily Exercises, there are (as hath been before remembred) Mootes every Tuesday and Thursday night, brought in by two Utter-Barristers; wherein the Benchers proceed as followeth; Immediately after Supper the Benchers assemble themselves in the Bay-window, at the upper end of the Hall; where, standing in order, according to their antiquity, there repairs unto them

Cap. 61. them two Gentlemen under the Bar, whose turn it is to recite the Pleadings. Who, after a low obeysance, demand whether it be their pleasure to hear a Moot; and depart with an affirmative answer. Then the Benchers appoint two amongst themselves, to argue the Case, besides one of the Readers elect; who stands not in their assembly, and is to be allwayes one (as hath been said.) Wherein note, that every man is appointed according to his turn, as thus; The Benchers of this Society are divided into two several ranks or Classes; viz. the upper Classis, consisting of the Auncienty, and the lower of the Puisnes. Now at the first Moot of every tourn the puisne of the lower rank, and the puisne of the upper rank, are first to argue, and so afterwards of the rest in their turns. Which order was (as it seems) devised, to the end every Bencher might once in a Term, argue at one of those Mootes.

When it is agreed on who are to argue, all the Benchers depart out of the Hall, leaving the rest of the Company there. The two Arguers walk a turn in the Court or Garden, until the Hall be prepared and made ready for them: which being done, they return into the Hall, and stay at the Cup-board, demanding if the Mootmen be ready. During their stay at the Cup-board, there is often times a Case put unto them by one of the Utter-Bar, which is termed a Cup-board-Case: And when the two Benchers have argued it, then the party that put the same, doth also argue it; but this is on the By: for there is no necessity of any such Cupboard Case: neither is it any part of the Exercise of the House, and therefore it is but seldome done, though every Utter-Barister may, at his pleasure, put a Bup-board Case; and being put, it is, by Custome, to be argued.

But to return to the Mooting; All parties being ready, the two Benchers appointed to argue, together with the Reader elect, take their places at the Bench-Table, the auncient Bencher sitting in the midst, the second on his right hand, and the Reader elect on his left. Then the Mootmen also take their place, sitting on a Form, close to the Cup-board, and opposite to the Benchers. On the one side of them sits one of the Students, that recites the Pleading; and the other on the other side. The Pleadings are first recited by the Students; then the Case put, and argued by the Baristers, and lastly by the Reader elect and Benchers, in manner aforesaid; who all three argue in English: but the Pleadings are recited, and Case argued by the Utter-Baristers in Law French. The Moot being ended, all parties return to the Cup-board: where the Mootmen present the Benchers with a Cup of Beer, and a slice of Bread; and so the Exercise for that night is ended. The Middle Temple.

So that no man, though of never so great antiquity in the House, is priviledged from keeping the Exercises of the House; those only excepted, which are past their Reading, and have never Read.

Again, after this great charge of Reading, by the antient Orders of the House (though of late years disused) he is in his turn to Read again, and then is called a Double Reader: but there is not so great expence in diet expected from him, as from a Single Reader, and yet he hath a greater allowance from the House towards his charges. The antient use hath been (before such time as the Professors of the Law did multiply to that number, as now they are) to choose but one single Reader in a year, who allwayes Read in Summer; and for Lent Vacation a double Reader was appointed; so as in those days, men came to be single Readers at xv. or xvi. years standing in the House; and Read double about seven years after: But if that Course should be now observed, the number of Utter-Baristers being so great, many other would not live to Read at all, or be very old ere they did attain thereto. Readers.

These Readers and Benchers do enjoy divers priviledges above the rest of the Society: For first they are

The Middle Temple.

Governours of the House, and in their Parliament Assemblies, have power to make Orders to bind the rest: and out of Parliament, have power also at the Bench Table, to punish such as shall transgress their Orders; either by Fine, forfaiture of their Chambers, putting out of Commons, or expulsion from the House; but not by imprisonment.

Secondly, every single Reader is allowed one Clark in Commons, paying only 2ˢ. 6ᵈ. the week: and every double Reader two Clarks in Commons at the like rate: but note, that the two auntient Cupboard-men have like allowance of one Clark apiece in Commons.

Thirdly, every Reader, during the time of his Reading, hath power to admit any into the Society, paying the usual rate for his admittance; viz. five marks for a general admittance, and five pounds for a special admittance: and this is to be understood only of such as intend to be Students; but of Lords, Knights, and such like, he may admit, sans nombre, any without paying any Fine for such admittance. Besides, heretofore (as hath been noted) a single Reader was allowed to call two to the Bar, during the time of his Reading, and a Double-Reader four: but of late none have been called to the Bar, except at the general Calls, and by the whole Bench in Parliament.

Benchers. Fourthly, a Bencher hath this privilege, that his Son is to pay nothing for his admittance into the House, or into any Chamber; but this hath not been allways so, the favour being granted to them by an Order in their Parliament an. 25 Eliz.

Fifthly, every Bencher is permitted to have a Chamber to himself, without a Chamber-fellow, whereas others go two to a Chamber. And this priviledge also began by an Order in Parliament, made an. 20 Eliz. where all Benchers are included, as well Readers as others. They likewise have choice of the Chambers that fall void, and pay no Fine for their admittance thereunto. And in this matter of choice, a Reader although puisne, is preferred before an Associat to the Bench, being his auntient, for which there was a late Order made an. 14 Jac. Cap. 61.

The Benchers also do come within the Bar at the Chappel of the Rolls, and sit there promiscuously amongst the Serjeants at Law, and the King's and Queen's Councel learned. They are likewise heard by the Master of the Rolls, in course, and before all Utter-barristers, being called inbyhim (from the Utter bar) so soon as he first hath notice of their being called to the bench in their respective Societies.

If any member of this Society be made Recorder of the City of London, he is to be the next Reader, though he be not of Reader-standing.

It fell out in the year 1635. that Sir Henry Calthorp Knight (then the Queens Sollicitor general) was made Recorder of London; and thereupon, in Michaelmas Term, he was by the Benchers in Parliament declared to be the next Lent-Reader following, and before Mr. Raphe. Lathum (who was then the City Serjeant, and his immediate Antient:) Notwithstanding which Act of Parliament, and declaration by their Masterships made thereof unto the Society; Afterwards upon the death of Sir Walter Pye, Sir Henry Calthorpe being made the Kings Attorney in his Court of Wards, and deserting the Recordership; the Term following Mr. Lathum would not give way to Sir Henry, but took his turn in course, according to his antiquity, and did Read in Lent following.

Sixthly, Serjeants at Law have alwayes been chosen from amongst the Readers; yet the power of the Prince is not to be disputed, whensoever he shall please to call any man to that Degree, who never Read; which hath been seldome seen. And if any person receive a Serjeants Writ, either in Hillary Term, returnable in Easter-Term; or in Trinity-Term, returnable in Michaelmas, so as there be a Reading time between the receipt and the return of the Writ, the party

Cap. 61. party to whom such Writ is sent, is to Read in that next Vacation, whether he hath before Read or not: And allbeit he hath before been a Double Reader, yet that excuseth him not. And in all general Calls of Serjeants by Writ, returnable as abovesaid, the puisne of them is to Read in the Vacation following: otherwise it is, in case and when there is no Reading Vacation between the Teste and return of the Writ.

Note also, that if there be a Reader elected and nominated in Parliament, and afterward another receives a Serjeants Writ; in such case both of them, by the Orders of this House, are to Read; viz. the Serjeant in respect of his degree, is to supply the first week of the Reading, and the Reader elect the second week: But if a Serjeants Writ be delivered to a Reader of this Society, before any nomination in Parliament of any Reader, then it seems the Serjeant alone is to supply the whole next Reading.

Likewise if any member of this House receive a Serjeants Writ, he is then forthwith placed at the upper end of the Bench Table above all other Readers, as being a Serjeant elect, though not compleat: and notwithstanding such his Writ, he continues still a Bencher, and in Commons, untill the day of solemnity, and receiving of the Coif; at which time he takes his leave of the House in this manner.

The Morning of that day, all the Benchers, Barristers, and Students of this Society, meet in the Hall, whither comes the Serjeant elect; to whom the Treasurer of the House makes a grave and learned speech; and in the conclusion thereof, presents him (as from the whole Society) with a Purse, and ten pounds therein. Which done, the Elect Serjeant makes a congratulatory Oration; which sum of money is raised by a Collection from every one of this Society, viz. iii^{s}. iiii^{d}. a piece. But note, that the last Moot night, before the creation of these Serjeants, all the elect Serjeants sit at the Moot, on a form, not on the Bench; and there argue the Case. But albeit a Serjeant at the Law, doth in manner aforesaid, take his leave of the Society, yet he shall remain a member thereof to some purposes; and therefore still keeps his Chamber, untill he be preferred to one in one of the Serjeants Innes. Yet some hold, that this is rather by favour of the House than of right. Besides, if a Serjeant at Law be suspended from his Degree, by reason of any Office given unto him by the King; as if he be called to be the King's Attorney general or Sollicitor, in such case he returns again into Commons in the Society, without any new admittance. Moreover, when any Serjeant at Law of this Society is made a Judge, he is accompanyed to Westminster-Hall, by all the Fellows of the House, as being a fellow member with him: and being a Judge, the Bench resort unto him oftentimes for his advice and assistance in matters touching the government of the House.

The Middle Temple.

A Reader also takes place, not only within this Society, but elsewhere abroad, of all such as have not been Readers, though their auncients: so doth not an Utter-Barrister, as was declared by an Order of the Bench, made an. 9 Jac. whereby Utter-Barristers were not to have antiquity at the Mootes abroad, above others of the House their auncients, and not of the Bar. Howbeit, in the former Case of a Reader, some say, that a Reader in his own House only takes place of the auncients that have not been Readers; and likewise abroad of all those who are past their Reading, but not of such as are their auntients, and whose turn is not yet to come to Read. But clear it is, that a Bencher, within his own Society gives place to none but his Auncients that have Read, unless to such as are advanced to some eminent office or place: and therefore, if his puisne be made a Knight, yet, within the House he hath precedence of him: But if his puisne be made the King's Attorney general, Sollicitor, Recorder of London, or the like; in such Cases he takes precedency of his auntients, both within the House and abroad.

The Middle Temple.

Eightly, a Reader was wont to have that respect abroad, as to be heard in the King's Bench, and other Courts of Justice, before others.

Associates.

Another sort of persons there are, who sit at the Bench Table, who are not Benchers, in truth; but assistants or Associats, and have no voice in Parliament, nor goverment over the House. These, by reason of some eminent place or office which they hold, are by the favour of the Bench, permitted to sit amongst them; as Masters of the Requests, Masters of the Chancery, and such like. Touching which persons the House hath lately used this difference, that Masters of the Bench sit at the upper end of the Table; but Masters of the Chancery, according to their antiquity, or as they come.

These persons were heretofore wont to be admitted Gratis: but by an Order of the House, made in Parliament an. 27 Eliz. none was to be received as associate or assistant to the Bench, without paying *x*l. in Plate; or other provision towards the furnishing of the Bench-Table. And by a later Order in Parliament made an. 14 Jacobi, the fine is increased to an C. marks, to be paid to the Treasurer, to the use of the House.

The Associate is not tied in all things to such regularity as the Benchers are; for they come into the Hall in their Hats, whereas the Benchers come in round Caps, according to the antient use. Besides, the Associate is not tied to keep the Case after Dinner, nor to sit at Mootes: yet there have been Associats so tyed; viz. those who being past their Readings, and yet afterwards, by reason of their gravity and learning, received to the Bench Table; touching whom there was an Order in Parliament made an. 11 Eliz. that they were to be accounted Benchers, saving that they were not to have any voice or place in Parliament, nor in ordering matters of the House; but to sit at Mootes as other Benchers.

Note also, that the Associate is not of right preferred to any Chamber in the House, nor to have his choice, when any falls void: neither is he to sit at Revells amongst the other Benchers. Cap. 61.

There are other persons also that are (in truth) to all purposes Benchers, and yet in some respects have preheminence above them; as are Serjeants at the Law elect; which are such Benchers of the House as receive Writs to be called to the State and degree of a Serjeant at the Law. These, between the delivery of the Writ unto them, and the return thereof, remain still Benchers, and take their place at the upper end of the Bench Table, above all the rest.

There is likewise an Officer, called the Bayliff of the Mootes, who is elected always upon the Saturday immediately after Dinner, before every Reading. He is exempt from all manner of Exercises during the Reading time, in respect that he is to receive all the Moot-Cases, which all the Readers of the Innes of Court and Chancery do go out upon: and then he doth assign to all Gentlemen that are Moot-men (as well them of the Bar as Under-graduates of this Society) to go out in their turns, and to direct them to what Innes, and upon what Cases they are to go out upon; and to see that they do accordingly; also that there be no faylers; which if there be, it is five pounds forfeiture to him that is assigned, and *xx*s. a piece to all the other Mootes-men in Commons, who are not assigned by the said Bayliff to go out (at the same time) unto some other of the Innes of Chancery. And it is five pounds forfeiture to the Bayliff, if he do not see the same fayler recorded by the puisne Butler in the Moot-book. He is also to see, that all the Moot Cases be likewise recorded; and that all the Mootes mens names be recorded who did go out upon those Cases. And he is to direct the Cook to dress a made Dish for every couple of Mootes men that go out together; which they are to have at the next meal following, besides Moots.

Chap. 61. ſides Mr. Reader's Exceedings. He is alſo to ſee, that the Mootes men do pay their due Fees unto the puiſne Butler, for recording their Mootes. This Officer is eligible (at the time before mentioned) only by a Parliament of Bariſters, and ſuch Undergraduates as have been formerly Mootes men; none elſe of the Society having any Vote at their election.

Of Fines. Touching Fines, there are ſeveral ſorts; Firſt for Admittances into the Houſe, into a Chamber; or Fines impoſed for any offence, pro non legendo, &c. which are uncertain, and arbitrary, according to the pleaſure of the Bench. By forfeiture, is underſtood ſuch penalty, for any neglect or miſdemeanour, as are alwayes certain and known before-hand; as xii^{d}. for every one, that comes, either into the Church or Hall, in a Hat, or without a round Cap. Likewiſe iii^{s}. iiii^{d}. of every one that fails his attendance at the ſolemn Revells; or of every Utter-Batter, that attends not at the Parliament, when the Bench calls for them. Alſo of every Utter-Bariſter xl^{s}. who neglecteth to Moot, being aſſigned. He that commits a Fayler, being aſſigned, forfeiteth for the firſt offence five marks: For every Fayler afterwards v^{l}. They who are bound to keep Vacations and fail; under the Bar, for every Vacation do forfeit xx^{s}. and being Bariſters v^{l}.

The Middle Temple

Laſtly, Penſions are certain monys paid yearly by every one of the Society; viz. vi^{s}. viii^{d}. per annum: but the ſum is payable by xx^{d}. a Term; which is alike paid, both by the Students, Utter-Bariſters, and Benchers, whether they be in Commons or not: for though any man, being of this Society, diſcontinue divers years; yet whenſoever he comes again, he is called upon to pay all arrearages: howbeit, if there be any reaſonable excuſe for his abſence, the Treaſurer (who hath ſole power therein) will compound with him at an eaſier rate. Which moneys, ſo received, are by the Treaſurers direction diſburſed, partly for neceſſaries belonging to the Houſe; as Table-linnen, Coles, Pewter-veſſell, wages for Officers and Muſicians; and partly reparations or new buildings; which laſt are never undertaken, but by the general approbation and allowance of the whole Bench in Parliament. And theſe Reparations are wholly left to the diſcretion of the Treaſurer; who, by the antient Cuſtome of the Houſe, ought to ſee to the repair of all tilings of Chambers, and the like; as alſo to the Glaſs-windows, and other neceſſary repairs of every Benchers Chamber, leaving things of ornament to the owners proper coſts.

Inns of Chancery belonging to the Middle Temple.

New Inne.

THis Houſe having been formerly a Common Hoſtery or Inne for Travailers and other; and from the ſign of the bleſſed Virgin, called our Lady Inne, became [a] firſt an Hoſtel for Students of the Law, (as the tradition is) upon the removal of the Students of the Law from an old Inn of Chancery, called St. George his Inne, ſituate near Seacole Lane, a little South from St. Sepulchers Church, without Newgate: and was procured from Sir John Fineux Knight, ſometime Lord Chief Juſtice of the Kings Bench for the Rent of ſix pounds per annum, by the name of New Inne.

a Stow's Survey of Lond. p. 427. b.

Of this Houſe Sir Thomas More, afterwards Lord Chancellor of England, was [b] a Student in King Henry the Sevenths time, before he came to Lincolns Inne.

THis (as alſo the Biſhop of Worceſter's Inn, the Biſhop of Coventre and Litchfeilds Houſe, commonly called Cheſter Inne; the Biſhop of Landaff's Houſe; and a Church called St. Mary in the Strand) was pulled down, and made level with the ground in an. 1594. (3 Ed. 6.) by Edward Duke of Somerſet; and in the place thereof Somerſet Houſe built: By which means the Middle Temple ſince that time hath had no more than one Inne of Chancery (viz. New Inne) belonging thereto.

Lincolnes Inne.

This being ſituate in Newſtreete, now called Chancerylane (corruptly for Chancellours lane, by reaſon that the Office of the Rolls is there ſetled) is compoſed partly of the ruines of the Black Fryers Houſe, which ſometime ſtood in Holburne, and that Houſe of Ralph Nevil Biſhop of Chicheſter, and Chancellour of England, which was built by [a] him in the time of King Henry the 3d. upon a certain piece of ground and a Garden, that he had there obtained [b] of the ſaid King: Of which building, and of the Death of that Biſhop, thus ſpeaketh Math. Paris An. D. MCCxliii. Venerabilis Pater Epiſcopus Ciceſtrenſis Redulphus de Nevilla, Cancellarius Angliæ, vir per omnia laudabilis, & immota columna in regni negotiis, fidelitatis, Londini, in nobili palacio ſuo, quod a fundamentis, non procul a Novo Templo conſtruxerat, Cal Februarii vitam temporalem terminavit, perpetuam adepturus.

[b] Clauſ. 11 H. 3. p. 2. m. 7.

After this Raph Nevill, Richard de Wihtz (commonly called Saint Richard) had alſo his reſidence [c] here. But in the next age, Henry Lacy Earl of Lincolne became poſſeſt thereof, and reſided in it; whereupon as many other great Houſes, did in thoſe dayes take denomination from their Owners, this had then accordingly the name of Lincolnes Inne, and hath ever ſince been ſo called.

[c] Regiſt. de. Lincolns Inne Vol. 1. fol. 144. b.

Of this Henry Earl of Lincolne, is the tradition ſtill current amongſt the Antients here; that he, about the begining of King Edward the ſeconds time, being a perſon well affected to the knowledge of the Lawes, firſt brought in the profeſſors of that honourable and neceſſary ſtudy, to ſettle in this place: bur direct proof thereof from good Authority, I have not as yet ſeen any: Howbeit, in after times, certain [d] it is, that the ſucceeding Biſhops of Chicheſter, of whoſe inheritance it was, did let Leaſes of it unto the Students of the Law; reſerving a certain Rent and Lodgings for themſelves, upon their repair to London: whereof one to [e] Francis Syliard, a Bencher of this Houſe *temp. H.*7. continued in being till 27 H. 8. in which year Robert Sherborne, then Biſhop of Chicheſter, made a new Leaſe [f] thereof unto William Syliard (likewiſe a Student of this Houſe and Son to the ſaid Francis) for ninety and nine years, under the yearly Rent of *vi*l. *xiii*s. *iiii*d. which Leaſe ended at Michaelmas in An. 1634.

After that Leaſe ſo made to the ſaid William, as aboveſaid, Richard Sampſon, one of the ſucceeding Biſhops of that See, did, by his deed [g] bearing date 1 Julii 28 H. 8. paſs the inheritance thereof, and of the Garden called Cotterell Garden, or Conygarth, to the ſaid William Syliard and Euſtace his brother: which grant was confirmed [h] by the Dean and Chapter of Chicheſter the firſt of Auguſt then next enſuing; the ſaid William then being one of the Uſhers of King Henry the 8*ths.* Bedchamber. An. 1536.

The inheritance therefore being thus in theſe two brothers; and Euſtace ſurviving; Edward ſon and heir of the ſaid Euſtace, by his deed [i] bearing date 12 Nov. 22 Eliz. in conſideration of the ſum of five hundred and twenty pounds, conveyed to Richard Kingſmill and the reſt of the then Benchers here, this Houſe, Garden, &c. in fee: whereupon a Fine was levyed by him the ſaid Edward and his Wife.

The Buildings.

Of what form or compoſition this Houſe was, when Henry Lacy Earl of Lincoln (from whom it took denomination) left it, I cannot at all deſcribe: nor have I met with any thing of its alteration till Henry the 7*ths.* time; but in 6*to.* of that King's reign, the Society getting in ſome money, partly by contribution [k], and partly by loan [l] within two years after (viz. in 8 H.7.) they pull'd [m] down the old Hall, though they made no great haſt in erecting a new The Hall.

new one: for till [n] 22 H. 7. (which was fourteen years after) I do not perceive it was finiſhed: within the compaſs of which time, viz. in 13 H. 7. I find, that John Netherſale (late one of this Society) bequeathed [o] xl. marks; partly towards the building of a Library here, for the benefit of the Students of the Laws of England; and partly, that every Prieſt of this Houſe, then being, or hereafter to be, who ſhould celebrate Maſs and other Divine Service every Friday weekly, ſhould then ſing a Maſs of Requiem; and alſo, in the time of the ſaid Maſs, before his firſt lavature, ſay the Pſalm of De profundis, with the Orizons and Collects accuſtomed, for the ſoul of the ſaid John.

But this good work of the Hall, being perfected, they were drawn on further: for the next enſuing year (viz. 23 H. 7.) they began [p] to make Brick, and to contract [q] with Maſons for the Stone-work of another fabrick, viz. the great Gate-houſe Tower; unto which, Sir Thomas Lovell, formerly a member of this Society, but then Treaſurer of the Houſehold to King Henry the 7th. was a good benefactor [r]; fetching their timber [s] by water from Henley upon Thames. And in 24 H. 7. they finiſhed the Library, as may appear [t] by the charge in ſeeling of it, then accounted for: But the work of the Gate Tower went ſlowly enough on; for till the 9th. of H. 8. (which was nine years after) that the ſaid Sir Thomas Lovell gave [u] more money to expedite it, I find no more thereof: which bounty of his ſo far drew on the reſt of the Society; that in 11 H. 8. all then in Commons, were taxed; [w] and farther Order [x] made for the ſpeedy payment in of the moneys: as alſo xl[l]. over and above, allowed [y] out of the publick Treaſury of the Houſe, for perfecting of that ſtructure: ſo, that in 12 H. 8. it was totally finiſhed, the whole charge thereof amounting [z] to CLiii[l]. x[s] viii[d]. William Sultard being then the principal Expenditor [a] for the work; and the Brick and Tile uſed for the ſame, being digg'd [b] out of that piece of ground, then called the Coneygarth, lying on the Weſt ſide of the Houſe, adjoyning to Lincolns Inn fields. In whoſe Accompt [c] I find xvi[l]. vii[s]. v[d]. paid for xliii. Cart load of Free-ſtone, together with the wrought-work of the Chimneys, and carving the Arms over the ſaid Gate. But the Gates of wood were not reſolv'd on till the 25th. of H. 8. for then there was an Order [d] in their Councel for them; as alſo for making of more Brick for another new Building, whereof Mr. William [e] Heyden the elder, (one of this Society) was principal Surveiſor and Expenditor; the ſame Building containing [f] nine Chambers, and being [g] three ſtories high, on the poſtern ſide of the Houſe, towards the fields: which was begun [h] in Trinity Term 27 H. 8. the total charge thereof amounting [i] to CXCix[l]. viii[s]. iiii[d].

The next year following, viz. 34 H. 8. there was an Order [k] in their Councell, for paving the ſtreet with ſtone, all along before this Houſe and Garden; in purſuance of an Act [l] of Parliament to that end made in 32 H. 8. for paving of the whole ſtreet, called Chancery lane; the charge [m] whereof (viz. ſo far as concern'd this Houſe) amounted to xlvi[l]. ob.

But though the Fabrick of the Hall was finiſhed in 22 H. 8. (as I have already obſerved) the Loover (or Lanthorn) thereon, was not ſet up till 6 Edw. 6. for in that year the charge was accounted [n] for; the Carpenters work and Timber amounting to xlv[s]. The Smiths, for the Vane viii[s]. The gilding thereof xi[s]. The Plummers work vii[l]. x[s]. and the Glaſier's work xxxi[s]. On the outſide whereof, in lead, the Armes of Lacy Earl of Lincoln, with Quincy and the Earl of Cheſter's Cote are ſtill to be ſeen.

In 1 & 2 Ph. & M. the Walk [o] under the Trees, in the Coneygarth was made.

The next of their Structures was the Kitchin; which, by an Act [p] in their Councel, in 3 & 4 Ph. & M. was orderd to be new built of Brick, with a Wall and Gates: for ſupporting

And in 1 Eliz. there was an Order [q] made, that a Brick wall and Gates should be set up on the backside of the House, for the better and more sufficient inclosure thereof: and that the Gates should be made on the foreside the House towards the Street; which (it seems) notwithstanding that direction in 25 H. 8. were not then done: But nothing was performed therein, I presume; for in 4 Eliz. new direction [r] was given for the making of three thousand Brick, in * the Coneygarth; and Mr. Newdigate (a member of the Society) to be Surveyor of the same: which was accordingly effected, and ten shillings allowed [s] to the Panyerman, in respect of his loss in the herbage of that place, by reason of this Brick-making there; the said Brick being imployed [t] for making of the wall all along the Garden side towards Chancery lane, with the Gates [u] in the midst thereof (the former wall being of Clay:) all which was perfected [w] in 6 Eliz. And in 7 Eliz. there was an Order [x] for building of the Gallery, over the Skreen at the nether end of the Hall: In which year also the House of Office was erected [y] in the Coneygarth.

The next ensuing year (viz. 8 Eliz.) it was ordered [z], that a fair and beautifull wall should be made on the backside of this House, in such sort, as Mr. Kempe, Mr. Salveyn, and Mr. Hayden should think most fit. And likewise a Seller [a], and a way into the Chapell; as also provision of timber [b] and other necessaries, for more Buildings, to be begun at Candlemas following: which Buildings being those on the North [c] part of the Quadrangle, and on which the sum [d] of *CCCCxv*l. — *xi*s. — *xi*d. was expended, were finished in the *x*th. year of the said Queens reign, John Hayden Esq; (one of the Society) being Supervisor [e] of the work. But, it seems that this structure came short of their occasions; for the next ensuing year (viz. xi. Eliz.) *Cxxvii*l. *xii*s. *viii*d. more, was issued [f] out of their Treasury, for the enlarging thereof in length. And in 14 Eliz. the Well was converted [g] to a Pump.

After this I find no more done till 24 Eliz. but then, 2 Julii it was resolved [h], by the Governours of this House; that Lxxx. tun of stone should be provided, and CLx. loads of timber, in the long Vacation, and Clay digg'd for the making of Bricks. And in February following (viz. 25 Eliz.) Mr. Thomas Ayloffe, and Mr. John Lutwich were appointed [i] Overseers of the intended building; which were [k] the Chambers over the Kitchin, over the Entry neer the Hall, and over the Pastry: As also one Woodhouse under the Staires on the Eastside, and another on the VVestside.

In July next ensuing (viz. 26 Eliz.) it was ordered [l], that the VVall begun about the Backside should in that Summer Vacation, be made throughout the full length of the Ditch. All which being effected, it was in 30 Eliz. on Ascension Day, ordered [m]; that a Brickwall should be made at the upper end of the Backside, towards Holburne: As also a Gate towards Fickets fields, and another in the Brick-wall towards the Pump, with a Sink from the Kitchin.

In 35 Eliz. the Mount, and wall of Brick to set forth the same, were made [n]; the cost whereof came to *xviii*l. — *xii*s. — *iii*d. Two years after (viz. 37 Eliz.) Mr. Dalton, Mr. Hughes, and Mr. Collins of this Society, were made choice [o] of, to consider how water might fitly be brought to the House in Pipes of lead; and what the chardg thereof would be.

In November 44 Eliz. it being resolved [p], that the old Buildings, then standing between the great Gate house, and John Bevington's house in Chancery lane (which was the neerest to Lincolnes Inne towards the South) should be pulled down, and a new Building of Brick, Stone, and Timber erected in the same place;

The new Building from the Gatehouse Northwards.

In 6 Jac. at a Councel held 6 Maii, there was an Order [x] made, that those who were the Supervisors of the intended buildings allready mentioned, which were then in hand, should take into their consideration the building of a new Chapell, and likewise of the long Gallery, and some other buildings then intended to be made in this House: And in October following, it was farther ordered [y]; that all such as had Chambers in the said long Gallery, should pay towards those new Buildings fifty pounds for each Chamber; id est xxv[l]. a piece: and such as were new Takers to pay Lxx[l]. viz. xxxv[l]. a piece; as also that the said Buildings should be made xxiiii. foot square within the walls, and nether Rooms to have Sellers wherein to lay wood.

But these contributions coming far short of accomplishing the work, in a Councel held the 4th of October, the year ensuing (viz. 17 Jac.) it was agreed and ordered[o]; first that each of the Masters of the Bench, and associates thereunto should pay towards this structure xx[l]. a piece; each of seven years continuance at the Bar xx nobles; each of the Bar, under that time v[l]. and each Gentleman of the House, under the Bar xl[s].

And to the intent that learning might the better flouriſh here, it was in 3 & 4 Ph. & M. eſtabliſhed, * that thenceforth none ſhould be admitted into the fellowſhip of this Houſe, who had not been of an Inn of Chancery before, by the ſpace of one year; except he did pay for his Admittance, for his not being in Chancery xl s. But, it ſeems, that this Order had not that due obſervation as was expected: for in 7 Eliz. they impoſed a fine of five marks upon every perſon, who ſhould be here admitted, unleſs he had been of ſome Houſe of Chancery before. But ſuch was their reſpect to thoſe as were Utter-Barriſters of Furnivals Inne, and Thavies Inne, of one years continuance; that in 10 Eliz. they ordered*, that any of them ſhould be admitted for four marks. And the next year following they farther order'd*, that every fellow of thoſe two Innes of Chancery (by reaſon they were the proper Houſes of this Houſe, as the Regiſter expreſſeth) who had been allowed an Utter Barriſter there, and that had mooted there two Vacations at the Utter Bar, ſhould pay for their admiſſions into the Fellowſhip of this Houſe only 13 s. 4 d. but any like Utter-Bariſter of any other Inn of Chancery 20 s. and that every Inner Barriſter of either of the ſaid two Inns of Chancery, that had mooted there one Vacation at the Inner Bar should pay for his admission into this House but 20 s. every Inner Barister of any other Inn of Chancery, paying for the like xl s. And, that every one, who should after that time be admitted into this House, being of no Inn of Chancery, before such their admission, to pay for their admission no less then five marks.

* Ib. f. 372. b.

And farther, in 27 Eliz. they decreed*, that the Gentlemen after that time to be admitted to the Fellowship of this House, should pay for their Admittance, as followeth; viz. such as were of Furnivals Inn, or Davys Inn one year, xl s. and such as were of other Houses of Chancery one year 3*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*

* Ex alio Registro scil. vol. 6. f. 513. a.

And in 11 Jacobi it was ordered*, that thenceforth there should not be demanded or taken of any Gentleman to be admitted into this House, who had not formerly been of any Inn of Chancery, above the sum of 3*l.* 10 s. upon his admission.

And because they found, that some Attorneys, and Common Sollicitors had obtained Admittances into this Society, which they esteemed to be no small disparagement thereunto; it was in a Council held 4 Junii in 11 Car. 1. ordered*, that none such from thenceforth should be admitted. And the better to prevent the like abuse, they farther ordered; that if any Gentleman, after his admittance, should become an Attorney, or Common Sollicitor, his Admittance to be ipso facto void.

Exercises for advancement of Learning.

In 6 Edw. 4. for the better advancement of learning in this House, at a general Council held in the Chappel here, dedicated to St. Richard, sometime Bishop of Chichester, all the Bench and Bar being present; there was an Order* made, that all the members of this Society, which then were, or should hereafter be, and every of them, so soon as they should be called to the Bar, or admitted to the Bench, should keep six whole Vacations, within the Compass of three years immediately ensuing such their admission to the Bench; that is to say, one Month in Lent, in the time of the Reading of this Society, and another Month in Autumn in the time of Reading also; and that they should also be personally present at the Readings there, in every Vacation, for the first week wherein the same Lecture was to begin. Provided nevertheless, that if any Bencher of this Society, did observe the whole remainder of the Vacation, it should be allowed to him for a whole Vacation, and that he should be in Commons for that whole Month, during the before specified Reading. And moreover, that every member of this Society, who should thenceforth be called and admitted from the Bar to the Bench, in manner and form aforesaid, should, swear upon the holy Evangelists, to keep and observe six Vacations, in all points as aforesaid, without any excuse whatsoever, excepting sickness; or sickness of his or their Fathers, Mothers, or Wives; or any Suits, pleadings of Assize or Nisi prius, relating to them, or any one to their use, hapning within that Month and time of such Reading; or within fourteen daies before or after the said Reading, upon pain of 20 s. to be forfeited and paid to the Society, for every default in the premisses.

* Ex Regist. ejusd. Hosp. vol 4. f. 203. a.

And in 6 Edw. 6. it was ordered*, that every Puisne, at every Mess at Dinner, should put a short Case of one point argumentable, and to be argued throughoutly, by all that should sit at the same Mess; and this Order to take effect in the beginning of the next Term; and no man to depart from the same without reasonable cause, under the penalty of 12*d*; provided that on such nights as were mootable, no Case to be argued.

* Ex Registro ejusdem Hosp. vol. 1. f. 144. b.

Moreover, in 16 Eliz. it was ordered*, that at the end of every Term, examination and search should be made what Exercises of learning had been kept the same Term, and by whom; and likewise in the beginning of the Term to examine who kept their learnings in the Vacation time. And in 18 Eliz. it was farther ordered*, that thenceforth at Dinner, the Puisne in every Mess should put a Case; and every man of the same Mess, in antienty to Barriſters Readers in Chancery.

In 38 Eliz. there were theſe expreſs Orders * made, in reference to thoſe Barriſters as were Readers in Chancery, and ſuch as were under the Barr in this Houſe; viz. 1. That none ſhould be called to the upper Bar, but by the ordinary and general Councel, in Term time; nor to continue Utter-Barriſter, unleſs he ſhould by the ſpace of three years after, exerciſe ordinary mootings, and other ordinary exerciſes of learning, both in Court and Chancery, as the Bench ſhould allow. 2. That the Readers in Chancery, ſhould thenceforth keep their Summer and Lent Readings by the ſpace of three weeks in each Vacation: and each of them perform three grand Moots, with their Pleadings; two Lectures for every of their Caſes, and alſo Read in each of thoſe weeks: And, in the Term time, that they ſhould hold two petty Mootes in each week; as alſo in each week of the Term read two Lectures at the leaſt; and leave the ſame written in paper in the Houſe accordingly, as in former times had been uſed and accuſtomed. 3. That no Reader ſhould be permitted to read by Deputy, without ſpecial warrant by the Bench.

* Ex Regiſtro ejuſdem Hoſp. vol. 6. f. 20. b.

So alſo in 12 Car. 1. for the Exerciſe of Mootes, they took care that they ſhould be performed * by the Barriſters.

* Ex Regiſtro ejuſd. Hoſp. vol. 7.

Apparel.

And for decency in Apparel, at a Council held on the day of the Nativity of St. John Baptiſt 23 H. 8. it was ordered *, that for a continual Rule, to be thenceforth kept in this Houſe, no Gentleman, being a Fellow of this Houſe, ſhould wear any cut or panſid Hoſe, or Bryches; or panſid Doblet, upon pain of putting out of the Houſe.

* Ex Regiſtro ejuſd. hoſp. vol. 4. f. 13. b.

Nay, ſo regular were they in thoſe days in point of Habit, that in 1 & 2 Ph. & M. one M^r. Wyde, of this Houſe, was (by a ſpecial Order * made upon Aſcention day) fined at five groats, for going in his Study gown in Cheap-ſide, on a Sunday, about ten of the Clock before Noon; and in Weſtminſter Hall, in the Term time, in the fore-noon.

* Ib. f. 283. b.

Cap. 64.

And in 30 Eliz. they further ordered *, that if any fellow of this Houſe, ſhould wear any hat in the Hall or Chappel; or go abroad to London or Weſtminſter without a Gown, he ſhould be put out of Commons; and pay ſuch a Fine before his readmittance, as the Maſters of the Bench then in Commons ſhould aſſeſs. And likewiſe, that if any Fellow of this Houſe, ſhould wear long Hair, or great Ruffs, he ſhould alſo be put out of Commons, and pay ſuch a Fine, before he were remitted, as the Maſters of the Bench then in Commons ſhould aſſeſs.

* Ex Regiſtro ejuſdem hoſp. vol. 5. f. 415. a.

So alſo in 38 Eliz. * that if any Fellow of this Houſe, being a Commoner or Repaſter, ſhould within the precinct of this Houſe, wear any Cloak, Boots and Spurrs, or long hair, to pay for every offence five ſhillings for a Fine, and alſo to be put out of Commons. And in 11 Car. 1. it was alſo ordered *, that what Gentleman ſoever ſhould come into the Hall at Meal time, with any other upper garment then a Gown, he ſhould be ſuſpended for being a member of the Society.

* Ex Regiſt. ejuſd. Hoſp. vol. 6 fol. 20. b.

* Ib. f. 336. b.

Beards.

And as this care was taken for regularity in their Appare; ſo alſo were there the like good Rules eſtabliſhed concerning their Beards; For in 33 H. 8. there was Order * made, that none of the Fellows of this Houſe, being in Commons, or at his Repaſt, ſhould wear a Beard; and whoſo did, to pay double Commons or Repaſts in this Houſe during ſuch time as he ſhould have any Beard. But this Order being not ſtrictly obſerved, the penalty * was made greater in 1 Mariæ; viz. that ſuch as had Beards, ſhould pay 12 d. for every meal they continued them: and every man to be ſhav'n, upon pain of putting out of Commons.

* Ex Regiſtro ejuſd. Hoſp. vol. 4. f. 134.

* Ib. f. 275. b.

And in 1 Eliz. it was further ordered *, that no Fellow of this Houſe ſhould wear any Beard above a fort-

But the faſhion at that time of wearing Beards, grew then ſo predominant; as that the very next year following, at a Council held in this Houſe, upon the 27*th.* of November, it was agreed and ordered *, that all Orders before that time made, touching Beards, ſhould be void and repealed.

* Ib.

Weapons.

In 1 Elix. there was likewiſe an Order * made, that no Fellow of this Society, ſhould wear any Sword or Buckler; or cauſe any to be born after him into the Town. And that in caſe any one ſhould tranſgreſs therein, he ſhould, for the firſt offence forfeit 3 s. 4 d. to be paid and caſt with his Commons; for the ſecond time 6 s 8 d. in like manner to be caſt into Commons, and the third time to be baniſhed the Houſe. And in 8 Jac. it was further ordered *, that no Rapiers ſhould be worn in this Houſe by any of the Society.

* Ibid.

* Ex Regiſt. ejuſd. Hoſp. vol. 6. f. 442.

Precedence.

And to prevent all differences touching precedence amongſt them, there was an Order * made in 18 Jac. upon adviſe and conſideration of the courſe held in other Innes of Court, and publick places of Corporations, where additions gains no precedence of their Ancients; that no Bencher being Knighted, and made a Maſter of the Chancery in ordinary; or either of them, ſhould take place within the Houſe, but in the courſe of antiquity and not otherwiſe.

* Ex Regiſt. ejuſdem hoſp. vol. 7. f. 23. b

Sports.

Touching their Sports and corporal Exerciſes, it was ordered * in 32 Eliz. that not only all the Sportings, late watchings, and Exerciſes, before that time yearly uſed on the Hunting night: but alſo their repair uſually at a certain day yearly to Kentiſh-town; and the Dining with Sports and Aſſemblies before that time uſed, ſhould be taken away and no more exerciſed: and that at thoſe dayes and times, all the Fellowes of this Houſe ſhould have and take their Diet at ſuch time and places, as on other dayes was then uſed by order of this Houſe, and not otherwiſe.

Divinity Lectures.

In 35 Eliz. upon removal of one Mr. Charke Divinity-Reader in this Houſe, the Arch-biſhop or Canterbury wrote his Letters to the Maſters of the Bench, here, to proceed in the choice of another: who thereupon (6 Febr. the ſame year) ordered *, that there ſhould be two learned men, choſen out of the Univerſity of Oxford, and two others out of the Univerſity of Cambridge, to read each of them quarterly a Divinity Lecture in the Chapel here, twice every week, and to preach upon the the Sunday, and at ſuch other times as there ſhould be a Communion appointed; for the firſt half year they of Oxford to begin, and then for the other thoſe of Cambridge. And that they ſhould for this their pains, have quarterly ten pounds a piece; as alſo their Diet with the Maſters of the Bench in Term time, and in the Vacation times, when no Table is kept for the Benchers, their Commons to be free with the Maſters at the Bar, at the publick charge of the Houſe.

Publick Expences at great Solemnities.

THe firſt of theſe, whereof the Regiſters of this Houſe do take any notice, was in 7 Edw. 4. * at the Juſts then held in Smithfield, betwixt Wydevile Lord Scales, and the Baſtard Son of the Duke of Burgundy, upon a mandate receiv'd from the King, by the four Innes of Court; that each of them ſhould furniſh out four armed men for the ſaid King's guard: which was accordingly done, Scaffolds being ſet up to ſee the Juſts, and the charges of all born by a rate.

And it is no leſs obſervable; that the motion * for that famous Mask, which was preſented to the King at Chriſtmas, 9 Caroli I. firſt proceeded from this Houſe unto the other three Innes of Court; the total charge whereof to them all, amounted to *MMCCCC*l. towards the ſupporting whereof it was ordered * in this Society, that every Bencher ſhould pay 6 l. Every Utter Bariſter of ſeven years ſtanding or above, 3 l. and under ſeven years ſtanding 40 s. and every Gentleman 20 s. Which Mask became ſo well accepted from his Majeſty that beſides his thanks to them, he invited * an hundred and twenty Gentlemen of the four Inns of Court unto that Mask at White hall, which was on Shrove-tueſday following.

Revels.

AND that nothing might be wanting for their encouragement in this excellent ſtudy, they have very antiently had Dancings for their recreation and delight, commonly called Revels, allowed at certain ſeaſons; and that by ſpecial order * of the Society, as appeareth in 9 H. 6. viz. that there ſhould be four Revells that year, and no more; one at the feaſt of All-hallown, another at the feaſt of St. Erkenwald; the third at the feaſt of the Purification of our Lady; and the 4*th* on Midſummer day; one perſon yearly elected of the Society, being made choice of, for director in thoſe paſtimes, called the Maſter of the Revels: which ſports were long before that time uſed, as may appear by this Order *, in their publick Council, made upon All-hallown day, 8 Eliz. that the Muſicians, at the ancient and ſolemn Revels (for ſo they were then called) ſhould have their ſtipend increaſed, for their ſervice on the two principal Feaſts; Allhallown tide and Candlemaſs; that is to ſay where they were wont to have, for their ſervice done, for Allhallown Even, Allhallown Day at noon, and Allhallown day at night 3 s. 4 d. that thenceforth they ſhould have for their ſaid ſervice, at that time 6 s. 8 d, and the like ſum at Candlemas, having had but 3 s. 4 d. before.

Nor were theſe Exerciſes of Dancing meerly permitted; but thought very neceſſary (as it ſeems) and much conducing to the making of gentlemen more fit for their Books at other times; for, by an Order * made 6 Febr. 7 Jac. it appears, that the Under Bariſters, were by Decimation put out of Commons, for examples ſake, becauſe the whole Bar offended by not dancing on Candlemas day preceeding, according to the antient Order of this Society, when the Judges were preſent: with this, that if the like fault were committed afterwards, they ſhould be fined or diſbarred.

Grand Chriſtmaſſes.

TOuching the great ſtate and magnificence uſed herein, having already ſpoke in my Diſcourſe of the Inner Temple; where I have fully deſcribed the ſplendid Shews, notable paſtimes, and coſtly feaſtings, antiently uſed at Chriſtmaſs time in that Society; I ſhall here onely in brief obſerve: that the firſt Order *, wherewith I have met, which maketh any mention of theſe ſolemnities in this Houſe, was in 9 H. 8. it being

* Ex Regiſtro Hoſp. Linc. vol. 4. fol. 87. a.

Cap. 64. being then agreed and ordained; that he who ſhould, after that time, be choſen King on Chriſtmas day, ought then to occupy the ſaid room, if he were preſent; and in his abſence of the Marſhal, for the time being, by the advice of the Utter Barriſters preſent, to name another.

And for learning of young Gentlemen to do ſervice, that the Marſhal ſhould ſit as King on Newyears day, and have like ſervice as on Chriſtmas day: And the Maſter of the Revels, during Dinner time, ſupply the Marſhal's room.

Moreover, that the King of Cockneys on Childermaſs day, ſhould ſit and have due ſervice; and that he and all his Officers, ſhould uſe honeſt manner and good order, without any waſte or deſtruction making, in wine, Brawn, Chely or other Vitails: as alſo, that he and his Marſhal, Butler, and Conſtable Marſhal ſhould have their lawful and honeſt Commandments by delivery of the Officers of Chriſtmas: and that the ſaid King of Cockneys, ne none of his Officers medyl neither in the Buttery, nor in the Stuard of Chriſtmaſs his Office, upon pain of 40 s. for every ſuch medling. And laſtly, that Jack Straw, and all his adherents ſhould be thenceforth utterly baniſht, and no more to be uſed in this Houſe, upon pain to forfeit, for every time five pounds, to be levied on every fellow happning to offend againſt this Rule.

But theſe Grand Chriſtmaſſes were not, it ſeems, conſtantly kept; for thus I find in an Order * entred in their Regiſter, made 27 Nov. 22 H. 8. It is agreed that if the two Temples do kepe Chryſtemas, then Chryſtemas to be kept here: and to know this, the Steward of the Houſe is commanded to get knowledge, and to advertiſe my Maſters by the next day at night.

The Readers.

CConcerning theſe; that which is firſt obſervable, is an Order * made in the Councel of this Houſe in 3 E. 4. whereby it was eſtabliſhed, that the Reader for Summer, ſhould be choſen in Eaſter Term; and the Reader for Lent in Michaelmas Term: And that in 5 H. 8. (23 Junii) it was *concorded and agreed, by the aſſent of the whole Company of the Bench, that none of the ſame Bench, who was to read in the Harveſt Vacation, ſhould thenceforth charge the Company of this Houſe, in any wiſe, over the number of 12 Bucks; ſo that if it were the pleaſure of the ſame Reader to have more; then he himſelf to be at the charge of them, aſwell for the reward, as for the baking.

Readers.

* Ex alio Regiſtro, ſcil. vol. 4. f. 30. a.

And the next that in 33 Eliz. (13 Junii;) whereby for the better diſpoſal of the Readings in this Society, and regulating of them, divers wholſome Rules were eſtabliſhed; the tenor of which I have here thought fit to tranſcribe.

—* Whereas the Readings, of Houſes of Court have time out of mind been continued in every Lent and every Auguſt yearly by the ſpace of 3 weeks at the leaſt, till of late, that divers Readers have made an end of their Reading in ſhorter time, and have read fewer Readings then by the antient Orders of the ſame Houſes they ought; to the great hindrance of Learning, not only in the ſaid Houſes of Court, but alſo in Houſes of Chancery, by reaſon that the Exerciſes of Mootes, very profitable for Students, are by occaſion thereof cut off, almoſt the one half or more.

* Ex alio Regiſtro; ſcil. vol. 6. fol. 461. b.

The exceſſive and ſumptuous charges of which Readings, brought in of late time, contrary to the antient uſage, have been, and are (as it is thought) the chief, or great occaſion of the ſame; which (if it ſhould be permitted) would be almoſt an utter overthrow to the learning and ſtudy of the Law, and conſequently an intolerable miſchief to the Common-wealth of this Realm.

The two Chief Juſtices and Chief Baron, and all the reſidue of the Juſtices of both Benches, and the Barons of the Exchequer, well perceiving that theſe late Examples of ſhort and few Readings are ſo dangerous, as they are not longer to be ſuffered, have thought it very neceſſary that the ſame Readings and charges of the Reader, ſhall be from thenceforth uſed as followeth.

First,

Lincolns Inn.

First, that all single Readers, in every of the said houses of Court, shall continue every of their Readings, by the whole space of three weeks, or till Friday in the third week, after the beginning of every such Reading, at the least; and that there shall be as many Readings in every of the said 3 weeks, as by the antient Orders of the same Houses have been accustomed; and if there shall be any cause allowed by the Benchers of the said Houses for fewer Readings, there shall be, notwithstanding any such cause, three Readings in every of the said three weeks at the least, any order to be taken to the contrary notwithstanding.

And to the intent that the charges of the same Readings may not be over great, or burdensome to the same Readers, it is ordered and thought meet by the said Justices and Barons, that no such Readers shall allow any greater Diet in the Hall of any such House, either in Wine, or Meat, than was allowed usually before the first year of the Queens Majesties Reign that now is; viz. Ann. 1559.——

And that the Stewards of the Readers drinking, shall not expend about the same above the sum of twenty Marks, that is to say, either of them 6*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* and that the Steward of the Readers dinner shall not defray, about the charges of the said dinner, above 20*l.* viz. either of them 10*l.* at the most; And that no Reader shall have more Wine to be spent in his Reading then two Hogsheads at the most.

And that no Reader shall make any Dinner, or be at any charges in his House, but in the Reading time, and not in the Term before his Reading.

And the said Justices do think it meet, that the said Readers should be advised by the Benchers of their Houses, not only in the proportion of their own Diet; but also what number of Guests, and of what sort they should bid to their Table, during their Reading, to the intent that a mediocrity may be used frugally without excess.

Cap. 46. Readers.

The Orders aforesaid are at this Counceil ratified, and from henceforth to be duly observed; and no Reader shall in any wise hereafter make any Dinner or be at any charges of Diet in the House in the Term or before the time of his Reading.

That the Readers here, have antiently had some allowance for Wine spent in the time of their Readings, there are divers memorials in the Accompts * of this House; viz. of 14*l.* at the Summer Reading, and 8*l.* at the Reading in Lent. For the Order and Ceremony of their Readings is thus;

* Ex eodem Registro fol. 175. b. & alibi.

The Reader for Autumn, takes his place in the Hall, at the Bench-Table, the last day of Trinity Term, with great solemnity at Dinner time; and is placed at the upper end of the said Bench-Table; where he is thenceforth to have precedency till his Reading shall end, and to make a Feast for the whole Society.

The Reader also for Lent, with the like Ceremony and Feast, is to take his place at the Bench, at Dinner, upon the last day of Hillary Term yearly.

For Bucks brought in, during the time of Reading, the House alloweth towards the Reward for each, 3*s.* 4*d.* the rest is at the Readers own charge.

So also doth the House allow Pepper and Flower for baking of all the Venison, which shall be spent in the Hall; but not for what is spent at the Readers own Table.

And this priviledge they have, that every Reader may admit any person into the Society, according as he shall think fit; and to be allowed one Clerk in Commons at the rate of 20*d.* a week: but if he be a double Reader, then two Clerks, each at the same rate.

Of such learned Gentlemen who had been Readers in this House, there was a Catalogue * made in 28 Eliz. by one Mr. Lee, an Utter-Barrister here; but having not seen it, I was constrained to gather them out of the Registers as here followeth.

Having now done with theſe Catalogues of the Readers and Governours, wherein is ſpecial obſervation made of all ſuch as were afterwards advanced, either to be Judges in any of the Courts at Weſtminſter, or otherwiſe: I am yet further to take notice, that there were likewiſe of this Houſe, theſe, alſo of whom there is no mention in either of the ſaid Catalogues; whoſe names, (for the honour of the Society) are here added.

1. Sir John Forteſcue Knight, ſometime Lord Chief Juſtice of the King's Bench, ſo renowned for that learned diſcourſe de laudibus Legum Angliæ (written in France, when he attended upon Edward Prince of Wales, eldeſt Son to King Henry the 6th. being then his Chancelour, as the Preamble to that Book manifeſteth) was [a] of this Houſe in 6 H. 6.

2. Sir Arthur Plantaginet Knight (natural Son to King Edw. the 4th.) afterwards Viſcount L'iſle, admitted [b] of this Society 4 Feb. 2 H. 8.

3. William Lambard (a perſon skilful in Antiquities, publiſher of the Saxon Laws) concerning whom I find this following [c] Order at a Councel here, held 9 Febr. 21 Eliz.

Foraſmuch as Mr. William Lambard hath deſerved univerſally well of this Common wealth, and Country, and likewiſe of the Fellowſhip and Society of this Houſe, and is like hereafter to win greater credit to himſelf, and the Society of this Houſe; it is therefore agreed, that he ſhall have a room to ſit amongſt the Society of the Fellowſhip of the Bench, as other aſſiſtants uſe to do, without any thing paying for the ſame: Provided always that this be no Preſident to any other, that ſhall be called to the like place hereafter, but that they ſhall pay for the ſaid room ſuch ſums of money, as ſhall be aſſeſſed by the Bench.

4. Sir Henry Spelman Knight (whoſe learned works are well known to be of high eſteem both here, and in forrein parts) was admitted [d] of this Society in 28 Eliz.

The Copy of a Letter ſent by the Lords of his Majeſties Privy Councel, to certain Juſtices of the Peace for the County of Middleſex, to reſtrain and forbid the Buildings in Lincolns Inn-Fields.

Ex Regiſtro Hoſp. Linc. vol. 7. f. 530. b.

AFter our hearty commendations. It is well known unto you what Order hath been taken, aſwell by publick Proclamation, as by often addreſſes from the Board; and not long ſince by delivering unto your ſelves his Majeſties expreſs pleaſure and commandment, for the reſtraint of new erected buildings, together with the inconveniencies that cannot be avoided by the ſwelling multitudes of people, which by that occaſion are drawn hither from all parts of the Kingdom; and that as well in regard of the proviſion of victual, which is now grown to a high rate, as alſo in reſpect of government and order; and yet nevertheleſs ſuch is the liberty as men take herein for the advantage of their private, as there is nothing more frequent in the skirts and confines of the City, then new erected buildings: amongſt the reſt you ſhall underſtand that complaint hath been made unto us by the Students of Lincolns Inn; that ſome do goe about to erect new buildings in a Field neer unto them, called Lincolns Inn Fields, with an intent to convert the whole Field into new buildings contrary to his Majeſties Proclamation, and all other publick Orders taken in that behalf, and to the great peſtring and annoyance of that Society: Foraſmuch as it is expedient that ſome preſent courſe be taken for reſtraint thereof; we do hereby require you to take notice of the ſame, and to reſtrain and forbid that building that ſome preſent courſe be taken for reſtraint thereof; we do hereby require you to take notice of the ſame, and to reſtrain and forbid that building by ſuch effectual means, as you ſhall think meet, and if any perſon ſhall refuſe to yield thereunto, we do hereby require and authorize you, to commit him or them ſo refuſing to the Goal, until they conform themſelves accordingly; or otherwiſe if you find cauſe, to take good Bond of them to appear before us, that ſuch further Order may be taken, as ſhall be meet; whereof we require you to haue a ſpecial care, and to ſignify unto us your proceedings therein; and ſo we bid you heartily farewell.

Orders in this Society.

THat two Tables be made touching Orders for Exerciſe, during the whole year; the one to remain in the Library, and the other to be ſet up in the Hall, which Tables do contain as followeth.

¶ In the Vacation time, no Exerciſe upon Friday or Saturday: and in the Term no Exerciſe on Saturday.

¶ In the Vacation time, Munday and Wedneſday are the Bolt days, and Tueſday and Thurſday the Moot-days: but in Term times e contra.

¶ No Exerciſe upon any Holy day, nor upon the Eve, in the Term nor out of it: nor upon Wedneſday, Friday, or Saturday, in any Ember week.

¶ No Exerciſe to be done neither the day before the Term, nor after the Term Neq; Poſt, neq; Præ, neq; Bo. neq; Mo. neq; Le. Neither the day the Term beginneth or endeth. Lincolns Inn.

¶ In All Saints, Candlemaſs, and Aſcenſion weeks, being three grand weeks, there is no Exerciſe.

¶ In Trinity Term, if Midſummer day be a Grand Day, there is no Exerciſe the day before, becauſe the Eve of the Feaſt; nor the day after, becauſe Craſtino of a Grand day. And if Midſummer day be not in Term, ſo as Sunday is a Grand Day, then no Exerciſe upon the Monday following; but Exerciſe upon every other day, ſave Saturday.

Eaſter.

¶ THe firſt Monday after Low-Sunday, a Moot and a Bolt is to be charged: and that week one whole Moot is to be performed, and two Bolts: and upon Monday following a Bolt, and no more Exerciſe until Thurſday following being the ſecond day of the Term; and then the Exerciſe to go on, according to the Rules aforeſaid.

¶ Upon Wedneſday before Whitſon day, a Moot and a Bolt are to be charged: the Bolt to be performed that night, and the Pleading to be brought in on Thurſday following.

¶ No Exerciſe in Whitſon week, nor upon Munday after Trinity Sunday, becauſe it is the next day after a Grand day.

¶ Upon Tueſday a Moot is to be charged and performed, and a Bolt upon Wedneſday.

¶ Upon Munday after the end of the Term, Exerciſe beginneth; and holdeth until the Reading, except upon Fridays, Saturdays and Holy-days, and their Eves.

¶ In the Reading time, a Bolt upon the firſt Tueſday, and a Moot upon the firſt Wedneſday; and ſo till the end of the Reading, except upon the Reader's drinking night, and the Reader's Dinner, and Repetition day: but if the Reader but alter his Day, then the Bolt is altered to the day after the Reading.

¶ The next day after St Matthew's day, Exerciſe beginneth; and ſo continueth till the Term Eve.

Lincolns Inn

Michaelmass Term.

¶ THe Exercises hold all the Term long, with the precedent cautions.

¶ The Exercise beginneth the second day after the Term, unless the second day after the Term, unless the same be Sunday, Friday, or Saturday, or a Holy-day; and continueth till O Sapientia.

The Exercise beginneth the 2d. day of the Term and so continueth untill the Term end. And if the House of Commons begin on the Wednesday night, then a Bolt is to be charged on Thursday.

¶ When Christmas Commons endeth, Exercise beginneth, and so continueth until the Terms Eve: And if the House Commons begin upon Wednesday night, then a Bolt is to be charged upon Thursday.

¶ Exercise beginneth the second day of the Term, and so continueth until the last day of the Term, the Grand week excepted.

¶ The second day after the Term, Exercise beginneth, and so continueth until Shrove-tide; and that week no Exercise.

Lent Reading.

¶ THe Rule for Exercise is agreeable with the former Reading.

¶ When the Reading is ended, here is no Exercise until the 5th. week in Lent. Then Exercise continueth, from Munday until Munday in the sixth week.

¶ In the fifth week there be two Bolts; and one full Moot and one Bolt upon Munday following: and then Exercises cease until Munday after Low Sunday.

¶ Exercise in the Innes of Chancery; every Tuesday and Thursday a Reading; and every Wednesday and Friday a Moot in the Term; the first day of the Term and the last, and the Grand-week, Holy-Days, and twenty Vigils excepted.

In the Reading.

MOotes in Furnivall's Inne, every Munday, Tuesday, and Thursday; and in Thavyes-Inne, every Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday, during the Reading, but no Exercise after the Reader's feast.

Hactenus ex dicta Tabula in Promptuario pendente.

Cap. LXV.

Innes of Chancery belonging to Lincolns Inne.

Furnivalls Inne.

THis being long ago an House of the Lord Furnivall's had thereupon the name of Furnivall's Inne; and by some of them was antiently demised to the Students of the Law; for in 9 H. 4 it appears by their Stewards Accompts, that they resided in it.

By Joan [a] the Daughter and heir to William Lord Furnival (in the same King's time) the Inheritance of it came to [b] Thomas Nevill (a younger Brother to Ralph Earl of Westmerland:) and by Maude sole Daughter and heir to the said Thomas and Joan, to John Talbot Earl of Shrewsbury; in whose line it continued, till Francis Earl of Shrewsbury, in consideration of *Cxx*l. by his deed [c] bearing date the *xvi*th day of December 1 Edw. 6. sold it to Edw. Griffin Esq; then Solicitor general to the King, William Ropere, and Richard Heydone Esq; and their heirs; to the use of the Society of Lincoln's Inne, as it seems; forasmuch as it appears, [d] that the said summe of one hundred pounds so paid by them, was delivered to them out of the Treasurie of that House for the same purchase.

IN this Inne of Chancery were Students of the Law resident in King Edward the third's time, as may appear by these following words, taken out of the last Will and Testament a of John Tavye, whose House it then was, and of whom it took this name; viz. ——ego Johannes Tavie Armiger, &c. lego animam meam Deo, &c. Item lego omnia tenementa mea, cum omnibus suis pertinentiis, quæ habeo in parte Australi, in parochia S. Grays Inne.

THat this House had its denomination from the Lord Grays of Wilton, whose habitation it antiently was, there are none (I presume) that doubt: but when it first became a mansion for Students of the Law, is a question that I cannot directly resolve: for in 8 E 2. John the Son of Reginald de Grey resided here, as may seem by a License a then obtained by him from the King, to grant xxx. Acres of Land, two Acres of meadow, and ten shillings Rent, with th' appurtenances, lying in Kentishtown near London, and in the Parish of St. Andrews in Holburne, without the Barr of the old Temple, unto the prior and covent of St. Bartholomew's in Smithfield; to finde a certain Chaplain, to celebrate divine Service every day, in the Chappel and Pourtpole, without the said Barrs (that being the Chappel to this House) for the soul of the said John, and for the souls of his ancestours, ſtours, and all the faithful deceaſed, for ever. And no leſs certain it is, that the inheritance thereof continued to the poſterity of the ſaid John, until towards the latter end of King Henry the 7th's. reign, that it was paſſed by b Indenture of bargain and ſale, bearing date 12 Auguſt 21. H. 7. by Edmund Lord Grey of Wilton, unto Hugh Dennys Eſq; his heires and aſſignes, by the name of the Mannor of Portpole, otherwiſe called Grays Inne, four Meſſuages, four Gardens, the ſite of a windmill, eight Acres of land, ten ſhillings of free Rent, and the advouſon of the Chantry of Pourtpole aforeſaid. And that the ſaid bargain and ſale, was farther confirmed by a Releaſe, c from the ſaid Edmund Lord Gray, Richard Gray Clerk, and John Grey, brother of the ſaid Edmund, ſons to Sr John Grey of Wilton Knight deceaſed, made unto the ſaid Hugh Denys Eſq; and Mary his wife, Edmund Dudley Eſq; Roger Lupton Clerk, Godfrey Toppes, Edward Chamberleyn, William Stafford, John Ernley, Thomas Pigot, Richard Broke, William Tey, and Michael Fiſher, to the uſe of the ſaid Hugh and Mary his wife, and the heirs of the ſaid Hugh; which Releaſe beareth date upon the xvth day of Feb. an. 22. H. 7.

c Ibid. m 30.

How long thoſe Lords had their reſidence here, within that time, I cannot ſay: for there is not only a tradition amongſt the Ancients of this Society; but a poſitive affirmation by John Stow, one of our late Chroniclers, from what Mr. St. Low Kniveton (a perſon of great knowledge in Antiquities) had obſerved from very good authority; that the Students of the Law held this Houſe by Leaſe from the Lord Grays of Wilton, in King Edward the third's time, and ſince.

But about eight years after this bargain and ſale, ſo made to Hugh Denys, as aforeſaid, the Prior and Monks of Shene (near Richmund in Surrey) having in 20 Edw. 4. got Licenſe d of the King, to purchaſe Lands in Mortmain, to the value of C l. per annum; did, in purſuance thereof; obtain from King Henry the viiith. farther e Licenſe in the 7th. year of his reign, unto Thomas Pigot Cap. 67. then one of the King's Serjeants at Law, Richard Broke Serjeant at Law, John Heron Eſq; Roger Lupton Clerk, Godfrey Topys, and Thomas Arture, (ſome of which were of the feoffees before mentioned) that they might graunt the ſaid Mannour of Portpole, with the appurtenances, four Meſſuages, four Gardens, one croft, eight acres of land, and x^s^ Rent with the appurtenances; with the advouſon of the ſame Chanteries unto the ſaid Mannor belonging unto the ſaid Prior and Covent of Shene; to have and to hold to them and their ſucceſſors, in part of ſatisfaction, for that C l. per annum land; which they had Licenſe from King Edw. the 4th, to purchaſe, as aforeſaid.

Which Mannor of Portpole, otherwiſe called Grays Inne, with the appurtenances, &c. being by the ſaid Prior and Monks accordingly poſſeſt; was demiſed by them to the Students of the Law, for the Rent of ...vi^l^. xiii^s^. iiii^d^. per annum, as appeareth f by the Accounts of the Stewards of this Houſe: and ſo held till the general diſſolution of the greater Monaſteries in the Parliament of 30 H. 8. But then coming to the Crown; was granted unto them ſoon after by the ſaid King, in fee farm, as it ſeems: for by the Account of the Treaſurer of this Society made 18 Nov. 32. H. 8. it is evident that the ſaid Rent of vi^l^. xiii^s^. iiii^d^. was paid to the Kings uſe, for the ſame, for one whole year, ended at the feaſt of the Annunciation of our Lady then paſt: and ſo hath been ever ſince, as may appear by the Accounts of the ſucceeding Treaſurers of this Houſe.

of ſo ſlender capacity, that even the Ancients of this Houſe, were neceſſitated to lodge double: for at a Penſion held here 9 Julii 21 H. 8. John Hales, then one of the Barons of the Exchequer, produced [a] a Letter directed to him from Sir Thomas Neville, which was to requeſt him to acquaint the Society, that he would accept of Mr. Attorney general (viz. Sir Chriſtopher Hales) to be his Bedfellow in his Chamber here; and that entry might be made thereof in the Book of their Rules.

Lent, becauſe the Term did not end before the firſt Munday in Lent. In 26 Eliz. (5 Junii) that [k] no Reader ſhould thenceforth have allowance, either of Reward, or any other allowances, in reſpect of Veniſon, for above the number of twenty brace of Bucks, and a leaſe of Stags, and the ſame to be ſpent in the Houſe. And in 28 Eliz. (6 Junii) the Reader for that Summer, was allowed [l] for every week ten Bucks, and no more.

In 34 Eliz. (22 Nov.) Mr. Ellys the then Reader of this Houſe for Autumn, was amerced [m] at ten pounds for breaking the Judges Order, in reading ſo ſhort; and in twenty Nobles for calling eight Vtter Barriſters, whereas by the Rules of this Houſe he was to have called but four.

[m] Ib. f. 205. a.

In 36 Eliz. (ult. Jan.) it was ordered, [n] that the perſons then choſen, and after that time to be choſen Aſſiſtants to the Reader, ſhould ſit at the Reader's Table in Term time: and ſit with the Readers at the Moots, and be at the Penſion to hear, but have no voices there: And that if they ſhould fail, in any part of performing their Exerciſes, then to return back again to the Antients Table, to their former places. And in 2 Jac. (4 Nov.) it was further ordered, [o] that thenceforth there ſhould be two Aſſiſtants of ſuch of the Antients, as ſhould be next eligible for Readers, to be Aſſiſtants to the preſent Reader; and that thoſe two Aſſiſtants ſhould ſit at the Readers Table, and keep Exerciſes as a Reader, but not to have voice in Penſion. And, that if any ſhould refuſe to be Aſſiſtant, then to be fined as the Table ſhould think fit. And moreover, that if any being choſen Aſſiſtant ſhould refuſe to Read, if choſen Reader, then he to be put from the Readers Table, and to be fined at the Readers pleaſure. As alſo, that every ſuch Aſſiſtant not attending the Reader in the Reading time, to forfeit for two Vacations, either of them five pounds a piece.

[o] Ib. f. 282. a.

In 7 Jac. (7 Febr.) there was an Order [p] made, that the Chambers appointed for Readers, being Houſe Chambers, as they ſhould thenceforth become void, ſhould be taken by the Readers, by ſucceſſion, as they be in antiquity: And that if any Reader ſhould refuſe to chooſe any ſuch Chamber, ſo falling, then the next under him, in order, to have the ſame.

Grays Inne.

In 9 Jac. (23 Nov.) it was ordered, [q] that thenceforth no Wine ſhould be provided for the Readers Table at the general charge. And in 12 Jac. (4 Aug.) Mr. Thomas Southworth and Mr. Thomas Athowe, being then Readers, the Houſe allowed [r] two Hogſheads of Wine: which Wine, and ſome other allowances of the Houſe, viz. thirty buſhels of Flower, thirty pound of Pepper, Reward for xxx Bucks, and two Stags, were equally divided between the ſaid Readers: But the Grotes of the Gentlemen in Commons, and the allowance for eight Gentlemen coming to the Readers Table (which was *xxxvi*s. *viii*d.) was wholly allowed unto Mr. Southworth, the Reader elect, upon the going forth of the general Call of Serjeants then made (viz. Mr. Sergeant Finche, Mr. Serjeant Chamberlein, and Mr. Serjeant Athowe) there being allowed by every Gentleman in the Houſe *iii*s *iiii*d.

And whereas it had been an ancient uſage, that when any Houſe Chamber ſhould become void, any Reader unprovided of a Houſe Chamber, ought to have the ſame, if he would accept thereof: And that an ancient Reader leaving his former Chamber to the diſpoſition of the Houſe, might upon election remove to the other Chamber ſo to be diſpoſed of: it was then declared and ordered, [s] that ſuch election belonged only to thoſe Readers, that continued in the Houſe, and were in Commons every Term, and not to thoſe who were preferred, or lived abroad in other places.

[s] Ib. f. 331. a.

Commons.

IN 4 Edw. 6. (7 Nov.) it was ordered, [a] that four of the Ancients of this Houſe, being in Commons out of Term, ſhould have four Servants in Commons; every man one, paying each week for their Servants, as the Readers of this Society did for their Servants.

In 3 & 4 Ph. & M. (21 Oct.) that [b] allowance at the accounts ſhould be made by the Auditors to the Steward, for every Meſs, as followeth; viz. for every Meſs of a Roſter in Beef, ſix pence; for every loin of Mutton ſix pence; and for every Boyler in Beef a Meſs iid. And in 19 Eliz. (8 Maii) that [c] every Fellow of this Houſe, ſhould thenceforth pay for every Repaſt taken at Dinner viiid. and for every Repaſt at Supper viiid.

In 23 Eliz. (7 Maii) there was an Agreement [d] at the Cupboard, by Mr. Attorney of the Dutchy, and all the Readers then preſent, that the Dinner on Good Friday, which had been accuſtomed to be made, at the Coſts and Charges of the chief Cook, ſhould thenceforth be made at the Coſts of the Houſe, with like proviſion as it had been before that time. And likewiſe whereas they had uſed to have Eggs and Green-ſauce on Eaſter day, after Service and Communion, for thoſe Gentlemen who came to Breakfaſt; that in like manner they ſhould be provided at the charge of the Houſe. And that from thenceforth no Calves heads ſhould be provided by the Cook; nor any Gentleman of the Houſe to pay for the ſame: And alſo that the ſaid chief Cook (it being his own motion and agreement) ſhould pay yearly to the ſecond Cook and Pannyerman, towards their loſſes xxs. viz. to each of them xs. at Eaſter.

In 29 Eliz. (17 Oct.) there was an Order [e] made, that there ſhould thenceforth be allowed out of the ſtock of the Houſe, four marks weekly in the Vacation, for the charge of the Officers Commons. And in 33 Eliz. (21 Junii) it was agreed, [f] that all the Ancients, Utter-Barriſters, and other Fellows of this Houſe, ſhould thenceforth, during the time of their lodging in the Houſe, be in Commons, and pay all ſuch duties, and be alſo contributors to all ſuch charges, as ſhould grow due by the Rules and Orders of this Houſe; And that if any ſhould be out of Commons, by the ſpace of one whole week, in any one Term, during the time of his lying in the Houſe (not viſited with ſickneſs, or otherwiſe priviledged) he ſhould be immediately out of the Houſe, and be thenceforth accounted no Fellow of the Houſe.

Cap. 67. Commons.

In 35 Eliz. (5 Febr.) it was ordered, [g] that at the Croſs Table in the Hall, being a Table only for the Ancients, which could not conveniently have place at the Upper Table, no other ſhould ſit or take place: And that the ſame Croſs Table, after the firſt Meſs ſerved to the Utter Barriſters, ſhould be ſerved with meat, next after the ſaid Upper Table, and before any other. And in 38 Eliz. (24 Nov.) that [h] in the Term time there ſhould be allowed only one pottle of Claret Wine at every meal, and no more, except Fiſh-meals when Oyſters are ſerved, and then but two pottles. And that in the Vacation time there ſhould be no Wine allowed, except there were two Readers, or more, in Commons; and then only one quart and no more.

In 40 Eliz. (30 Jan.) it was farther ordered, [i] that to avoid diſturbance and confuſion of ſervice, every Gentleman of this Houſe, not being of the third Table, who ſhould, thenceforth, go down to the Dreſſer, either to fetch his own meat, or change the ſame: or not preſently to ſit down to his meat, when the Servitors have meſſed him; or take meat by ſtrong hand from ſuch as ſhould ſerve them, to be put out of Commons ipſo facto. Likewiſe, that none of the Gentlemen of the third Table, ſhould ſerve any Gentlemen out of rank, or courſe, upon pain of being put out of Commons. And in the ſame year (viz. 15 Nov.) that [k] no Wine ſhould be allowed, except in the Term time, and in the weeks wherein the Terms ſhall begin and end.

Again in 41 Eliz. (20 Junii) it was alſo ordered, [l] that no Gentlemen of this Houſe ſhould come down to the Dreſſer, to change any Meſſe,

And that no Gentlemen ſhould be ſerved out of rank, or courſe: and that the order for payment of their Commons, ſhould be every fortnight openly publiſhed in the Hall. So alſo 17 Oct. following, there was another order [m] made, that no Gentleman of this Houſe ſhould go down to the Dreſſer, in Dinner or Supper time, to fetch or change any Meſſe of meat; or to take any meat from any Gentleman or Officer, but be orderly ſerved at their ſeveral places, upon pain to forfeit five ſhillings for every ſuch offence, preſently the ſame week to be caſt into Commons.

m Ib f. 242. a.

And the next year following (viz. 11 Febr. 42 Eliz.) that [n] all the Gentlemen of this Society, who did lye in the Houſe, by the ſpace of ſix days in any one moneth, and not in Commons, ſhould be put out of the Houſe, and loſe their Chambers, except a reaſonable cauſe were ſhewed, and the ſame cauſe allowed in Penſion. Alſo in 43 Eliz. (21 Nov.) that [o] no Fellow of this Houſe, then in Commons, or that thenceforth ſhould be in Commons, ſhould go out of Commons until he had paid unto the Steward of the Houſe, for the time being; all which he ſhould then owe him for Commons, or other duties, upon pain of forfeiture of *xiii*ſ. *iiii*d. for every ſuch default, according to an antient order made in King Edward the 6ths. time: and that the Steward ſhould give information of ſuch as ſhould offend therein.

o Ib. f. 249. a.

In 6 Jac. (24 Nov.) it was ordered, [p] that every Gentleman of this Society lodging in the Houſe in any Term, ſhould be caſt into Commons a week in the Term, and pay all duties to the Houſe; or elſe his Chambers to be ſeized: and in caſe he have no Chamber, then the Chamber wherein he ordinarily doth lye. And in 8. Jac. (22 Junii) that if any Gentleman of this Houſe ſhould owe a fortnights Commons, and not pay, then to be ipſo facto out of Commons. Alſo, that [q] if any Gentleman ſhould go out of Commons, without paying his Commons, to forfeit for every ſuch offence *xiii*ſ. *iiii*d. according to the antient order of this Houſe, and the Steward to ſee the order performed. And in 16 Jac. (17 Junii) that [r] Commons thenceforth ſhould be certain; both in Term, and in Vacation; viz. at ſix ſhillings in Term, and five ſhillings in Vacation, and no more. Likewiſe, that all the Gentlemen of this Houſe niſi in villa, ſhould come into Commons, or be caſt into Commons both in Term and Vacation, according to the antient Rules of this Houſe, and pay weekly half Commons, being caſt in, though they be not in Commons. Alſo that thenceforth the By-Roll ſhould be aboliſhed, and all caſting into Commons, Boltfayles, and other Amerciaments put in the principal Roll of Commons, as of antient time had been uſed. And moreover, that all Gentlemen of this Society, ſhould pay their Commons, at the fortnights end; or elſe, upon complaint or preſentment at the Accompts to be put out of Commons: And if the Steward ſhall permit any to continue longer in Commons, it is to be at his own peril, and not at the charge of the Houſe. And likewiſe, that all Gentlemen of this Society, having preſent intereſt in any Chambers, either leaſed or other, within this Houſe, ſhould be in Commons, at the leaſt eight weeks in every year, and that in Term time; upon pain of forfeiture of his eſtate in ſuch Chambers. And alſo, that no Gentleman of this Society, ſhould go out of Commons without paying his Commons, upon penalty of a mark forfeiture toties quoties, according to former order; which forfeiture to go to the benefit of the Houſe, and not of the Steward, or any other.

u Ib. f. 307. a. in 12 Jac. (26 Oct.) that [u] thenceforth neither in Term nor Vacation, there ſhould be other Beer taken in, then after the rate of ſix ſhillings the Barrel; and that in the Vacation time no further allowance to be allowed, for and towards Commons, than fifty three ſhillings four pence, and only in the long Vacation, and not elſe.

w Ib. f. 311. a. Jac. 20 Maii) there was an order [w] made; that whereas the grand weeks are times of extraordinary charge, and therefore fit to be born by the general number of Commoners; that thenceforth, upon the grand weeks, there ſhould be no half Commoners or Repaſters admitted; but every Gentleman, as well thoſe that lodge in the Town, as they that lye in the Houſe, ſhall be caſt into whole Commons; and yet nevertheleſs the former orders of the Houſe, for caſting in at other times, to ſtand in force.

And in 17 Jac. (28 Apr.) it was x Ib. f. 327. a. ordered, [x] that no Gentleman of this Society, living out of Commons ſhould have any Beer ſent him into his Chamber by the Butlers: nor no Gentleman in Commons have his Meat ſent him to his Chamber, unleſs he were ſick, or a Reader. And for that the diſcontinuance of the Third Table was thought to be inconvenient to this Society, it was order-

Likewiſe, that no Gentlemen have their parts to their Chambers, but every man to come into the Hall, unleſs in the time of his ſickneſs, and that to be made known to the Steward. Moreover, that the Gentlemen in the Hall, at Dinner and Supper times, ſhould be meſſed, as they ſit in order, and no parts to be ſerved, but at the end of a Table; whereas then, ſometimes four ſitting together, every man would have a ſingle part, and that to be a middle part, contrary to the antient Orders of this Houſe: And that none be ſerved with meat after Cheeſe hath gone about the Hall; nor none to come down to fetch his Meat at the Dreſſer, according to antient Orders.

Cap. 67. Commons.

In 19 Jac. (30 Jan.) there was a Ib. f. 338. a. an Order [a] made, that the three grand weeks; Chriſtmas, Allhallow week, and Candlemas week, ſhould be caſt up at ten ſhillings a week: and all the other grand Weeks, as Shrovetide week, the Reading week, Eaſter week, Whitſun week, and Midſummer week to be all caſt up as Term weeks: And, that in all theſe foreſaid weeks, no half Commons to be admitted, but all to be caſt up whole Commoners by the Auditor, who is to take the Accompts for any of thoſe weeks.

And in 21 Jac. (6 Maii) it was b Ib. f. 347. a. ordered, [b] that thenceforth the Commons ſhould go at ſeven ſhillings ſix pence in Term, and ſix ſhillings in Vacation: and that all the petty-grand weeks, viz. Whitſun week, Midſummer week, the Reading weeks, Shrovetide week, and Eaſter ſhould go as Term weeks. And forasmuch as the ſmallneſs of the number, that then kept Commons, in compariſon of times paſt, was an occaſion that Commons could not be kept at thoſe rates, it was then further ordered, [c] that c Ibid. every week, as well in Vacation, as in Term time, thoſe Gentlemen that lived in Town, and not in Commons, ſhould be caſt into half weeks Commons; three parts of which caſtings in, to be for the advantage of the Steward, and the fourth for the Houſe. And that all the Fines, happning upon the default of any Exerciſe of the Houſe, ſhould go wholy to the Steward, excepting the Fines of the Penſioners, happning for default fault of appearance at the Readings (whether Ancients or Barristers) to go wholly to the House. And in regard the Steward had undertaken to keep Commons at that rate, win or lose at his own peril, it was farther ordered, that one of those to be imployed in the Buttry, should be his man, to see to the taking in, and delivering out of the Bread and Beer, and of keeping the Keys. So likewise one of them to be imployed in the Kitchin, to be his man, for seeing to all things taken in and delivered out; and the Keys to be brought into his Chamber every night; and all superfluous hangers on upon the Buttry and Kitchin to be avoided by the Steward, but not to make any more Officers without the consent of that Table.

In the same year (27 Junii) it was also ordered, [d] that the Gentlemen of this House, whether they had House-Chambers or Lease-Chambers, should be in Commons eight weeks in the year; and those to be in the Term time; as also their Chambers to be seized for the use of the House, according to the antient Orders of this House: Nevertheless other Orders of the House, for casting into Commons at other times, to stand in force notwithstanding.

And in 3 Car. 1. (6. Febr.) it was farther ordered, [e] that all those who were of the House, and in the Town, should be in Commons, at the least once a week every Term, and pay Pensions twice a year, upon penalty of their Chambers being seized; and those who have no Chambers to be expelled the House. Likewise, that [f] those under the Barr, and seen in the House, or in Town (though not in Commons) to be put up by the Butlers, to moot in Vacation time, as 'tis the usual course in Term.

Barristers.

FOr the better fitting of such, as should take upon them the degree of Utter-Barrister in this House, there was an Order [a] made in 13 Eliz. (21 Junii) that thenceforth none should be called to the Barr, or eligible for an Utter-Barrister, before he had twice mooted in the Hall, or as often in some Inne of Chancery: as also, who had argued or should argue twice at the Skreen in the Library, at times mootible. And after this Exercise by him performed, and Certificate thereupon made at the next Pension, he should thenceforth be eligible for Utter-Barrister and not before; and his name entred into the Register by the Steward. And the next year following (scil. 6 Maii 14 Eliz.) it was ordered, [b] that all such Fellows of this House, as were called to the Barr at the Reading then last past, and all others who thenceforth were to be called to the Utter-Barr should keep three learned Vacations, next and immediately following their said calling, as well to sit at the Readings, as otherwise to serve the Houses of Chancery, during the Readings, upon penalty of *xl*s. for their default. As also (12 Junii 14 Eliz.) that [c] those of this House, who had before that time been called to the Barr, or should thereafter be called unto the Utter-Barr; and had done, or after should do all such Exercises of Learning, as are appointed for an Utter-Barrister to do, should bring Certificates thereof from them, before whom they were done and performed, and the same deliver at the next Pension to be holden in this Society after the time limited for the doing of those Exercises.

Moreover in 21 Eliz. (1 Julii.) it was ordered, [d] that thenceforth there should at no election of Utter-Barristers be above two chosen at one election. And in 22 Eliz. (15 Junii) that [e] none should come to any Barr at Westminster to Plead, nor set his name to any Parle, unless he had been allowed an Utter-Barrister by the space of five years before, and continued that time in Exercise of Learning; or Read in an Inne of Chancery by the space of two years before, at the least, upon like penalty. So also in 23 Eliz. (9 Febr.) it was ordered, [f] that none should thenceforth be presented or elected for an Utter-Barrister, except he had twice performed his Exercises in the Houſes of Chancery two grand Vacations. Likewiſe, upon the 23 of Nov. following, that [g] none ſhould be eligible, nor preferred to be an Utter-Barriſter by any Reader elected, but ſuch as had before his nomination gone abroad to Mootes in two grand Vacations; and the ſame to be certified at the ſaid Penſion wherein they ſhould be ſo preferred. And in 25 Eliz. (17 Junii) it was farther ordered, [h] that no perſon of this Society, ſhould be preſented, or eligible to be an Utter-Barriſter, except he had mooted twice in ſeveral grand Vacations, and twice at the leaſt in every Inne of Chancery: and that every of them ſo to be eligible, be elected and choſen Utter-Barriſter in his and their ancientry, except there were juſt occaſion to the contrary.

h Ib. f. 174. b.

But in 30 Eliz. (19 Junii) the election [i] of Utter-Barriſters in this Houſe, was referred to the Reader for the time being, ſo as he call not above four, and ſuch not to be under ſix years continuance, and known to be well affected in Religion, and uſers of Exerciſes abroad at grand Mootes, two Vacations at the leaſt before their Call; and perform Exerciſes in the Library one whole year next before; who nevertheleſs were to be confirmed in Penſion, or otherwiſe not to ſtand. And in 42 Eliz. (8 Junii) it was ordered, [k] that every Reader, who thenceforth at his Reading ſhould call any to the Barr; ſhould, before, cauſe them to give ſecurity by Bond, with Sureties to the Steward, for the paying of their Vacations and Commons.

k Ib. f. 247. b.

And moreover in 4 Jac. (21 Maii) that [l] all Readers, after that time, at their Readings, ſhould before the calling of any Gentleman to the Barr, peruſe the Stewards Rolls, and the Penſion Rolls, whether the ſaid Gentleman were there in arrearages, or not. And if ſuch Gentleman, ſo indebted to the Penſioner and Steward, or any other, did not preſently diſcharge the ſaid Commons, Penſions, caſting into Commons, Fines, Amerciaments, and all other duties whatſoever; that then the Reader for the time being, ſhould not (before the full diſcharge of all the ſaid duties) call any Gentleman whatſoever, ſo indebted, to the Barr. And in 6 Jac. (3 Junii) it was farther ordered [m] that no Reader ſhould thenceforth call above four Utter-Barriſters at his Reading, upon the penalty of xl[l]. a piece, to be paid to the uſe of the Houſe, and not to be admitted to the Readers Table till the ſaid xl[l]. were paid. But this number, being ſoon after thought too many, it was, the next year following (ſcil. 12 Maii 7 Jac.) ordered, [n] that no Reader ſhould after that time, call above two Utter Barriſters at his Reading, and either of them to be of ſeven years ſtanding in this Houſe, upon pain of payment for every one of them ſo called, above that number, and under that ſtanding xl[l]. a piece, to the uſe of this Houſe. And that the Reader ſhall not be admitted to come to the Readers Table, not to Penſion, after his Reading ended, before he ſhall pay xl[l]. for every Barriſter above two, and under ſeven years ſtanding, ſo called. And thoſe ſo called were by that order pronounced and declared to be no Utter-Barriſters, and to be ipſo facto out of the Houſe.

The like order [o] 24 Oct. 18 Jac. viz. that no Reader ſhould call above two Barriſters at his Reading, and they to be of ſeven years ſtanding in Commons at the leaſt: and moreover to haye performed, ſix grand Moots, and ſix Moots in the Library: And that if the Reader ſhould thenceforth call any not ſo qualified there ſhould be no confirmation of them at the Penſion; to be lawfully called, and that they ſhould not be accounted, or reputed Barriſters. And it was then alſo ordered, that thoſe Barriſters, who were not aſſigned to Moot, ſhould be preſented by the Butler to the Readers at the high Table in the Hall, on Thurſday at Dinner, weekly: who being allowed by the Readers, the Butler ſhould warn them the ſame day; and if any of them that were to be aſſigned, being in the Houſe and out of Commons, ſhould refuſe to perform the Moot, ſuch perſons to be warned to be before the Readers on Friday then next folfollowing, at Dinner: And in case they should not appear, or then refuse to take it upon them, then every such Refuser to forfeit *xx*s, for his being out of Commons, and *xx*s. for his Moot-fayl: which forfeiture to be charged upon them by the Auditors at the next Accompt, and cast into Commons. And that there may be no fail in the Exercise, one or two other then in Commons, as the case shall require, to be assigned.

And so careful have this Society been, for the strict observance of these former Orders, that upon the 17*th*. of Nov. 4 Car. 1. they again [p] ordered, that no man should be called to the Barr by Pension, or by any Reader, before he had been of seven years standing, and had brought Certificate of their performance of Exercise; saving only that the Reader might call his two Surveyors at five years standing. And upon the 9*th*. of Nov. the next year following, [q] farther ordered, that no Gentleman should be called to the Barr, unless he had been seven years usually in Commons in this Society; or of two years continuance, usually in Commons in an Inne of Chancery, and five years at least in usual Commons in this House. As also, that no Gentleman should be called to the Barr, but at a general Call by Pension: which general Call to be made at any Pension in the Term. And that the first general Call should be made in the Term of Easter come twelve moneth then next following; and from that time in every sixth Term at any Pension as aforesaid, and not otherwise: and none to be called to the Barr, but such as have performed six grand Moots in the Reading time, and six Moots in the Library.

Apparel.

IN 16 Eliz. (16 Junii) there was an Order [a] made at a Pension then held, that every man of this Society, should frame and reform himself for the manner of his Apparel, according to the Proclamation then last set forth, and within the time therein limited; else not to be accounted of this House. And that none of this Society should wear any Gown, Doublet, Hose, or other outward Garment, of any light colour, upon penalty of expulsion. And within ten days following, it was also ordered, [b] that none should wear any white Doublet in the House after Michaelmas Term ensuing.

In 27 Eliz. (15 Nov.) it was farther ordered, [c] that whosoever, being a Fellow of this House, did thenceforth wear any Hat in the Hall, at Dinner or Supper time, he should forfeit for every time of such his offending *iii*s. *iiii*d. to be cast into Commons at the next Accompt, to the use of the House, without any remission.

c Ib. f. 186. b.

So also in 42 Eliz. (11 Febr.) that [d] no Gentleman of this Society do come into the Hall, to any Meal, with their Hats, Boots, or Spurs; but with their Caps, decently and orderly, according to the ancient orders of this House; upon pain, for every offence to forfeit *iii*s. 4d. and for the third offence expulsion. Likewise, that no Gentleman of this Society do go into the City, or Suburbs, or to walk in the Fields, otherwise than in his Gown, according to the ancient usage of the Gentlemen of the Inns of Court, upon penalty of *iii*s. *iiii*d. for every offence; and for the third expulsion, and loss of his Chamber.

d Ib. f. 245. a.

In 7 Jac. (27 Nov.) there was an order [e] made, that all the Gentlemen of this Society, except the Master of the Requests, and the King's Sollicitor, should thenceforth wear Caps in the Hall, both in Term time and Vacation, except in the xii. days at Christmas, upon penalty of *xii*d. for every default; and the Butlers to present such defaults: Also, that no Gentleman of this Society should thenceforth come into the Hall in Term time or Vacation, in Boots, upon penalty of *xii*d. for each default; and the Butlers to present such defaults. And in 8 Jac. (24 Oct.) that [f] if any Gentleman of this Society should come into the Common Hall of this House, to Breakfast, Dinner, or Supper, or to hear any

The Chappel.

AT a Pension held here 16 Maii 31 H. 8. consideration being had of the King's command, that all the Images of Thomas Becket, sometime Archbishop of Canterbury, in any Windows, either of Churches or Chappels, should be obliterated; it was ordered, [a] that Edward Hall then one of the Readers of this House, should take out a certain Window in the Chappel of this House, wherein the Picture of the said Archbishop was gloriously painted; and place another instead thereof, in memory of our Lord praying in the Mount.

a Ex Registro hujus Hospicii f. 145. a.

That in the Chappel of Portpole, there was a Chantry of one Chaplain, founded in 8 Edw. 2. to celebrate Divine service daily, for the Soul of John the son of Reginald de Grey; and that certain lands were then granted to the Prior and Covent of St. Bartholmews in Smithfield, and their Successors, for the maintenance of the said Chaplain, I have already shewed. Now, that this was not only that very Chappel, but that the Service, in succeeding ages therein, was performed for, and in the behalf of the Students, Gentlemen, and Fellows of this Society, at the charges of the Prior and Covent of that House, is evident from a Decree [b] made in the Augmentation Court 10 Nov. 33 H. 8. which Decree farther expresseth, that the said Prior and Covent, and their Predecessors, were yearly charged with the Pension of vii[l]. 13[s]. 4[d]. for the Salary or stipend of the said Chaplain; and, that the said House of St. Bartholomew, being then dissolved; this Society, in recompence thereof, should have of the King's Highness, for the finding of the said Chaplain, during the Kings pleasure, the sum of vi[l]. 13[s]. iiii[d]. sterling, yearly to be paid, by the hands of the Treasurer of the said Court of Augmentation, at the Feasts of the Nativity of St. John Baptist, and St. Michael th'Arch-Angel, by even portions.

Touching Religious Exerciſes therein, I alſo finde theſe ſeveral Orders.

In 39 Eliz. (13 Junii) that * all of the Houſe, in Commons, or lodging in the Houſe, ſhall receive the Communion in every Term, and Reading, when there be Commons, upon pain of being put out of the Houſe.

*Ib. f. 230. b.

In 40 Eliz. (15 Nov.) that * a Reader of Divinity to the Houſe, be elected at a Penſion to be held the laſt of January then next following: That he be a man unmarried, and having no Eccleſiaſtical living, other than a Prebend, without cure of Souls, or Readerſhip in any other place; and that he ſhould keep the ſame place during his continuance unmarried, and not being preferred to any Eccleſiaſtical Living, or other Readerſhip, and no longer: Alſo, that he be not farther charged with Reading then twice in the week, except in the week wherein there is a Communion.

*Ib. f. 237. a.

In 42 Eliz. (11 Febr.) that * all Gentlemen of this Society ſhould uſually and orderly frequent the Chapel, as well at ſervice as Sermons; and every Term yearly receive the Communion, if they be in Commons or lye in the Houſe, upon pain for every default in receiving the Communion 3 s. 4 d. and if not once every year, then to be expulſed.

*Ib. f. 245. a.

In 21 Jac. (30 Oct.) there was an Order, * that all women ſhould be barred from the Chapel, at Sermons; and all perſons, Strangers, but ſuch as were brought in by ſome of the Society: As alſo, that all Gentlemen ſhould go out of the Chapel bareheaded, in decent manner.

*Ib. f. 350. a.

And in 5 Car. 1 (28 Apr.) that * no women or Boys be ſuffered to come within any part of the Chapel at any time: nor any Stranger, before the Bell hath done ringing, except he be brought in by a Reader, or a Gentleman of the Houſe.

*Ib. f. 381. a.

Sports and Paſtimes.

AT a Penſion held here in Michaelmas Term 21 H. 8. there was an Order * made, that all the Fellows of this Houſe, who ſhould be preſent upon any Saturday at Supper, betwixt the Feaſts of All Saints, and the Purification of our Lady; or upon any other day, at dinner, or Supper, when there are Revels, ſhould not depart out of the Hall, untill the ſaid Revels were ended, upon the penalty of 12 d.

* Ex Regiſtro hujus Hoſp. f. 121. a.

In 4 Edw. 6. (17 Nov.) it was alſo ordered, * that thenceforth there ſhould be no Comedies, called Interludes, in this Houſe, out of Term times, but when the Feaſt of the Nativity of our Lord is ſolemnly obſerved. And that when there ſhall be any ſuch Comedies, then all the Society at that time in Commons, to bear the charge of the Apparel.

* Ib. f. 190. a.

And in 28 Eliz. (26 Nov.) that * no Gentleman of this Society; nor any other by the appointment, choyce, or aſſent of any Gentleman of this Houſe, ſhould in time of Chriſtmas, or any other time take upon him, or uſe the name, place, or

In the 10*th* of King James, the Gentlemen of this houſe were (together with thoſe of the other Innes of Court) Actors in that great Mask at White-hall at the marriage of the Kings eldeſt daughter unto Frederick Count Palatine of the Rhene: the charge in apparell for the Actors in which mask, was ſupported by the Society, the Readers being each man aſſeſſed * at 4 l. the Ancients and ſuch as at that time were to be called Antients, at 2*l.* 10*s.* a piece: the Barriſters at 2 l. a man, and the Students at 20 s. out of which ſo much was to be taken as the Inner Temple did then allow.

* Ex alio Regiſtro ejuſd. Hoſp. f. 298. a.

Which being performed, there was an Order * made 18 Maii then next following, that the Gentlemen who were Actors in that Mask, ſhould bring in all their Masking Apparell, ſo provided at the charge of the Houſe.

* Ib. f. 301. a. vide etiam f. 302. a. & 303. a

In 14 Jac. (17 Oct.) it was ordered,* that every Reader, antient Barriſter, and other Gentleman, that ſhould be in the Town, between that time, and the end of Hillary Term then next following; or who then had any Chamber in the Houſe, either of the Houſe, or by Leaſe, or otherwiſe; ſhould pay towards the Barryers, intended to be preſented before his Majeſty, after theſe rates and proportions; viz. every Reader or Ancient of the Bench xl s. every Ancient under the Bench 30 s. every Barriſter 20 s. and every other Gentleman 13 s. 4 d.

* Ib. f. 314. a.

And in 4 Car. 1. (17 Nov.) that * all playing at Dice, Cards, or otherwiſe, in the Hall, Buttry, or Butlers Chamber, ſhould be thenceforth barred, and forbidden at all times of the year, the 20 daies in Chriſtmas onely excepted.

* Ib f. 373. a.

In 23 Eliz. (30 Jan.) there was an order * made, that no Laundreſſes, nor women called Victualers, ſhould thenceforth come into the Gentlemens Chambers of this Society, unleſs they were full forty years of age: and not ſend their maid-ſervants of what age ſoever, into the ſaid Gentlemens Chambers; upon penalty, for the firſt offence of him that ſhould admit of any ſuch, to be put out of Commons; and for the ſecond to be expelled the Houſe.

* Ex Regiſt. ejuſd. Hoſp. f. 149. b. Laundreſſes.

Cap. 67.

And the next year following (viz. 5 Febr. 24 Eliz.) it was * ordered, that no Fellow of this Houſe ſhould thenceforth lodge any Stranger, being no Fellow of this Houſe, upon penalty of loſing his Chamber.

* Ib. f. 160. a. Lodging of Strangers prohibited.

So alſo in 27 Eliz. (15 Junii) that * if any Fellow of this Houſe, ſhould lodg in this Houſe, by the ſpace of ſix daies in any one month, and not be in Commons, he ſhould be put out of the Houſe, and loſe his Chamber, except there were reaſonable cauſe, and the ſame to be allowed by the Readers in Penſion.

* Ib. f. 185. b. Lodging out of the houſe, the penalty.

In 29 Eliz. (6 Febr.) there was a charitable order made * for the better relief of the poor in Greys-Inne-lane; viz. that the third Butler ſhould be at the carrying forth from the Buttry, and alſo at the diſtribution of the Almes, thrice by the week at Greyes-Inne Gate; to ſee that due conſideration be had to the poorer ſort of aged and impotent perſons, according as in former times he had uſed to do. And whereas the Pannyer man and under-Cook did challenge to have a corrody of the broken Bread; it was likewiſe ordered, that for thoſe dayes that the ſaid Alms was given, they ſhould have each of them a caſt of Bread; ſcil. three loaves a piece, in lieu thereof; to the end the whole broken bread, and the Almes-Basket might go to the relief of the poor.

* Ib. f. 189. b. Relief of the Poor.

And in 41 Eliz. (20 Junii) it was ordered, * that thenceforth no Officers of this Houſe, ſhould keep or enjoy his office any longer then they ſhould keep themſelves ſole, and unmarried; excepting the Steward, the Chief Butler, and the Chief Cook.

THis (as we have by tradition) was heretofore called Staple-Hall, being a place where Merchants for woolls had their meetings.

a Penes Principalem & Societ. ejusdem Hosp.

By an ancient MS. [a] Book, written about K. Henry the 5*ths.* time, containing divers orders and constitutions relating to this Society; it should seem that this House was an Inne of Chancery then, if not before those days; but held by Lease: for the first [b] grant of the inheritance thereof to the Ancients of Grays-Inn, from John Knighton, and Alice his wife, daughter of John Chapwood, was by Indenture of Bargain and sale, dated 10 Nov. 20 H. 8. After which there were other Feoffments made thereof: for upon the 4*th* of June 20 Jac. Sir Francis Bacon Knight, then Lord Verulam, and Viscount St. Alban, did enfeoffe Barnard's Inne.

THis was anciently called [d] Mackworth's Inne, and given [e] by Thomas Atkyns Citizen of London, one of the Executors of John Mackworth Dean of Lincoln in 32 H. 6. unto the Dean and Chapter of Lincoln, and their successors for ever, to find a Chaplain to celebrate divine Service in the Chappel of St. George, within the Cathedral Church of Lincoln, where the body of the said John Mackworth lyeth buried.

Orders neceſſary for the government of the Innes of Court, eſtabliſhed by commandement of the Queens Majeſty, with the advice of her Privy Counſell, and the Juſtices of her Bench, and the Common Place at Weſtminſter in Eaſter Term; an. 16. Reginæ Elizabethæ, 1574.

IMprimis, that no more in number be admitted from henceforth, than the Chambers of the Houſes will receive, after two to a Chamber: Nor that any more Chambers ſhall be builded to increaſe the number; ſaving that in the Middle Temple they may convert their old Hall into Chambers, not exceeding the number of ten Chambers.

Item, if any hereafter admitted in Court, practiſe as Attorney or Solicitor, they to be diſmiſſed and expulſed out of their Houſes thereupon; except the perſons that ſhall be Solicitors ſhall alſo uſe the exerciſing of learning and mooting in the Houſe, and ſo be allowed by the Bench.

Item, none to be ſuffered to have any Chambers, or to be in Commons in any of the Houſes of Court, which upon publick admonition, once given by any Reader, Bencher, or Utter-Barriſter doth not come and remain at the uſual Common Prayers at the Church and Chapels of the ſame Houſe.

Item, none hereafter admitted ſhall enjoy any Chamber, or be in Commons, unleſs he do exerciſe Moots, and other exerciſes of learning within three years after his admiſſion; and be allowed a Student or Inner-Barriſter by the Bench.

Item, none to be called to the Utter-Barr, but by the ordinary Counſell of the Houſe, in their general ordinary Counſels in the Term time.

Item, none to be Utter-Barriſter, as is aforeſaid, to continue Utter-Barriſter, unleſs he do by the ſpace of three years after, exerciſe ordinary Mootings, and other ordinary exerciſes of learning, both in Court and Chancecery, as the Bench ſhall allow.

Item, none to be admitted to plead at any of the Courts at Weſtminſter, or to ſubſcribe any Action, Bill, or Plea, unleſs he be a Reader, or Bencher in Court, or five years Utter-barriſter, and continuing that time in exerciſe of learning; or a Reader in Chancery two years at the leaſt; and upon admonition as aforeſaid ſhall be at Common-Prayer, as afore is limited.

Item, none to be allowed to plead before the Juſtices of Aſſiſes, except he be allow'd for a Pleader in the Courts at Weſtminſter, or ſhall be allowed by the Juſtices of Aſſiſes to plead before them; and upon admonition as aforeſaid, ſhall be at Common Prayer as is afore limited.

The Reformation and order for the Innes of Chancery, is referred to the conſideration of the Benchers of the Houſes of Court, whereto they are belonging; wherein they are to uſe the adviſe and aſſiſtance of the Juſtices of the Courts at VVeſtminſter, and thereof to make a Certificate to the Privy Counſel at the ſecond ſitting the next Term in the Starr Chamber.

Item, touching Apparel they ſhall obſerve ſuch orders in their degrees, as ſhall be ſhortly ſet forth by the Queens Majeſties Proclamation for the Apparel of all eſtates generally.

An. 33 Eliz. Reginæ.

Orders made by the Juſtices of both Benches, and Barons of the Exchequer, for the better regulating of the Readings in all the Inns of Court.

WHereas the Readings in Houſes of Court, have time out of mind continued in every Lent, and every Auguſt yearly, by the ſpace of three weeks at the leaſt, till of late years, that divers Readers in the ſame Houſes have made an end of their Reading in farr ſhorter time, and have read fewer Readings, than by the antient Orders of the ſaid Houſes they ought to do; to the great hindrance of learning, not only in the ſaid Houſes of Court, but alſo in Houſes of Chancery, by reaſon that the Exerciſes of Moots, very profitable for ſtudy, are by occaſion thereof cut off almoſt the one half thereof, or more: The exceſſive and ſumptuous charges of which Readings, brought in of late times, contrary to the antient uſuge, have been, or are (as it is thought) the chief, or a great occaſion of the ſame: which, if it ſhould be permitted, would be almoſt an utter overthrow to the learning and ſtudy of the Law, and conſequently an intolerable miſchief to the Common-wealth of this Realm; the two Chief Juſtices, and Chief Baron, and all the reſidue of the Juſtices of both Benches, and the Barons of the Exchequer, well perceiving, that theſe late Examples of ſhort and few Readings are ſo dangerous, as they are no longer to be ſuffered, have thought it very neceſſary, that the ſame Readings, and charges of the Readers, ſhall be from henceforth uſed as followeth.

Firſt, that all Single Readers in every of the ſaid Houſes of Court, ſhall continue every of their Readings by the whole ſpace of three weeks, or till Friday in the third week after the beginning of every ſuch reading, at the leaſt. And that there ſhall be as many Readings in every of the ſaid three weeks, as by antient Orders of the ſame Houſes have been accuſtomed. And if there ſhall be any cauſe allowed by the Benchers of the ſaid Houſes, for fewer Readings; there ſhall be, notwithſtanding any ſuch cauſe, or excuſe, three Readings in every of the ſaid three weeks at the leaſt; any order to be taken to the contrary notwithſtanding.

And to the intent that the charges of the ſame Readings, may not be over great or burthenous to the ſame Readers; it is ordered and thought meet by the ſaid Juſtices and Barons, that no ſuch Reader ſhall allow any greater dyet in the Hall of every ſuch Houſe, either in Wine or Meat, than was allowed uſually, before the firſt year of the Queens Majeſties Reign that now is; viz.

That the Stewards of the Readers drinking ſhall not expend about the ſame, above the Sum of twenty marks; that is to ſay, either of them *vi*l. *xiii*s. *iiii*d. And that the two Stewards of the Readers Dinner, ſhall not defray about the charges of the ſaid Dinner, above *xx*l. viz. either of them ten pounds at the moſt. And that no Reader ſhall have more Wine to be ſpent in his Reading, than two Hogſheads at the moſt.

And that no Reader ſhall make any Dinner, or be at any charge in this Houſe, but in the Reading time, and not in the Term before his Reading.

And the ſaid Juſtices do think it meet, that the ſaid Readers ſhould be adviſed by the Benchers of their Houſes; not only in the proportion of their own Dyet, but alſo what number of Gueſts, and of what ſort they ſhould bid to their Table, during their Reading, to the intent that a mediocrity may be uſed frugally without exceſs.

Orders ſet down by the general conſent, as well of all the Judges, as of the Bench of Grayes Inne, hereafter to be ſtrictly obſerved in that Society.

Ex, Regiſtro de Grays Inn. vol. 2. f. 212, a.

FIrſt, none ſhall be called to the Barr; but ſuch as be of convenient continuance, and have performed Exerciſes three years before they be called; that is to ſay, have gone abroad to grand Moots ſix times: have mooted at the Vtter-Barr in the Library ſix times: and have put Cases at Bolts in Term six times, and thereof bring due Certificate; of the first from the Reader, the Ancient that goeth with him, and the Principal in the Inns of Chancery: of the second from those two that sit at the Bench; and of the third from those three that sit at the Bolt.

2. The Utter-Barristers which shall be called at one Reading, shall not exceed the number of four; and if the Reader presume to swear any more, the Reader shall be fined by the Bench; and such as shall be sworn after the number filled, shall be disabled to be confirmed and their names shall be given up to the Judges, that they may be restrained from practice. And of the four that shall be called by the Readers; if the Bench do disallow any, they likewise shall be disabled, and their names also given up to the Judges, to the intent aforesaid.

3. None shall be called to Read, in regard of Antiquity, or course; but such as are men of good sufficiency, for their learning, credit, and integrity to serve in the Common-wealth: and none shall be admitted to Read single, that hath not been a continuer, both in four Terms, and two Readings by the space of one whole year next before his Reading. And nevertheless it is not meant, but their serving two Vacations after the Reading according to former orders, shall stand and continue.

4. The names of such as have Read double, or shall Read double, shall be given to the Judges, who have promised to give them preheminence of hearing, after Serjeants, and her Majesties learned Councell, to the end to draw them thereto the more: yet nevertheless the calling to double Readings, or otherwise to dispence therewith, is left as heretofore to the discretion of the Bench.

5. Every single Reader shall continue out his Reading, untill the Friday in the third week; and shall observe former orders, touching moderating of excess in Dyet.

6. No Utter-Barrister shall be called by Letters, or for any reward; and every one that shall bring any Letter, or use any corrupt means, shall be ipso facto disabled, and his name shall be given up to the Judges, to the end that he may be restrained from practice; and the Reader that calleth him shall be fined by the Bench, and his name also given to the Judges for his farther rebuke.

Cap. 70. The Judges Orders.

7. The Readers in Court and Chancery, shall make their Cases short, not containing above three points; and there in Reading in Court as much upon the Statute as may be.

8. The pleadings in Moots, both in the Hall and Library, and Inns of Chancery, by the Inner-Barristers, shall be rehearsed without Book, and in no wise read: And so likewise by the first of the Utter-Barristers, and by the Puisne of the Bench, be he Reader, or otherwise; and not to go to the case without the Pleading recited.

Orders to be observed by the Inns of Court and Chancery.

Ex lib. 5. de Lincolns-Inn. f. 487. a.

An. D. 1594. 36 Eliz.

FIrst, that none be called to the Barr, but such as be of convenient continuance, and have used the Exercises of the House, as in arguing of Cases, putting at Bolts, and keeping of the Moots and Exercises there three years at the least, before they be called.

2. That there be not above three or four at the most to be called to the Barr, at any Reading, and those to be called by the Reader, where in times past it hath been so used of such as he will answer for; and yet the same not to stand but for such of them only as shall be allowed by the Bench, at the first Parliament the next Term after the call; or otherwise by the grand Counsell, where it hath been so used; and the names also of those that shall be so called to be delivered by the Reader, or Treasurer of the House, the said next Term, to the antient Justice of that House, or (if none such be) then to the Chief Justice for the time being.

3. That

Cap. 70. The Judges Orders.

3. That none be admitted to Read but ſuch as be eſteemed for their learning and credits fit to ſerve in the Common-weal, and ſuch as have attended the Readings in the Exerciſes there two years before their call to that place, unleſs upon ſome reaſonable cauſe of let to be ſignifyed unto the antient Juſtice of that Houſe; or (if none ſuch be) then to the chief Juſtice for the time being, it ſhall be thought otherwiſe convenient.

4. That no ſingle Reader be admitted to Read in Lent, but that the ſame Reading be alwayes ſupplyed by a double Reader, as heretofore hath been accuſtomed, unleſs upon ſome ſpecial occaſion to be allowed of by the Juſtices of that Houſe, or if none ſuch be, by the chief Juſtice or chief Baron, or two of them, it be otherwiſe thought convenient.

5. That before any be called to Read, a note of the names of three or four next in turn to Read be delivered to the Juſtices of the Houſe, where the ſame ſhall be; and in default of ſuch Juſtice, to the chief Juſtices and chief Baron for the time being, to the end they may give their advice therein.

6. That the Readings be holden out the whole three weeks, as in ancient time was uſed; and that both for the diet and gifts to be admitted in Readings, the former good orders in that behalf taken, may be from thenceforth duly obſerved, as they will anſwer upon their credits the contrary.

7. That none be called to the Barr by any letters, corruption or reward, upon pain of expulſing the Reader, that calleth any ſuch, and the party ſo called out of the Houſe and fellowſhip.

8. That the Readers be alwayes moved to make their caſes ſhort, not containing above two or three points at the moſt, and thoſe as much upon the Statute read over, as may be.

9. That in the Moots both in the Houſes of Courts and Chancery, Pleadings be rehearſed, and uſed as hath been in former times paſt uſed; and thereupon to go to the Caſe, but not without the pleading drawn, pleaded and recited; and that no caſe in any Inne of Chancery do contain above three points, or queſtions at the moſt, and that the Caſes be but ſhort.

The anſwer to the former Orders, by the Society of Lincolns Inne.

1. TO the firſt there are Orders already taken by the Counſel within our Houſe heretofore tending to the effect of the ſame Article; which Order we have obſerved, and do purpoſe to continue the ſame.

2. To the ſecond, the uſe within our Houſe is not to call any to the Barr by the Reader, but by common Counſell; at which Counſell we have good regard according to the ſame Order.

3. To the third, as the Benchers have heretofore had ſpecial care in appointing of the Readers from time to time; ſo we intend to have like care and regard from henceforth, according to the Orders of our Houſe, the rather in reſpect of your Lo. good directions.

4. To the fourth, we will endeavour to move and perſwade ſuch of the Benchers of our Houſe, as are in courſe to Read their Double Reading, to perform the ſame; yet it ſeemeth very difficult to effect, for that they ſuppoſe that their Double Reading is rather a hindrance than furthrance in their proceeding, beſides their charge

5. To the fifth, by the Orders of our Houſe we uſe to chooſe one only Reader, who is choſen by the Common Counſell, and the ſame as ſufficient a man as we can chooſe, and the ſame Order our endeavour ſhall be to continue.

6. To the ſixth, we will from time adviſe the Reader to obſerve the Order preſcribed by your Lordſhips, and to that effect we have former Orders in our Houſe accordingly.

7. To the ſeventh, we will obſerve the ſame Article ſo near as we can; and we have former Orders to diſable ſuch from being called, as do ſeek the ſame by letters, and not by deſerts.

8. 9. To the eighth and ninth Articles, we will endeavour to obſerve to our utmoſt; and hath been our regard heretofore at all times.

But touching a Call of Utter-Barristers, this time it may please your Lordships to understand the state of our House, as now it standeth, is; that almost for this three years there hath been no call to the Barr; and our Order is not to call at every Reading; but once a year, or in two years; and now there are many good Students of nine years, and ten years continuance, who by reason of their Study, Exercises, and good behaviour, by all that time, are thought fit to be called.

Ex lib. 6. de Lincolns-Inn. f. 22. a.

At Serjeants Inne 20 Junii, anno 38 Eliz.

Et ex Regist. de Grays Inne Vol. 2. f. 221. b.

FIrst, it was agreed by all the Judges, by the assent of the Benchers of the four Innes of Court; that hereafter none should be admitted into Innes of Court, till he may have a Chamber within the House, and in the mean time to be of some Inne of Chancery.

2. Item, that none be admitted to the Barr, but only such as be at the least seven years continuance, and have kept the Exercises within the House, and abroad in Innes of Chancery, according to the Orders of the House.

3. Item, that there be in one year only four Utter-Barristers called in any Inne of Court (that is to say) in Easter Term, two, and in Michaelmass Term, two; where, by the orders of the House the Benchers call Utter-Barristers, and where the Readers by the order of the House do call, then only two by the Summer Reader in his Reading, and two by the Lent Reader in his Reading.

4. That such Students be called who be fittest for their learning and honest conversation, and well given.

5. That the Readers hereafter be chosen for their learning, for their duly keeping of the Exercises of their House; for their honest behaviour, and good disposition; and such as for their experience and practise be able to serve the Common-wealth.

6. That every Reader continue his Reading three weeks, and to Read at least thrice every week, and oftener in such Houses as hath been used to Read oftner, upon pain to be taken as no Reader, and to be removed from the Bench, except only in case where they shall not be able to perform it by reason of their sickness.

Cap. 70. The Judges Orders.

7. And that the Reader call few to his Table, and they to be of Ancients that attend his Reading; and only on the Sundayes strangers, and of them but few; and that excess in diet be not used.

8. That no Reader exceed the number of eight serving men in his Reading to attend him, or under that number at his own pleasure.

9. That every Reader be assisted by such Benchers, Utter-Barristers, and Vacationers, during the time of his Reading, as ought by the orders of the House to attend him; upon such penalty and forfeitures, truly to be imposed and levied, as by the orders of that House are or shall be limitted and appointed; and upon further pain that in case the Reader be not sufficiently assisted and accompanied thoroughout his Reading; that then such by whose default that defect groweth, shall be removed both from the Bench and Barr.

10. That Double Reading be straitly observed in every House according to the ancient Orders of every House.

11. That no Benchers be called but such as be fittest, both for their learning, practice, good and honest conversation; and that they call not to the Bench too often, but very sparingly, in respect of the great multitude that there be already.

WE, having received the Kings Majesties Pleasure and express Commandement, by the Right Honourable Sir John Popham Knight, Lord Chief Justice of England, and the rest of the Judges, that none be from henceforth admitted into the Society of any House of Court, that is not a Gentleman by descent; do now there-

Cap. 70. therefore order, that from henceforth none ſhall be admitted in this Society contrary to the ſaid commandement of the King's Majeſty.

We alſo order, by the advice and direction of all the Judges of England; that every Fellow of this Society, ſhall reſort to our Chapel to Divine Service, and once in the year at the leaſt receive the Communion in our ſaid Chapel; and that every Fellow of this Society, that ſhall wilfully refuſe to come to the Chapel to hear Divine Service, or ſhall not once every year receive the Communion in the ſaid Chappel, ſhall be expelled out of this Society.

A.D. 1614. 12 Iac. Ex Regiſt. 2. interiori Templi f. 112. a. Necnon in Regiſt. de Grays Inne. vol. 2. f. 307. b. & 308. a.

Orders for the Reformation and better Government of the Innes of Court and Chancery, agreed upon by the common and uniform conſent of the Readers and Benchers of the four Houſes of Court: which Orders proceeded firſt, from his Majeſties eſpecial care and commandment; and were after recommended to the ſaid Readers and Benchers, by the grave direction and advice of all the Judges, ſet down the 7th of November in the 12th year of the Reign of our Gracious Sovereign Lord King James, and of Scotland the 48th.

1. FOr that there may be great abuſe in the lodging and harbouring of ill ſubjects, or dangerous perſons in the ſaid Innes of Court and Chancery, being privileg'd and exempted places: it is therefore ordered, that there be general ſearches in every Houſe of Court and Chancery, twice every Michaelmas Term, to be agreed upon by the general conſent of the Readers and Benchers of the Houſe of Court; and likewiſe once every Vacation.

2. For that the Societies ought to give a principal Example of good government in matters of Religion; and to be free, not onely from the crime, but from the ſuſpition of ill affection in that kind; it is ordered, that every Gentleman of the ſeveral Societies aforeſaid, which ſhall be in Commons at any time within one year after the publiſhing of theſe orders and ſhall not receive the Communion by the ſpace of one year together, ſhall be expelled ipſo facto: and nevertheleſs the further Orders of every particular Houſe in that behalf to ſtand in force.

The Judges Orders.

3. For that the inſtitution of theſe Societies, was ordained chiefly for the profeſſion of the Law; and in a ſecond degree for the education of the ſons and youth of riper years, of the Nobility and Gentry of this Realm; and in no ſort for the lodging or abode of Gentlemen of the Country; which, if it ſhould be ſuffered were to diſparage the ſaid Societies, and to turn them from Hoſpitia to Diverſoria: it is ordered, that no Knight or Gentleman, foreigner or diſcontinuer, ſhall be admitted or allowed to lodge in any of the Societies aforeſaid, or to be in Commons, except he be an allow'd Utter Barriſter.

4. For that there ought alwaies to be preſerved a difference, between a Councellor at Law, which is the principal perſon next unto Serjeants and Judges in adminiſtration of Juſtice; and Attourneys and Sollicitors, which are but miniſterial perſons, and of an inferioua nature: therefore it is ordered, that from henceforth no Common Attorney or Sollicitor ſhall be admitted of any of the four Houſes of Court.

5. For that the over-great multitude in any Vocation or Profeſſion, doth but bring the ſame into contempt; and that an exceſſive number of Lawyers may have a farther inconvenience, in reſpect of multiplying of needleſs ſuits: it is therefore ordered, that there ſhall not be called to the Barr in any one year, by Readers or Benchers in any one Society, above the number of eight, or according to that proportion, being of continuance and having done the Exerciſes, according to the Orders of the ſeveral Houſes.

6. For that the over-early and haſty practice of Utter Barriſters doth make them leſs grounded and ſufficient whereby the Law may be diſgraced and the Clyent prejudiced: therefore it is ordered, that for the time to come, no Utter Bariſter begin to practiſe publickly at any Bar at Weſtminſter until he hath been three years at the Bar; except ſuch Utter-Bariſters that have been Readers in ſome Houſes of Chancery.

7. For that the maintaining of the Readings in Inns of Court and Chancery, in their due execution, is a principal means to breed and increaſe learning; it is ordered, that no ſingle Reader in any Houſe of Court, ſhall give over his Reading before Wedneſday in the third week. And that the Readers of every Houſe of Chancery, ſhall read in perſon, and not by deputy, both in Term and Vacation, except by the deputation by the Bench of the Term before.

8. For that diſorders in the Chriſtmas time, may both infect the minds, and prejudice the Eſtates and Fortunes of the young Gentlemen in the ſame Societies: it is therefore ordered, that there ſhall be Commons of the Houſe kept in every Houſe of Court, during the Chriſtmas; and that none ſhall play in their ſeverall Halls at the Dice, except he be a Gentleman of the ſame Society and in Commons; and the benefits of the Boxes to go to the Butlers of every Houſe reſpectively.

9. For that an outward decency in Apparel is an ornament to all Societies, and containeth young men within the bounds of Civility and order: it is ordered, that no Gentleman of any Houſe of Court or Chancery, ſhall come into their ſeveral Halls with Cloaks, Boots, Spurs, Swords or Daggers.

10. Laſtly, for that all government is ſtrengthned or ſlackned by the obſerving or neglecting of the reverence and reſpect, which is to be uſed towards the Governors of the ſame: therefore it is required, that due reverence and reſpect be had by the yonger ſort of Gentlemen to the Readers, Benchers and Antients of every Houſe.

And whereas there may have been ſome orders of like nature to ſome of theſe, publiſhed in former time, which nevertheleſs have failed in the execution; the Readers and Benchers do ſignifie to the Gentlemen, that there is a ſetled and conſtant reſolution, to cauſe theſe Orders to be ſtrictly and duly obſerved; and that no man whatſoever do expect any toleration or diſpenſation concerning the ſame. Cap. 70.

Orders conceived for the ſetling and eſtabliſhing of the Company of the Inns of Court, and Chancery, in their exerciſes of Military Diſcipline, (tempore Regis Jacobi.) Ex Cod. MS. Hoſp. Linc. (ſc lib. 6.) f. 643. a.

For matter of Religion.

1. FIrſt, that none be admitted, but ſuch as are well affected in Religion.

2. If any one be a common ſwearer, or quarreller, and will not be reformed, he ſhall be caſhiered.

For the Common-Weal.

1. Firſt, that their Arms be not in their own cuſtody, but kept in ſome fitting place between times of exerciſe.

2. Next, that their times of exerciſe be limited both for Term and Vacation reſpectively.

For their Government.

1. Firſt, that the Benchers ſet forth and appropriate what Houſes ſhall be of the King's Patronage, and what of the Prince's.

2. That for matters of great weight the Benchers determine, and for matters of leſs weight in time or place of Exerciſe, twelve of the diſcreeteſt young Gentlemen, choſen out of all the Houſes, ſhall together with the Captain determine.

3. Next, that for priority place, every Houſe give their own Gentlemen their Rank, and that the Houſes take place firſt by chance of the Dice, and afterward by courſe and turn.

4. Next, that the Officers be choſen by their Captain.

For the Charge.

1. The piece of ground for Exerciſe, to contain four Acres with the cloſing of it, if ſuch a piece already encloſed may not be found.

2. Next,

Cap. 70.

2. Next, the Arms of the Muſquitier, which muſt be light and fitting ——— 3 l.

3. Next, the Armes of the Pikequere ——— 4 l.

4. Next, the charge of admiſſion of every one into theſe Bonds, what themſelves think fit.

5. Next, for dreſſing and keeping of their Arms, ſome reaſonable allowance to be given to an Armorer.

6. Next for the Captains and other Officers ſuch allowance as the Gentlemen ſhall think fit.

And it is intended that no Gentlemen are to be enjoyned to exerciſe in this kind, but ſuch as ſhall voluntarily offer themſelves, to be tolerated to do it at their own voluntary charge.

And as for the number of 600. it is not enjoyn'd, but a number limited, beyond which they ſhall not exceed.

And if the Benchers finding this exerciſe ſhall no way withdraw young Gentlemen from their ſtudies, being moderately uſed, but fill up that time which would otherwiſe be worſe ſpent, and manifold other benefits ſhall ariſe thereby; ſhall be pleaſed to adviſe of a further allowance to the Officers to be made out of the Houſes, it will give them the greater livelihood and encouragement; and if they be not pleaſed ſo to do, they only pray the toleration of voluntaries (ut antea.)

Orders to be obſerved in the Houſes of Court, ſubſcribed by all the Judges of England, Term. Hill. An. Dom. 1627.

1. THat henceforth every year, or at the leaſt every ſecond year there ſhall be a double Reader choſen in every Houſe of Court to read.

2. That the Lent Reader ſhall begin his Reading the firſt Munday in Lent, unleſs it fall in Term: and in ſuch caſe, it ſhall begin at ſuch day after, as hath been uſed in the ſeveral Houſes.

And every Summer Reader ſhall begin the firſt Munday in Auguſt.

Cap. 70.

5. For that the inſtitution of theſe Societies, were ordained chiefly for the profeſſion of the Law; and in a ſecond degree for the education of the ſons and youth of riper years of the Nobility and Gentry of this Realm; and in no ſort for lodging or abode of Gentlemen of the Country; which if it ſhould be ſuffered, would be a diſparaging of the ſame Societies, and to turn them from Hoſpitia to Diverſoria, it is ordered, that no Knight, or Gentleman, foreigners or diſcontinuers, or others, not of the ſame Societies, ſhall be admitted or allow'd to lodge in any of the Houſes aforeſaid.

6. For that there ought alwayes to be obſerved a difference between Utter-Bariſters, Readers in Court, and Apprentices at Law, which are the principal perſons next unto Serjeants and Judges in adminiſtration of Juſtice: and Attorneys and Solicitors, which are but miniſterial perſons of an inferiour nature: therefore it is order'd, that from henceforth no common Attorney or Solicitor ſhall hereafter be admitted of any of the four Houſes of Court.

7. For that the over-early and haſty practice of Utter-Bariſters doth make them leſs grounded and ſufficient, whereby the Law may be diſgraced and the Clyent prejudiced: therefore it is ordered, that for the time to come, no Utter-Bariſter begin to practiſe publickly at any Bar at Weſtminſter, untill he hath been three years at the Barr; except ſuch Utter-Bariſters, as for the time be or ſhall have Cap. 71. have been Readers in some House of Chancery.

8. That none be admitted to the Barr, but only such as be at the least of eight years continuance, and hath kept his Exercises within the House, and abroad in Inns of Chancery, according to the orders of the House: and none to be called to the Barr by Readers, but by the Bench, at Parliaments, Councels, and Pensions: And that when they shall find the number of fit and learned Students of honest conversation, and well deserving the same.

9. That the Readers hereafter be chosen for their learning; for their duly keeping of the Exercises of their Houses; for their honest behaviour and good disposition: and such, as for their experience and practise be of best note, and best able to serve the Common-Wealth. And if any refuse to Read, then they to undergo such Fine and Censure, as the Benchers and Readers shall think fit to lay upon them: which if they shall refuse to pay, or perform, then upon complaint to the Judges, such course to be taken by them, as shall inforce them to the performance thereof.

10. That double Readings be strictly observed in every House, at the least once in two years in the Lent: and if any be appointed double Reader, and shall refuse to perform the same, he shall be fined; which Fine shall not be under the sum of xl[li]. and it shall be allowed to the next double Reader of the same House.

The Judges Orders.

11. That no Benchers be called, but such as be fittest, both for their learning, practise, and good honest conversation; And that they call not to the Bench too often, but very sparingly, in respect of the great multitude that be already.

12. For that an outward decency in Habit and Apparel is an ornament to all Societies, and containeth young men within the bounds of Civility and Order; it is ordered, that no Gentleman of any House of Court, or Chancery, shall come into the several Halls, Chapels, and places of publick Prayer, with Hats, Cloaks, Boots, Spurs, Swords, or Daggers; or shall wear long Hair; upon pain to undergo the penalties contained in the Orders of the several Houses, which are strictly to be put in execution.

13. Lastly, for that all Government is strengthned or slackned by the observing or neglecting of the reverence and respect which is to be used towards the Governours of the same; therefore it is required, that due reverence and respect be had, by the Utter-Barristers and younger sort of Gentlemen to the Readers, Benchers, and Ancients of every House.

At White-Hall 19 Martii 1636. (viz. at the Councel-Table.)

THeir Lordships did this day order, that when any Serjeant or Counsellor at Law shall at any time come before the Board, to move their Lordships concerning any matter, and shall not wear their Gowns according to their places; upon such neglect by any of them, if it be a Serjeant, he to deposite immediately xx[s]. and if it be a Counsellor x[s]. which the Clerk of the Council attendant is to distribute to the poor.

The Judges Orders.

CAP. LXXII.

Orders made and ſet down the 18th day of June, in the 16th year of the Reign of our Sovereign Lord Charles the II. by the grace of God, King of England, Scotland, France and Ireland, Defender of the Faith, &c. by the Right Honourable the Lord High Chancellour of England, and all the Judges of both Benches, and Barons of the Exchequer, by the Command of the Kings Majeſty ſignified by the Lord Chancellour, for the Government of the Innes of Court and Chancery.

1. THat the Innes of Chancery ſhall hold their Government ſubordinate to the Benchers of every of the Innes of Court to which they belong: and that the Benchers of every Innes of Court make Laws for governing them; as to keeping Commons, and attending and performing Exerciſes according to former uſage: And in caſe any Attorney, Clerke, or Officer of any Court of Juſtice, being of any of the Innes of Chancery, ſhall withſtand the directions given by the Benchers of Court, upon complaint thereof to the Judges of the Court in which he ſhall ſerve, he ſhall be ſeverely puniſhed, either by forejudging from the Court, or otherwiſe as the caſe ſhall deſerve.

2. That the Benchers of every Innes of Court, cauſe the Inns of Chancery to be ſurveyed, that there may be a competent number of Chambers for Students; and that every year an exact Survey be taken, that the Chambers allotted for that purpoſe, be accordingly employed.

3. For that there may be an abuſe in the lodging and harbouring of ill Subjects and dangerous perſons in the Innes of Court and Chancery, being privileg'd and exempted places; it is ordered, that there be general Searches in every Innes of Court and Chancery twice every Michaelmaſs-Terme, and once every other Terme, to be agreed upon by the general conſent of the Readers and Benchers of the reſpective Houſes of Court; and likewiſe once every Vacation. Cap. 72.

4. For that the Society ought to give a principall example of good government in matters of Religion, and to be free, not only from the crime, but from the ſuſpicion of ill affection in that kind; it is ordered, that every Gentleman of the ſeveral Societies aforeſaid, which ſhall be in Commons at any time within one year after publiſhing of theſe Orders, or after; and ſhall not receive the Communion in the ſame Society, by the ſpace of any one year together, ſhall be expelled ipſo facto.

5. For that the Inſtitution of theſe Societies was ordained chiefly for the Profeſſion of the Law, and in a ſecond degree for the education of the Sons and Youth of riper years of the Nobility and Gentry of this Realm, and in no ſort for the lodging or abode of Gentlemen of the Country; which, if it ſhould be ſuffered, would be a diſparaging of the ſame Societies, and to name them from Hoſpicia to Diverſoria; it is ordered, that no Knight or Gentleman, Forreiners, or Diſcontinuers, or others, not being uſuall in Commons in the ſame Societies ſhall be admitted or allowed to lodge in any of the Houſes aforeſaid.

6. For that there ought alwayes to be obſerved a difference between Utter-Barriſters, Readers in Court, and Apprentices at Law, which are the principall perſons next to Serjeants and Judges in Adminiſtration of Juſtice; and Attorneys and Sollicitors which are but immaterial perſons of an inferior nature: therefore it is ordered, that from henceforth no common Attorney or Sollicitor ſhall be hereafter admitted of any of the four Houſes of Court.

7. For that the over-early and haſty practiſe of Utter-Barriſters doth

Cap. 72. doth make them the leſs grounded and ſufficient, whereby the Law may be diſgrac'd, and the Clyent prejudic'd: therefore it is ordered, that for the time to come no Utter-Barriſter begin to practiſe publickly at any Barr at Weſtminſter, untill he hath been three years at the Barr, except ſuch Utter-Barriſter, as for the time be, or ſhall have been Readers in ſome Houſes of Chancery.

8. That none be admitted to the Barr, but only ſuch as be at leaſt of ſeven years continuance, and have kept the Exerciſes within the Houſe, and abroad in Innes of Chancery, and have been frequently in Commons according to the Orders of the Houſe; and none to be called to the Barr by Readers, but by the Bench at Parliaments, Councells and Penſions; and that when they ſhall find a number of fit and learned Students of honeſt converſation, and well deſerving the ſame.

9. That the Benchers hereafter be choſen for their learning, for their duly keeping the Exerciſes of the Houſe; for their honeſt behaviour, and good diſpoſition; ſuch as for their experience be of beſt note and ability to ſerve the Kingdome: and if any refuſe to read, that they do undergo ſuch Fine and Cenſure, as the Benchers or Readers ſhall think fit to lay upon them; which, if they ſhall refuſe to pay or performe, then upon complaint to the Judges, ſuch courſe ſhall be taken by them, as ſhall enforce them to the performance thereof.

10. For that an outward decency in Habit and Apparel is an ornament to all Societies, and containeth young men within the bounds of civility and order; it is ordered, that no Gentleman of any Houſe of Court or Chancery, ſhall come into the ſeveral Halls, Churches, or Chappells of the ſeveral Societies with Cloaks, Swords, or Daggers, upon pain to undergo the penalties contained in the Orders of the ſeveral Houſes, which are ſtrictly to be put in execution.

11. For that all Government is ſtrengthned or ſlackned by the obſerving or neglecting of the reverence and reſpect which is to be uſed towards the Governours of the ſame: therefore it is required, that due reverence and reſpect be had by the Utter-Barriſters, and younger ſort of Gentlemen to the Readers, Benchers, and Ancients of either Houſe. The Judges Orders.

12. It is ordered that Readings in the Innes of Court begin at the uſuall times, and continue untill the Friday in the ſecond week, next after their Commencements incluſive, as hath been heretofore uſed: and for the prevention of diſorder, that the Readers take care that no perſon be permitted to drink in the Cellers, and there be no expence of Wine in the Houſe, but publickly in the Hall at Meales.

13. For that Readings are grown to ſo exceſſive a charge, that many of eminent abilities for learning have been diſcouraged from undertaking the ſame, and ſome which did have been much diſabled thereby in their Eſtates, to the injury of them and their Families; it is ordered that no Reader have above twelve attendants in Liveries, nor exceed above three hundred pounds in the whole charge of his Reading, except ſuch as are of the Kings, Queens, or Princes Councell; or ſuch others which have liberty to come within the Barr; or the Recorder of the City of London for the time being.

14. For the better ſupporting and carrying on of Readings, it is ordered that ſuch Benchers, Barriſters, and other Gentlemen of the ſeveral Societies attend at the Readings for arguing the Readers Caſes, and performing other Exerciſes and Services, both within the Societies, and at the Innes of Chancery, as hath been uſed by the antient orders of the reſpective Innes of Court: And that the Benchers conſider of, and impoſe fitting penalties to enjoyn the due obſervance thereof.

15. It is ordered, that Readers at Innes of Chancery be choſen, and continue; that Readings, and all other Exerciſes be duly performed there according to the former usages of the respective Innes of Court and Chancery.

16. For prevention of unnecessary expence, lately crept into the Innes of Court, and of disorders thereby occasioned, it is ordered, that no Gentleman of any Innes of Court, being either called to the Barr, or at, or under the Barr, who shall bring in any Barr, or other Moote, shall give any entertainment with Wine or otherwise to the Gentlemen of the Society, or others, either within or out of the House, upon penalty that the Gentleman who breaks this Order, shall pay ten pounds to the Society, and that such Moot shall not be taken to be an Exercise, but he to remain in the same, and no better condition, than as if the Moot had not been at all performed.

17. For that it is found by experience, that by the neglect of Commons in the Vacation, the Gentlemen of the Innes of Court are often drawn to frequent Ordinaries, Gaming-Houses, and other places of disorder, whereby the neglect of their Studies, if not the corruption of their Manners is occasioned; it is ordered, that the Benchers of every Innes of Court take care that Commons be constantly kept as well all the Vacations as in the Terme time (except as is herein after-mentioned) and that the Barristers and other Gentlemen of the Societies do keep, or be cast into Commons, according to the antient orders of the respective Societies: But for the prevention of dishonour to the Societies, by the great disorders and mischiefs which happen by Gaming, and other licentious courses lately used in the time of Christmass, no commons shall be kept in any Innes of Court in the time of Christmass, or in one week before or after: And, if this Order shall not be observed, or if any shall presume to break open the Hall, Kitchin, or Celler-doores in any Innes of Court, or attempt the same for the keeping of Christmass Commons, that complaint be forthwith made thereof to the Lord Chief Justices, or any other the Judges which shall be then in Town, who will take a speedy and effectual course for the suppressing and punishing thereof. Cap. 72.

And lastly, for that the keeping up of constant Exercises is the chiefest means of inciting Gentlemen to diligence in their Studies, and of attaining a sufficient ability in the profession of the Law; it is ordered, that the Benchers of the several Inns of Court take special care that Exercises be regularly performed, as well in the Vacations as in the Terms, according to the orders of the respective Houses: And for the better support thereof in the Vacations, that Barristers and Gentlemen under the Barr be strictly enjoyned by the Benchers of every Innes of Court, to keep their Vacations, according to the antient Customes of the respective Houses.

CAP. LXXiV.

Serjeants Innes.

OF these there are two, in which the Judges of the Kings Bench, Common Pleas, Barons of the Exchequer, and Serjeants at Law, have their respective Lodgings; the one of them being situate in Fleet-street; the other in Chancery-lane.

I cannot take upon me to tell the very time, that the Judges and Serjeants at Law first seated themselves in either of these, and therefore shall only in brief take notice how ancient I find them there.

Serjeants Inne in Fleet-street.

IN this the Serjeants at Law had their residence, about the beginning of K. Henry the Sixth's time, if not before: for in a Lease [a] for eighty years, made by the Dean and Chapter of York (of whose inheritance it then was and now is) to William Auntrous, Citizen and Taylor of London, bearing date 1 Oct. 21 H. 6. at the Rent of x. marks sterling, to be paid at Christmass, Easter, the Nativity of St. Iohn Baptist, and Midsummer, by even portions, it appears to be demised by the name of unum Messuagium, cum gardino, in parochia S. Dunstani in Fleetstreet, in suburbio Civitatis Lond. quod nuper fuit Johannis Rote, & in quo Joh. Ellerkar, & alii Servientes ad Legem nuper inhabitarunt.

a In Archivis ejusdem Hosp.

It is very probable, that this VVilliam Antrous did himself then reside in part of the House, and was in the nature of a Steward to them: and after him, one Iohn VVykes Esq; for in another Lease, [b] made for the like term of years, and under the same Rent, unto the said Iohn VVykes, by the Dean and Chapter of York, bearing date 4 Oct. An. 1474. (which is 14 Edw. 4.) it is expresst, that the said Iohn VVykes then inhabited therein. But in 15 H. 8. it was, by another Lease, [c] bearing date 20 Iunii, demised by the said Dean and Chapter, directly, unto Sir Lewes Pollard Knight, then one of the Justices of the Court of Common Pleas, Robert Norwich, and Tho. Inglefeild, the King's Serjeants at the Law, Iohn Newdigate, VVilliam Rudhale, Humphry Brown, VVill. Shelley and Tho. VVilloughby Serjeants at the Law, and VVill. VValwyn the King's Auditor in the South for his Dutchy of Lancaster, from the feast of S. Michael the Arch-Angel, then next ensuing, for the term of xxi years, upon the Rent of Liii^{s}. iiii^{d}. payable at the Feasts of the Annunciation of our Lady, and St. Michael the Arch-Angel. Since which time the Judges and Serjeants, have by other Leases, from the same Dean and Chapter of York held it till this day.

b Ibid.

c. Ibid. Cap. 74.

——But this Inne, having the like fate as the greatest part of this City, which that dreadfull Fire, happning about the beginning of September, An. 1666. consumed almost to Temple-Barr; had upon renewing of the Lease from the Dean and Chapter of York in Anno 1670. was rebuilt as followeth;

First, There being laid down by each of those seventeen persons who were called to the State and Degree of Serjeants at Law in Michaelmass-Term, Anno 1669. the summ of one hundred pounds; and out of that about four hundred pounds, taken for defraying the charge of their Feast, and some other general expences; the remainder was imploy'd toward's the structure of the Chappel, Hall, and Kitchin; which being done all the cost of this Fabrick (consisting in Lodgings and other necessary roomes) was accomplished by these worthy Persons here under-named; viz.

Sir Iohn Kelynge Knight, Lord Chief Justice of the Kings Benche.
Sir Thomas Twysden Kt. and Baronet, one of the Justices of the same Court.
Sir Christopher Turnor Kt. one of the Barons of His Majesties Exchequer.
Sir Thomas Tirrel Knight, one of the Justices of the Court of Common-Pleas.
Sir VVilliam VVilde Kt. and Baronet, another of the Justices in that Court.

Out of which by ſpecial agreement amongſt themſelves it was ordered, that a certain proportion being deducted at the death of each, for the time that he ſhall happen to live and enjoy his Lodgings, his next ſucceſſor therein is to make payment of the remainder unto the Executors, or Adminiſtrators of the immediate defence; and that this courſe be continued by every ſucceſſor; as alſo by his and their ſucceſſors, until the particular ſums laid out by the firſt Builders, (deducting as aforeſaid) ſhall be totally reimburſed to them and their reſpective ſucceſſors.

Ex Rotulis Compotorum in Archivis ven. patris Dom. Mat. Elien Epiſc. An. 1641.

OF this Houſe, the inheritance whereof belongeth to the Biſhops of Ely, the ancienteſt mention I find, is in 17 R. 2. at which time it was called Tenementum Domini Joh. Skarle, and let by the Biſhop's appointment to one of the Clerks of the Chancery, as appears by the Bayliffs Accompt to the then Biſhop. Next, that in an. 1401. (3 H. 4.) it was called Hoſpicium Domini Joh. Skarle.

About three years after (viz. an. 1404. 5. H. 4.) in another Account is this expreſſion; Dominus Rob. Faryndon Clericus dom. Regis, habet Penſionem ſibi conceſſam ab Epiſcopo, de vi. xiii^{s}. iiii^{d}. per annum percipiendam de redditu Hoſpicii domini in Chancelers-lane, & ea occaſione tenet idem Hoſpicium. In the Accompt of 7 H. 4. it is ſaid, Hoſpicium nuper Faryngdon, in Chancelers-lane, extitit vacuum per dimidium anni, ad decaſum iiii$^{l.}$ vi$^{s.}$ viii$^{d.}$ and in 8 H. 4. Hoſpicium Domini Joh.

Cap. 75. Joh. Skarle conceditur cuidam Clerico Cancellariæ per preceptum Domini. But in an. 1411. (12 H. 4.) it was called Faryndon Inne; ſo alſo in 12 H. 4.

I am of opinion, that the Serjeants at Law had lodgings here at this time for within three years after, (viz. in an. 1414. 2 H. 5.) the Biſhop's Bayliff Accounts for the repair of Askham's Chamber: by which it may ſeem, that the lodgings were let apart; but ſoon after, the whole Houſe was entirely demiſed to the Judges and others, learned in the Law; for in an. 1416. (4 H. 5.) there is accounted to the Biſhop *vi*l. *xiii*s. *iiii*d. pro Faryndon's Inne in Chancelers-lane, dimiſſo Rogero Horton & Willielmo Cheney Juſticiariis, & Waltero Askham Apprentiſto Legis.

Beſides this Walter Askham, there was about this time one Robert Askham Serjeant at Law, who was of Councel to the Biſhop of Ely, and had *xl*s. per annum penſion for the ſame.

It ſeems that the Judges and Serjeants, were not conſtant Tenants to the Biſhop in thoſe days, for this Houſe; for in an 1425. (3 H. 6.) theſe are the words of the Accompt, —Hoſpicium in Chancelers lane ſtetit inoccupatum per totum annum, circa reparationem ejuſdem; & contra annum ſequentem dimittitur J. Martyn, & Jacobo Strangwiz, & T. Rolf Juſticiariis, ad v. lib. and then ſoon after, ſc. in an. 1430. (9 H. 6.) it had the name of Hoſpicium Juſticiariorum.

In an. 1440. (19 H. 6.) it was again demiſed Ioh. Hody, & aliis Servientibus Legis for the Rent of *vi*l. per annum. In an. 1474. (14 E. 4.) it was let to Sir Robert Danby Knight then Chief Juſtice of the Court of Common Pleas, and other the Judges of that time, at *iiii*l. per annum. And two years after, ſc in an. 1476. (16. E. 4.) to Sir Tho. Grey Knight, at the like Rent of *iiii*l. per an. which Rent from him the ſaid Sir Tho Grey, is accounted for, from that time till the year 1481. incluſive. And in an. 1484. (2. R. 3.) the ſame Sir Tho. Grey had a new Leaſe thereof, by the name of Hoſpicium vocatum Serjeants Inne in Chancelers lane, at *iiii*l. per an. doing all repairs, which Rent he paid till the year 1490. (6 H. 7.) how much longer I find not; for in an 1492. (8 H. 7.) it was in the Biſhop's hand for lack of a Tenant. But after this, it was but a while out of the Judges and Serjeants tenancy; for in an. 1508. (which was the laſt year of K. H. 7. Reign) it was demiſed by Indenture, by the name of Hoſpicium in Chancelers lane, Vocatum Serjeants Inne, unto John Mordaunt and Humphrey Coningsby (then two of the King's Serjeants at Law) at the Rent of *iiii*l. per an. keeping all repairs. Grays Inne.

After this, viz. in 2 E. 6. T. Goodrick then Biſhop of Ely, by a Leaſe bearing date 17 Dec. demiſed it to Chr. Fulnethy, his brother in Law (for he marryed his ſiſter) for Lxxxi. years: which Leaſe coming by mean aſſignment to Sir Anth. Aſhley Kt. and then by ſurrender to Biſhop Felton, that Biſhop granted it to the ſaid Sir Anth. for three lives (viz. of Phil. then his wife, ſince married to Carey Rawley Eſq; and two of his ſervants) under whom the Judges and Serjeants do now hold it.

Cap. LXXVI.

Scroops Inne.

THis is now called Scroopes Court; but was an Inne for Serjeants at the Law in K. Ric. the 3 time; for in ſome ancient Accompts * of the Bayliffs to the Biſhop of Ely (unto whoſe Houſe in Holburn it adjoyneth) it is called Manſio domini Scroope de Bolton, modo vocata le Serjeants place. So alſo, by an Inquiſition taken 13 Oct. 14 H. 7. at the Guildhall in the City of London; it appeareth that Sir Guy Fairfax Knight, ſometime one of the Juſtices of the King's Bench, and then deceaſed, was ſeiſed thereof, by the name of one meſſuage, or tenement called Serjeants Inne, ſituate in Holburne, oppoſite to St. Andrew's Church, with two Gardens and two Cottages thereto adjoyning; and being ſo ſeiſed, by his Deed indented, bearing date 8 Feb. 9. H. 7. did paſs the ſame to Sir John Scrope Knight, Lord Scrope of Bolton, and others, to the uſe of the ſaid John, his Heirs and Aſſignes for ever.

* In an. 1484. (2 R. 3.) penes Matheum Elien. Epiſc. An. 1649.

Ex ipſo autog. in bibl. Cotton. an. 1661.

The Copy of a Letter from the Lords of her Majeſties moſt Honourable Privy Councel, to the Shireeves of the ſeveral Counties in England, for eaſing them of the charge in entertainment of the Juſtices of Aſſize and Gaol-delivery, wit Dyet, in their reſpective Circuits 21 Febr. an. 1573. 16 Eliz.

AFter our hearty commendations; Where, of long time many Gentlemen, ſome eligible to be Sheriffs; ſome that have been in Office in the moſt part of the Counties of this Realm, have both in Parliament and other places complained of the great burthen and charge ſuſtained in the ſaid Office of Sheriff-wick, by reaſon (as they have alledged) of the large diets and other charges of the Juſtices of Aſſize, and Gaol-delivery, yearly increaſing in ſuch ſort, as many Gentlemen very meet for that Office in reſpect of their wiſdom and dexterity, to execute the ſame, though not ſo meet for wealth to bear the charge of expences, have of late years made moſt earneſt ſuits to be foreborn, only for want of wealth to bear that burden. The Queens Majeſty calling this cauſe now of late into her remembrance, hath thought it very neceſſary to cauſe the ſame to be conſidered by her Counſel, and remedy to be provided therefore as the cauſe may bear it. And in conſideration hereof it is by her Majeſty and us of her Counſel well perceived; that by the Petitions of divers of the Sheriffs in ſundry Counties appearing in the Exchequer for the allowances for the Diets and other charges of the ſaid Juſtices, the ſame are yearly grown more and more in charge to the ſaid Sheriffs; and conſequently her Majeſty thereby more charged than in reaſon ought to be allowed. And therefore to remedy this matter, it is determined by her Majeſty, with the advice of us of her Privy Counſel, that the Sheriffs ſhall not after this Lent Aſſiſes have the charges of the Juſtices of Aſſiſes Diets, but that the ſaid Juſtices ſhall have of her Majeſty ſeveral ſums of money out of her Coffers, for their daily Diets, during the time that heretofore the Sheriffs have been chargeable withall within their Counties; with which determinations the more part of the ſaid Juſtices have been by divers of us of her Majeſties Counſel made acquainted, and hereof we have thought good to give you knowledge, as we do the like to all other Sheriffs in the Realm; to the intent you may after this Lent Aſſiſes forbear to enter into ſuch further charges; and yet it is meant that you ſhall againſt the Summer Aſſiſes by the authority of your Office, aid and aſſiſt the Servants of the ſaid Juſtices that ſhall require your advice or help, to make proviſions for their Maſters Diets, and for lodgings and Houſe-room at as reaſonable charges as may and ought to be for the Queens Majeſties Service, and as reaſon alſo requireth; that the ſaid Juſtices in reſpect of their painful and careful Services for adminiſtration of Juſtice ſhould be both honourably and favourably uſed in all things requiſite for their own perſons and Train; whereof we truſt both you, as Sheriffs now being, and all other ſucceeding you, will have a care and due regard. Finally, we alſo warn you, that now, when you ſhall be unburdened hereof as of a matter long time complained, you do not for your private reſpect enter into any ſuch unneceſſary charge, as hath not in former times of her Majeſties Father or other her Progenitors been uſed nor allowed; for it is not meant to give you allowance hereafter of any thing upon your account, that ſhall not be well warranted to be allowed unto you. We alſo have given notice unto the Juſtices, that it ſhall be very convenient that at the firſt coming to the place appointed for the Seſſions, they do begin to hear and determine the cauſes of the Priſoners in your charge; and ſo far forth as it conveniently may be done, proceed to the delivery of the Gaol, before they proceed to the Aſſiſes, whereby the attendance of the multitude of the Juſtices of Peace ſhall not need to be ſo long as if the Gaol-delivery ſhould be laſt. And therefore we will that you do ſo make ready your Gaol and Priſoners, that the Juſtices may firſt finiſh that ſervice, being the principal cauſe of their Seſſions; and ſo we bid you right heartily Farewell. From Hampton-Court the 21 day of February, 1573. Cap. 78.

For theſe next Aſſiſes it ſhall ſuffice that you make proviſion for two meſſes of meat well furniſhed, and in caſe over and beſides that, you ſhall demand any further allowance of the Juſtices Diets, it is not meant you ſhall have any allowance for the ſame afterwards; you ſee what Order it hath pleaſed her Majeſty to take herein.
